FINE MEETING FOR MR. SODEN AT MAY'S SCHOOL

Candidate Asks for Support on Record of the Government and His Own

ALD. JOHNSTON SPEAKS

Never has May's School house witnessed a larger or more enthusiastic meeting than that held last night in the interests of Mr. R. J. Soden Conservative candidate in West Peterboro.

The chair was filled by Mr. Harry Webber who in a brief speech introduced the speakers and asked for the support of the electors for Mr. Soden.

The fine new schoolroom in which the meeting was held was filled with an eager company, who listened most attentively to the two speakers, Alderman W. J. Johnston and Mr. Soden. Time and again their hearers endorseo the statements of the speakers with crys of "that's a fact" and "that's the case as it stands." Alderman Johnston on rising was received with much applause.

He pointed out to his hearers the benefit of the Whitney Administration in the matter on Liquor Legislation in the City of Peterborough as evidenced in the reduction of licenses, law enforcement, etc., and paid a personal tribute to Mr. Soden whom he had known for some years as a most earnest temperance advocate and worker.

In regard to Hydro Electric he pointed out the advantages which had been secured for the city of Peterboro and the surrounding country through the Whitney policy of Municipal ownership of Public utilities and contrasted Mr. Gillespie's present endorsation of the Hydro Electric project with lukewarm support of the same when as a member of the City Council he had done little or nothing to assist in securing the project for Peterboro, besides which the Rowell party had lent no assistance in Toronto when special legislation was required for carrying out the scheme for which Peterboro ratepayers had voted.

In closing Mr. Johnston asked the electors to stand by the Whitney Government who had stood by the people and to vote for the Government candidate Mr. Soden.

The candidate on rising complimented the electors on the evident interest which was being taken in the Government and welfare of the Province as evidenced by the large attendance of electors at the meeting.

The Whitney Government were prepared to be judged on their record of nine years of office and he as candidate was prepared to be judged on his record as a man who had dwelt among them for some ten years and who had done business with most of those present in that time. If they had found the Government honest and trustworthy and if he, the candidate was a true man then they should support that Government and himself as candidate and if not then he could not expect their support. He then enunciated the Temperance Policy for which he stood.

The abolition of the Bar and The Shop and Club licenses.

This was the policy for which the Temperance men of Peterboro County stood as evidenced by their vote at the convention held in May last in Peterboro city.

Mr. Rowell said if he were returned he would abolish the bars and club licenses.

Could he do it ? He like Sir James Whitney must be guided by the men who sat behind him. He admitted that his position as leader. His avowed advocacy of "Abolish the bar" and his own personal influence with his followers had all been insufficient to secure the abolition of the bar in the Ontario club which was the headquarters of the Liberal party in Toronto and Mr. Rowell's own club, would the men who refused to comply with what he said he desired in this regard, when it would have aided him in this election, be any more likely to fall in behind him if he were returned to power ? Was not this a frank admission that the bulk of the influential Liberals were not in sympathy with his abolish the bar policy ? Looking at the candidates on the Liberal side who were seeking election. Many of them were not total abstainers while several of them were frankly opposed to the "Abolish the Bar policy." If returned how would he reconcile these factions.

Mr. Soden quoted from the Globe newspaper, showing that candidates in Eastern Ontario were advocating Bilingualism quite as much as "Abolish the bar," and if returned were very likely to demand (and if Rowell were returned) obtain bilingual schools in payment for their support of "Abolish the bar." In concluding the speaker asked for support for the Whitney Government on the ground of their safe, sane and progressive legislation in the past. They said to the Temperance people if you want more advanced measures send me the men who advocate and believe in them. While Rowell promised the measures irrespective of what class of condidate was chosen by the party. And even if returned he was likely to find himself bound by a promise he could not fulfil.

Mr. Soden on resuming his seat was loudly applauded.

After cheers had been given for the King, the Whitney Government and the Candidate, the meeting adjourned by singing "For He is a Jolly Good Fellow."

LIBERAL CANDIDATE DENOUNCES LIQUOR BUT DRINKS AT BAR

Mr. N. W. Rowell asks the electors of Ontario to believe him sincere when he pledges his party to abolish the bar.

Mr. N. W. Rowell asks the electors of Ontario to elect Mr. C. A. Moss, his candidate in North East Toronto. Mr. Rowell says Mr. Moss will render him magnificent support in clearing out the open bars.

On the evening of June 17th, says the Toronto "Globe," "Mr. Moss was given a most attentive hearing. He denounced the liquor traffic in most scathing terms."

"Is it true that following your nomination by a Liberal convention you had a drink in Mossop's Hotel?" asked Mr. W. Younger, standing in the audience.

"I had a drink before I went home," replied Mr. Moss. "I frankly admit that I am not a total abstainer. I went in the bar, and if they are left open I may go in again."

"Does that satisfy you?" echoed a voice from the rear of the hall.

"It is a good straightforward answer," responded Mr. Younger. Prolonged cheering followed.

Mr. Rowell still wants Mr. Moss to help him abolish the Bar.

Mr. Moss is a lawyer regularly employed by such corporations as Mackenzie & Mann. He gets his living from them.

But Mr. Rowell wants Mr. Moss in the Legislature to help along public ownership. Mr. Moss would like to have a hand in shaping the Hydro-Electric's policy.

ONLY the voter stands between Mr. Moss and his ambitions.

And the voter will prove sufficient.

COMMITTEE INCLINED TO FAVOR RETAILERS' WISHES

Strip of Pavement and a Covering at Market — Rescind Regulation Governing Fowl

In connection with the several proposed improvements to the market by the Retail Merchants Association, Messrs. N. C. Cameron, T. C. Elliot and Thos. Barrie waited on the Property Committee last night. The Association suggested that a suitable building be erected for a butter market. This matter was left in abeyance after a short discussion.

The Committee decided that a strip should be paved for rigs and that a covering be provided for protection from rain, etc. This was carried on the motion of Ald. Duncan and Stratton.

After a few minutes' discussion it was decided on motion of Ald. Stratton and McIntyre to meet the wishes of the Association that a by-law be passed rescinding the regulation compelling sellers of fowl to have them weighed and ticketed and with their names and addresses.

The dealers and large buyers will be allowed to go the market after 9 a.m., according to the stand taken by the Comittee.

ROWELL APPROACHING TEMPERANCE QUESTION IN A SPECIOUS FASHION

So Says a Methodist Minister at a Meeting in Toronto Last Night

A Methodist minister, the Rev. H. A. Fish, made a strong speech in favor of the return of the Conservative party in Ontario, at an enthusiastic meeting Friday night in the Winchester Hall, held in the interests of Hon. Dr. Pyne and Mark Irish, candidates in North-east Toronto.

Mr. Fish described Sir James Whitney and his associates as leading the only provincial Government in Canada that had done anything in the way of enacting and enforcing real temperance legislation. He considered, however, that bilingualism was the true issue of the present election campaign, for the biggest factor in the province's future prosperity was that Ontario should have one language and proper education. The abolish the bar policy was regarded by Mr. Fish as a moral question, rather than a political one.

The clergyman read out a copy of the affidavit of Robert E. Butler, showing he had run in Oxford as a temperance candidate, and had been opposed on the platform by Mr. Rowell. Mr. Fish held that Mr. Rowell and his followers were approaching the temperance question in a specious fashion, and not in a way that could be expected to lead to permanent good results. As a Methodist and as a clergyman, he said, he would not let any clique or set of men do his thinking for him—he must do his thinking for himself. If Chancellor Bowles, of Victoria College, were to come out as a candidate in Mr. Rowell's interests, Mr. Fish would deem it his duty to offer himself in the interests of Sir James Whitney, whose policy was such that all true friends of temperance would endorse.

FIFTY OF THE VICTIMS ARE IDENTIFIED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Hillcrest, Alta., June 20.—All hope has been abandoned of saving the miners still entombed in the mine. The cause of the explosion is conjectured to be a fire damp. Seventy per cent. of the miners were English or Canadian, and a good proportion of them Nova Scotians.

Hillcrest, June 20. — At two o'clock this morning, fifty-seven bodies were removed from the mine, of whom fifty were identified, and seven unidentified. Forty-four have been rescued alive and one hundred and forty-two are unaccounted for, making the total of two hundred and forty-three, as against an official statement that two hundred and thirty six descended into the mine Friday morning.

To the Men of Peterborough

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

> "If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop, I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party."

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

R. J. SODEN

NEARLY TWO HUNDRED ARE CAUGHT IN HILLCREST MINE

Rescuers Have Practically Given up Hope of Saving Men Still Remaining in Alberta Colliery Where Explosion Occurred Yesterday—Workings Are on Fire.

HILLCREST, Alta., June 20.—Practically all hope has been abandoned that any of the miners entombed in the Hillcrest mine, where an explosion occurred yesterday morning will be rescued. The total loss of life is now estimated at 197 men. Forty survivors only, of whom 27 were injured, have been brought to the surface. Fifty-two bodies have been brought out, forty-two of them having already been identified. Rescue parties are doing all possible to reach those who may be still alive in the mine.

The colliery, which is on the Crow's Nest branch of the C. P. R., between Frank, Alta., and Fernie, B. C., is reported to be on fire, smoke issuing from the pit mouth in dense black clouds and preventing rescue work.

The scene at the pit mouth beggars all description. Hundreds of tear-stained and anxious-faced women and children were there waiting some news of their loved ones, who had so recently left them. Two hundred and thirty-seven men entered the mine yesterday morning, but so far only forty have been brought out alive, most of whom were unconscious, but were revived by pulmotors.

The scenes around the mine tell a terrible tale of the havoc wrought and the fearful force of the explosion. So great was the violence of the explosion that a fair-sized concrete building located about ten yards from the mouth of the pit had the roof blown clean off. Men, horses, timber, rails, and wagons are jumbled in a chaotic mass, and the path is so strewn at every step with the debris that only those men who were fortunate enough to have been working near the pit mouth have any chance of being brought out alive. In fact old-time miners declare their belief that after such an explosion no man now unrecovered from the innermost working of the pit can possibly emerge alive.

Special relief trains are rushing to the scene, carrying doctors and medical supplies for the injured, and extra gangs are being organized to work their way into the depths of the earth in the hope that in the heart of the mine, which has been so badly wrecked, there may be found some few alive among the toilers who went to work yesterday morning to their doom with such awful suddenness a few minutes later.

Directors Cannot Account For It.

MONTREAL, June 20.—Mr. J. M. Mackie, managing director of the Hillcrest Collieries, Ltd., last night issued the following statement:

"We received a wire this morning advising us of an explosion in the mine, and stating the extent of the damage is unknown at the present. We have 377 men on the payroll, including office help and outside labor. It is probable that 250 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion. A wire received at the C. P. R. offices here states that 55 men have been taken out alive, but at this writing we have no direct report. Our men are doubtless too busy at rescue work to communicate with us.

"In planning our mines we constructed two different entries about half a mile apart, which are connected underground, and great precaution has always been taken in the ventilating of the mine. Our engineer's weekly report just received states ventilation was good in all parts.

"We are at an utter loss to understand how such a tremendous catastrophe could have occurred."

Two Hundred In Belgium.

LIEGE, Belgium, June 20. — Two hundred coal miners were entombed in the Vieville Marihaye colliery near here when fire broke out yesterday.

Two hundred of their comrades escaped when the alarm was given.

The fire was still raging yesterday and every effort was being made to rescue the minors left in the pits.

STATEMENTS AT ROWELL MEETING TO BE CORRECTED

Conservative Rally Will be Held Next Saturday Night—Major Sharpe to Speak

The big Conservative rally which will be held in the Grand Opera House one week from to-night promises to surpass any political meeting held in this city. Several well known Conservative stalwarts will be on hand to tell the electors of the work accomplished by the party, which is the greatest work any party of parliamentarians has ever done. Major Sharpe of the north riding of Ontario County will be one of the speakers. Major Sharpe has represented his constituency with credit for a number of years and is a thorough and able deliberator. The other speakers will be announced in a few days, and there is a chance of Adam Beck or W. J. Hanna being here. Mr. Soden, who is carrying the Conservative standard in the west riding of this county, will address the voters and will reply to the very inaccurate remarks of the Liberal speakers at the meeting on Thursday. Special attention will be devoted to the rash and weak arguments of Mr. Lindsey. Mr. Lindsey, by the way, is a Toronto lawyer, who is evidently looking for the attorney-general's job.. It is seldom a lawyer gives his time for nothing, even if it be in the interests of his country, as Mr. Lindsey says a Liberal parliament was.

BIG STEAMER AT BOTTOM

Canadian Press Despatch.

St. Louis, June 20.—The steamer Majestic, the largest excursion boat on the Mississippi River, struck the cribwork of a waterworks' tower near here at one-thirty this morning just after having discharged nine hundred excursionists at Alton. She sank in ten minutes. There were no passengers on board. Twenty-four members of the crew and orchestra, out of forty-nine are missing and it is feared they are drowned. The upper deck remained above the water and those saved climbed there.

GREEK SUBJECTS ALLOWED RETURN

Canadian Press Despatch.

Athens, June 20.—Turkey has notified Greece she is willing to permit the return of Greek subjects who recently were compelled to leave Turkish territory. This is considered to indicate Turkey's desire for a friendly settlement of the dispute between the two countries.

GOVERNMENT IS FIRM

It Delivers Unequivocal Reply on the Bilingual Issue

TORONTO, June 20.—The Provincial Government has made an official reply to the demand of the French-Canadian voters of Ontario regarding bi-lingual schools as laid down in the recent proposed "Circular of Instruction." The reply says, in part:—

"The proposed circular departs from the principles laid down by unanimous resolution of the Legislature adopted in March, 1911, which declared that "the English language shall be the language of instruction and of all communications with the pupils in the Public and Separate schools of the province, except where, in the opinion of the Department of Education, it is impracticable, by reason of pupils not understanding English."

"The circular, on the contrary, proposes that in schools where all or nearly all the pupils are of French origin, French shall be the language of communication and instruction in all the forms. It further proposes that French-speaking pupils in all schools shall be placed in separate classes from the English-speaking pupils, so as to form a separate section of the school. This would set up a third system of instruction in the province on a racial basis, an organization not permitted under the school law, and one, moreover, in opposition to the declared policy of the Legislature."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 20.—By adoption of a revised honorary membership list, the International Association of Police Chiefs yesterday dropped the name of Detective William J. Burns.

DETECTIVE BURNS.

Henry Gallagher of Montclair, N.J., presented the report. At the same time J. L. Beaver of Atlanta, Ga., attacked Burns, declaring that the "antics" of the detective in the Lee Frank case were a "disgrace to the profession."

The chiefs declared themselves in favor of the segregated vice district.

NINE ARE KILLED

Canadian Press Despatch.

Vienna, June 20.—A military balloon containing nine persons exploded and caught fire here to-day and all the occupants were dead when the wreckage reached the ground.

The destruction of the balloon was the result of a collision with an aeroplane. Both crafts were engaged in air manoeuvres. The pilot of the aeroplane attempted to take up a position directly above the balloon, miscalculated the distance and the nose of the biplane grazed the balloon envelope, ripping it open. There was a terrific explosion. The craft was instantly enveloped in flames and crashed to the earth. Bodies of the occupants were picked up, almost unrecognizable.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE RECEIVED BY ASQUITH

Canadian Press Despatch.

London, June 20.—Premier Asquith today, received a deputation of six women members of Sylvia Pankhurst's East End Federation. They were introduced by George Lansbury, former socialist member of Parliament but as stipulated they were not accompanied by any prominent militant. The Premier welcomed them as representatives of an association which dissociated itself from the criminal methods of those who have done so much to damage and put back the cause of women. They pleaded the cause of women suffrage and the Premier promised consideration of their representations.

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1914

MR. SODEN DOES NOT HEDGE.

SOME TEMPERANCE PEOPLE in this riding have been very particular with the language of Mr. Soden's declaration on the temperance issue and have quibbled with him over words. They have declared for Mr. Gillespie because Mr. Soden's language did not suit their taste. Now, the language of Mr. Gillespie can be subjected to the same criticism. He qualifies his statement with the words, "If . . . after consideration deems it wise." He has left himself a loop hole to crawl out of in the event of election, when he will have to support Mr. Rowell.

At the Opera House, Mr. Rowell openly and frankly declared that shops would be dealt with as he proposed—that is they are not included in his abolition policy. He said there were numerous members of churches and ministers who did not believe in total prohibition, but who believed in the abolition of the bar. He also said he would go as far as any man would go in the abolition of hotel and club licenses and he would tackle the remainder as circumstances might require. That is a pretty frank admission that shops remain. Mr. Rowell does not give any promise that shops will be abolished. He declares to leave them to a local option vote.

In view of Mr. Rowell's speech in the Opera House, Mr. Gillespie's statement, were it unqualified, would amount to nothing so far as shops are concerned. Mr. Gillespie's position is that of Mr. Rowell, and he has left himself free to follow his leader.

Mr. Soden has declared for the abolition of all three, shop, club and hotel licenses. Mr. Soden has not qualified his statement by "due consideration," or "deem it wise." Besides he is with the Government, which has power to enact laws as it thinks the people desire. That is why Mr. Soden is a better temperance man than Mr. Gillespie, and why every true temperance man in this riding should vote for the Conservative candidate.

ABOLITION IN ONTARIO.

THE MONTREAL STANDARD has the following to say regarding Mr. Rowell's appeal to the people of Ontario. How close it is to the real issue in this campaign, any intelligent voter can decide.

> "The weak point in Mr. Rowell's campaign in Ontario is this—in order to abolish the bar in the manner he proposes it will be first necessary to abolish the Whitney Government.
>
> However much they are opposed to the bar, the majority of the electors of Ontario are not opposed to Sir James Whitney or to his ministry, and if it is necessary, to get at the bar, to trample down these men, then the bar is going to escape this time, at any rate.
>
> "Abolish the Bar" sounds fine, but the connection in which it is being used makes it mean no more than abolish Whitney, which sounds ugly enough to a majority of the people of Ontario.
>
> People are going to ask themselves the question—Is Mr. Rowell's frontal attack the only way in which to get at the bar? Is it not possible to make a flank movement, and get at the bar without first getting at Whitney? The answer seems to be "yes," for there is the local option law, which abolishes the bars in municipalities as soon as the people of the municipalities wish it to do so; and when the people vote for a local option law they do not have to vote against political policies they approve of or against provincial administrators whom they respect and trust. The electors of Ontario know there is a way of getting at the bar besides Mr. Rowell's way of abolishing Whitney."

THE PROBLEM OF SEA TRAVELLING.

A WRITER in the Montreal Herald has an interesting article on what the Empress disaster teaches naval constructors. He points out that there was, according to available evidence, no serious damage to the upper decks and that the real damage was below the water line.

Ship construction on the mammoth scale must continue, for large size causes a boat to be steady, greatly reduces pitching and thus prevents sea-sickness. The mammoth ship also allows room for comfort and convenience that smaller vessels could not give.

What is called the superstructure or the decks above the main deck, while steadying the vessel, raises the centre of gravity, so that a comparatively small derangement causes the vessel to lose its equilibrium. In storm, or as sea-going craft, they are quite safe, but in case of collision, when water gets in the hold, as in the Empress, the danger is great and the consequences disastrous.

Take for an example one of the largest ships afloat. The Imperator, which burns 1,000 tons of coal every twenty-four hours when steaming, has a hull which displaces when loaded, nearly 56,000 tons. Of this hull 37 feet is submerged, that being the depth of water she requires to float in. Just above the water line commences her first deck, and three more rise one above the other. This fourth deck is the main deck. These four decks are part of the hull. Then begins the amidships superstructure. It has four decks, too. On the seventh and eighth are the lifeboats. From the water line direct upwards to the navigation bridge just above this eighth deck is a distance of 75 feet sheer!

From the lower steerage deck to the eighth superstructure deck and its lifeboats is 63 feet. Upwards through the maze of gangways and the intervening decks, if danger threatens, the steerage passengers must climb 60 feet!

The population which this vessel is permitted to carry is that of a good sized town, and is as follows:—First class, 800; second class, 600; third class, 900; steerage, 1,700; crew, 1,200; total, 5,200. Nearly 3,000 souls (steerage and crew) are placed on these decks just above the water line! There are 75 feet of hull and superstructure above the water line, and three funnels another 75 feet above that.

In all such mammoth ships and their less mammoth sisters, aided by means of anti-rolling inventions, the centre of the gravity can be safely maintained by their constructors, and perfectly so in all weathers. But it has been absolutely demonstrated to the lay mind by the disappearance of the Titanic and Empress of Ireland in millpond calm, that the sudden ingress of water instantly displaces this superstructural safety of balance.

Whether the commission investigating the Empress disaster will recommend sweeping changes in construction is doubtful. Passenger ships are not built to stand collisions and cutting in two, any more than trains are not built to stand head-on smashes, or buildings to stand earthquakes. Vessels are constructed to meet natural consequences, such as to maintain their stability in all weathers. We have yet to record the fact of a big ocean liner foundering in a storm. So far as the sea goes, they are safe and unsinkable. But they are so scientifically constructed that when an unnatural or extraordinary condition arises, such as a collision, that they are at once unwieldy, uncontrollable, and a source of danger from their very size. In both the Titanic and Empress catastrophes, it was not a question of ship construction, so much as management or seamanship. Science is usually very accurate. Minor recommendations can be made such as life belts for all and life boats for all, but these do not guarantee absolute safety when some unforseen event, which is not intended to be provided for, brings death and disaster. The two main questions are, first to narrow the margin of error in managing or sailing huge liners and second to utilize the known life saving appliances effectively in times of peril.

WHERE LOMBARD STREET GOT ITS NAME.

THE JEWS were the first bankers in England. They entered that country with William the Conqueror. They sold bills of exchange and accumulated a large amount of money which they loaned at interest to noblemen and others on the security of their states. The wealthy Jew money lenders were a source of great revenue to unscrupulous English kings who frequently despoiled them, as readers of Ivanhoe will remember. Edward I. robbed 15,000 Jews of their wealth and then banished them from England. The banking business in England was then taken up by the Lombards, from Northern Italy, and it was from them that Lombard Street, the Wall Street of London, took its name.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE HUNDRED YEARS of peace between Canada and the United States will be celebrated at the meeting of Ad. Club delegates in Toronto on June 21st. On the 24th of June the anniversary of the battle of Beaver Dam will be celebrated at Thorold with public speaking on the battlefield and the unveiling of a memorial window in St. John's Church. These two facts are significant. While Canada is glad that peace has reigned for a century between her and the United States, the memory of a glorious past is not forgotten nor has the spirit of battle days died out.

MR. ROWELL made his position on the temperance issue clear. He is adopting it for party purposes. He says he has gone as far as the temperance people asked him to go and that is why he proposes to deal with the shops as he does. Under that statement, Mr. Gillespie's declaration for the abolition of the shops is as futile as a fifth wheel to a waggon.

MR. G. G. S. LINDSEY, K.C., who did not scruple to vilify the Conservative Government is, we are informed, the man who took legal action to prevent the publication of a truthful account of Wm. Lyon Mackenzie.

SOCIAL REFORM must deal with the bar, says Leader Rowell, in Peterborough. Whitney says so, too, and has dealt with the bar to the extent of wiping out 1200.

Wild-Cat Speculation.

Canadian Courier.

Our provincial governments are sadly lacking in preventive statesmanship. Only one province, Manitoba, has a law to prevent wild-cat speculation. Here is a canker which is eating into the vitals of the nation, and yet only one provincial government in nine has had the courage to grapple with it. All sorts of laws are passed to promote or hamper legitimate business, but the illegitimate runs wild without restriction. If a postman steals a letter with a dollar bill in it, he goes to the penitentiary and his life is ruined. If the promoter of a wild-cat oil company, or fox-raising company steals a hundred thousand dollars from ignorant investors, he is accounted a great man, gets his picture in the newspapers, and becomes a "leading citizen." If Canada is to be the great nation that most of us hope to see it, we must distinguish between the essential and the non-essential. We must tackle the big evils, not the little evils. We must punish the big criminals and let the petty ones off with a reprimand. At present our criminal law and our commercial statutes fail to mention the worst crimes committed in the name of business.

THE SHORTCAKE

By Walt Mason

Aunt Julia knows just what will please the masculine galoot, and from the tall strawberry trees she plucks the crimson fruit. Then in the kitchen she proceeds to mix some kind of dough, that will supply all human needs, and banish grief and woe. Her formula? I know it not—she keeps it 'neath her tile; but oh, her shortcake, steaming hot, would make a Timon smile! She dishes up a gorgeous lump, a chunk the gods might eat, with cream that never knew a pump, and sugar that is sweet. At restaurants and big hotels much shortcake have I bought, and drearily the mem'ry dwells within my dome of thought; they use one berry to a cake—which berry is a scream—and it goes swimming in a lake of blue and ghastly cream. Go, tour the world from Nome to Rome, no shortcakes will you find; such things are only made at home, by aunts of earnest mind. Not all the skill of learned savants who cook for queens and kings, can take the laurels from our aunts in berry time, by jings.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

This threat had an unpleasant sound. Hitherto the girl had not feared for her own safety, but his surly remark frightened her. The one thing that kept her steadfast was the thought that she was protecting the man she had loved; yes, the man she now loved more than she ever had. She did not know how he happened to be there; she did not know how he regarded her; she only knew that she loved him, that she would give her life a sacrifice to save him.

Ryan next appealed to Little Ella.

"Ella, that guy come in here. Where is he? We ain't goin' to be scared by any fool girl. She don't know who wants him. Now give 'im up."

"Don't say a word," Gloria told her.

"You gotta stick by us, Ella. This ain't no ordinary job."

At Ryan's injunction to stick by him, Little Ella seemed to waver.

"Don't you fergit who yer friends are. Who keeps you from bein' jugged? Mike Noonan. Who lets you stay here when you can't pay, an' feeds you? Mike Noonan."

"That's so. He has been good to me."

Gloria was quick to catch the note of indecision. "But now I'm going to take care of you."

"Yes, goin' to, goin' to," sneered Kelly. "You know what church promises is. Don' you fergit we gotta stan' together down here, all of us."

It was the old, old appeal of class to serve a selfish end.

"Yes, that's true. I don' want to say anything, but—"

Ryan immediately pressed the advantage he thought he had gained.

"This is yer chanct, Ella. You know what she'd say to you if you was in her house. Are you with us? I'll see you git yours."

It was a moment when a man's life was at stake. Gloria believed that if the woman told and they tore Wright from her she might never see him alive again. She had prayed silently for help to come, but she was still alone. Already she was giving up hope from that quarter and was conscious that upon her own efforts in all probability the very life of the man she loved would depend. To add to her anguish was the fear that he might regain consciousness and betray himself by a moan.

Now it all depended upon Little Ella. It had been a clever stroke, that of Ryan's, asking her how she would be treated in this woman's home. Against this appeal to class prejudice Gloria had not scored.

"I'll tell," said the woman.

The two men looked at each other and smiled.

"Stop!" cried Gloria, looking not at the men, but at the girl who lay pale and trembling upon the bed. "Do you remember what you said a while ago? What you accused me of? You swore that I hadn't loved. Even to my sorrow you shall have proof of it now that I do. The very man whom I'm defending from these bullies is the one man on earth I love." Ryan and Kelly looked at each other in amazement. "You shall see if you loved more than I. You've gone through fire and storm for a man? I'll do no less. If need be, I'll die for this man—here and now—because I love him." The fire died out of her eyes. She stretched out her hands to Ella pathetically and begged humbly, "My whole heart's happiness is here. Are you going to help them try to take him from me?"

The woman, a creature of impulse, was moved.

"You'd better give it up, Turkey. I ain't goin' to let you touch that man."

"Ah, you're a woman," sighed Gloria. "You know a woman's heart."

"Nix on that love spiel, Ella," commanded Ryan. "This ain't no valentine party, lady. You can't fool us with that soft-soap talk. We gotta carry out the boss' orders. Buck, look in that closet."

Ryan recognized that the time for action had come. On his side he had the overwhelming brute force which would enable him to do as he pleased. Kelly had turned to look into the closet when he was stopped by Gloria's outburst. What Ryan had said had reminded her of her own power.

"Stand where you are, you infamous thugs! Must I tell you the truth to be obeyed? If you are above the law, I am higher still. Mike Noonan could have told you who I am. You speak of your boss, then learn the truth."

"What yer givin' us?" jeered Ryan as he advanced toward the place where Wright lay hidden.

"Stand back," she cried. I am Gloria Kerr."

The two men looked at each other in astonishment, and Little Ella sat bolt upright in bed.

"The boss'—"

"Daughter," Gloria finished Ryan's exclamation. "I am the daughter of David Kerr. Now go."

Something in her bearing made them feel that she was telling the truth. Kelly, timid now and apologetic, was the first to speak.

"Well, we didn't know you was—why didn't you say—"

"I guess we'll go see Noonan," was Ryan's method of beating a retreat.

"He can't git away, anyway," Kelly whispered to him.

Gloria breathed a sigh of relief as they turned to go, but in an instant the shrill scream from Ella which brought the men back to the center of the room froze her blood.

"The boss' daughter!" It was a witch's screech ending in a peal of unearthly laughter.

Gloria sank into a chair gasping, "What have I said!"

She felt the curse upon her.

"Come back, Turkey, come back," shrilled Little Ella laughing wildly. "The boss' daughter! The boss' daughter!"

Her thin hands plucked at the coverlid, and her blazing eyes were fixed upon Gloria, who had shrunk into a weak lump in her chair. Only a few moments had passed since all had admitted that Little Ella dominated the situation. That fact she recognised as readily as did the others. Now she determined to make use of her power. Gloria herself had aroused the savagery of the woman by having inflamed her against the boss, not knowing that the creature's rage was directed against her own father.

Feverishly stimulated to an unaccustomed mental acuteness by the thoughts of her wrongs as Gloria had lain them bare, all the cruelty of the woman's nature asserted itself. Revenge with her was sweetness long drawn out. It was the dainty morsel over which the gourmet lingers. It was the tantalizing antics of the cat that gloats over the mouse beneath its paw, and even lets it run a little way to arouse the wild hope that it may yet escape. Having decided upon the ultimate disclosure of Wright's hiding place, Little Ella was now bent most of all on making the daughter of the boss suffer to the limit.

"What's the matter, Ella?" Ryan asked.

"Let them go, I say. Please let them go," Gloria implored.

"You want them to go, do you? Ha! Ha! The boss' daughter! The boss' daughter!"

The last words she uttered in piercing tones horrible to hear as she swayed back and forth, keeping time with her body to the cadence of her cry.

Gloria tried to gather herself together to meet this new attack, but without much success. She felt so weak from the shock that she was only able to rise from her chair with difficulty.

CAN'T GET STEAM UP.

Hindus Practically In Control of Their Prison Ship.

OTTAWA, June 20.—Advices yesterday to the Department of the Interior indicate little change in the situation at the coast where the party of 400 Hindus are demanding admission through the immigration gates.

Some development is looked for today, when the Japanese cruisers arrive, presumably to look after the welfare of the Komagata Maru, the Japanese ship which has the Hindus on board. The difficulty appears to be to get up steam on the transport ship in view of the threatening attitude of the Sikhs

If the vessel is able to get to the three-mile limit, she will be out of Canadian jurisdiction and may be escorted across the Pacific by the cruisers

"MY ONLY MEDICINE"

Says Mrs. Corbett, Are "Fruit-a-tives" "They Keep Me In Perfect Health"

MRS. ANNIE A. CORBETT

AVON, ONT., May 14th. 1913

"I have used "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion and Constipation with most excellent results, and they continue to be my only medicine. I am highly pleased with "Fruit-a-tives" and am not ashamed to have the facts published to the world. When I first started, about six years ago, to use them, I took four for a dose, but I cured myself of the above troubles and gradually reduced the dose to one tablet at night.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives" I took salts and other pills but the treatment was too harsh. I thought I might as well suffer from the disease as from these treatments.

Finally, I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised with a letter in which someone recommended them very highly, so I tried them. The results were more than satisfactory and I have no hesitation in recommending them to any other person. They have done me a world of good. I get satisfaction from them, and that is quite a lot". ANNIE A. CORBETT.

AIMS TO SHARE REVENUE

Hon. Mr. Pelletier Expects To Get Part of Magazine Postage.

OTTAWA, June 20. — Hon. L. P. Pelletier stated yesterday that he expected a satisfactory arrangement would be reached between the British and Canadian postoffice departments regarding the division of the revenue from the postage on magazines coming to Canada. In order to encourage the sale of British magazines in Canada a preferential rate is given such magazines. The some condition applies to Canadian magazines going to Britain.

Canada pays half the cost of this service, but as nearly all the magazines come from Great Britain to Canada and as each country collects the postage on the magazines sent from that country, Great Britain collects nearly all the revenue

The Canadian Postmaster-General refuses to continue the arrangement, but from communications which he has received, he thinks that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached. He thinks that Canada will be allowed one cent a pound.

Infernal Machine In Mails.

MONTREAL, June 20.—An infernal machine, containing enough nitro-glycerine to demolish all the houses within a block of its location, was found late Thursday night beneath a window of the seventy-ninth precinct police station on St. Hubert street. Attached to it was an explosive cap which needed only the slightest jar to explode the powerful material within.

The bomb was taken to police headquarters for analysis and examination by experts. There is no known motive for its being placed near the police station.

But few men can tell what a woman means by what she says.

TO INSURE PURE MILK

Government Publishes Regulations Governing Aid

OTTAWA, June 20.—The new Government regulations according to which assistance will be given to cities and towns of not less than 5,000 persons to endeavor to ensure a pure and wholesome milk supply for their inhabitants and especially to prevent the sale of milk from tuberculous cows were issued yesterday.

Legislative authority must be secured by these cities and towns for the purpose of agreeing to the regulations. These cities and towns must undertake and provide that dairies which sell milk and cream shall be licensed; that no license shall be issued unless the dairy conforms to a required standard, the standard being an ample amount of air space in the stable, two square feet of window glass for each cow, and stable well ventilated, drained clean, and sanitary; that after two years from the date of the first test of the cattle the herd show a clean bill of health, from the veterinary inspector; and that inspectors shall be appointed by these cities and towns.

On receiving notice from a municipality that it desires assistance the Department of Agriculture will send a veterinarian to inspect the cows. Inspectors will use the tuberculine test. Cows found to be affected with open tuberculosis will be slaughtered. Reactors to the test and suspicious animals may be retained in the herd, but no milk or cream shall be sold until it has been pasteurised.

Compensation will be paid to the owners of slaughtered animals upon the following basis: One half the value of the cow if destroyed as a case of open tuberculosis, one-third if destroyed as a reactor at the request of the owner.

BABY'S HEALTH DURING HOT WEATHER

During the hot spell the health of baby must be carefully guarded. Diarrhoea, cholera infantum and dysentry carry off thousands of precious little lives every summer. Baby's Own Tablets are especially adapted to keep the little ones well during the summer. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, and an occasional dose will prevent the dreaded summer complaints, or if they do come on suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will set baby right again. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LOCAL MARKET

Undoubtedly the rains of yesterday had its effect on the roads, for the farmers were rather few in number on the market this morning. Young Woman Burns To Death.

GUELPH, June 20. — Unusually tragic was the death of Miss Jessie Barclay near Corwhip yeterday morning as the result of burns received in a fire which burned the home of her sister, Mrs. William Stallibrea. Miss Barclay was putting a preparation of parafine and wax on the kitchen linoleum and placed it on the stove to melt when it exploded, and the flames were thrown against her clothing. The girl, with her coltbing afire, rushed from the house to the yard. Before the fire in her clothing was smothered she was fatally burned. She was carried to the home of Mr. James Kitching, a neighbor, and a doctor summoned.

STUDIES IN CANADIAN IMPERIALISM

Evolution of Imperial Constitution — Significance of Historical Evolution

Written specially for the Review by J. P. Laycock, M.A.

Significance of Historical Evolution.

Since Darwin's day evolution has become a word among words. As specially used by him it denoted "that natural selection has been the prime and efficient cause in the evolution of higher out of lower organic forms." As now applied, it embraces any act of evolving, or any state of being evolved, any development or growth, the progress of any plan or system. In the limited signification its laws influenced one department of human knowledge; in the wider field they are made to bear upon almost every sphere of learning or activity. Darwin employed the evidence of the past and present to explain the principles of progress the evolutionist now uses the same data to reveal the laws of the hidden future. The evolutionist has become a prophet.

The controversialist in almost every branch of human thought is prone to imagine that if there is an inclination—aye, even a partial drift—in the past and present in favor of his theory, the trend of future development must be along that line. The tendency becomes the inevitability; history emerges as the infallible key to the future.

The student of the growth of the British imperial constitution should bear in mind the important limitations of the doctrine of political or historical evolution as an indication of the future. Even if the dictim could be accepted that the past reveals the time to come, is an infallible guide to statesmen, there remains the difficulty of the correct interpretation of its lessons, a restriction which fences in the work of even the trained investigator. Absence or paucity of documents enhances the task. An individual is bound in large measure to approach the subject influenced by the bias of his own age and his own ideals. The world that he is studying, the world that he is living in, and the world that he is hoping for, each is so complex and all become so united in greater complexity that the individual historian infuses his personality into his history and consequently differentiates it from every other.

Difficulty of Amateur Interpretation.

If the difficulties of correct interpretation of the past and the present mount mountains high before the trained critic, how much harder must it be for the amateur observer whose evidence is second hand and who represents really that mass of public opinion which in these days of democracy must decide political problems of progress. The existence of the party system renders more difficult the unbiased interpretation of history, divides men into hostile camps actuated by rival ideals, places a premium upon hysterical rather than historical research. The partizan pamphleteer is guided by the legal idea of presenting his case rather than by the historian's aim of picturing disinterestedly the whole struggle. He is too prone to build his own theory and then seek for historical data to prove a process of evolution. He uses his own judgment to decide and then adroitly seeks to shift the responsibility of that judgment upon his ancestors. He calls for reform in the name of tradition! A maze of conflicting lessons is consequently presented to the voter, who in this democratic age, is the umpire, and who tests their fallibility or infallibility often in the name of the principles of his fathers imagined to coincide wth his own, but in reality owing to his scanty historical research in the name of his own judgments and ideals. The result is that progress comes through conflict of present and past opinion: the transition when smooth is termed evolution; when difficult, reconstruction; when violent, revolution.

The process as it exists is attended with its evil. Each partizan controversialist seeks the reward of the moment rather than the appreciation of all ages. A direct premium is placed upon trickery, misrepresentation. The unbiased citizen purchases papers with different political purposes in the effort by a process of comparison and elimination to arrive at the approximate truth; but is even then fettered by false evidence and is finally influenced by his personal inclinations. When then the man of the present generation secures his historical information from sources of questionable value the assertion that political evolution must follow the lines laid down in the past needs much modification. When the tone of the advocate rather than that of the historian is heard in the halls of the legislature the astute observation of a Canadian professor that if he ever ran short of exercises for his graduation classes he would distribute for criticism the recent speeches of our human pillars of parliament can fully be appreciated.

Limitation of Law of Variation.

The theory that the future inevitability must proceed from the past tendency overlooks the law of variation in its application to the political progress of peoples. Teachings of one generation are not infallible in the next because of a differentiation of conditions which robs them partially or wholly of force. The atmosphere of the Canada of today is changed from that of yesterday. Within the lapse of life momentous alterations have taken place. Rapid steamship service, the electric road, the motor car, the aeroplane, the telegraph, countless conveniences of modern life, were then unknown. The idea of China as awakening, of Japan as a world power, of Russia as an Asiatic colossus, of Germany as the commercial and naval rival of the British Kingdom, of Australia and South Africa as United Federations, was undreamed. The conception of Canada as it is, the prospect of union of the Protestant churches, the possibilities of the prairies, transit by transcontinental, the drift of population from the farm to the city, from the East to the West, from the United States and Europe to the Dominion, the development of a saner British imperialism, were unthought of. What was once the solution certainly need not now be the solution.

The law of variation in political evolution calls for an explanation of the continual change. There is a law of natural selection, of the survival of the fittest in institutional evolution as much as in biological evolution propounded by Darwin. The political progress of communities therefore does not necessarily come through allowing events to take their natural course. If that law had been universal the world would never have been evolved out of chaos, human progress would never have been possible, Confederation would never have been realized. In the history of communities men with warring ideals fight to achieve the destiny desired. Human reason or lack of reason, from its exalted throne weighs the merits and defects of each and makes a decision ever subject to alterations which may favor one or compromise between rival ideas. Then after the battle is lost or won certain historians forgetting the long and dire conflicts are pleased to trace the steps by which the principle triumphed and call it the natural and inevitable evolution of the community concerned.

Human thought power, the superintendent of human progress individually and collectively, is ever subject to development, and is ever altering the environment in which it operates. The increased experience of the individual, nation, or world at large forces the conclusion that the mistakes of the past will be remedied as far as possible. In the degree that principles adopted by the generation gone are revised or discarded by that following, in that degree must they be omitted in considering the permanent progress of mankind. In measure as ideas in days past regarding the British empire are modified or set aside today or tomorrow, in that measure must they be left out in discussing the enduring evolution of Greater Britain.

Evolution in Imperial Development.

An appeal to Canadian historical evolution forms a feature of Liberal rhetoric. The statement is repeatedly made that complete self government is the natural inevitable goal of the constitutional development of the Dominion. The insinuation is reiterated that the Conservative aim of closer consolidation of the empire breaks all the laws of evolutional development, constitutes a revolution dangerous and disastrous.

Difficulty in Interpretation.

The difficulty of interpretation of historical evolution has no better illustration than in the example of our own country. The opposite schools of centralizationist and decentralizationist have long existed in rudimentary and ill defined shape. The Constitutional Act of 1791 was framed on the principle of central organization; the leaders of the Family Compact, the natural heirs of such an imperial policy framed by imperial politicians, Sir John Beverly Robinson and Bishop Strachan, had their conception of proper reconstruction in America and in the Empire at large; Joseph Howe and other leaders of the popular party in the colonies had their ideas of an empire built upon the principle of local control of local concerns, the leaders of the imperial federation movement added another story to the growing tower of imperialism.

Data can thus be found for a different conception of Canadian evolution. The revolt against the centralized administration set up in local and imperial affairs by the Constitutional Act of 1791 led to the attainment of Canadian control of Canadian interests provincial in character; the aggressive attitude of the United States and the growing intercommunal interests forced the realization that the colonies had to unite in order to play a proper part in continental concerns; the militant menace of Europe and Asia is now revealing the need of imperial constitutional consolidation in order that the United Kingdom and the United Empire do their share in the world's work.

Law of Variation.

The law of variation thus comes into operation. As long as the isolated colonies of the early nineteenth century and later on of Confederation were little worlds in themselves constitutional evolution along lines of self government was sufficient, but when they came into contact with the larger world outside the need of closer communion, in the one case within each other, in the other, with the rest of the empire grew self evident. The old evolution became the evolution no longer.

The mere reiteration then by Canadian Liberals that self government was sought by our fathers and therefore should be by us is the weakest of possible arguments. It assumes that the Canadian of yesterday knows more about our needs that we do. It assumes that his world is our world and that therefore the remedy is the same. It overlooks the fact that before the centralizing principal began to operate, in that heydey of provincialism and self government, he had at his service few of those facilities of steam and electricity which from the practical point of view are making the world smaller and drawing its parts towards unity of interests.

Canadian Liberalism must do more than assert that complete self government in everything is the natural goal of Canadian constitutional development; they must prove that such is the best policy for Canadians to pursue. Otherwise the party will be in operation for a generation.

Law of Natural Selection.

The law of natural selection in history, if so it can be called, is also ignored. The assumption that complete Canadian self government can only be achieved by the development of the local governmental institutions overlooks the strength of the existing school of political thought which upholds that this end is sufficiently obtained by local machinery for local purposes and imperial machinery for imperial interests. It fails to see that one of these principles must be overcome before the other can be proclaimed the evolutionary idea of the development of the Dominion. It forgets that the judgment of the past is being debated by the present. It ignores the intensity of the existing conflict of principles.

What right consequently nowaday have writers to proclaim in the face of such opposition that present progress follows only one evolutionary idea, when the battle is not won? What right have Liberals to counsel Canadians not to desert the path along which they have travelled "from strength to strength and plunge into the jungle?" On the eve of Confederation they would have called to the Nova Scotian—why join with the Canadians when your whole history points to the separate development of provincial interests? Why desert the road, they now feebly cry, when the road is of doubtful value, and plunge into the wilderness, when the Canadian is already there where in the darkness lurk the spirits of independence, annexation, imperial co-operation, imperial consolidation, beckoning him to follow as they leap in different directions into the shadows of the unpenetrated forest. To follow a path merely because part has proved safe is folly; to see if a mistake has been made the signs of the season should be studied and the value of alternate routes weighed.

When it is known that imperialists, at least equal in number, consider local rights sufficiently protected and the next step closer unity, how can antagonists who are fair ignore this possible path and insinuate that Canadian complete government in everything is the only route as elsewhere there is only "jungle?" Let it be acknowledged that a war of principles is on. Let no one dare say there is only one issue and counsel Canadian statesmen to be political Micawbers and wait for something to turn up. Let no one dare claim that Canadian spirit is a "national spirit" when it is a compromise between imperialistic and nationalistic leanings. For in or out of politics there are Canadians aflame to take up the torch left by such men as Sir John Macdonald and Principal Grant, when present leaders like our premier and Sir George Parkin breathe no more. "Play the man, Master Ridley, we shall this day light such a candle by God's grace in England, as I trust shall never be put out."

PERFECT HEALTH DUE TO THE BLOOD

No Girl or Woman Need be Constantly Ailing and Unhappy

Nature intended every girl and every woman to be happy, attractive, active and healthy. Yet too many of them find their lives saddened by suffering—nearly always because their blood is to blame. All those unhappy girls and women with colorless cheeks, dull skins and sunken, lustreless eyes, are in this condition because they have not enough good red blood in their veins to keep them well and in the charm of health. They suffer from depressing weariness and periodical headaches. Dark lines form under their eyes, their heart palpitates violently after the slightest exertion, and they are often attacked with fainting spells. These are only a few of the miseries of bloodlessness. Nothing can rescue girls and women from the inevitable decline that follows anaemia, except a generous supply of new, rich, red blood, and nothing has ever proved so successful in creating red, good blood as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Thousands and thousands of girls and women owe their good health and charming complexion to the use of this medicine. Here is one example of its power to cure. Mrs. Rose Ralli, Toronto, Ont., says: "For a long time I suffered with anaemia, nervousness and general debility, in fact I was beginning to feel a positive wreck. I tried several medicines and emulsions. For a time I would feel better for taking them and then the effect would wear off, leaving me worse than before. The continued drain on my health altered my appearance, my friends telling me I had a haggard and worn appearance. This naturally did not help to improve me, as you know no woman likes to be told she looks "worn out." Finally Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were suggested and my husband got me a supply. I used them and found the result good—not only good, but the benefit lasting, and I am now enjoying perfect health, have a good color and have regained my natural buoyancy. I trust my letter of gratitude may be the means of helping others who are suffering as I was."

New health, new strength, new vitality, follow the fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. You can get them from your medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WOMAN SICK FOR YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She was Finally Restored to Health.

Hammond, Ont. — "I am passing through the Change of Life and for two years had hot flushes very bad, headaches, soreness in the back of head, was constipated, and had weak, nervous feelings. The doctor who attended me for a number of years did not help me, but I have been entirely relieved of the above symptoms by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and give you permission to publish my testimonial." — Mrs. LOUIS BEAUCAGE, Sr., Hammond, Ont., Canada.

New Brunswick, Canada. — "I can highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any suffering woman. I have taken it for female weakness and painful menstruation and it cured me." — Mrs. DEVERE BARBOUR, Harvey Bank, New Brunswick, Canada.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

GILLESPIE AND SHOP LICENSES

Statement of the County Temperance Association

In the advertisement of the County of Peterborough Temperance Association published in The Daily Review of June 17, two words were unfortunately dropped out which have led to a misunderstanding of Mr. G. A. Gillespie's stand in regard to the abolition of shop licenses. The words "shop licenses" although in the copy were dropped out of the statement. This led Mr. Soden and others to conclude that Mr. Gillespie does not favor the abolition of shop licenses. Mr. Gillespie says he does favor their abolition and has from the start. His platform on the temperance question is stated clearly in his letter to the electors. It is as follows:

> "I am in favor of the abolition "of the three-fifths clause. I will "vote with either political party "for its abolition and favour a "straight majority vote on every "possible occasion in the Legislature. I will vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the "open bar, club licenses, shop licenses, and all other legislation "looking for the restriction and "abolition of the Liquor Traffic."

No Longer a Need for Two Pairs of Glasses

A pair of "PEBLO KRYPTOK Double Vision Lenses combine a lens for reading with a lens for distance in one—and without the unsightly, dirt-catching, cemented seams that make the ordinary bifocal lenses so conspicuous.

KRYPTOKS are two strengths of glass fused into one. They are absolutely smooth on both sides and to anyone but an expert they are ordinary single vision lenses.

KRYPTOKS give perfect vision—both far and near. Let us demonstrate their advantages.

POLICE CHIEF IS GETTING MAD

Too Much Carelessness on Part of Auto Owners

All police officers have been directed to report automobilists who violate the traffic regulations by cutting the corners or speeding past standing street cars. The Chief has directed the force to see that these orders are carried out and several cases appeared in Police Court yesterday morning. A considerable number of the motorists willingly accede to the order but others fail to do so resulting in prosecutions. "The essential thing," said Chief Thompson, "is the driver to have his machine under control at all times and places especially at the crowded street corners. Accidents except in a few cases always prove that the driver did not have his machine under control. Every officer in the city has been instructed to watch traffic closely to detect infractions of the rule by motorists. The Chief is positive in his orders and will not hesitate to prosecute.

INCREASE IN THE GENERAL ASSESSMENT

County Council Has Concluded June Session

The county council completed its session this morning. The increase of the general assessment rate to 3⅞ was sanctioned while the House of Refuge and school mill rate were decreased by a fraction. The roads question was not settled, as the council will wait until the highways commission appointed by the Government has made its report. The council went on record as favoring county roads.

G. A. GILLESPIE.

Liberal Candidate in West Peterborough.

On Saturday, June 6, I gave the Temperance Association a signed statement that if elected I would vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the 1300 bar, 215 shop and 58 club licenses in Ontario. I repeated this statement in my Opera House address, June 18. Furthermore, if I ever get the opportunity I will vote to prevent the manufacture of liquor. I ask for your support and influence.

TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL

Notes by Official Scribe.

There was a fair attendance at the meeting this week, President J. J. Hartley being in the chair.

Another Request to City Dads.

The City Fathers should possess a goodly amount of the amiable brand of disposition, as so many demands are made of them, for which they get the unstinted abuse which goes with their job. The Secretary was instructed to write, before the remainder of the street paving was to be contracted for, that a clause be inserted calling for a nine-hour day.

No reply has been received from the City Council to the letter asking why local firms have not been given a chance to tender for public work one firm securing the plum without opposition.

The Independent Labor Party.

Notice of motion was given that a branch of the Independent Labor Party be formed. Discussion of this was more or less vigorous and lengthy, but as so many other cities are falling into line Peterboro must not be out of the running.

Laborers of the Right Kind.

Encouraging reports were presented relating to the vigor with which the tradesmen's assistants were building their local. Good foundation work was being laid, and the superstructure was planned to be the best ever. On Wednesday, June 24, a public meeting is to be held when all members of the Trades and Labor Council are asked to attend, each bringing a contribution of speech or song to enliven and enlighten the proceedings. The way the laborers have caught on would put to shame many of the skilled workers of the city and that the laborers will head the Labor Day procession in numbers seems to be a foregone conclusion.

Labor Day, 1914.

All members should get a move on for the next meeting. Labor Day plans are to be laid well and truly, and as the principal officers this year are from the Bricklayers' and Masons' Union, a glorious blue print of appropriate industrial celebration should be presented.

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

TEMPERANCE IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Editor of Review:

Dear Sir:—Would you kindly allow me a short space in your valuable paper to give expression to some things in connection with the Provincial campaign that is now on. It appears that great number of the temperance Liberals at present look upon the temperance Conservative who is not supporting the Rowell policy as a hypocrite or something worse. Now that is only a difference of opinion. I am proud to say that I am strictly in favor of any temperance measure be it great or small, so long as it is kept out of party politics. It is quite evident that the set back the temperance cause got in Muskoka on Thursday is because the Dominion Alliance is in this contest, throwing its weight with one of the political parties. No doubt, if the vote had been brought on the first of the year there would have been a large majority for the act. There is a remark credited to Mrs. Rowell by the Examiner of Thursday, saying that if the temperance issue fell through by the vote of the temperance people at this election, there would be no more temperance legislation by the Liberal party of this province. Now we must hold Mrs. Rowell responsible for that saying till cleared by the leader of that particular Methodist class meeting at London. This certainly exposes the sincerity of the Liberal party on this great issue. Mr. Rowell ought to know something of the situation.

One thing more and that is some are using in their personal canvass the name of the Mayor of Orillia, who is a Conservative, as being out on the Rowell platform. That is a mistake. The Mayor of Orillia is out supporting Mr. H. Cooke on personal grounds, which was the only statement that he made at Mr. Cooke's convention. He is a personal friend of Mr. Cooke's and a personal opponent of J. J. Hurtts. One reason is that he was a disappointed nominee at the Conservative convention a few years ago. Another great reason is that the Mayor is a furrier, and Mr. Linsley, the chief game warden for the Province of Ontario would set any one's mind clear on application. As a resident of one of the best Local Option towns in Ontario and as a Methodist trying to do my best in my weakness, I sincerely believe that Mr. Rowell has got the cart before the horse. Now, Orillia along with over 530 more Local Option municipalities is suffering to some extent from the bottle drinking and not a solitary bar in East Simcoe, and the Department has done exceptionally well in enforcing the act, especially in cutting off the license at Atherley to help Orillia. My opinion at the present time, if we only can curtail the traffic let us start with the shop, and if men will drink make them drunk at the bar and stay there till sober or do away with the whole thing.

Yours, etc.,
ORILLIAN.

THE HYDRO ELECTRIC.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir:—According to the report of the Times this morning, Alderman Johnston stated at May's School House, that Mr. Gillespie's endorsation of the Hydro Electric, was lukewarm when he was a member of the City Council.

I beg to say that I was a member of the City Council during this time, and Alderman Gillespie's support was whole-hearted, enthusiastic and could always be depended upon to support the muncipal enterprise of Hydro Electric lighting. If I am wrong, I am willing to leave it to Ex-Mayor Bradburn and to City Clerk Armstrong, or any one else who knows the whole facts.

Alderman Johnston is also reported to have said that the Rowell party had lent no assistance when special legislation was required for carrying out the scheme for the City of Peterborough, and in answer to this, I wish to say that the Private Bill for the City of Peterborough, for its Municipal lighting, could not have passed the Private Bills Committee, without the Liberals voting for it, who had voted for it, and the Liberals of the Private Bills Committee carried the City of Peterborough Private Bill, with the help of a majority of two Conservatives. In other words, half of the Conservative Private Bills Committee in the Legislature, with the exception of two Conservatives, voted against the City's Bill, and all the Liberals of the Committee, voted for it.

I canvassed a large number of the members of the Legislature in 1913, and I was turned down by Sam Nesbitt, Conservative M.P.P.; Mr. Johnston of Belleville, M.P.P., Conservative member of the Legislature for West Hastings.

The Honourable Adam Beck told me, and I believe that he told ex-Mayor Bradburn, that the support of the Toronto Globe and Toronto Star in favor of Hydro Electric was strong and extremely valuable in supporting Mr. Beck in the Legislature and with the public.

I am willing to leave all the above facts to ex-Mayor Bradburn, or to Mr. S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, to verify, and I have spoken to neither one of them as to these facts.

I wish to correct an error which Alderman Johnston has apparently fallen into.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON,
Peterboro, June 20, 1914.

A LIBERAL ORGAN REPORTED STATEMENT OF MRS. N. W. ROWELL

The London Advertiser on June 15 published this statement: "On Sunday morning Mrs. Newton Wesley Rowell, wife of the leader of the Ontario Opposition, while speaking at a class meeting in Askin Methodist Church, declared the present campaign would be the last one in which her husband would appeal to the voters to "abolish the bar," Mr. Rowell denies that Mrs. Rowell was in London, or made the statements referred to. If the London Advertiser, the Liberal organ of Western Ontario, is no more accurate about an important matter concerning its political leader, what credence should be given its statements respecting the Government and its candidates?

DEATH KNELL OF CONFERENCE IS EXPECTED VERY SOON

Americans Refuse to Recede From Their Position Regarding a Successor to Huerta and Mexican Delegates Will Not Agree to a Constitutionalist Getting the Job.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 20.—An informal conference last evening between two of the A B C mediators and both American delegates served only to emphasize the apparent hopelessness of the Mexican peace negotiations. The pacification plan was discussed but the conversation was listless.

The papers that will sound the death-knell of the mediation movement are being prepared. Everybody concerned is of the opinion that the formal conference to-day, following the return to Niagara Falls of Argentine Minister Naon and one of the mediators, will be in the nature of a death-bed gathering.

The American delegates are standing firm on the declarations set forth in their note to the Mexican delegates, the contents of which were contained in the statement issued by them Thursday night. The Mexican delegates have not changed their determined refusal to consent to the proposal of Americans that a Constitutionalist be chosen as Provisional President.

It was pointed out that the words "we must insist" by the American delegates was intended to be an ultimatum. The Mexican delegates have refused to be influenced by them. The situation seems to spell disaster for the peace efforts. It is probable, however, that the break-up will not come until next week.

The report from Mexico City yesterday that Huerta would appoint Pedro Lascurain as Minister of Foreign Affairs seemed to furnish ground for hope that a peaceful settlement of Mexico's troubles was in sight, although the attitude of the Constitutionalists is such that the reinstatement of Lascurain would probably not change the situation.

Mediators Still Hopeful.

WASHINGTON, June 20. — Hope that the wavering mediation program still might bring peace to Mexico was expressed here late last night by Argentine Minister Naon when he left here for Niagara Falls after conferences with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan and Luis Cabrer of the Washington agency of the Constitutionalists.

"I maintain hope for two reasons," he said. "First, I am in the position of knowing more than you and, secondly, I see no reason for changing my attitude."

SAILORS ON COLLIER ALDEN SAY LINER STEERED BADLY

Pilot and Crew of Vessel Carrying Coal up River For Dominion Coal Co. Admit, However, That the Empress Showed Red to Red in Lights While Still Far Away.

QUEBEC, June 20. — The alleged defective steering gear of the Empress of Ireland and the rapidity with which she went to the bottom of the St. Lawrence after being struck by the collier Storstad on May 29 formed the two most conspicuous details connected with the calamity enquired into yesterday by the Dominion Commission sitting in the court house here. On the first of these two points evidence was submitted by a number of sailors and Pilot Napoleon Lapierre, who were on the collier Alden, which was passed by the Empress around the time that she was said to be steering badly by James F. Galway, a quartermaster, who claimed Thursday that the liner's helm jammed for three minutes on the night of the disaster.

These witnesses all agreed that the Empress, as the pilot put it, zagzagged down the river, though they all had to confess that while still a good distance away she showed red to red in conformity with navigation laws, and passed more than a cable's length away. A discussion on the ownership of the Alden and the Storstad arose while this testimony was being put in, as both carried coal for the Dominion Coal Co., and it was found that they were chartered to this concern by different agents and do not belong to the same line.

C. S. Haight, acting for the Storstad owners, in the morning searched diligently in his cross-examination of George O'Donovan, the engineer who looked after the steering apparatus, for some fault in it, but beyond getting a popular description of a piece of intricate mechanism, he gained nothing to support the theory that the gear was unreliable.

Mr. Aspinall, the C. P. R. lawyer, seemed by his questions to men of the Alden, to suggest that the liner's alleged sheering was due to the fact that they had her straight ahead, and that any variation in the appearance of her lights was due to momentary influences of the current which were immediately corrected. It was obvious, too, that though the men said they were afraid of a collision, no attempt was made to slow up their boat.

On the bulkhead question the evidence showed that the water rushed into the liner in tremendous quantities, and in a few moments had reached within eight feet of the top of her watertight compartments. Lord Mersey said that a few days ago he had concluded that the ship had the two watertight compartments which she could float with, filled, opened up by the first blow of the nose of the collier, which had dragged away more of the Empress' starboard side when she fell back, and that, therefore, nothing could have saved the vessel.

A piece of small, but substantial evidence, corroborating the conclusion of Captain Kendall that his ship was struck amidships, will be put in as an exhibit to-day. It is a first-class cabin door with No. 328 on it, and was picked up on the Storstad. The only cabin of this number was on the starboard side of the ship near the first funnel, and some fifteen feet from the skin.

Late in the afternoon Jacob Saxe, the third officer of the Storstad, another eye-witness of the disaster, gave his evidence in chief, and his cross-examination by Mr. Aspinall is expected to form the most interesting phase of to-day's proceedings.

Pilot Napoleon Lapierre, who was on the Alden, said that she kept full speed, though he feared a collision with the Empress. He did not go slow because colliers did not like to be slowed down. They had to make good time to Montreal, and did not want to stop unless there was danger of running ashore.

ACCUSES CANDIDATE.

Goderich Organist Swears Out Affidavit Against Conservatives.

GODERICH, June 20.—Dr. A. H. Macklin, Conservative candidate in Centre Huron at the approaching election, and Rev. Joseph Elliott, a retired Presbyterian minister and opponent of Mr. Wm. Proudfoot in the last provincial election, have been summoned to appear before Magistrate Kelly to-day on a charge of bribery. The charges were laid yesterday on the complaint of Thos. Gundry, and they have caused very great excitement throughout the constituency.

The charges are at the instance of J. B. Hunter, organist in Knox Presbyterian Church, and summons served on Mr. Macklin says in part:

"Whereas you have this day been charged before the undersigned Police Magistrate in and for the town of Goderich, in the said county of Huron, that you on the 19th day of June, at the said town of Goderich, were guilty of bribery by paying to one J. B. Hunter a sum of money, to wit $10, with intent that such money should be expended in corrupt practices at the election of a member of the Legislature of the Province of Ontario for the centre riding of the county of Huron, to be held the 29th day of June, 1914, contrary to the law, and to the provision of the Ontario election act."

Rev. Mr. Elliott is accused of "offering to pay."

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

LOCALS HAD TWO GOAL MARGIN OVER HAVELOCK

Petes Show Improvement in all Departments—Score Was 5-3

The local lacrosse team beat Havelock at Riverside yesterday in a game which lagged owing to the bad underfooting by a score of 5-3. There was a fair attendance, but the cold weather stopped many from taking in the pastime.

The players missed numerous passes owing to the slippery field, but the looseness in passing was more than overbalanced by the close checking. Secretary Doyle of the O.L.A. refereed the game, holding the players in check and he banished a few of them for five minute periods for rough work.

The local team shaped up in good style and will prove a hard one to beat for the group. The boys seem to have perfected their combination work and have commenced to handle their sticks better, while most of them are also in the pink of condition. Their game of yesterday was far superior to that against Hastings here in the opener. Fleming in goal for the locals proved a peach. The little fellow stopped shot after shot when the Havelock crew bore in. His work was the real feature of the local defence. McCoy, Kelly and Robertson did good work on the home and divided the scoring honors between them. Crough worked hard, while Halpin shaped up in improved form. The team as a whole easily outclassed the visitors. For the visiotrs a youngster named O'Brien, who plays on the juvenile team at Havelock, was practically useless. He merely took the pass and got rid of it as soon as he could, fearing to bore in. Lancaster in goal played very good and turned aside many shots. Lancaster is a newspaper man and the lacrosseites tried hard to hand him a few to redeem all the nice things the papers have said from time to time about numerous sporting events. Robson at cover point played a hard game and stopped numerous rushes. Quinlan at centre and Paquet were the pick of the attack.

The Petes led from the start. They poked in two goals in the first quarter while the visitors were held scoreless, thanks to Fleming's good work. In the second period the Petes added another and Havelock slipped one over also. In the third period the Petes scored one and Havelock got one also. In the fourth the winners scored two, but one was disallowed, and Havelock one.

The game was very late in starting and instead of 4.45 it was about 5.30 when the ball was faced and the fans did not fail to let known their dissatisfaction. The line up was:

Peterboro		Havelock
Fleming	goal	Lancaster
Dillon	point	Andrews
Hardy	cover	Robson
Mein	1st defence	Pacey
Crough	2nd defence	Rose
Halpin	centre	Quinlan
Manion	2nd home	Armstrong
Robertson	1st home	Paquet
McCoy	outside home	O'Brien
Kelly	inside home	Ferguson

EACH BALL PLAYER CARRIED AN EGG AND SHORTSTOP MADE MISTAKE

One of the freakiest and funniest ball games ever played was staged at Portland, Ore., recently by teams representing two men's clubs of the Protestant churches.

Each player was required to carry an egg in one hand and play ball with the other. Runs and hits were counted as usual, but, in addition, any player who broke his egg gave a run to the opposing team. The final score under baseball rules was 4 to 2, but the various penalties under the special agreement increased the final count to 15 to 11.

Each firstbaseman broke three eggs in the five inning contest and one catcher broke three eggs and the other one. However, the pitchers led in the number of eggs broken. The climax of the game came when the shortstop, after making a hard catch, threw his egg instead of the ball to first base—with disastrous results for his firstbaseman and his team.

FRANK MONTGOMERY BUYS JIMMY DIRECT

The good racing steed Jimmy Direct is now the property of Frank Montgomery, proprietor of the Montgomery House. Jimmy Direct won the 2.15 class in rather easy fashion. After the race Mr. Montgomery offered $1,000 for the horse and David Teal of Wooler accepted it. Jimmy Direct is one of the best 2.15 class horses that ever raced here, and Mr. Montgomery should meet with much success in the races his new addition will contest around the various circuits.

COMMENT

As You Like It

Blount's drive in the eighth looked like a homer when it left the bat. Dolan picked it off the right field fence.

Welsh opened the ninth session for the Petes with a clean hit to left and Dad Stewart sacrificed him to second from which station he had no difficulty in crossing the plate with the tieing score when King drove a clean one to centre. King went to second on the throw-in, scoring on Gorman's safe hit to middle garden. That settled the old ball game.—Brantford Expositor.

M. M. (Bobby) Robinson, a native son, who is now sporting editor of the Hamilton Spectator, blew into town this afternoon. He will blow out again to-morrow night. It is a pity Bob could not stop over and see a real ball club work on Monday. Bob says the mountain is in the same place in Hamilton despite the fact that the sledge hammer brigade has worked overtime of late, trying to wake the ball club up.

SOME BALL GAME.

An interesting game of baseball was played this morning on a lot at the corner of King and Aylmer Streets between the Station Nine and the Goheen and Ma[illegible]ett nine, ending in a victory for the latter by a score of 25-0. The batteries for the winners were: Dobbin and Fuller; for the losers, LeBarr and Lee. There were some classy plays on the part of Fuller, while Dobbin pitched all kinds of shoots and had lots of speed. LeBarr for the losers was hit pretty hard, Fuller getting two home runs.

PEARL-DYER CHARGED.

Black Gem Causes Commotion Among Paris Dealers.

PARIS, June 20. — A commotion was caused among the pearl merchants in Paris to-day over a black pearl, the original commercial value of which was $1,500. This pearl has been manipulated by an expert, known as a pearl-dyer, and when he finished with it it looked like one worth about $30,000. It was then offered for sale through the ordinary channels, with the intimation that, owing to pressing need of ready money, the owner would accept $6,000 for it. A charge was then laid against the owner and pearl-dyer by the president of the Paris Syndical Chamber of Dealers in Precious Stones. This is now being considered by the judge. When the pearl-dyer was told of the charge he said he had improved the pearl by a special secret process invented by himself. He laughed at the idea of being charged. "Doctored pearls," he exclaimed. "Why, on the Paris market there are more than $100,000,000 worth of doctored pearls."

OFFICIALS OF CITY AND COUNTY THE GUESTS OF AUTO ASSOCIATION

Addresses Dealing With the Improvement of Roads Are Made at Hastings—Dr. Doolittle and Other Visitors Are Present

Yesterday the members of the County Council were the guests of the Peterboro Motor Association on a car trip to Hastings. Of the party were many citiens of the city, several members of the City Council including Mayor Buller, owners, who were drivers of the several cars, and as well Dr. Doolittle, president of the Ontario Motor League, and Mr. A. W. McLean, Deputy Minister of Public Works of Ontario and who is a member of the Provincial Roads Commission, which is developing the scheme for the expenditure of the $20,000,000 to be devoted to the laying out, and building of trunk roads across the province and to assist in making proper county and district roads. The party were afforded a fair conception of the state of the roads in this district, in which all degrees of badness were apparent. None too good at any time, long stretches of road were filled with water and heaped with earth and gravel where some desultory attempt had been made to do something in so-called road mending. Certainly the visitors had a view of our country thoroughfares in all their pristine beauty.

Cars placed at disposal for the trip were those of Messrs. G. W. Green, A. E. Coulthard, Dickson, Hall J. E. A. Fitzgerald, John Brightman, Fred Roy, Ed. Freeman, G. K. Rackam, Dr. Sutton, Dr. Kelly, and several others. These visited the village by diverse routes, several being stalled for a time and coming in late.

Denner was served at the Clarendon Hotel, the well known Spellman house. The meal was ample and good. Afterwards an informal meeting was held presided over by Mr. A. E. Coulthard, president of the local Motor Association, and who stated the object of the trip and spoke of the addresses to be given by Dr. Doolittle and Mr. McLean, and further on by the warden of the county council.

After the toast of the king had been honored Mayor Buller proposed the toast of the Ontario Motor League, coupling with it the Peterboro Motor League and the name of Dr. Doolittle, president of the Ontario Motor League. Mayor Buller pointed out what was needed in a not large way to improve the county roads. The day is coming when the farmer would be the largest owner of motor cars in the province. The use of such a vehicle would do away with the middleman and let the farmer market his produce direct.

Dr. Doolittle.

Dr. Doolittle was introduced and said he had looked over the farm lands as he came along and he knew that in the unproductive lands was a great asset to the province. The first thing to do was to improve the roads and establis fair communication with the industrial districts, where people were waiting to be fed. Good roads make a market. Then the farmer needs his power vehicle and he will do away with the middleman.

He described what good roads had done for the county of Wentworth and in districts where the clay road had been hub deep. In two years the price of farm lands had doubled in value so soon as a permanent good road had been built. That was the practical end. The farmer should raise other things than wheat, and market it himself. Then he would be on the road to prosperity. Link up the good sections of a fair road and you bring your farm ten miles nearer to the consuming centre. Good roads would bring into the district the tourist, the man who left money behind him and willing to pay for what he wanted. The man who took away a bushel of wheat took full value for the money he paid, but the amount paid much more and only carried off a trifle. The motor, the telephone and modern conveniences would all help to keep the boys on the farm.

A Comprehensive Plan.

The Ontario Government had laid out a comprehensive plan which included the expenditure of $30,00,000 on a system of trunk roads and feeders. Engineers were at work on the scheme and its benefits would come to all.

Ex-warden J. H. Garbutt said the object of the motor league was a good one, to draw the people on the farms and towns and cities closer together in business relations, and the outcome was that it would pay to drive all classes of vehicles over good roads. The Government proposition with reference to roads should have hearty public support, and in keeping with this spirit no county council of Peterboro had passed a resolution that would help to develop further on a good roads system for the country.

Warden Shaw.

Warden R. Shaw said he was interested in the good roads question. As a fair example of roads take that from Norwood to Hastings. He would advocate a similar class of road, which could be built for about $1,000 per mile. A cost beyond that would be excessive and would not be entertained by the county ratepayers.

Mr. McLean, who had arrived late was introduced by the chairman, who moved that the meeting would know something about good roads from one competent to speak with authority.

Mr. McLean said that the most important matter before the people of Ontario was that of improving the roads. It was the most important public work that Canada could undertake. It was much more pregnant with large benefit than almost any other public enterprise. In going over some of the roads in this district he saw some good work and some room for improvement. He did not preach the doctrine of large expenditure on highways. [illegible] should be built for the traffic it had to stand. The one truth so impressed on him from observation in all countries was that the most marked improvement had come from the steady, faithful work of men who gave their entire time to road making and road mending. Some one man would, in each district, direct along well defined lines. Desultory work would be eliminated. All would be done on a reasonable plan, working to one end. Careful repair would effect wonders.

Peterboro's Problem.

The problem in Peterboro county was a simple one: Here the material for roads was abundant and markedly different to other points of Ontario, and such being the case he looked to see Peterboro county have in the future some of the finest highways in the province. For years we had been cutting hills, at points where the lines could have been better located and and where there should be no hills at all. Small expense would re-locate parts of roads, improve them 50 per cent. and reduce cost of maintenance.

A resolution of thanks and appreciation was moved by County Clerk and Treasurer, E. M. Elliott, who referred to the movement and its benefits. He referred to the addresses made by Dr. Doolittle, Mr. McLean and others. This brought Dr. Amys to his feet who said some things that were truthful and applausible. He as a car owner knew that all car owners in the county would willingly pay a vehicle tax if they could be assured that the money would be extended on the roads to the county. Mr. Chas. Coban, reeve of Galway said that it might be some time before the good roads movement reached the northern districts but when it came they would welcome it and give such help as they could.

The meeting then adjourned and those from the city drove back. Several cars were in the village having brought over from Campbellford men interested in the roads project.

For Domestic Use.

"And so you are married."
"Yes; I have been married for three years."
"And how are all your fine spun theories?"
"I am using homespun ones now."

A Painful Lack.

"I don't know what is the matter with my business. I wonder if it needs system."
"No; I think not."
"Then what does it need?"
"Business."

Just.

Just a little pleasure,
Just a little pain;
Just a little sunshine,
Just a little rain;
Just a little friendship,
Just a little gold,
Just a little journey,
Then the story's told.

Best of All.

The golfing girl is pretty,
There isn't any doubt.
In country or in city
She turns all heads about.

The skating maid is charming
As o'er the ice she darts.
It really is alarming—
She breaks so many hearts.

These maidens all are fleeting
And never are at rest.
We cannot help agreeing
The hired girl is best.

Their Usefulness.

"Many fools get into trouble."
"I have noticed that myself."
"What is the good of them?"
"Other fools help them out."

OBITUARY

ALLAN FOSTER.

Water poisoning is given as the cause of Allan Foster's death. The little fellow who was but ten years of age and the son of John Foster of 218 Wolfe Street, was swimming in the river near the C.P.R. bridge last week and after returning to his home complained of a dizziness and sickness of the stomach. An operation was performed on Thursday and he passed away yesterday at noon. He was a lovable little chap and had endeared himself to numerous persons and the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances is extended to the sorrowing parents. The funeral service will be held Monday at 2 o'clock and the funeral at 2.30, interment to be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

The deceased was a member of the Boy Scouts and his comrades will attend the funeral.

MRS. JAMES McKIBBIN.

The death occurred last evening at her home, 3 Dennistoun Avenue, of Mary Ann Robinson, wife of Mr. James McKibbin. The deceased lady was 80 years of age and was very widely known and highly respected, having lived in the township of Smith for 40 years, removing to the city some 14 years ago. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Miss Jennie at home and Mrs. J. R. Metheral, of this city; also one brother, Mr. Joseph Robinson, of Lyn, Ont.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery. Friends please omit flowers.

DIED AS HE SAT IN COACH

Conductor G. Bowey entered the smoking car of the Haliburton train which left Lindsay at 2.40 Thursday when the train was nearing the former place, and announced the conductor's usual "tickets please." William Hussey sat in the coach, with his pipe in his hand, in a dozing position. "Tickets," said the conductor in a louder tone as he touched the supposed sleeper on the shoulder. A shake also failed to arouse Mr. Hussey and investigation by the conductor showed that the man was dead. Dr. Pogue was summoned but the spark of life had sped some moments before. Hussey was an employe of the Mickle and Dyment firm and had been engaged in work in the woods.

PETERBORO BOYS WIN PRIZES AT GROVE SCHOOL

Closing Exercises Were Attended by the Parents Friends and Old Boys

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, headmaster, presided at the closing of The Grove preparatory school at Lakefield last evening, when a large number of parents, friends and old boys of the school were present, including Mr. Thos. Allan, Mr. Beresford Hamilton, Mrs. Currier, Port Hope, Mrs. (Dr.) Cameron, Canon Davidson, and a number of Lakefield people.

Two of the prizes were won by local boys, Donald Cameron, son of Dr. Cameron, winning the mathematical prize for form III and J. F. Davidson, son of Canon Davidson, the languages prize for form IV.

Two of the chief prizes were for the best essays on Canada's Duty to the Empire, these being presented by Major Leonard of St. Catharines. The first prize of $30 was won by J. F. Davidson, and the second prize of $20 by G. Merritt, of Toronto, a stepson of Col. Rogers, of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons. There were seven entries for these prizes and there was a very close competition, all the essays being different in character.

Canon Davidson gave a short address in which he urged the boys to strive for distinctiveness of character and attainments, especially in refinement and every day religion. He referred to the school as being a distinctive school and he congratulated the masters on their achievements. There was a home life, sane religious teaching and healthy atmosphere, not often found in schools. The headmaster and his assistants, Messrs. Marting and Graham, had won the friendship of the pupils and this had been shown by frequent visit of the pupils in after life.

Mr. Langley, barrister at Lakefield, told of how success in life could be achieved and of the great opportunities in Canada to-day.

After the singing of the National Anthem, the formal part of the program was concluded, and the remainder of the evening was spent in social enjoyment. The boys left for their respective homes this morning.

Justice Erlanger, however, sent Dr. George A. McDonald and Dr. Robert C. Kemp to examine Heinze. They reported that he was suffering from liver and stomach complaints, and has frequent hemorrhages, but probably will recover.

Premier is Grand Commander of St. Michael and St. George, Hon. Geo. E. Foster is Knight Commander, and Hon. Adam Beck is Knight Bachelor --- J. A. M. Aikins and Dr. T. G. Roddick Also Get Titles

LONDON, June 22. — The list of the King's birthday honors has been issued by the Colonial Office. The King has been pleased to give directions for the following promotions in and appointments to the most distinguished order of Saint Michael and Saint George:

To be G. C. M. G.: Rt. Hon. Robert Laird Borden, Rt. Hon. Earl of Liverpool, K.C.M.G., M.V.O., governor and commander in chief of the Dominion of New Zealand.

K C. M. G.: Walter Davidson, governor of Newfoundland; Rt. Hon. George Eulas Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce of Canada; William Bell Irving, Attorney-General of the Commonwealth of Australia; Hon. Charles Eugene de Boucherville.

C. M. G.: William Kirkpatrick McNaught, Ontario.

Knights Bachelor: James Albert Manning Aikins, K.C., Canadian House of Commons; Hon. Adam Beck, Minister without portfolio, Province of Ontario; Thomas George Roddick, Montreal.

Among the Knights Bachelor named is Douglas Mawson, the explorer.

The list includes a large number of barons and baronets, but there are a few notable names in it. Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, His Majesty's agent and consul-general in Egypt, is made an earl. Sir Herbert Cozens-Hardy, Sir Edgar Vincent, Maj.-Gen. John Fielden Brocklehurst and Sir Leonard Lyell are raised to barons. Among the baronets is Albert H. Stanley, manager of the London underground railways, who is English born, but raised in the United States. Mr. Stanley came to London from Detroit and assumed his British citizenship last year. For a number of years he was connected with the Detroit United Railways and the Public Service Railways of New Jersey.

Other baronets named are Sir Joseph Beecham, the manufacturer and philantropist; Georg Henschel, the composer, and Sir T. Vansittart Bowater, Lord Mayor of London.

Sir Robert Laird Borden became Premier of Canada in September, 1911, after leading the Conservative Opposition in the Commons at Ottawa for over ten years. He was born at Grand Pre, N.S., June 26, 1854, and is the eldest surviving son of the late Andrew Borden. His family were among the first settlers in Nova Scotia. He was educated at Acacia Villa Academy, Horton, and began the study of law, in 1874. He was called to the Bar in 1878, and in 1889 he was married to Laura, youngest daughter of the late T. H. Bond of Halifax. In 1896 he was elected to the Commons for Halifax, which he represented till his defeat in the general election of 1904. He was then found a seat in Carleton County, Ont. He won the Halifax city and county seat again in 1908 and in 1911.

Sir George Eulas Foster has seen many years' service in the Canadian Parliament. He was first elected to the Commons from Kings County, N.B., in 1882, and, except for a brief interval after 1896, has been in Parliament ever since. He was born in New Brunswick on Sept. 3, 1847, of United Empire Loyalist descent, and was educated at the University of New Brunswick, Edinburgh University, and Heidelberg, Germany, and later became professor of classics in the University of New Brunswick in 1872. He made his debut as a public speaker as a temperance lecturer and from that went into politics. In 1885 he became Minister of Marine in the Government of Sir John Macdonald, and the next year shifted to the Finance Ministership. This portfolio he retained under the Premierships of Sir John Thompson, Sir John Abbott, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper. Sir George in politics has been an Imperialist, and an advocate of preferential trade within the Empire. When the Conservative party was returned to power in 1911 Sir George Foster became Minister of Trade and Commerce.

Sir Charles Eugene Boucher de Boucherville of Boucherville, P.Q., was Premier of Quebec in 1874 and 1891. He was born on May 4, 1822, and was educated at St. Sulpice College, Montreal, and at Paris, France, where he graduated M.D. in 1843. He is descended from Lieut.-General Pierre Boucher, Sieur de Grosbois, who became governor of Three Rivers in 1663, and was also grand constable of New France. He was made C.M.G. in 1884.

William Kirkpatrick McNaught, C.M.G., has sat in the Ontario Legislature as Conservative member for North Toronto, and has been one of the Hydro-Electric Commission, but was recently defeated for the nomination in Northeast Toronto. He entered public life as a member of the directorate of the Canadian National Exhibition, rising to the office of president.

Sir Adam Beck has been chiefly concerned in the campaign for Hydro-electric power, which he began in

ODDFELLOWS DECORATED THE GRAVES

Large Turnout of Members for Annual Ceremony

The beautiful ceremony of decorating the graves of departed brethren was carried out at the Little Lake Cemetery on Sunday by the Peterboro Oddfellows, and a very large number of citizens visited the cemetery, some to witness the ceremony and others to linger at the spot where loved ones were at rest.

The Oddfellows were represented in large number, and they were assisted by the Maple Leaf Band. Col. Miller was marshall.

On arrival at the cemetery, and after a selection by the band, Geo. McDonald gave the address. After the graves had been decorated, Rev. R. Pogue, Rev. R. B. Grobb and Rev. H. J. Keith addressed the Order.

ROWELL LIEUTENANT FOUGHT LOCAL OPTION

Liberals Admit he Was the Paid Servant of Liquor Men

Toronto, June 22.—It was reluctantly admitted today by Liberal campaign officials that the W. F. Summerhayes, appointed by Mr. N. W. Rowell to the office of acting general secretary of the Ontario Reform Association is the same W. F. Summerhayes who for the past number of years has been in the employ of the liquor interests of Ontario, in fighting local option and other temperance contests.

Mr. Summerhayes is the actual director of Mr. Rowell's campaign, appoints speakers, issues (abolish the bar) literature and is otherwise the executive machine serving the Liberal leader's ambitions. Summerhayes was a paid agent of the liquor men recently in Peterboro and other places and gained his living for years from the contributions of distillers and brewers. Mr. Rowell knowing these facts chose Summerhayes as the best man to push forward a campaign designed to hoodwink the temperance people of the Province.

Summerhayes was at his post of duty as usual this morning and will continue there. Summerhayes conducted the campaign for the distillers in the Province of Quebec against the Canada Temperance Act.

TO DISCONTINUE THE DISCOUNT

Ministers, Nurses and Doctors to Pay Fall Prices

The discount which ministers, doctors and others are said to enjoy in the local retail stores is to be denied them. The Retail Merchants Association will meet to-night when the question of doing away with the practice will be taken up and it is stated that a majority is in favor of eliminating the discount privilege. The question of arranging for the annual picnic will also be dealt with.

The market committee will make a report and some resolutions, which will be forwarded to the annual meeting of the Grocers' Guild, which will be held at Toronto, will be discussed.

REV. C. E. CRAGG'S FAREWELL MESSAGE TO CONGREGATION

"Be strong and of good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them, for the Lord Thy God, He it is that doth go with the; He will not fail thee, nor forsake thee." This was the text taken by Rev. C. E. Cragg last evening at Mark Street Methodist Church. The occasion was the farewell sermon of Mr. Cragg, who leaves this week for Napanee to assume the pastorate of the Napanee Methodist Church. The service was largely attended.

Survivors of Hillcrest Disaster Describe Effect of Reversing of Fans---Quick Wit of Mine Manager Kept Down the Death List ---Scores of Widows in Hillcrest

HILLCREST, Alta., June 22—Two days after the explosion which killed nearly 200 miners, the "white man's camp," as Hillcrest collieries is termed, is beginning to breathe more freely, and at the same time to realize fully the extent of the calamity. Taking stock of the catastrophe, the little town finds itself with several scores of widows and hundreds of fatherless children. There is scarcely a home that is not affected by the calamity, while the mining camps in close proximity to Hillcrest count among the dead some of their numbers.

Almost directly under Turtle Mountain, the natural graveyard of victims of the Frank slide of a few years ago, was enacted yesterday afternoon the last scene of the Hillcrest disaster. Over 150 bodies were buried while around stood widows and children.

The funeral was an impressive one. In the valley where the graves counted perhaps less than two score on Saturday, to-day the number is augmented to as many hundreds, and there are more to come within the next few days. Other bodies are being prepared and it is feared that several found resting places beneath the tons of earth and rock in the bowels of the earth. Two bodies at least are known to be thus hopelessly buried.

The stories of the survivors now that the tensity of the situation is relieved, are related more coherently.

But for the reversing of the fan supplying fresh air to the depth below perhaps some of the forty who were saved would never have come out alive. In this General Manager Brown of the Hillcrest collieries was the hero of the hour. Realizing the perilous position of the inmates of the mine when the explosion occurred, it was his first thought that survivors would make their escape by means of the slope to mine No. 2. Knowing the plan of the mine, he immediately made a rush to the mechanism controlling the interior fan and quickly reversed.

"When I felt that whiff of fresh air, I knew I was saved," is the statement of several survivors. They were ready to fall in their rush to safety, and but for that moment of time and that whiff of fresh air, the stories from the interior would have been eliminated altogether from the history of the greatest mining disaster that ever occurred in the Dominion, and 44 additional lives would have been added to the already large list.

There are still a score of bodies in the mine. Hope has been completely abandoned that any spark of life remains, for while the interior fires have been extinguished, no human being could exist for any length of time in the gas-impregnated atmosphere.

In one short street of the town there are 13 widows, a result of the explosion. Some of these have lost husband and sons upon whom they depended solely for existence. The street, which is a short one, contains but 36 houses, and had been named "Peaceful Alley."

CASE ENLARGED.

The case of John Allen of Lakefield before Magistrate Dumble this morning charged with reckless driving on Thursday last when he ran down a cyclist near the corner of George and Hunter streets was enlarged until next Friday.

PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER SAYS ABOLISH THE BAR IS ONLY A MEANS TO AN END

To His Mind Rowell Cannot be Trusted to Abolish the Bar —Whitney's Record is a Record of Promises Fulfilled —Grits Making Use of Temperance Sentiment in Attempt to Regain Power

At a meeting in the interest of W. J. Drope, who is contesting the riding of Lincoln in the interests of the Conservative party, the greatest enthusiasm prevailed and speakers of prominence in the district advocated the cause of Sir James Whitney.

One of the outside speakers was the Rev. T. J. Glover, of Toronto, a Presbyterian minister of sterling reputation and high standing. In reporting the proceedings the St. Catharines Standard had the following resume of Rev. Mr. Glover's address:

Some might be surprised, he said, to see a minister on the political platform, but "there's a reason." If it were not for the fact that an attempt was being made to make temperance an issue in this campaign, he wouldn't be there. All his life he had been a temperance man, and he had travelled all over the province doing the work of the Dominion Alliance.

Abolish the bar was to his mind only a means to an end to bring back into power a Grit Government, and to cover up the fact that they haven't a real platform and policy on which to appeal to the country.

Temperance sentiment is strong all over Ontario, and the Grits were making use of that sentiment to regain power.

To his mind Rowell could not be trusted to abolish the bar.

Whitney's record was a record of promises fulfilled.

An annihilated party sprung abolish the bar on an unsuspecting community for the purpose of regaining power only.

Personally, he had for years been associated with the heads of the Dominion Alliance—F. S. and Ben Spence—and time had been when he regarded them as being heart and soul in the cause of temperance, but now he knew that they were party first and temperance after: today they were working for the cause that brought them to their living.

They would support a Grit candidate every time in preference to a Tory, and everyone who knew them knew that to be a fact.

A Conservative was not wanted today in the Dominion Alliance; that was a positive fact that he could vouch for. Such a policy was going to alienate thousands of good Conservatives who were better temperance men than the Spences ever were.

He was on the hustings because he said truthfully that he couldn't trust Rowell. Do you think that a man that upheld Ross and his rascality could be trusted now?

Everyone remembered the exploits of the Minnie M., and the timber limits scandals, and the ballot burnings. The man who defended that wasn't fit to be trusted now.

INTERESTING ACTION BEFORE JUDGE HUYCKE

Havelock Residents Ask Court to Settle Argument Over Lease of Farm—Misrepresentation Charged—Midnight Toiler Alleged to Have Created Damage but Moth Held Responsible for Ruining a Fur Coat

The action of Daniel Munroe vs. Charles W. Dewey, which is being tried by Judge Huycke at a special sitting of the county court to-day, was remarkable for the briefness of the plaintiff's case. The action is for the recovery of $225 due as rent of a farm, which the defendant leased from the plaintiff on March 20, 1913. The defendant has filed a counter claim for some $400 damages, arising out of alleged misrepresentation and fraud, because of the plaintiff's assertions that the soil was high class and alleged misrepresentation of the cattle. The defendant was unable to decide the soil's value by his own observations as the ground was covered with snow. The farm is situated seven miles north of Havelock.

The counter claim hearing will occupy the entire afternoon as Mr. Gordon intends calling six or seven witnesses to rebute Dewey's statements as to misrepresentation.

When the case opened, E. L. Goodwill admitted owing the rent, on behalf of the plaintiff, so the legal battle evolves around the question of damages in the counter claim.

Mr. Munroe was the first witness and G. N. Gordon, who represented him, asked him but three questions.

Did you lease your farm to Chas. W. Dewey?

Does he owe you rent for the farm?

Is this the lease?

The plaintiff answered all questions "Yes," and Mr. Gordon announced that such was the plaintiff's case in the return for rent recovery.

A long legal argument arose when E. L. Goodwill commenced his cross examination on behalf of the defendant. In his pleadings counsel for the defendant failed to mention fraud, and when he tried to cross examine along such lines, Judge Huycke stated that there could be misrepresentation with fraud, and he did not think the fact that the plaintiff had said the soil was good constituted fraud.

Mr. Gordon objected on the ground that the defendant had no authority to show by cross examination to vary or contradict the document of lease.

His Honor was inclined to adjourn the case so that the defendant's claim could be amended, but Mr. Gordon agreed to go on and his Honor allowed the evidence to go in under objection by the plaintiff's counsel.

The Midnight Toiler.

Questions regarding the condition of the house on the farm were asked in which that midnight toiler, familiarly but unpopularly called the bed bug played a prominent part. Witness admitted that the crop in 1912 from the farm was practically nill. The plaintiff could not tell what each cow would return in one year on milk sold to the factory. After the witness and defendant had talked over the lease, one bull and a heifer had been sold, by plaintiff's orders.

Mr. Gordon said there was no evidence to show that the defendant did not receive all the cows he was entitled to. He added that probably Mr. Goodwill thought a heifer was a milking cow.

"Oh, no, I know a little better than that, even if I was not raised on a farm like my learned friend," said Mr. Goodwill.

"That is one of the things I am proud of," shot back Mr. Gordon.

The witness denied that anything was said about the repairs to the house before the lease was signed, but after it had been signed, there was some talk about the crop of 1912.

The witness said Dewey selected

PEACHES SAFE

Frost not Expected to Cause Damage

ST. CATHARINES, June 22.—Fruit and vegetable growers who had become reconciled to the prospect of the poorest season for peaches in over a quarter of a century were greatly startled Saturday morning by the presence of frost, and incredible as it may seem, little damage in this district can be located, although in spots sheltered from the sun it was still discernible as late as nine o'clock.

The tomato plants, for which the greatest fear has been felt, appear to have weathered the night well. They were well advanced in growth South of the escarpment the effect of the frost was felt somewhat heavier, but not with the severity to cause great damage.

EVIDENCE OF DIVERS WILL THROW LIGHT ON EMPRESS CATASTROPHE

Many Obscure Points Will be Cleared up When Report of Examination of Hulk is Made Before the Commission

Engineer of Storstad Will Testify Regarding Entries in Log

QUEBEC, June 22.—The enquiry into the wreck of the Empress of Ireland by the Dominion Commission will be continued to-day when it is expected that Chief Engineer Syverstern, of the collier Storstad, who was being examined on the entries of the log books of his department when the investigation was adjourned on Saturday, will go back into the box. An attempt will be made in all probability by the commission to get some definite information about the various orders received in the Storstad's engine-room immediately before and after the collision, as the entries in the logs were written up from the recollection of the third engineer on duty at the time, who acknowledged that he might have accidentally omitted certain facts.

The enquiry is expected to last at least a week more, though Lord Mersey is anxious to get it finished up, as he is desirous of getting home, and cannot do so until the report of the commission is prepared and despatched to Ottawa. Interesting evidence is expected to be given by the divers who have been examining the sunken hull of the Empress, not only in regard to the chances of bringing up the bodies still contained in it, but also probably on the exact nature of her injuries and how they affected her watertight bulkheads.

Technical evidence on the construction of the Empress will also be a matter to be dealt with, while it is also said some expert opinion may be secured on the advisability of a better system of closing water-tight bulkheads and of getting rafts and boats into the water when a ship begins to settle rapidly.

BLAMED THE ROADS.

Magistrate Dumble dismissed the charges against the two local motorists this morning charged with infraction of the motor regulations by running their automobiles without the rear light. Both men swore that the lights had been lighted and that they went out due to the rough conditions of the roads. Last year several similar cases appeared in court and the defendants were fined in several instances.

TROUBLE IN THE ROWELL RANKS.

THE SUCCESS of the Rowell party is almost hopeless in view of the encouraging aspect of the Conservative appeal and the dissention prevailing in the ranks of the Liberals.

The Windsor Record, the most prominent Liberal newspaper west of London, is taking no part in the present campaign, as its owners are opposed to the Rowell temperance policy. The Record has plenty of company in the party camp. Half a dozen official Liberal candidates have failed to espouse the abolish-the-bar policy.

There are other supporters of the Liberal party who are not in sympathy with the abolish-the-bar policy. Notice this one.

In the platform he issued to the electors of West Kent, R. L. Brackin, the Liberal nominee there, does not mention the temperance question. He is openly opposed to the Rowell policy. Fine support to Leader Rowell from the party, surely.

In view of these facts, how can temperance people expect any great satisfactory measure from Mr. Rowell? How can Mr. Gillespie do anything of importance for them. That is why Mr. Soden is the man to vote for.

THE RIGHT VIEW.

JOHN HUGHES, a life-long temperance worker, who interrupted a pro-Rowell sermon in the Sydenham Methodist Church, Kingston, thus writes to the Kingston Standard:

> "I am a very strong temperance advocate. I supported and voted for Hon. G. W. Ross and helped to put him in power. But his temperance policy was a delusion and a snare, and finally I became disgusted with him and helped to put him out. Now, with Whitney, we have a sane, sensible, honest workable temperance policy, and we are steadily going from better to still better, and in time, under Whitney, I look for general temperance. Hence I will vote for him at this election."

Mr. Hughes takes the right position. The issue in the present campaign is not one between temperance on one side and liquor interests on the other. There is really no temperance issue in the present contest, because all good citizens are agreed on the evils of the liquor traffic, and are anxious to see its evils reduced as far as possible. The difference between the parties is one of method in dealing with the same question. The Rowell plan is one, the Conservative plan is another, and the people are asked to choose on the temperance question between the two methods proposed.

Mr. Soden comes forward as an advocate of advanced temperance reform. He is a supporter of the Government that has promised advanced temperance legislation as soon as the people send men to the Legislature who favour it. That is a safe and sane stand to take. Above all things legislation along temperance lines needs to be efficient. It needs to be enforced both by the Government and by public sentiment. If it is passed and not enforced or has any loopholes permitting evasion, better were it not passed at all. To avoid the possibility of such a condition, Sir James Whitney has demanded of the temperance people men who will support him in passing the advanced temperance legislation that temperance people want. Mr. Soden has pledged himself to do so. If the people of West Peterborough want safe and sane temperance legislation they will elect R. J. Soden.

BEARING TRUE WITNESS.

THE MONTREAL WITNESS, one of the chief prohibitionist newspapers in Canada, pays this compliment to the Whitney Administration:

> "As the passing of the days draws us closer to the date of the Ontario elections, the electors find the problem facing them growing more serious. It was to the relief of the Liberals as well as to the Conservatives when Sir James Whitney secured power in Ontario and showed that he had both the intention and ability to give to the province a clearer and more business-like government than it had known for some years. There is no denying, nor any wish to deny, that the Government of Sir James Whitney, has passed some temperance measures, and that it has enforced them in a way temperance legislation had never been enforced before. The enforcement of local option and the hydro-electric have proved popular works of the Government, so also has the Act for bilingual schools and its enforcement. With all this to his credit, Sir James has a strong claim for support from the people of both parties; he has been an upright, forceful leader, who knew his own mind. For his conduct in office he will get many votes, but the thing that is going to tell as much in the coming election as anything that Sir James Whitney has done is his recent serious illness. It won for him a great amount of sympathy which has not died out, and which will be registered at the polls."

BEST TEMPERANCE GOVERNMENT.

"I AM ANXIOUS to see the bar abolished, but I am not anxious to see the best temperance Government Ontario ever had abolished." So says Mr. T. F. Best, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of Hamilton. In nine years' practice the Whitney Government has abolished 1,600 bars, and cut down the number of days and shortened the hours of selling liquor. And yet this record is to be wiped aside by a lofty move of the hand of the Liberals, many of whom in convention, adopted the "Abolish the Bar" policy—leaving in the shops—frankly as a means to get into office. Practice versus theory, and a theory promulgated by a man who up to the last minute of the dying Ross Government did not utter a syllable of protest against its betrayal of temperance interests.

Shall practice or theory prevail in this election?

SOFT PEDAL ON BI-LINGUALISM.

"BI-LINGUALISM not an issue," declares the Globe. So the people of Ontario are to be told by the Liberal organ just what they are to consider issues, and what not in this campaign. It's "temperance" this election, according to the Liberal organ, but in 1905, no, something else that might have made the ways easier for the crumbling Ross Government.

Bi-lingualism not an issue? The Globe means, not an issue for the Conservatives. "Temperance Conservatives" must forget it and vote Rowell. But the French-Canadian electors in Nipissing and in Glengarry and in Ottawa and in Russell and in Prescott and in Essex, and other ridings where there is a strong French-Canadian vote, can make it an issue. An issue by voting against the Conservative Government.

"Hush! Mention it not. Bi-lingualism is not an issue." This to the English "temperance Conservatives."

But to the French electors, what? Mr. Rowell tells them their cause is "just;" English is all right, of course; "it is the duty of the state to see that every child receives a thorough English education." Fine! But— "On the other hand," Mr. Rowell told his French-Canadian audience in the North, as the Globe reported him, "On the other hand, we should not seek to prevent the children of our French-Canadian fellow-citizens retaining the use of their own mother tongue."

Nice, sugar-coated pill he hands them. Or is it candy, without any pill?

What more do they want, the bi-lingual advocates? Is this why Le Temps of Ottawa calls upon all French-Canadians to vote against the Whitney Government because Regulation Seventeen limited the teaching of French to the first year?

Mr. Rowell dodges every question as to whether he favors or opposes Regulation Seventeen, the crux of the whole bi-lingual question.

Still The Globe says "Bi-lingualism is not an issue." And Mr. Rowell's law partner, Mr. Wilkie, goes up North and tells French-Canadians that Mr. Rowell will settle the bi-lingual question as Sir Wilfrid Laurier did the school question.

Why did Mr. Wilkie mention a French-Canadian to a French-Canadian audience? One might almost think—almost, we repeat—that Mr. Rowell was a politician. But, hush, "Bi-lingualism is not an issue."

MAKING FREE WITH THE CHURCHES.

THE LIBERALS are becoming desperate in this campaign as time advances, and do not scruple to use any means to impress the people. The attempt to drag churches more and more into the contest is to be regretted in that they are suborning an established institution for party purposes. The Globe does not hesitate to resort to tactics which bring a respected institution into bad odor with a large number of its parishioners. Regarding this action the Toronto Mail says:

> "The Globe suggests that, as many voters do not go to church, the women who are fighting the bar should try to reach them. This subtle way of spreading abroad the idea that the houses of worship throughout the province are put at the disposal of Mr. Rowell as places of rendezvous for his workers and supporters will be regretted by that leader. While it indicates great eagerness on the part of the organ to serve him, it also shows equal recklessness as to the effect upon the churches. If the churches were embraced in a new Rowell "fusion," as the organ would have its readers think, it would surely have more consideration for them than to refer to them as it has done."

A Pertinent Question.

Montreal Evening News.

The "Great Eastern," the pioneer ocean Leviathan, was pronounced unsinkable by her builders and the marine architects. Since then, her construction has been severely modified. She was a non-success financially. Has that fact anything to do with the modified specifications applied to modern ships?

Sinks More Easily.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

The new steamer Aquitania shows the speed of a fast train. This is an age of wonderful development in ship building. It seems doubtful, however, that provisions for safety have kept pace with the development of speed. The modern boat seems to go to the bottom even more easily than the old wooden hull.

Memory.

By William Browne.

So shuts the marigold her leaves
  At the departure of the sun;
So from the honeysuckle sheaves
  The bee goes when the day is done;
So sits the turtle when she is but one,
And so all woe, as I since she is gone.

To some few birds kind Nature hath
  Made all the summer as one day;
Which once enjoy'd, cold winter's wrath
  As night they sleeping pass away.
Those happy creatures are, that know not yet
The pain to be deprived or to forget.

I oft have heard men say there be
  Some that with confidence profess
The helpful Art of Memory;
  But could they teach Forgetfulness,
I'd learn; and try what further art could do
To make me love her and forget her, too.

THE DYING TREE

By Walt Mason

Ah, it is saddening to see a beautiful and stately tree in process of decay; it took long years to reach its height, and then there fell a deadly blight that ate its heart away. It seems to know it's in the soup, for all its leaves and branches droop, 'tis a despairing thing; and in the zephyr or the gale it seems to moan and sigh and wail, when it should dance and sing. There's nothing nobler than a tree, there's naught that more appeals to me, and oh, it makes me hot, to think such stately things must die, because some derned old worm or fly has given it dry rot. And in our towns a million trees are dying of some punk disease imparted in that way; great elms that pleased our pas and mas are crumbling to the ground because such pests we do not slay. A little hustling out of doors might save the threatened sycamores, the locusts and the elms; so let us gird our loins to-day, and spray our friends the trees, and slay the worm that overwhelms. If you would supinely by, and see a splendid shade tree die, and never lift a hand, if you would raise no doleful sound, when trees are dying all around, you surely should be canned.

MR. SODEN'S QUEER TEMPERANCE VIEWS

There are in Ontario:

Hotel Licenses	1300
Club Licenses	58
Total	1358
Shop Licenses	215
Grand Total	1573

Mr. N. W. Rowell says: "My policy means:

"Hotel Liquor Licenses: Every One Wiped Out.

"Club Liquor Licenses: Every One Wiped Out.

"Treating System: Abolished.

"Shops:

"1st—Will come under further restrictions.

"2nd—Can be wiped out by Local Option on a majority vote where the electors so decide.

"3rd—Shop licenses cannot be issued in the place of bar licenses abolished."

Mr. Rowell's policy will wipe out 1358 licenses at one crack. It will also make it easy to wipe out the remaining 215 licenses. A campaign to wipe out the three shop licenses in Peterboro will be launched within a year.

What Mr. Soden Says:

Mr. Soden says: "I am for the abolition of the shops as well as bars and clubs and regard Rowell's policy as even more dangerous to true temperance than the present arrangement."—Telegram to Toronto Daily Star, June 13, 1914.

In other words, Mr. Soden claims that there will be more drinking in 215 shops under Mr. Rowell's policy, supposing they were not wiped out by a majority vote, than there is now in the same 215 shops, 58 clubs and 1300 bars. Total, 1573.

Furthermore: Mr. Soden does not believe in making it easy for the people to wipe out any of these 1573 licenses, because he believes in the three-fifths handicap. In his speech at Young's Point, June 15, 1914, he said: "I say the three-fifths clause is the best thing that ever happened to the country."

Mr. Gillespie favors reducing licenses, until we have only 215 shops, these to be wiped out on a straight majority vote. He will vote in the legislature to have these wiped out.

Mr. Soden prefers existing conditions with the same 215 shops, plus 58 clubs, plus 1300 hotel licenses; Total 1573, these to be wiped out only by a three-fifths handicap, which has blocked us twice in Peterboro.

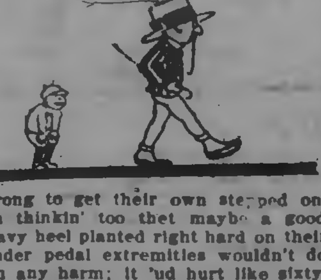
THE MISFIT

THERE air a lot of misfits in this old world, men and women out of harmony with their surroundin's. They seem born to be jest misfits, that's all. They shuffle through life in a slipshod manner, bein' keerful not to step on anybody else's corns and too-all-fired timid to ventur' close enough to the hustlin' throng to get their own stepped on. I'm thinkin' too thet maybe a good heavy heel planted right hard on their tender pedal extremities wouldn't do 'em any harm; it 'ud hurt like sixty, of course, but it might serve to wake 'em up. Arter all is said and done thar's nuthin' quite like a good stiff jolt to wake a person up, and I reckon it might be a good thing fer the loiterer along the way.



The tea kettle should be washed clean every night and filled fresh every morning, if you would have good coffee and tea.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

By Harry King Tootle

"You're out of your head. You're mad. Keep still, I tell you." The men still standing irresolute, she turned upon them. "Why are you standing there? Leave this room."

Little Ella was enjoying herself hugely. Gloria's every pleading tone was music in her ears. Her eyes burned with excitement. Yet the cruel cat delayed to crush the mouse. Its quivering was too soul-satisfying. Realizing that if she admitted Gloria was the daughter of David Kerr the men would forego their pursuit of Wright, Little Ella knew her best course was to deny the relationship.

"Don't you go, Turkey," she yelled. "I'll tell you the truth." She turned to Gloria. "I wisht the boss had a daughter, did I?—It's a lie, Turkey. She's not Dave Kerr's girl. He'd laugh to see a daughter o' his in such a hell-hole. I'd watch her to see that she paid the price," she glanced at Gloria malevolently, "if—if he had a daughter. An' yer pertectin' the man you love!" she mocked. "We'll see how the boss' daughter loves."

Her laughter was terrible. The men could not think her the same woman they knew. Gloria started in alarm. She felt the woman was mad, and did not know what she might do.

"What are you going to do?" she asked.

Now Ella was sneering at her. She knew how to choose knife-blades for words. In everything she said was the cunning and the cruelty of a lost woman. Gloria was suffering, she could see, but there was still another chord which would vibrate to misery. Since time began jealousy has been a flaming sword in the hands of an unscrupulous antagonist who knows how to use it. To make Gloria think that she was defending a man untrue to her, was something. To make her believe that she had been defeated by the greater charm of Little Ella herself, was far more.

"Do you think I'd 'a' let you hid that man if he'd loved you? Never. You don' know why he come here, but I do. He come to see me. He loves me."

She beat her breasts as she spoke to emphasize her words and her eyes sparkled with the challenge she had just hurled at the daughter of the boss. Gradually, bit by bit, the veneer of civilization had been chipped away. Gloria no longer saw the gulf that separated them. She knew only that by cozening words this other woman was trying to make her think she had been robbed of her own. Her weakness left her. Now when she summoned all her strength, she joyed to find it did not fail. As Little Ella proclaimed that the men they were hiding had come to see her, Gloria sprang to the side of the bed, and cried with all the indignation of an overwrought soul:

"You lie!"

"That's what you say, but down in your heart you know it's the truth. It ain't the first time he's been here. Oh, he's told me about you, the boss' daughter; but it's me he loves."

The men were forgotten in this duel so elemental that it could have had the stone age for its setting. On one side, hate as bitter as the grave; on the other, love and faith stronger than death itself.

"Every word you utter is a lie," Gloria blazed. "If you loved him you wouldn't have called these cutthroats."

"Why don' you tell 'em yer the boss' daughter now?" taunted the other.

"Look here, Ella," Ryan broke in, "we're tired o' standin' here like fools. Quit yer gassin' an' make good."

"You'll git yours all right. She's not David Kerr's daughter. Don' you let her bluff you. I know where she hid 'im. I'll tell you where he is."

Gloria turned upon the men.

"I've told you the truth, and I've warned you. Don't you come a step closer." Then she threatened the woman, "If you dare to speak a—"

Little Ella was not to be intimidated

"When she dragged him in," she began, "she locked the door, an' then she—"

Gloria was standing at no great distance from the bed when Little Ella began her betrayal of Wright's hiding place. As she realized that in an instant the secret would be out, her eyes dilated with her look of hate. Then they narrowed to cruel slits, while a tremor ran through her body. One who knew the girl would scarcely have recognized her. Like some lithe creature of the jungle waiting for the kill, she seemed to crouch for the spring. Just as the woman was about to utter the words which would reveal where the newspaper man was concealed, Gloria was upon her. She seemed with one bound to have leapt the space that separated them.

"You Jezebel!" she raged, and struck her fair upon the mouth.

Ryan and Kelly did not stir. The unexpected had happened, and they were spellbound.

Gloria's breath rushed through her teeth with a horrid, hissing sound, her face was flushed, her hair touseled, and her waist in disarray. Yet she heeded nothing but the wild impulse to defend her own.

Little Ella, her scant strength all spent, gasped out that she would tell nothing. Gloria was beside herself and the promise meant nothing to her. With a man's strength she lifted the woman up, held her there an instant, and then hurled her back upon the bed. Her head fell over the side, and she lay as one dead.

Her rage was still hot upon her as she turned to confront the two men.

"As for you, get out."

Ryan made one last half-hearted stand.

"Say, the boss hates that man. Are you really Dave Kerr's daughter?"

"And you need to ask such a question!" she stormed. "Ask Mike Noonan if you will, but beware of David Kerr! If ever you have cause to fear him, you have it now. My anger is his anger, and don't you dare defy the daughter of David Kerr!"

She took a step forward menacingly, as if she had strength to inflict the same chastisement they had seen administered to the woman. They did not stay to argue with her. Leaving Little Ella to her fate, they made a hasty retreat.

No sooner were they out of the room than Gloria put into execution what she had designed when they departed the first time. Rushing to the door she closed it hastily and pushed the washstand in front of it, wedging it under the knob. This done, she ran back and dragged Wright from his hiding place. There was no thought of the woman whose head hung over the side of the bed in such ghastly fashion

Gloria lifted his head and dashed water upon his face. She watched him closely, and as she saw that it had no effect upon him, a sudden fear seized her and her cheeks were blanched. With trembling fingers she tore at his shirt and felt for the beat of his heart. She could feel its faint pulsation. He lived.

With a wild cry she flung herself forward in a deep swoon upon the body of the unconscious man.

CHAPTER XXI.

The one person who could have told how Joe Wright had come to visit Mike Noonan's lodging house was David Kerr. He had sprung the trap himself, never dreaming that his own daughter would be caught in it. When the fight on the Interurban Railway had first started, at command of the boss, Jack Durken, a ward heeler, apparently had gone over to the enemy.

The man had found employment in the circulation department of the News, and soon afterward the information reached Wright that one of his own employes was a former henchman of the notorious first ward leader, Mike Noonan. Durken was loud in his denunciations of David Kerr and his followers, and appeared willing to betray whatever he knew of the methods of the gang.

The editor found him a fountain of information regarding the shady politics of Belmont. In reality Durken told only what David Kerr ordered him to tell. Wishing to establish Wright's confidence in the man, Kerr had him disclose many things of slight importance that were absolutely authentic

NEW LOG CABIN CAMP IN ALGONQUIN PARK IS COMPLETED

Mr. H. R. Charlton, General Advertising Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, has just made a tour of inspection in Algonquin Provincial Park of Ontario, journeying from Algonquin Park Station to the different log cabin camps that the Grand Trunk have constructed for the accommodation of tourists in that wonderful and attractive reserve. "Camp Minnesing" on Island Lake, nine miles distant from Algonquin Park Station, and situated on one of the most beautiful sites in the Park, is practically completed and the furnishings are now being installed, the camp to open on July 1st. This camp is built entirely of cedar logs with the bark on, and is comprised of the main lodge with twenty bed rooms, four bath rooms, public recreation room and general dining room. On each side of the Main lodge, at a distance of fifty feet apart, are three log cabin camps containing four bed rooms each, bath room and living room, with spacious covered gallery on three sides of the cabin. Hot and cold water in the main lodge and each cabin; the entire camp to accommodate seventy-five people.

"Nominigan Camp" situated at Smoke Land, 7 miles south of Algonquin Park Station, was opened last year and is one of the most attractive places in the "Highlands of Ontario," everyone who visited the camp being delighted with it. These camps were built somewhat after the style of the camps that are found in the Rangeley Lakes in Maine, but are far superior to them, both in construction and furnishings.

The Highland Inn at Algonquin Park Station, which accommodates 150 people, has been renovated, redecorated and refurnished this year. From the present outlook, the number of inquiries that are being made and reservations secured, the indications point to a very successful summer in Algonquin Park District. The attractions of this extensive territory are numerous, the principal one, however, is the splendid fishing, which comprises such well known game fish as the Small Mouth Black Bass, Speckled Trout and Black Salmon Trout.

Hunting is not allowed in the Park but visitors are allowed to shoot with the camera all the wild game they can see, and it is not necessary to go many feet from the hotels to find the deer in their native haunts, and mink, marten and beaver, in fact all the wild animals that are found in our Canadian woods have their home in Algonquin Park.

Asparagus when it comes from the market is bound to be a little wilted. If you cut about one inch off the bottom of the stalks and stand them in water about two inches deep, they will freshen and regain some of their natural sweetness.

WEDDING CAKES.

Reduction In Their Cost if They Are Prepared at Home.

APPROPRIATE DECORATIONS.

Ornaments Which Hit Off Some Special Fad or Taste of the Bride Are Now Considered Very Smart—A Cake That May Be Kept Indefinitely.

An important feature of the June wedding is the bride cake. Confectioners and bakers unite in charging extreme prices for these dainties, but in families where there is an expert cake baker they may be satisfactorily made at home.

An expert suggests the following economical way to make a delicious bride cake:

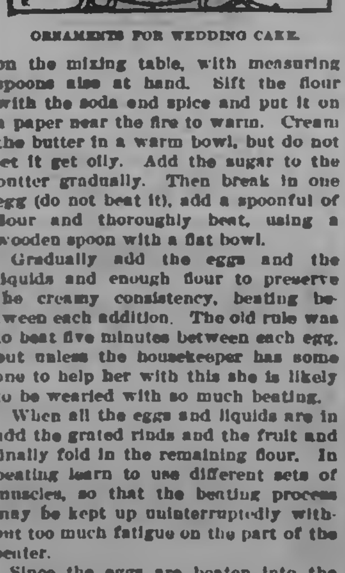
The following ingredients are required: Take one pound each of best butter, light brown sugar, carefully sifted; eggs and flour. The principal ingredients are measured a pound each, but the corresponding measurements by quantity are two cupfuls of butter, two cupfuls of sugar, eight to ten eggs and four level cupfuls of flour, measured after sifting.

Flavorings and fruits to be added to the above measure are as follows: Two teaspoonfuls each of mace and cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of cloves, the grated rinds of a lemon and of one large orange, one level teaspoonful of soda and two to four tablespoonfuls of brandy or spiced fruit sirup.

The required fruits are: One pound each of sultana raisins, dark seeded raisins, dried currants, blanched almonds and candied peels.

The raisins and currants should be thoroughly washed and dried the day before the cake is mixed. First scald them quickly; then wash in cold water several times, carefully picking out seeds, stones or stalks; then dry them in a warm place, where they will swell a little. The almonds should be cut once lengthwise. The candied peels may consist of a quarter of a pound each of candied orange, citron, lemon and cherries.

Have the fruits weighed and prepared. Have all ingredients at hand on the mixing table, with measuring spoons also at hand. Sift the flour with the soda and spice and put it on a paper near the fire to warm. Cream the butter in a warm bowl, but do not let it get oily. Add the sugar to the butter gradually. Then break in one egg (do not beat it), add a spoonful of flour and thoroughly beat, using a wooden spoon with a flat bowl.



ORNAMENTS FOR WEDDING CAKE.

Gradually add the eggs and the liquids and enough flour to preserve the creamy consistency, beating between each addition. The old rule was to beat five minutes between each egg, but unless the housekeeper has some one to help her with this she is likely to be wearied with so much beating.

When all the eggs and liquids are in add the grated rinds and the fruit and finally fold in the remaining flour. In beating learn to use different sets of muscles, so that the beating process may be kept up uninterruptedly without too much fatigue on the part of the beater.

Since the eggs are beaten into the batter whole, one at a time, with about a tablespoonful of flour to maintain the creamy consistency, the beating must be given to them after they are added to the batter.

This batter will make a cake of about eight or nine pounds. This cake can be packed away in brown sugar after it is cool and left until shortly before it is wanted for serving, when it can be given frosting and final decorations. It will keep well indefinitely.

The decoration of the cake is not such a difficult matter as one might expect. Ornaments suitable for brides' cakes may be purchased of the confectioner. Then only the simple white frosting and possibly a fancy border need be applied at home.

It is a popular idea at this time to choose some object that will suggest the bride's special penchant. For instance, if she is a motorist a sugar automobile filled with orange blossoms may be selected for the cake. Illustrated here are two quite conventional ornaments in specially graceful forms. One represents the wedding bell and the other the conventional slipper, guarded by a smiling Cupid.

ONE OUNCE OF GENUINE TEMPERANCE REFORM WORTH POUND OF CATCH-CRY

Whitney's service for Temperance reform has covered nine years of progressive ACTION.

Under Whitney's rule, 1904-14, liquor licenses were reduced from 2,814 to 1,600. Decrease 1,214.

Whitney found an unworkable Local Option law and made it workable. Local Option has made four-fifths of Ontario dry. And it is safely and surely taking care of the other fifth.

Whitney gave Temperance a valuable weapon in the Canada Temperance Act which he made applicable to Ontario's needs. Whitney doubled the tax burdens on the liquor trade in nine years—$620,123 to $1,240,945.

In 1906, 96 municipalities enjoyed Local Option. In 1913 no less than 247 were under Local Option rule. This progress was made possible by excellent enforcement of the liquor license laws.

"The Pioneer" (organ of Dominion Alliance) said in 1910: "The liquor laws are carried out in a manner that reflects credit on the Government in general."

Mr. Jos. Gibson, Pres. Ontario Alliance: "You did your duty. You said at the start that you would make the license holders keep hotel and you did." General Booth, on Ontario's management of the liquor traffic: "In this respect Ontario leads the world."

Rowell's service for Temperance Reform has covered thirty years of political indifference or hostility and one year of catch-cry.

Rowell's party twice promised prohibition and then threw the Temperance cause overboard. Rowell stuck fast to that party. He sticks to it to-day. And he has revived their plausible devices to put himself in power. No one has yet given a proof that Rowell is less insincere to-day than in 1902.

Rowell refuses to sacrifice the liquor shops. Whitney's Local Option Canada Temperance Acts sweep away bars, clubs and shops, the moment the people demand it.

Rowell lacked courage to feature "Abolish the Bar" in his 1911 campaign. He laid it aside until he had experimented with other issues. Hopelessly beaten 83 to 18, he picked up the only remaining chance of winning office. Temperance is his political toy. Temperance is Whitney's pledge and achievement. Rowell juggles Whitney gives Reform an actual meaning.

An over-night passion to "throttle" a branch of the liquor traffic has little weight beside nine years of genuine and permanent accomplishment.

G. A. GILLESPIE.
Liberal Candidate in West Peterborough.

On Saturday, June 6, I gave the Temperance Association a signed statement that if elected I would vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the 1300 bar, 215 shop and 58 club licenses in Ontario. I repeated this statement in my Opera House address, June 18. Furthermore, if I ever get the opportunity I will vote to prevent the manufacture of liquor. I ask for your support and influence.

THE USE OF THE BALLOT

Rev. R. G. Peever Deals With the Temperance Question

The Rev. R. G. Peever, B.D., in his sermon at George Street Methodist Church last evening, dealt forcibly with the question of abolishing the bar. His theme was divided into three questions. How should you vote? What is the issue? What is your choice?

Speaking of the first point, the minister stated that the time had passed, at least in the question of wiping out the liquor traffic, when a person should be bound by partyism. It was not a question of Liberal or Conservative. A man's franchise was his own. He had the privilege of exercising it. It did not belong to any party. It was a man's duty to serve his God before any party. A man's ballot was not to be coerced by slander or bribery. A man should not be led to vote by another because the other was in a superior position in life. The speaker also touched on bribery and stated that any man who could be bribed or influenced by money regarding his ballot could be bought at any time.

Rev. Mr. Peever said the issue was whether organized liquor interests should triumph over organized Christianity. The Christian churches were voting according to sentiment which they thought tended for the abolishment of the bar. At this point, the speaker explained Mr. Rowell's policy of wiping out the bars and clubs and giving the option of abolishing the shops by a straight majority vote. He urged the congregation not to wait for another nine years. It was a question whether the liquor men would triumph or the churches.

Speaking on what shall be the choice, Rev. Mr. Peever told of the heart pains caused by liquor. Personally he had voted Conservative on his last ballot, but thinks the question before the people now was the biggest one in his career. What side will the liquor men vote for? What side will the temperance interests vote for? What side was the mother for? I am going to join with them. Ministers in some churches were opposing the abolishment of the bar, but God always had trouble with his own children.

The speaker concluded by again emphasizing the point that he would vote with the church and temperance elements in their struggle over organized liquor interests.

DISTURBERS FARE ILL

Suffragettes Are Chased and Men Are Ducked

LONDON, June 22.—A nearby artificial lake gave a big crowd a unique opportunity to vent their wrath on suffragist interrupters of David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who spoke at Denmark Hill, in the south of London, but chivalrous discrimination was employed as between the men and women disturbers, the women being chased off the grounds and the men being ducked in the lake.

The Rt. Hon. Thomas J. MacNamara, a Radical member of the House of Commons, who presided, appealed to the assembled multitude to leave it entirely to the stewards to deal with the disturbers, but the request was disregarded. The man who fared worst was a clergyman, said to be a member of Sylvia Pankhurst's east end army.

Undeterred by the fate that had befallen other disturbers, he demanded in stentorian tones to know why the Government had not given votes to women. His clerical garb seemed to produce the effect on the crowd that a red flag does on a mad bull. They rushed and carried him off his feet and pitched him headlong into the lake, from which, after frequent complete immersions, he was rescued in a half-drowned condition by a man in a boat.

During the course of his address, the Chancellor made it clear that the amending bill, which will be introduced in the House of Lords to-morrow, simply will repeat the Government's original offer of temporary exclusion from the Home Rule Bill of such counties in Ulster as vote for exclusion.

More Protection For Fish.

OTTAWA, June 22.—The special fishery regulations for Ontario have been amended so that the sale and export of black bass, maskinonge and speckled trout are prohibited, except that any person from a foreign country, who has secured an angler's permit, can take with him the lawful catch of two days' fishing upon leaving the province.

TWO LIVES LOST WHEN G.T.R. TRAINS COLLIDE

Firemen Were Killed in Accident Said to Have Been Due to Misunderstanding of Orders

Engineers Had Miraculous Escape — Both Trains Hurled Into Ditch

KINBURN, Ont., June 22.—As a result of a head-one collission between two freight trains on the Parry Sound line of the G. T. R. one mile west of here, about 9.30 last night, H. Jessop, of Ottawa, fireman on the eastbound train was killed, and it is believed that John O'Connor of Ottawa, fireman on the westbound train lies dead under the wreckage piled up in a ditch near the tracks. All the other members of the two crews escaped without injury. The accident, it is said, was due to a misunderstanding on the part of one or both of the engineers of the orders issued from the despatchers office in Ottawa.

George Smith, 189 Concord street, Ottawa, was engineer on the eastbound train and W. J. Logan, 61 Lee avenue, Ottawa, was engineer on the other. Both trains were going at a speed of 25 miles an hour when they met and the force of the impact hurled the trains into a ditch close by and dragged a string of box cars with them. That the engineers escaped with their lives is considered miraculous.

WHAT A LIBERAL PAPER HAS TO SAY OF MR. SODEN CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE

(Midland Free Press)

Mr. R. J. Soden, an old Midland boy, has received the Conservative nomination for the riding of West Peterborough. We need hardly say that though opposed to us in political creed, we wish him success. Mr. Soden, while in Midland, was one of our most progressive citizens, and it was through him that the Canada Iron Furnace Co. was induced to locate its plant here. Always an ardent politician, he took an active part in all municipal and parliamentary affairs, and while a staunch Conservative at all times, he still made many friends among his opponents on account of the clean, fair methods which he always adopted in furthering the cause of his party.

He will make an energetic representative for any riding, and West Peterborough, if it elects him, at the coming election, will secure a clean, just and aggressive member, who, from our knowledge of him, will not allow any consideration to outweigh his convictions of what is right in all matters affecting the province.

Mr. Soden has made a clean-cut statement regarding his stand on the temperance question. He is even willing to go a little farther than the Rowell policy of abolish the bar. He is in favor of doing away with the shop and club license as well. It is up to the temperance people of this Province to stand together, regardless of politics, if they ever hope to rid Canada of its greatest curse.

The strainer may be said to be the thermometer of the cook's excellence. In summer especially, the food must be dainty and free from lumps and fragments of fat or sediment. In all the summer dishes—creams, gelatines, iced boullion and fruit dishes—a strainer is a necessity.

To the Men of Peterborough

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

> "If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop. I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party."

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

REPLY TO MR. GILLESPIE

To the Examiner :—
Sir :—

You publish the following letter to me from Mr. Gillespie :—"To the Electors of West Peterborough."

Mr. Soden solicits the temperance vote on the ground that he is in favor of the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop Licenses. Will Mr. Soden state on the public platform that he will VOTE WITH EITHER POLITICAL PARTY for the abolition of the Bar, Club and Shop Licenses, or over his own signature in the Public Press."

My promise to the Electors is—I WILL.

G. A. GILLESPIE."

My reply to Mr. Gillespie is that I will do far more than that. I am resolved if elected to myself move in the Legislature for the abolition of the liquor traffic in every form and I will invite and compel all those of BOTH political parties who are temperance men to show their hand. Mr. Gillespie said as reported in the Globe and published in the local papers and not denied by him that he will support either political party IF either political party "deems it wise" to abolish the shop as well as the bar and the club. I will do more. I will do it "whether either political party deems it wise or not."

I now and always "deem it wise." Why has Mr. Gillespie in this way tied his own hands ? The man who wants abolition without the "IF" will vote for me. If not, then let him vote for my friend Gillespie who will support the abolition of the shop only when political parties have so far got out of the clutches of the whiskey as to "deem it wise" and to do what they are afraid to do NOW. Do you believe they will "THEN" if afraid "NOW ?" It will be a strange temperance man who would reason in that way. Do I make myself clear or is there still room for the politicians to charge me with quibbling ?

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

MR. PEEVER'S STATEMENTS RESENTED.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir:—The Rev. Mr. Peever in his sermon last night made statements that were far fetched, and I, as a voter, and member of his congregation resent the imputation that I am allied with the liquor interests, simply because I am not a supporter of the Rowell Abolish-the-Bar.

In the Conservative party there is a large and influential element—the predominant element—that is no friend of the liquor traffic, desires no identity with it, and repudiates the suggestion that it is allied with the liquor traffic, and these facts cannot be stated too plainly and forcibly.

The Whitney Government is prepared to go into temperance legislation just as far as the public justify it.

Can Mr. Peever produce any convincing argument that Mr. Rowell should he be elected, will have the support of his followers?

The Liberal candidate, speaking in Waterloo, refuses to follow him —he is too near the Seagrams. Four other Liberal candidates will not take the Abolish-the-Bar plank, and in Eastern Ontario, in Ottawa, Mr. Rowell's Abloish-the-Bar is pushed into the background and never mentioned.

If Mr. Rowell is sincere why does he and his Liberal followers in the House, who patronize the Ontario Club, the club with the largest liquor menu in the Province; why does not he and his Abolish-the-Bar colleagues withdraw their membership from the Ontario Club until the Club's bar is banished. Charity begins at home.

Why did not Mr. Rowell, whose temperance sentiments are so strong, get out from under the Ross Government when it tricked the people of this province by its damnable juggling.

Why does not Mr. Rowell rebuke Mr. C. A. Moss, Liberal candidate in Toronto, who still patronizes the bar? And to bring it nearer home, why did not Mr. Gillespie get out from behind the clique that carried on the damnable rascality in this riding for so many years?

If it is a case of morals, I can only say My God! where was his morals when this nefarious work was going on?

Where were the morals of the ministers of this city?

Yours truly,
CONSERVATIVE.

"OUR STUPID COUNCIL."

Editor Review:

Dear Sir.—When our stupid council of some years ago built our market house on the second storey, many of us pointed out its unsuitability for many reasons, which it now recognizes. It now proposes to build another on the ground floor upon the present market square, which is already too small for an outdoor market place. For that reason it was decided years ago to remove the market to a larger square, where all the accommodation could be afforded, and that spot was the large tract of land along the river bank, as it was the only available one near the centre of the city, but, alas! for the wisdom of our last year's Council, they gave that away to the C.P.R., and hence our present dilemna. We positively have no suitable place for a market, and the present insufficient one is needed for other purposes as demanded by the growth of the city.

Another foolish thing our Council is doing, or proposes doing, is to let the dealers and large buyers go on the market at 9 a.m., instead of 11 a.m. as heretofore, which will enable them to corral all the market stuff and put it into cold storage and thus intercept direct buying from the producers to the disadvantage of the consumer who pays the taxes for the purchase of the ground, the construction of the building and their maintenance. It is time the people awoke if the whole city is to suffer for the same of a handful of shippers and middlemen.

Yours, etc.,
TAXPAYER.

June 22nd, 1914.

A PROTEST.

Editor Review,

Sir.—I protest against the violent language used by Rev. R. Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. He called the supporters of Sir James Whitney and Mr. Soden, a lot of "red-nosed politicians." I wish to say that I consider my nose is in just as good condition as Rev. R. Pogue's and my Christian principles just as sound and my convictions just as good from all appearances.

Why is it that when these so called Christians get into the fray, they have got to act worse than anybody else ?

Yours truly,
EXEGESES.

AN OMISSION.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir.—I was one of those who attended the meeting in the Opera House, Mr. Gillespie's meeting. I saw the chairman, Mr. Hartley, Mr. Gillespie, Mr. Rowell and others. All said to be the very flower of the Reform flock.

I wish to call attention to the sad fact that among those of the party on the platform, there was not one who had the grace or thoughtfulness to refer to the meeting being the first one held by the party and which lacked the presence and assistance of Mr. J. R. Stratton. Here is a man—no matter what his faults were—who was a political fighter, and who had borne the banner of the party in many a hard fought fight. Who had given unlimited time, about the same amount of money, who had built up the Reform party in this riding and district, had been the representative and a cabinet minister and a good friend of the city, and there was not one to remember that he is now on a bed of sickness. It would have been only a right thing, and a graceful one as well, and it would have cheered Mr. Stratton to know and be told that he was not forgotten, if a resolution of sympathy had been made and carried.

"Out of house, out of mind," is apparently the motto of the Reform party. Where was Mr. Hartley, or Mr. Rowell, that the moment was let pass.

Yours regretfully,
CITIZEN.

"HOLD THE FORT."

Editor Review,—

Sir,—Is it true that the Rev. Mr. Pogue addressed a political meeting at Young's Point in company with Dan O'Connell and Bob Hall.

Oh what a temperance combination. Imagine them singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," or "Hold the Fort."

Mr. Pogue, you can call it what you wish, but it looks very much like hypocrisy. As you said in the Opera House "Go home and think it over."

Yours truly,
GILGAL.

the eight cows which were to be left on the farm. He also said the defendant sold two head of the cattle, a bull and heifer, by the witness' order and another head of his own account, for which Dewey received $20 and kept it.

The Defendant.

The defendant, Charles W. Dewey, said there was snow on the ground when he visited it on March 19, 1913. The witness claimed the plaintiff had told him thirty acres of the farm had been seeded with timothy and other portions with potatoes. The cows were represented as milch cows but only six produced the "cocktail a la Rowell." The timothy, so the witness claimed, was nothing short of June grass. He sowed 58 acres of oats and barley and the soil yielded only 165 bushels. The ground also refused to spout potatoes. Witness also claimed that Mr. Munroe had agreed to repair the house.

"Why did you not see that such was in the lease?" asked his Honor.

"I did not know what kind of a man—" said witness.

"That's enough of that," said his Honor.

It developed here that the lease was drawn up by Mr. Matheson, who is father-in-law of the witness.

"Surely he should have protected his son-in-law," said Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Goodwill said something about the witness not realizing the lease. He had made a mistake.

His Honor thought that was a lame excuse and asked Mr. Goodwill if he would assume responsibility for mistakes he would make in drawing leases for clients

The witness had been a farmer for 17 years, but was broke last November when he left the farm, because it would not produce.

"If my father-in-law had not taken pity on my wife and myself we would have starved to death," said Dewey.

The witness kept the $20 he secured by the sale of one of the cattle in order to pay some of the debts the farm had run him into.

Cross examined by G. N. Gordon the witness complained that the lease called for 8 cows when it should have read "milch cows." He also complained that the repairs to the house and condition of the soil were also omitted. The lease had been drawn by his father-in-law.

"Did you complain to your father-in-law or Mr. Munroe that the lease was wrong," asked Mr. Gordon.

"No," said the witness.

The witness admitted he was given three turkeys worth $2 each for drawing wood, while he had said before he was not paid for the wood and inserted it in his counter-claim.

The witness had worked a farm at Sterling, but had not made any money out of it, but he refused to admit that the making of no money constituted a financial failure in that case.

The witness added that he did not tell Mr. Munro about the 30 acres being June grass and not timothy until it was time to cut. He said a person could not tell the difference before cutting time.

The potatoes looked good in growth, but the crop was a complete failure.

It was brought out that the straw which the defendant claimed $132 for, was to be left on the farm, so the counter claim was cut down by that point.

Questioned as to the sale of the three head of cattle which brought $80, of which the witness kept $20, he thought he was entitled to that sum by the lease.

The counter claim also included work for drawing manure, but the witness could not say how many loads were drawn. He also claimed damages for repairing the house.

He would have paid what he thought was right if he had the money. He thought about $150 would have been right.

Wm. Matheson, Justice of the Peace at Havelock, testified as to drafting the lease and was asked regarding representations made of soil, etc. He said he was told by Mr. Munroe there were 30 acres of timothy and there were to be 8 milch cows. All the implements were in good repair and it was agreed that the house should be repaired. None of those terms were put in the lease.

Cross examined, witness said he read the terms of the lease over to Dewey and he was acquainted with its contents.

The only new point brought out by Mrs. Dewey's evidence was that their furniture and bed clothing had been ruined by rain which leaked through the roof, and by the tango and turkey wiggles carried on by the hard working bed bug. Her own personal clothing had fallen before the attack of the miniature pest also.

The witness also tried to blame the bug for eating the fur off a fur-lined coat, but his Honor was inclined not to blame all the alleged ravages on the little one, and the moth came in for his share of the blame for eating the fur off the coat.

Wm. Chairn, who formerly owned the farm, said it was a hard one to work. He was on the farm three times last summer and said it was in no condition for the crop.

The court adjourned for lunch at 12.15. The case will be finished this afternoon.

57th REGIMENT OFF TO CAMP

The 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, left yesterday morning, per the C.P.R. for their annual five days' training at Petawawa. The regiment paraded at the armouries at 9 o'clock, when a short divine service was conducted by Canon Davidson. Shortly before 10 o'clock the regiment, some 250 strong, marched to the C.P.R. station and entrained.

Reports received from local men stationed at Petawawa are to the effect that the camp this season is one of the most successful ever held. Only one drawback is the cold weather which is severely felt at night.

Dear Sir:—You would read every word of a letter from a friend; wouldn't you?

We don't believe even your best friend could write you a more important letter than this one.

Several of your hard earned dollars will go for Clothes and Furnishings this season. Oftentimes there's a big difference in the value you get for the dollars you spend, and it's better to find out before you buy where your dollars will go farthest, than to wish you had.

Drop in here, tell us what you would like to see, and we will consider it a privilege to show the goods to you. If it's a suit, you may try them on, stand before the glass and see for yourself how particular we are about every little feature that makes for perfect fitting garments.

You are going to discover that our determination to outdo other stores in point of extreme value-giving this season is going to mean considerable money saved, or increased satisfaction to you. Take our $15 and $18 suits for instance. If you buy one, you'll get more style-value, fit-value and wear-value for the price than you ever did before. And we are selling corresponding values at all prices from $5.90 to $25.00.

But a personal visit to the store is the only way for you to satisfactorily understand what this value-betterment means to you.

Facts Versus Fancies.

Richard Le Gallienne was sympathising with a young writer whose book of poetry had been refused by twelve publishers.

"Real lovers of poetry," said Mr. Le Gallienne, "are unfortunately becoming rare. Too many people nowadays are like the judge.

"This judge was recommended by a poetic friend to read Shelley. The great man of the law said he supposed he ought to read a little poetry, and, having heard so much of Shelley, he would try him.

"'And what do you think of it?' said his friend to the judge after he had waded through a few pages of 'Epipsychidion.' 'Isn't it beautiful?'

"'Well, well—oh, yes. I daresay it is,' said the judge. 'But what I want to know is when are we going to get at the facts?'"—Washington Star.

BORDEN, FOSTER AND BECK ARE KNIGHTED BY THE KING

1905. As a result of his efforts power is distributed under public control from Niagara Falls to many municipalities in Western Ontario at the cost of production and transmission. Sir Adam Beck is also noted for his interest in horse-breeding. He was born at Baden, Ont., June 20, 1857, and in 1898 was married to Lillian, daughter of the late C. J. Ottaway. He was mayor of London, Ont., in 1902, 1903 and 1904. He is a manufacturer with factories in London and Montreal.

Sir James Albert Manning Aikins of Winnipeg represents Brandon, Man., in the House of Commons. He was recently elected president of the Canadian Bar Association, of which he was one of the founders. He was born in Peel County, Ont., on Dec. 10, 1851, of Irish-Canadian parentage. His father, Hon. James Cox Aikins, was appointed a Senator at Confederation and Secretary of State in the administration of Sir John A. Macdonald, in 1882. Sir James was educated at Upper Canada College and the University of Toronto. He is honorary colonel of the 90th Winnipeg Rifles. He has acted in several important capacities for the Dominion Government in the west, and for many years was honorary treasurer of the Manitoba Law Society. He has been a solicitor for the C.P.R. in Winnipeg from its entry there till he resigned to contest Brandon in the Conservative interest in 1911.

Sir Thomas George Roddick, M.D., C.M., was born at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in 1846. He went to Montreal in 1864 and after graduation in medicine at McGill was for six years surgeon of Montreal General Hospital. After holding various offices at McGill he became dean of the faculty of medicine in 1901 and resigned in 1908 to accept the governorship of of McGill University. He was elected to the House of Commons for St. Antoine division of Montreal in 1896 and 1900 as a Conservative. He organized the hospital and ambulance service during the Northwest Rebellion of 1885, and prime mover in organizing the Medical Council of Canada, of which he is now honorary president.

ROTHSCHILD RUINED HIM.

So Dairyman Took Five Shots at Paris Philanthropist.

PARIS, June 22.—Henri de Rothschild was shot and wounded in the leg in front of a boulevard cafe on Saturday night. His assailant was the former owner of a creamery, who, when arrested, declared that he had been ruined by the establishment of M. de Rothschild of a creamery designed for philanthropic purposes.

Five shots were fired by the man, but only one took effect.

Henri de Rothschild is a doctor of medicine, an author of note and a large contributor to charity.

It has not been determined as yet if the reason given by his assailant for the attack is the real one. Dr. de Rothschild has recently established a number of creameries for the use of the poor.

Huge Liner Is Named.

HAMBURG, Germany, June 22.—Emperor William on Saturday conferred the name of Bismarck, chosen by himself, on the third vessel of the Imperator class, which was launched for the service of the Hamburg-American line.

The new steamer is almost an exact reproduction of the Vaterland, but she is six feet longer and has two more boilers. Her plans call for a speed of 22 1-2 knots, but she is expected by her constructors to do better than this.

Drowned at Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 22. — Two young men were drowned Friday afternoon, when a boat, containing a party of six, became upset by the swift current of the St. Lawrence back of St. Helen's Island. The remainder of the party was saved only by the proximity of a Government dredge, which picked them up.

The two victims are Sylvian Gratton and A. Nassa.

Shocking!

Wife—I've discharged the cook, dear. She used such dreadful language this afternoon.

Hub—What kind of language?

Wife—Well—oh, the same kind you use, you know.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Paying Him a Compliment.

"Is that so? What did she say?"

"She was telling another woman that I married you for your money."—Detroit Free Press.

WHAT IS THE BILINGUAL ISSUE?

Whitney Declares English Dominant, Rowell Says "Maybe, But, —"

BID FOR FRENCH VOTE

What is the Bi-lingual Issue?

The Whitney Government has declared through Regulation Seventeen that no French-Canadian child shall be taught more French than is necessary to carry it until it receives a thorough education in the language of the country—which is English.

That regulation has stirred up much bitter hostility to the Whitney Government and brought down on Sir James' head the threats of French-Canadian extremists.

Accepting those threats as a political advantage to himself N. W. Rowell, the Liberal leader, framed an "announcement" on the bi-lingual issue which balances gingerly between any possible offence to either English or French citizens.

Mr. Rowell at New Liskeard, in Nipissing, Glengarry, Russell, Prescott and Essex deliberately told the French-Canadian audiences that he would endeavor to have English taught, but that at all costs the French-Canadian's right to his own mother tongue must be "retained."

On the day following one of these speeches, the Toronto "Globe" came out frankly and admitted that Regulation Seventeen, which upholds English as the dominant language would not bind Rowell should he be returned to power.

Mr. Wilkie, Mr. Rowell's law partner, told the French-Canadians of North Ontario that Rowell would settle the bi-lingual question as Sir Wilfrid Laurier settled the school question.

Only the votes of the people of Ontario stand between Mr. Rowell and the accomplishment of his scheme.

COMING TO MONTREAL.

Hundreds of Huerta's Supporters May Take Refuge There.

MONTREAL, June 22. — Fleeing from the wrath that is bound to come upon them if Huerta should fall and they remain in troublous Mexico, it is likely that hundreds of members and supporters of the Huerta administration will come to the city of Montreal to found a Mexican colony.

A letter has been received by Mr. Higgins of the St. Lawrence Hall from Senor L. M. Rodrigues of Boston, manager of the South American Agricultural Bureau of Information, asking for accommodation for senators, governors and mayors who may have to flee Mexico. The letter asks that one condition be observed, and it is probable that if followers of Huerta do make the hotel their refuge, no Carranzists will be found there.

The St. Lawrence Hall has long been identified with troublous times in America. It was the home of noted confederate refugees during the American Civil War.

Boatman Gives Murder Clue.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., June 22.—A definite clue to the slayer of the girl whose dismembered torso was found in the Mohawk river developed Saturday, when Claude Hanlon, manager of a boat supply house near the scene where the gruesome find was made, declared that a man carrying a burlap bag hired a row-boat from him on the night of May 20. This man before putting out from shore, Hanlon said, picked up from the bank a concrete block similar to the one used to weight down the burlap bag in which the torso of the victim in the sack mystery was found.

Rasmussen For Pole.

COPENHAGEN, June 22.—Ole Olsen, a Danish millionaire, Saturday undertook to finance a new North Pole expedition under the command of Knud Rasmussen, the Danish Arctic explorer. The expedition probably will start for the north next summer and will be provisioned for two years. All possible modern appliances are to be provided and Rasmussen is to have a staff of scientists with him. He will establish his base at Cape York, Greenland.

Bo, Dead After Auto Accident.

TORONTO, June 22.—Leslie Martin, aged 10, of 772 Lansdowne avenue, who was run down on Lansdowne avenue on Thursday night by a motor car driven by Kenneth G. Sinclair of 209 George street, died at the Western Hospital on Saturday as a result of his injuries. The body was removed to the morgue, where Coroner Morgan opened an inquest on Saturday night.

Safety Shoe Lace Knots.

You need never fall downstairs over a trailing shoe lace if you use "Egyptian" knots. Make a tie and begin the bow in the ordinary way, but before you pull down the loops to tighten the finished knot take one loop and one end and pass them through the opening between the flat tie and the not yet tightened bow. Then draw the loops out and the bow will close down securely.

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

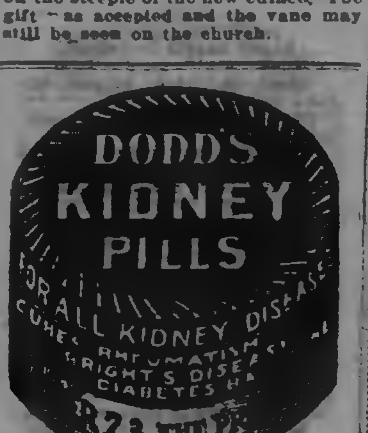
A Curious Vane.

A curious vane is that to be seen on the steeple of a church at Great Gonerby, near Grantham, in England. This vane is in the form of a fiddle and bow and is of unusual size.

An interesting history pertains to the vane. Many years ago, it seems, there resided in Great Gonerby a peasant who eked out a modest livelihood by performing on an old violin, which was almost a part of his life. At last he decided to emigrate to America. He prospered and became quite a rich man. He sent to the clergyman at Great Gonerby a sum sufficient to build a new church. This donation carried one curious condition—that a metal replica of his old fiddle and bow should be placed on the steeple of the new edifice. The gift was accepted and the vane may still be seen on the church.



IS KILLED IN LIONS DEN

Young Cornell Student meets Terrible End

CHICAGO, June 22.—Emerson D. Dietrich, 26, a graduate of Cornell University, was torn to shreds and practically eaten alive last night by five or six lions, whose cage he had entered for the purpose of feeding them.

There were ten lions in the freight car, located on a side track at Sixteenth street and Indiana avenue, in the heart of the city. During the excitement thousands of people were thrown into a panic by the information that some of the lions had escaped and were being pursued by rifle squads from all nearby police stations and the Union Stock Yards.

The ten lions are the property of Mme. Adaine Castillo, who is to open an engagement in a local theatre in July. Keeper McCord, who witnessed the tragedy, said:

"Dietrich went into the den, where six big lions are kept, and I followed him. 'Teddy,' the leader in the attack upon Dietrich, started to play with him, and Dietrich ordered the beast to lie down. Four of the lions were facing him at the time, including 'Teddy.' Almost immediately 'Teddy' slunk around behind Dietrich and in a second was on his back, tearing him and clawing him frightfully. The others then joined in the attack, and what followed was awful—awful."

DE LAVAL 4 BANKERS 6 TYPOS 3 RED CAPS 14

DE LAVAL STOPPED THE BANKERS; RED CAPS HAD SOFT TIME WITH TYPOS

The surprise of the Mercantile League came on Saturday afternoon at the Exhibition Grounds, when the De Laval team took the much desired fall out of the Bankers to the tune of 6-4. The latter outfit were getting too big a start on the remaining teams and the loss Saturday ties up the league again. The credit of the win goes mostly to Bob Carson, the south paw heaver for the De Laval. All through the game he pitched fine ball and in one innings with a man on third and two down he showed good judgment by passing Smith and striking out Sheehy. Taylor behind the bat held "Lefty" to perfection and the rest of the team also gave him air tight support.

Mossy Huycke was in the box for the Bankers but his speed availed but little against the crew from the south. Long who did the receiving, was far from being on and his base-throwing undoubtedly helped to get Huycke's goat. Owing to the late hour at which the game started Umpire Andrews called it at the end of the fifth to allow the Typos and Red Caps to play and as usual the Bankers had a big kick coming. They keep baiting the umpire and the sooner the umps fires a couple of them out of the game the better for himself and the better for the league.

Score by innings:

De Laval	1	1	2	2	0	—6
Bankers	1	1	1	0	1	—4

The teams:—

De Laval:—Taylor c., Carson p., Spratt 1b., English 2b., Callahan s.s., Grieves 3b., Hawley r.f., Kennealley m., Pilling l.f.

Bankers:—Long c., Huycke p., Parsons 1b., Smith 2b., Minorgan s.s., Sheehy 3b., Aikins l.f., Panter m., Paton r.f.

It is to Laugh.

The less said about the second encounter the better. It was easily the most wretched exhibition of ball dished up by the Mercantilers this season and the score, Red Caps 14, Typos 3, tells the tale. In one way the Typos management is to blame for not having men to play the game. Four of the men were not around when the game was first called and and when the teams finally took the field two of the men were still missing. Jack Pilling consented to picking a pair from the crowd.

The Red Caps fell on O'Connell for further orders and hit him almost at will. Some of the hits should have been pulled down but the team behind him was rank. Ernie Rahmel started on the firing line for the Red Caps but as soon as things commenced looking soft he gave way to Heenan. The latter is no pitcher but had no trouble in getting by the newspaper men.

The teams:—

Machine Shop:—Swanson c., Rahmel p., m., Breckenreid 1b., Flaherty 2b., Kendry s.s., Primeau 3b., McDougal l.f., Heenan, m., p., O'Hearne r.f.

Typos:—Ross c., O'Connell p., Henry 1b., Moore 2b., Henley s.s., Butcher 3b., Milloy l.f., Taylor m., Henderson r.f.

COMMENT

As You Like It

The official clouting averages up until June 15, as compiled by President James P. Fitzgerald and his staff, show Kelly Harris out in front in the batting line with an average of .386. Haeffner of Hamilton is next with .370, while Kustus of St. Thomas, who led the league up to May 6 is third, with .354. Welsh is the leading Pete with .328, while Kelly has hit for .324. Shaeffer, last year's league leader, is hitting .324. Trout, the former Pete, is hitting .324 also. Stewart is hitting .305.

Auld of Toronto, leads the hurlers with four wins and no losses. Heck of London has seven wins and one loss.

The Petes suffered a rather disastrous ending to their road winning streak when Rube Deneau's Brants grabbed both ends of a double bill in the Telephone City Saturday. The bump was inevitable. A team cannot go on wining games in rows of five or six without being brought to a stop and usually in such cases the winning team is checked by a mighty quick pull up. However the Petes have shown the circuit fans that although they are tail enders they will be fighting all the way. Today a three game series with the Brants commences at 4.15. Following the Brants, Gabby Midge Craven will invade the burg with his St. Thomas battlers.

The fans have every reason to boost the club along as no club in the league has displayed such a fine reversal of form as the Petes have. In their first twenty-four games the locals hit .208 as a team. In their next twelve games, the twelfth of which was played last Thursday they boosted that little .208 to .226 which by the way is some jump. The club has also boosted its fielding average by two points and now shows a percentage of .938. The increase in the artillery line shows that the wins were by no means fluky ones but were the result of good baseball as the other clubs in the league have not displayed any material falling off in either line. Toronto, Ottawa, Erie and Brantford have lost a point or so. The most noticeable falling off in hitting is shown by the London club which dropped from .264 to .253 which bears out the contention that the Cockneys went at their highest speed during the first two or three weeks of the schedule when the Petes bucked them on nine occasions.

All the clubs are endeavoring to strengthen up. Ottawa is casting about for pitchers while Hamilton has signed Cunningham who held down second for the Montreal Internationals. Kroy who was with the Toronto Internationals has been sent to the Beavers in an effort to plug up the infield while Lee has also signed Walsh of Brooklyn and Hunt a University infielder from Everett School, Mass. Doc Reisling of the Cockneys has signed Osburn the catcher who showed such good form with Galt in the Wobbly League. He is also angling for Farquhar who is with Stratford in the same league. Danford will likely be released if Osborn makes good and Farquhar will try to shove Mullin off third.

Ban Johnson says that when a ball player commences to consider money he loses his usefulness. Ban is evidently peeved at the continuous threats of the Feds. Kindly note that Tyrus Cobb is playing just as good as he ever did and is just as good a drawing card as before even if he did demand and receive a salary boost. President Gilmore has a come back to Johnson's statement "to let the jumpers go." Gilmore says that for years organized ball has held the players in a state of peonage while owners amassed large fortunes. Gilmore is about right when you take into consideration that Murphy of the Cubs is a millionaire while previous to organized ball he was a stingy salaried newspaperman. No doubt Murphy had brains, but so have some of the ball players. Also take notice that Ban Johnson receives a salary far in excess to that received by the heads of America's huge corporations. If a man who has the power to suspend and reinstate players, boss umpires and arbitrate disputes is worth that much, how much is a star player worth?

Leave it to London to invent something new. The latest is a proposed trip by the London and Ottawa teams to England. Perish the thought.

NEW GUN RECORD

LONDON, June 22.—A new record with a 9.2-in. gun, the heaviest in England's coast defence, has been made by the men of the Royal Garrison Artillery, under Col. Hiblyn, in the Western Forts, Isle of Wight. They made nine hits with ten rounds at a range of nearly 8,000 yards.

ONLY TWO WERE LOST IN WRECK

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—Thirty-three persons were on board the excursion steamer Majestic when it sank in the Mississippi river near here early Saturday, and of these two were unaccounted for, a watchman and a deck hand. The others either swam ashore, were taken off in lifeboats, of which the steamer carried six, or found safety on the upper deck, which remained above water.

CANNOT GET THE BODIES

DEATH OF DIVER STOPS WORK ON HULL OF EMPRESS

QUEBEC, June 23.—All attempts to get the 800 bodies entombed in the sunken hull of the Empress of Ireland were abandoned yesterday following the conference between Lieut. Commander Forbes of H. M. S. Essex and the divers of the man of war at the scene of the wreck as a result of the death of Edward Cossbon of New York, on Sunday from his fall off the slimy hull of the ship.

Lieut. Commander Forbes reached Father Point yesterday and his investigation showed that the accident happened while the water was at low level, that every precaution for deep sea diving operations was properly carried out and that no better conditions for carrying on the work could be expected.

Lieut. Commander Forbes notified Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the C. P. R. of these facts and suggested that the divers from the Essex be sent back to their ship here.

Captain Walsh reluctantly decided that everything possible had been done to secure the bodies. The divers were accordingly ordered to return to their ship.

This decision of the C. P. R. does not affect the operations of the company attempting to salvage the ship, but it is thought here that it will also be compelled to give up diving operations.

GREAT AD. CONVENTION

Clubs of America Assemble 4000 Strong

TORONTO, June 23. — Efficiency, Truth and Service were the words that struck the keynote in the addresses at the opening of the tenth annual convention of the Associated Ad. Clubs of America at Exhibition Park yesterday morning. Before a gathering of 4,000 men, which signalized at once the latest advance in the art of publicity and a demand for advertising integrity, President William Woodhead of San Francisco called the great meeting to order at ten o'clock.

The formal proceedings were of a specially felicitous character, and expression of international amity, cordial co-operation and a striving for even higher ideals were given by each speaker. Great Britain, France, Germany, Switzerland, far-off Japan and China have their direct representatives here.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED AT COUNTY COURT

Action for Recovery of $225 as Rent

A COUNTER CLAIM

The action of Daniel Munroe vs. Chas. W. Dewey for the recovery of $225 due as rent for a farm and a counter claim by the defendant for damages for alleged misrepresentation of the soil of the farm and stock, was concluded in the county court yesterday afternoon when Judge Huycke reserved judgment in order to interpret legal authorities on the questions of law involved. The afternoon was taken up in argument by the counsel and the submission of evidence for the plaintiff against the counter claim. G. N. Gordon who acted for the plaintiff called witnesses who denied the defendant's allegations that certain promises had been made before the lease was signed. E. L. Goodwill acted for the defendant.

During Mr. Gordon's argument a peculiar point of law was brought up. Mr. Gordon claimed that the owner of an unfurnished house could not be held liable for damages for any virmin such as bed bugs, etc., which might be in the house as was claimed by Mr. Dewey. If the house was furnished he was liable. In this case it was an unfurnished house which was involved.

Speaking of the point Judge Huycke said, "Then if a house is unfurnished it may not be unpopulated."

Several legal authorities on the law involved in the action were cited by the counsel for both parties and it is those that his honor will look into before rendering judgment.

EMPRESS WAS FAR FROM WHERE CAPTAINS SAY COLLISION OCCURRED

Storstad Was Not Speeding In the Hope of Getting a Bonus

QUEBEC, June 23. — Maintaining its record for producing contradictory and statements that cannot be reconciled to one another the Empress of Ireland Wreck Inquiry yesterday unearthed a fact when it was given the exact location of the hull of the liner on the bottom of the St. Lawrence, which again drew attention to the different explanations of the positions of the ships at the time of the disaster. On the map it was found that the resting place of the Empress is one mile and a quarter south of the place where Captain Kendall, the commander, says he was hit, and one mile north-west of the point at which Chief Officer Tuftenes of the collier Storstad contends the collision happened. The location of the wreck was explained by Captain Gagnon of the Dominion Marine Department, who buoyed it.

The taking of evidence was interrupted twice yesterday because the members of the committee and the lawyers for the Government, C. P. R., and Storstad had to attend a reception given to the Duke of Connaught in the courthouse and a luncheon given to the duke by Justice Lemieux and the Quebec district judges in the Chateau Frontenac.

In the morning an effort was made to get further details about the operation of the Storstad from Chief Officer Tuftenes, who had filed his scrap and deck log books. The attempt was temporarily abandoned, because it was discovered that like the engineer's log, a number of important facts had been written up after an interval of some hours, and the officer was hurried off to Montreal for the memoranda he had made at the time the orders were issued. One important fact came out and that was that the first officer, who was in charge of the collier immediately before the collision, was not told by his third officer, Jacob Saxe, that he had put the helm hard aport when the ship failed to respond to the port helm ordered.

In the afternoon a quietus was given to the suggestions made in questions asked during the enquiry that the Storstad was speeding because the officers and crew got a bonus for a quick passage. G. P. McIsaac, general manager of the Dominion Coal Co., which chartered the ship, said that while gratuities were given, they went to ships carrying the most tonnage, speed not being considered.

The cause of the tremendous inrush of water into the punctured hull of the Empress was again obviously the motive for a number of questions asked by Lord Mersey of William Moir, a night-watchman on the Empress, who was examined as to how many portholes were left open. This witness could supply no definite information, the presumption was left that the night being fine and the river calm, many of them were not closed, and that when the list grew great the flow of water through the hole in the hull was augmented by the rush through the cabin portholes.

Storstad To Be Auctioned.

MONTREAL, June 23. — Justice Dunlop, in the Admiralty Court, here yesterday, with the consent of both parties, ordered the sale by auction of the collier Storstad, which rammed and sank the Empress of Ireland near Father Point, on May 29.

THE ABOLITION OF BARS WOULD NOT BRING SOLUTION OF QUESTION

"The Bars Not So Much a Menace as the Shops," Says Rev. Benj. Spence

At a meeting of the Committee on political action on February 26th, 1913, the Rev. Benj. Spence, Secretary of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, and the man on whom Mr. Rowell relied to deliver him the temperance vote in aid of the Liberal party, said:

> "The abolition of the Bars would not be a solution of the question, and would merely have an ameliorative effect. The Bars are not so much a menace as the shops, which form a depot of supply for local option territory and blind pigs."

How does this coincide with the platform of Rowell?

WESLEY WHITE'S FATHER ASKS $1000 DAMAGES; LAD LOST EYE IN EXPLOSION

The sequel to the unfortunate accident which resulted in Wesley White of Campbellford losing an eye by the explosion of a dynamite cap a few weeks ago will be heard at the next regular session of the county court. In a writ which G. N. Gordon issued this morning on behalf of Wesley White, an infant, and his father, Wm. White, the plaintiffs ask for damages to the extent of $1,000 from Thomas Simpson, Luman Jordan and William Jordan. Simpson is the contractor who had charge of the dynamiting operations, and who is said to have left the cap unprotected which young White secured, while the Jordans are owners of the property on which the blasting operations were being carried on.

To Recover Balance.

Mr. Gordon issued another county court writ on behalf of A. W. Archibald in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $193.75, representing the balance due for services rendered and goods supplied under contract.

EVIDENCE AS TO CAPTAINS

Marine Superintendent Questioned on Promotion System

Canadian Press Despatch.

Quebec, June 23.—Capt. Walsh, Canadian Pacific Marine Superintendent, was the first witness at the enquiry this morning. Questioned about the promotion system in the C.P.R., he said the command of the Empress was the highest in service and the captain of one of them was paid eight hundred and fifty pounds a year. Seniority was not the only qualification. There were older captains in the service than Captain Kendall. The more efficient men got the better commands. It was impressed on the captains that they must take no risks where so many lives were concerned, and the ability to make trips on schedule time was not a factor in estimating a captain's efficiency.

SMITH ELECTORS GIVE SODEN A FINE MEETING

Candidate Doubts Rowell's Ability to Abolish the Bar — Some of His Own Party Are Dissenters—Why Leave Out the Shop?

Mr. R. J. Soden spoke last night before a large and enthusiastic meeting at the Temperance Hall, in Smith. The chairman was Mr. Chas. Moore.

Mr. H. P. Lindsay, who assisted the Conservative candidate at this meeting, pointed to the utter lack of enforcement of the liquor laws under the Ross Government and he read extracts from the Montreal Witness, the Pioneer and other papers, which spoke very highly of the legislation along temperance lines, passed by the Whitney Government and the rigid enforcement of the law.

He also bore testimony to the good and effective work done for prohibition by the Conservative candidate and quoted the Liberal paper of his own home town in regard to his worth as a citizen and a man.

Mr. Soden on rising took a few minutes in which to deal with the statement made by Mr. Lindsey of Toronto, at Mr. Rowell's meeting to the effect that all the Christian ministers of the province were backing Rowell and showed how false was that statement.

He then dealt with Mr. Gillespie's question to himself as printed in the Examiner, and his answer to the same.

Taking up Mr. Rowell's promise to "abolish the bar," he showed that he could only do as the men behind him allowed him to do, and went over the list of nominees of the Liberal party, showing that several of them were opposed to the Rowell policy, while many of them were not total abstainers and still more were making little or no declaration on the "abolish the bar" policy.

He then made his plea for the inclusion of the shop license with the bar and club licenses, and showed that there was no good reason for leaving it out, but many urgent reasons for including it.

The meeting which was deeply attentive throughout and enthusiastic at the close of Mr. Soden's address, was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and cheers for Whitney. The crowd cheering for the candidate as the autos rolled away from the hall.

SOME BERRIES

Monsters From Garden of Mrs. J. W. Lillico

Strawberries come and strawberries go but prunes live on forever but very few strawberries come such as those grown by Mrs. J. W. Lillico of Homewood Avenue. This morning Mrs. Lillico presented the hungry element of the Review with a box of strawberries, which were as big as baseballs. One of the berries measured six inches in circumference while the others were close seconds. The crop is said to be a record one in point of size for this district.

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JUNE 23, 1914

AN UNWISE DEPARTURE.

ON SUNDAY a number of ministers in Ontario preached not sermons but campaign speeches. The presence of what they are pleased to term a moral issue was the excuse for this unusual departure from established custom. No doubt the ministers in question believed they were doing right, or at least the cause for which they spoke deserved such support. The wisdom of their action is, however, distinctly questionable if history has any teaching for living men.

Time was when the church said what course was to be followed in state as well as in religious affairs, and when its dictums were enforced by all the great powers which it exercised. High churchmen were at one time the great political leaders, largely because learning was confined to students looking forward to clerical orders. Thomas a Beckett, Richelieu, Mazarin, were masters of politics, but the combination of religious authority and temporal power was disastrous for the church and for truth, because it led to the burning of dissenters, by both Catholic and Protestant orders, to massacres of Huguenots in France and to the atrocities in Calvinistic Geneva. Even in America, readers of Hawthorne or of the early history of the Puritan New England colonies, will recall how several old women were burned as witches, others were imprisoned and many deprived of their rights as citizens because their views did not coincide with what the Puritan Fathers claimed was the law of God. Doubtless they thought they were doing right, that the presence of a moral issue necessitated drastic action. But were they experts in what the truth was? Those who burned their fellow citizens because of their different faith, would railroad people into Paradise in spite of them. They would make everybody be good whether they would or no. They said what was right, others who differed were wrong. To avoid such barbarities, church and state have been separated and progress has been greater and the truth more broadly unfolded because of it.

Apply this to the present campaign. These ministers believe their position right. But they go farther and would make others do as they do. They would reclaim men from drunkenness by legislation at one swoop. There is, so to speak, no other side to their argument. They are experts in what is right as the Puritans were of yore. Most people are agreed that the evils of the liquor traffic need to be fought, but the great difficulty is what method to use. The fact that there are several ways of attacking this problem, that it is in party politics which admits differences of solution, should deter preachers from going on the party platform in this contest or any political contest of this nature. They should consider seriously whether their action on behalf of one party will be interpreted as a revival of ecclesiastical tyranny. There is this difference, however, between the present day case and those of other times in that the elector does not have to do with his ballot as his minister would have him.

A REMINDER.

THE HAMILTON HERALD (Independent) gives the Rowell shouters a little plain reminder when it says:

> "There are several ways of abolishing the bar. Those who are shouting for Mr. Rowell's, as though it were the only way, could have got every bar in Hamilton abolished long ago if they could have induced a sufficient number of people to vote that way. And they can dot it any time without further legislation. This fact is ignored by many good people."

MORE FOR TEMPERANCE.

SOME PEOPLE are saying that the Conservatives have gone as far as they will in temperance legislation, that so far as the Whitney Government is concerned, it is at a standstill. This is entirely untrue. The Whitney Government has by no means gone as far as it will in the cause of temperance. At the South Oxford Conservative convention Hon. W. J. Hanna made this plain statement:

> "Let me say to the temperance people in the Conservative party, and outside of it, because that includes 90 per cent. of the people of this province who are anxious to see everything done that can be done to minimize the evil of the liquor traffic, that the end is not yet, and from time to time the Government of Sir James Whitney will go on passing progressive measures as time may prove them to be right, in order to minimize the evils of the traffic. Exactly what form that legislation will take I cannot say. We have never during political campaigns announced what our legislation would be, but came on the floor of the House, stated what our position was, and before that session rose, that becomes law, and so it will be, and it will always be in that direction of further reduction of the evils of the traffic in Ontario."

The statement of the Hon. W. J. Hanna is that of a progressive, efficient policy in dealing with the liquor question. It shows that the Conservative party will try to move with temperance sentiment at all times, and that it will enforce what it passes and fulfill what it promises.

PROOF OF THAT "ALLIANCE."

IN THAT PHARISAIC tone that pervades nearly every Liberal speaker and writer in this campaign, it is proclaimed that the Whitney Government is "in alliance with the liquor interests." Why? Simply because they do not drop every idea they ever had on permanent temperance advance and snap up Mr. Rowell's policy. The Whitney Government is denounced as utterly hostile to temperance principles simply because they do not choose to throw overboard a policy that was legislated to curb the liquor traffic in nine different sessions and cheer for the new-found policy of a party that hopes by the movement to swerve enough "temperance Conservatives" to regain office.

In alliance with the liquor interests? Queer friends, then, that cut off on the first of August the bars in Huron and Peel counties that could have remained in business under the Canada Temperance Act until the first of April next.

In alliance with the liquor interests? Why then, the movement that compelled local councils to submit a local option vote on a sufficiently signed petition?

In alliance with the liquor interests? Why then the practice of the Provincial Secretary to refuse licenses in every municipality where the proper majority was secured, but the by-law voided on a technicality?

In alliance with the liquor interests? Why then the spending of $236,630 since 1907 for special services in the enforcement of the liquor license law when the party that Mr. Rowell supported to the end spent a paltry $4,188 in fifteen years, or $30,000 a year by Sir James Whitney to prove his temperance principles to less than $300 a year by Mr. Rowell and his old associates, or over $100 to $1.

In alliance with the liquor interests?

The men who make this statement on the public platform know they speak falsely.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

ALL CANADA is pleased with the recognition accorded prominent Canadians in the King's birthday honours. They were all deserving men. Particularly so were Premier Right Hon. R. L. Borden, the Hon. SOUTH RENFREW Liberals have so far failed to get a candidate to oppose T. W. McGarry. They are no worse off than the Liberals of South Norfolk or Kenora, or Frontenac, or Addington, or half a dozen other constituencies, where there is no Liberal candidate, and no chance of one.—Toronto Mail and Empire. Yet some say Rowell will abolish the bar. He must first get a majority and the forecast is against him.

ACCORDING to the Department of Trade and Commerce's weekly trade report, the demand for Canadian oats is constantly increasing. At the present time the openings in Cuba for Canadian oats surpass the supply. A large number of Cuban brokers are constantly asking for Canadian offers on this commodity.

The Mount Forest representative recalls that in the election in which the iniquitous Ross Government was overthrown, Mr. Rowell spoke at a public meeting in Mount Forest on behalf of Hon. J. M. In Muskoka the Canada Temperance Act (Scott Act) was beaten although a straight majority would have carried it. Clearly, Muskoka is not ripe for local prohibition, and it would be a mistake to attempt to enforce it there. But mark: If Mr. Rowell triumphs at the polls, prohibition will be thrust upon Muskoka against the will of the majority of the people there.

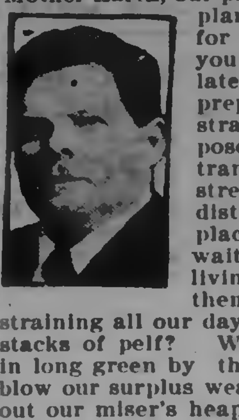
MOURNFUL MUSINGS

By Walt Mason



A few short years of grief and mirth, and we go back to Mother Earth, our play and labor done, no more to struggle or to plan, no more to do our fellow man, or hustle for the mon. An epitaph upon a stone will tell you where we sleep alone, and other things relate: "As I am now, so you must be, therefore prepare to follow me, and get your shroud on straight." Full soon, my friends, we shall repose, oblivious to human woes, and all men's transient schemes; the clamor of the busy street, the thundering of countless feet, will not disturb our dreams. Out in the silent resting place, each gent, in his own packing case, shall wait the judgment dawn; and he's in luck if living men shall mow the weeds down now and then, and mourn that he is gone. So why be straining all our days to get the best of other jays, and pile up stacks of pelf? Why scratch so bitterly and hard to get in long green by the yard, why let our god be Self? Oh, let us blow our surplus wealth for others' happiness and health, shell out our miser's heap, and when we die, some day in June, the stores will close all afternoon, to let employes weep.

FEDERAL GRANT FOR FUND.

Premier Borden Promises $50,000 to Help Hillcrest Mine Sufferers.

OTTAWA, June 23. — Sir Robert Borden stated yesterday afternoon that he sent a message to Senator Lougheed in Calgary asking if a relief committee had been appointed in connection with the Hillcrest disaster, and intimating that the Government was prepared to contribute $50,000 to help the families of the unfortunate coal miners.

While the safety of mines is a matter for provincial jurisdiction, and the investigation into the calamity will be made by the Alberta authorities, the Department of Labor and the Department of Mines will both be represented at the inquiry.

The Mines Department has sent J. S. C. Hudson, an experienced official, to report on the facts as brought out at the inquiry and the cause of the accident. J. D. McNven will represent the Labor Department at the inquiry.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

One of the charges continuously brought against the machine was that it was colonizing floaters in lodging houses in the low, thickly-populated river wards. Durken even admitted it when Wright asked about it, and several days later suggested a tour of inspection. The blood of the star reporter warmed in the editor's veins. The idea was tantalizing. It was one of those stories a good man would sacrifice half a year's salary to handle.

Without saying anything to anyone, the owner of the News thought of the expedition for several days. The more he thought of it, the more it appealed to him. The more it appealed to him the less was the likelihood of his considering the axiom that in battle it is a general's duty not to get hurt. In fact, the thought of physical injury did not occur to him. He was a stranger to Belmont, no one knew him, and in the daytime there was no danger.

When Wright finally decided to investigate personally it was only a few days before the election. He determined that he would wander down into the first ward two days before the votes were cast to gather material for his story. The next afternoon, just on the eve of the election, his final attack on the machine would be an expose of ring methods of handling vagabond voters imported for the occasion.

This programme was being carried out as originally planned, notwithstanding the break with Gloria the previous day, when Wright was induced to go through Noonan's "hotel." Here, deserted by Durken, who had been his guide, he had fallen into the hands of Turkey Ryan and Buck Kelly.

Although dazed by the unexpectedness of the attack, he had nevertheless managed to give a good account of himself. The cramped attic quarters in which they had fought had been in his favor. The two bruisers had been surprised by what a scientific boxer could do in a rough-and-tumble fight. To the momentary indecision resulting from his good defense Wright owed his escape from the room in which he had been trapped.

A stinging blow having taken all the fight out of Kelly, he lurched and fell forward against the door just as the newspaper man had managed to elude his assailants for the instant and slip out of the room. Forced to minister to his companion, Turkey Ryan had lost many valuable seconds before he could take up the pursuit. It was during this respite that Wright, groping blindly for the stair, had tripped and fallen, to be found unconscious by Gloria in front of Little Ella's door.

No one ever knew exactly what had taken place in Noonan's lodging house that afternoon in early spring. Returning from the mission with Dr. Norton, Mrs. Hayes was surprised to find the door of the Windermere woman's room fastened from within. When no response greeted her knock, surprise gave way to alarm, and she called upon Dr. Norton to aid her in opening the door. Gloria had not fastened it as securely as she had thought, and it required no great strength on the part of the physician to force it open.

Gloria was removed to Mrs. Hayes' home in a carriage as soon as she was revived. Little Ella, in a semi-conscious, delirious state, was hurried to the city hospital in a police ambulance. An examination having shown that Wright had sustained no serious injury, as soon as he regained consciousness he was taken to his own apartment.

David Kerr was not allowed to see his daughter. Although the exact nature of the shock to which she had been subjected was not known, since both Kelly and Ryan had disappeared, yet the physicians did not think it best in her nervous condition for her to see even her father. The following day she remained in bed, speaking never a word, busy with her own thoughts. The next day, that of the election, she dressed, but did not leave her room.

When it was seen that Gloria was under the cloud of a settled melancholy, there was debate how best to minister to her. Her very silence made the problem more perplexing. She uttered never a word by which they might pluck out the heart of the mystery. Strange as it may seem, she did not even ask about Joe Wright. She did, however, read the morning and afternoon papers carefully. In neither was there any reference to an attack on the editor. As her mind beat upon the bars of its new iron cage, it sufficed her to know that all must be well with him.

Joe Wright's injuries were not of a serious nature, yet it was thought best that he remain at home for several days. By means of the telephone and through the men who came to the house he edited the News the day previous to election. Over the same telephone line came the cheering news the next night that the dominant party had been defeated. David Kerr's rule had been broken.

Nothing of a personal nature had been allowed to help contribute to this success. No mention had been made in the News of the assault on its editor in Mike Noonan's lodging house, because to Wright it had appeared as a personal matter. The day previous Gloria had denounced him and cried aloud for vengeance. He recognized that had Gloria not been mixed up in the affair the result might have been the same, but the personal element was what made him hold his peace.

The news that the day had been carried for good government was only a temporary intoxicant. There were a few moments of exhilaration when his real feelings were submerged in the general rejoicing that David Kerr had been given a more severe set-back than he had ever before received. Then came the ebb of the tide, leaving him on the desolate shore of disheartening uncertainty. The past was a nightmare and the future a blank.

The tumult and the cheers had died away, the brass bands at last were stilled, his sitting-room with two windows on the street and its own private entrance had been cleared of tobacco smoke, and the reception he had held when it was learned the election had gone his way was at an end, when Joe Wright sat himself down alone in the quiet of the first hours of the morning to take stock of his future.

Gloria? What of her?

It was always Gloria, Gloria, Gloria, running through his mind, knocking at the door of his heart.

Always of the Gloria who had spurned him, he thought, for he knew nothing of the part she had played in the lodging house. It was not a situation to contemplate with equanimity—this living in the same town with the woman he loved madly. Were Belmont of some size, a city like St. Louis or Pittsburgh, there would be the probability that their paths would seldom cross. Yet in Belmont everyone knew everyone else and never a week passed but what they all met at least in passing.

It would be impossible for him to avoid Gloria altogether. He was frank enough to acknowledge to himself that he would undoubtedly seek those places where there would be some certainty of his meeting her. To be in the same town with her meant that he could not give her up. Yet he knew that any overtures he might make would be worse than useless. He felt that her prejudice was such that there could never be established that bond without which matrimony is unholy. The ruffled pool may again be calm, the misted mirror may again be clear, yet he believed in her ignorance she would feel that when two hearts but once have broken troth there is no alchemy that love distills can make the past to live again and the dead present as though it had not been.

The harder he tried to fight against his conviction of what he should do, the more Wright was convinced that there was but one course for him to pursue: it would be best for him to leave Belmont. This would be not for a week or a month, but for all time. It would be necessary for him to dispose of the paper, but this he could do through a broker. He was quite willing to let it go at a sacrifice, to lose what he had himself put into it, so anxious was he to escape from Belmont in search of that magical flower, heart's-ease.

Having made up his mind, Wright went to bed, but not to sleep. The few remaining hours of darkness he rolled and tossed. It was not the bruises he had received in the fight at Noonan's that kept him awake, annoying as they were. It was always the one thought—Gloria, Gloria, Gloria.

Check those Colds in the Head with FOSSAL BALM

As you know, "catching a cold" simply means allowing the germs of a cold to catch you.

Usually these germs, which abound wherever people congregate, gain their first foothold in the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages. Here they multiply if unchecked, and quickly set up an inflammation. Then follows that smarting, burning, stuffed up, "headachy" feeling—that cold in the head that is so depressing and so likely to develop into something more serious.

Fossal Balm goes right to the spot, kills the germs and checks the cold. Fossal Balm is an antiseptic, healing ointment, put up in a collapsible tube with a long, nozzle-shaped opening. This little nozzle, inserted in the nostril, carries the Fossal Balm well up into the passage, where it quickly spreads over the inflamed membrane, destroys the germs that are causing the trouble, soothes the irritation, clears the passages, and gives grateful and lasting relief.

Get a 50c tube of Fossal Balm from your Druggist or write for it direct to us. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal. 4

A BLOOMER SEASON.

They Replace the Petticoat on the Smart Woman's Toilet.

It seems an established fact now that the bloomer is going to replace the petticoat this season. With the ultra narrow skirts which are in vogue even one petticoat is utterly superfluous, and any woman will find that there is nothing really any more comfortable to wear than the long bloomers of softest crepe de chine, messaline or liberty silk. These three materials mentioned go well with the afternoon gown, while for evening wear much more diaphanous ones of chiffon or mousseline are stylish.

The reign of the petticoat has been a long and undisputed one, and it is not likely that it will allow itself to be eclipsed without some sign of struggle. It isn't so many years ago that four and five petticoats were worn, all of them sturdy and substantial and warranted to wear at least a couple of seasons.

Then later came the vogue of the taffeta skirt, the stiff taffeta which could be heard a block away and which was always judged, in fact, by the amount of noise that it made. This did not last so long—it was too inartistic. Afterward came the long, silky affair which clung under the narrow outside skirt and which even now has not relinquished its hold on the affections of a part of the feminine public. This is the rival now of the bloomer.

Time will tell just how complete the victory of the bloomers is. There are those who claim that by next fall every one will be wearing them. There are those, on the other hand, that declare that no such extreme style can hold public favor for any length of time.

HER LITTLE SON WAS DYING

Gave Him "Fruit-a-tives" And Saved His Life.

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th. 1913.

"Our little boy, Lawrence, was sorely affected with Chronic Indigestion, and the doctor did not think he would recover. He started with a sore mouth and it developed into this other trouble. Everything he ate just passed right through the system without change. He cried incessantly and life was a misery to him. My husband had been using "Fruit-a-tives" for Indigestion, getting much benefit from them, and I thought what did him good, might help our boy. We tried "Fruit-a-tives" giving Lawrence ½ a tablet at a dose, and the result was marvellous. Today, he is the picture of health, and he is perfectly well".

Mrs. Thomas J. Walsh Supports a New Movement.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing.

MRS. THOMAS J. WALSH.

Mrs. Thomas J. Walsh, wife of the senator from Montana, is supporting a movement which deserves to be very popular. It is known as the "see America first" movement, and the name is self explanatory. The idea occurred to Mrs. Walsh when Secretary Lane of the department of the interior recently named one of the most beautiful lakes in Glacier National park in honor of the wife of President Wilson. This beautiful lake lies in the bowl of the mountains among the snow peaks where the continental divide runs through the famous park. It is 5,976 feet above sea level and among scenery unsurpassed in the world. There are several hundred of these mountain lakes in Glacier park, and Mrs. Walsh is anxious that they should be named in honor of famous living American women.

Mrs. Walsh is interesting women's clubs and individual women in the campaign. American women should know more about the scenery of America than they do. The movement may interest them in seeing America thoroughly before hurrying abroad to see landscapes that are inferior and enduring discomforts and inconveniences they would not tolerate at home. Possibly a better knowledge of their own country will enable them to appreciate its greatness and make them more patriotic citizens. There is absolutely no politics, suffrage or other special bias to the movement. The object is primarily to honor distinguished American women by giving their names to beauty spots in the national parks.

Not to Blame.

"My dear, there's too much caloric in this soup."

"There! I told the cook you would rather have it seasoned with parsley."—Baltimore American.

Points for Mothers

When Baby Cries.

A child does not cry or scream just for the love of it. If your baby has fits of screaming without any apparent cause you would do well to diagnose the trouble by going over him carefully to see if his clothing is making him uncomfortable in any way.

If the crying precedes or follows feeding he is likely to be hungry or troubled with colic or indigestion. If these are not the reasons you may find that he is crying to be taken up or demanding some object that he desires, having learned by previous experience he can obtain if he yells long and loud enough.

The sooner he realizes that he can accomplish nothing by screaming the better it will be for mother and the child. If he has acquired the habit it can only be overcome by firmness, patience and some suffering on the part of the mother.

It may be that this crying is caused by an intensely nervous condition due to too rapid growth of the brain. We must remember it grows as much the first year as during all the rest of its life. The child should be kept perfectly quiet, see few people and not be played with. In fact, exciting it in any way must be avoided.

Eggs an Ideal Food.

Eggs are ideal food for children as well as grownups. There is a large proportion of iron in the yolk, also fat. Thus the blood and the bones are strengthened. The white of egg contains albumen, which is most valuable as a flesh former. There are just a few people who can never digest eggs. Some young children become sick after eating them, but they generally grow out of it. As a rule, it is the white which disagrees. Try giving the child the yolk only for a time. Never give fried eggs to little ones. Boil or poach them. To cook an egg without hardening the white place it in boiling water, cover it, then lift the saucepan back from the fire at once. Let it stand for eight minutes. The white becomes like a jelly and is easily digested.

Rash on Child.

Teething babies often are afflicted with rash. The mother should be most careful as to diet. Give a dose of castor oil to clear the system. Then twice a day your baby should have a little fluid magnesia until the rash has gone. To allay the irritation put a tablespoonful of carbonate of soda in his bath.

CAN WE TRUST MR. ROWELL ?

Editor Review,

Sir,—I take second place to no man in my stand on the temperance question. I have a conscience and my conscience is as sacred to me as the conscience of Mr. Cowan is to him, or the reverend gentlemen who advertise their consciences so publicly. Yet sir I venture to state that I mistrust Mr. Rowell. I ask sir of every fellow elector who has not lost his head over Rowell this pertinent question : "Can we trust Mr. Rowell ?"

Previous to 1905 when Ross and Rowell went out of office any child could be supplied with liquor from any liquor dealer, on the written order of his parent. All the years Ross and Rowell were in power, children went to the liquor dealers in this province, with an order from their parents, and they were supplied with liquor. If I had space Mr. Editor what a picture could be drawn of these days. Rowell uses the slogan now "The Bottle or the Boy," when he and his leader held office it was then "The Bottle and the Boy." Rowell never lifted a finger. Why, sir, did he not save the boy previous to 1905 ? Where did he stand then on the question, his own question, "The Bottle or the Boy ?" He certainly told us in the Opera House that on us rested the responsibility, on our consciences were laid the charge of saving the boy. Where was his conscience in the long years he and his leader were in power. When the boy went to the bar night after night and Rowell and Ross stood by. Had he no vision of his mission, of his duty to the boy in those dark days? This is one of the reasons, sir, why I as a level headed temperance man ask "Can we temperance people trust Mr. Rowell ?" It is all right now when he is out of office, and wants to get in, to raise the cry "Save the boy," and tell us of our duty. He did not save the boy when he had every chance to save him. He did not do his duty when he had the God-given opportunity for many years to do his duty.

Again twice during the Ross Government the electors by their vote at a plebiscite asked for advanced temperance legislation, the very advanced temperance legislation, Rowell is so anxious to pass now. Did they get it ? The answer can easily be found, quite easily found. They did not get it, though they waited over twenty years for it. Where did Rowell stand then in these days. He was in the Government then. Did he tell his leader what a curse the liquor trade was ? Did he plead for the boy, he so eloquently pleads for now? Again, my temperance friends I tell you, you can easily find out. He did nothing in all those years, said nothing in all those years, about the very platform he has so very much to say about now. This, sir, is another reason why I say in all seriousness and earnestness to my fellow temperance workers and voters "Can we trust Mr. Rowell ?"

From the years 1898 to 1904, both included no legislation that affected the evils of the liquor trade, was passed by the Ross and Rowell party and they were in power then. They could then have passed an act abolishing the bar, or an act to prevent the child from being served with liquor, or any temperance act. They could have shortened the hours during which liquor could be sold over the bar. They could do as Whitney did, pass a law prohibiting liquor being supplied to any one under 21 years of age. In those days clubs could sell liquor without a license to their members. They could have seen to it that the license law was rigidly enforced. Now, sir, they did none of these things. Again I ask in the face of all this, and if space allowed I could give many more reasons, for asking as I do ask my fellow temperance workers "Can we trust Mr. Rowell ?"

Thanking you Mr. Editor,
Yours truly,
TEMPERANCE VOTER.

A PREPOSTEROUS CLAIM.

Editor Review,

Dear Sir,—Can anyone conceive of a more preposterous claim than that put forward by Mr. Rowell on behalf of his party, when he says, his is a fight of organised christianity against forces of the liquor interest (as quoted from The Examiner.)

It is a studied insult to all Christians of whatsoever denomination who do not see eye to eye with him, some of whom are true temperance workers along the lines laid down by Sir James Whitney which have been crystallized into law and rigidly enforced.

To brand his opponents as belonging to forces of the liquor interest is a falsehood on the face of it, and carries with it its own reputation. I challenge him to mention one person in a thousand in the whole riding who has any interest in the liquor business. And to say that Christianity is organized and all on his side is equally false and slanderous. A man's politics do not make his religion, nor does his religion make his politics, and one will find good and bad Christians among both parties, but Mr. Rowell evidently claims a monopoly of rant, cant, hypocrisy and Pecksniffianism.

All honorable men are down on mud-slinging, and he will find on the 29th day of this month that his false statements have been discounted at their real value.

A man whose party has its headquarters in the Ontario Club at Toronto where every kind of strong liquor is sold that can be procured in Canada whether over the bar or otherwise and whence he gets his main support, inspiration and guidance, cannot be sincere in his loud professions of temperance. It is only a pretense to oust the best administration of the temperance laws that the world has ever seen, and attested to by the leading temperance thought of our times, such as the late General Booth of the Salvation Army. Notwithstanding his profession, I am afraid that Mr. Rowell is not a worthy desciple of the late lamented Carrie Nation.

Yours truly,
ONLOOKER.

June 22nd, 1914.

REAL TEMPERANCE.

Mr. R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate, has received the following letter:

Dear Sir:—I am pleased to see the grand and fearless stand you have taken for genuine temperance.

The temperance leagues say they adopt the Rowell of the "Bolish the Bar" policy as the right policy. Mr. Rowell on the platform here made it very clear that it was not a policy, but a plank called temperance offered him when in distress, and he almost made it a crime for any Christian to go back on what they had offered. He says they came to him and layed their plans. I said I will look into it and decide later. He called a meeting of his followers to consider this little hope.

We behold the poor fellow struggling in the sea of lost opportunities trying to keep his head above the waves of corruption that broke up the old Ross ship. He can yet see in the distance the foundered Minnie M., and the Bessie Butler still going down, and the shark Gamey yet hovering around. He hears loud cheering for Whitney, Prison Reform, Hydro Electric, etc., and he exclaims there is no hope for us but this old temperance plank. We never could depend upon it, but now that the church is back of it, the pastors have fixed it up a bit, it may carry us to shore, as a last hope we will try it, climb on, boys. In his address he showed he was a little afraid of results, by the strong appeal to stick to their promise, and with a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together, we may get there. At the present time with the polish of the pastors and a few women, the old plank looks pretty safe. However, on the 29th of June, when the sold vote of wise Ontario gets onto it, Mr. Rowell will learn that at the centre the worms of deception and hypocrisy had left it weak, it will go to pieces and he will find himself in deeper water, farther from land, with the pastors and pieces of the old plank on top of him. To use a scriptural phrase, "the last state shall be worse than the first."

Yours,
REAL TEMPERANCE VOTER.

WHY WAS IT ?

Editor Review,

Sir,—Why did the County Association go back on Temperance by standing up for the shop ? If a voter asked that Association which candidate he should vote for, the one whose sole policy is to smash all forms of liquor traffic, viz., Mr. Soden or the one who said that he would not vote for the abolition of the shop until a political party gave him the cue, viz., Mr. Gillespie, what would the Association say ? Come, Mr. Cowan ; come, Mr. Cunningham, answer. There is a terrible responsibility resting upon you in the name of the children of men and women who will yet drink destruction and eternal damnation at the County Association's liquor-shops. "Is that you, daddy ?" will be transferred from the lamp-post to the fence-corner and yet Mr. Gillespie will wait until a political party "deems it wise" before he will even vote to stop it. But Mr. Soden will begin, from the moment he enters the legislature, war upon bar, shop and club. And yet—yet I say men can be found who would lay him politically dead at the craven feet of political exigency. Shame ! Shame ! yes twenty times shame ! Which then is an ally of the Liquor Traffic ?

THE DUCKETS TOO

Wants $75,000 for Improvements at Peterboro

Some of the members of the Board of Works met Superintendent Coyle of the G.T.R. this morning and went over the ground on the west side of Bethune Street. Arrangements were made with him for the removal of the duckets, and details will be made known at the meeting of the Board tomorrow night. When spoken to about the engine house, which citizens in that district are complaining of, Mr. Coyle stated that he was endeavoring to get $75,000 in the appropriation to make numerous changes in this city. Mr. Coyle is urging the erection of a new freight sheds and the placing of the engine house on the outskirts of the city.

WHITNEY'S HOLD IS UNBREAKABLE

Temperance Conservatives Decline Rowell's Cunning Invitation

Every indication that can be conveyed to Conservative headquarters in Toronto by letter, wire or personal visit, proves conclusively that Temperance Conservatives are standing solidly for Whitney at the approaching election.

Defections have been so remarkably few that the Toronto "Star" which kept account of all Conservatives turning to Rowell, could only muster half a column in two weeks and then were forced to withdraw several owing to telegraphic protests from the parties mentioned.

Canvasses made by Liberal workers appealing to the Temperance convictions of Conservative voters have met with such dismal failure that the first calculations of the Rowell party have been entirely upset. Reports made to Liberal headquarters in the various ridings and at Toronto show that Rowell's political device to stampede Conservative temperance workers to his fold—have caused only indignant repudiation and sent scores of supporters into the open field to campaign for the Whitney cause.

Whitney's Great Temperance Work

Sir James Whitney has been in office nine years. During that time he has kept pace absolutely with the wishes of the majority of the people in curbing the evils of the liquor traffic. So exemplary has been the enforcement of existing laws, so impartial and exacting has been the control of license holders as to win General Booth's compliment: "In this respect Ontario leads the world."

Whitney fought the discreditable regime of the Ross Government, a regime for which N. W. Rowell battled with all his might. Whitney found a broken-down Local Option Law. He changed it, improved it, and set it to work. That law has cut the liquor licenses down from 2,814 when Rowell's party was forced from the Government benches, to 1,600, a reduction of 1,214.

Whitney added a powerful Temperance weapon when he made the Canada Temperance Act, a Dominion measure, applicable to Ontario and which carries on a majority vote, without the three-fifths requirement. Only recently that Act banished the bar from Huron and Peel counties.

Whitney took the Ross Government's record of $620,123 of tax burdens on the liquor trade and he increased it by 100 per cent. He selected sterling officers to enforce the liquor laws and spent $30,000 a year to bind the laws on all holders of licenses, for such a purpose Rowell's friends spent $4,188 in fifteen years.

PLEASANT "MOONLIGHT."

A large number enjoyed a delightful sail down the river last evening per the steamer Stoney Lake, the occasion being the fourth annual excursion of the Knox Church Guild. The church orchestra supplied music for the affair and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

CONSERVATIVE NOMINEE EXPLAINS CHARGE LAID

He Paid Man $10 to Canvass and Work For Him In Campaign

SEAFORTH, June 23.—The nomination of candidates for the riding of Centre Huron, held here yesterday, was largely attended.

Dr. Macklin (Con.) spoke first and was followed by W. H. Proudfoot (Lib.). Dr. Macklin dealt first with the charge of bribery preferred against him and Rev. Joseph Elliott. Dr. Macklin said he had given J. B. Hunter $10. He had tried to canvass Hunter a fortnight before and had then sent Mr. Elliott to see him. Mr. Elliott returned and reported, according to Dr. Macklin, that Hunter could get some votes at $5 and $4. Hunter came by appointment the following day and Dr. Macklin gave him $10, with the statement that he was not buying votes but employing Hunter to canvass and work for him. The remainder of the candidate's address was taken up with the provincial issues.

Mr. Proudfoot in following said Dr. Macklin's statement that he was hiring Hunter as an agent was absurd in view of the interview in which Elliott spoke of the price of votes. Mr. Proudfoot also declared that Dr. Macklin had endeavored to have the matter suppressed, but when it was intimated that he should drop out of the contest, he refused.

Mr. Proudfoot was emphatic in his remarks that he considered pressure was being brought to bear from outside to defeat him, that the Conservative party were out to see that he was not elected.

Dr. Macklin, in his reply, said while he paid the ten dollars, and may have acted in contravention of the election act, yet lawyers differed as to whether he had or had not.

Excitement at Sarnia.

SARNIA, June 23. — The nominations for M.P.P. for West Lambton proved one of the most exciting meetings held in this city in the last decade, as a result of the charge made against Hon. W. J. Hanna that as counsel for the Mueller company he had secured for that concern a fixed assessment which cost the town $400 a year for twenty years.

Mr. Hanna, in his nomination speech, declared that the prospects of the company had been maligned, and, that the town stood to gain where it would have lost. His position had not been official in the private bills committee as his opponents maintained.

Mr. Cowan, the Liberal candidate, claimed that the town solicitor did not know of the legislative arrangement until a year after it was passed, and that the town in his opinion would lose steadily for twenty years.

Both speakers dealt with other issues and were subjected to a great deal of heckling.

Lively In East Durham.

MILLBUSH, June 23. — A lively meeting followed the nomination yesterday of J. J. Preston (Con.) and Francis W. Galbraith (Ind. Con.) in East Durham yesterday.

J. Thornton, M.P., accused Sam Clarke, Liberal candidate in West Northumberland, who seconded Mr. N. W. Rowell's abolish the bar resolution, of not being a temperance man in practice.

Like Old Times In N. York.

NEWMARKET, June 23.—Two fistic encounters, with an audience almost delirious with anger, yelling and shouting, concluded the meeting after the nomination in North York yesterday. During the row a hundred people climbed on to the platform, and Hon. Mackenzie King, who was on the platform, was jostled about and struck in the back. Mr. Lennox, standing on a chair, managed after some minutes to stop the row and the hall was cleared.

The riot was the result of an effort on the part of Hon. Mr. King to ask Mr. Lennox a question or in lieu of that to make an explanation to the meeting.

On Saturday, June 6, I gave the Temperance Association a signed statement that if elected I would vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the 1300 bar, 215 shop and 58 club licenses in Ontario. I repeated this statement in my Opera House address, June 18. Furthermore, if I ever get the opportunity I will vote to prevent the manufacture of liquor. I ask for your support and influence.

TO SELL BUILDING.

The Toronto Telegram says : It is believed in real estate circles that the owners of the Board of Trade building, Hon. J. R. Stratton, of Peterboro, and Wm. Claude Fox, of Toronto, have made an offer to sell the building to the Board of Trade for $250,000.

The New York Life Assurance Co. assumed the mortgage on the building some years ago, and fell heirs to the property for the small sum of $110,000.

The present owners, Stratton and Fox, purchased it from the New York Life at an unknown figure, and are now offering it for sale at an advanced price.

LORD MERSEY HAS HIGH PRAISE FOR FAMOUS CANADIAN HOTEL

Lord Mersey, Chairman of the Commission which is inquiring into the recent St. Lawrence disaster, in an interview states that he was delighted with his visit to the Capital City of the Dominion. He said he could see nothing beautiful about New York.

"Surely the people do not think those skyscrapers are beautiful," said the distinguished jurist. "Why Ottawa is a much more attractive and beautiful place. Mr. Hazen took me for a drive all over the city and I was charmed with everything I saw. The Chateau Laurier is the very best hotel I have been in. It is both a credit to the city and to the Grand Trunk Railway."

NEW SECRETARY BEGINS DUTIES

Miss Peacock Now in Charge at Y.W.C.A.

Miss Peacock, the new secretary of the local Y.W.C.A. is now in charge of that institution and Miss Betts, who has been acting in that capacity for the past few months, has returned to her home in Tillsonburg, Ont. Miss Peacock has of late been Educational Secretary of the Toronto branch of the Y.W.C.A. and previous to the appointment was General Secretary in Brandon, Man., thus she possesses abundance of experience which should, with the co-operation of the citizens, enable her to carry on good work with grand results. In conversation with a Review reporter this morning, Miss Peacock intimated that 'ere long something would be done for the girls of the city by way of getting them interested in basket ball and gymnasium work.

It would not at all be surprising to see the Y.W.C.A. fitted with a large swimming tank in the near future.

USE MORE JUDGMENT.

Mayor Buller has requested City Engineer to instruct the men on the watering carts to use a little more judgment, when passing a wheel, rig or auto. It has been the practice for them to go with the water operating at full force and often causing other parties no small amount of trouble. The Mayor wants the men to shut off one side.

TO INSPECT SYSTEM.

City Engineer expects to go to Kingston some day this week and see the new sprinkling system in connection with their sewerage disposal plant, in operation. Engineer Dallyn of the Ontario Board of Health will also be present. As yet the Board's decision as to the local plant has not been made known.

To the Men of Peterborough

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

"If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop, I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party."

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

With a fireless cooker you can cook five vegetables and a ham shoulder, and all in the same dishes in which they will be set on the table.

BOWSER'S GARDEN

It's to Be a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever.

By M. QUAD

[Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.]

THE robins had come to stay.

So had the dandelions.

There had been warm rains, and the frost was out of the ground.

Mrs. Bowser looked out into the back yard, sighed and said to herself:

"It will be just like Mr. Bowser to go to ripping up the yard to make a garden."

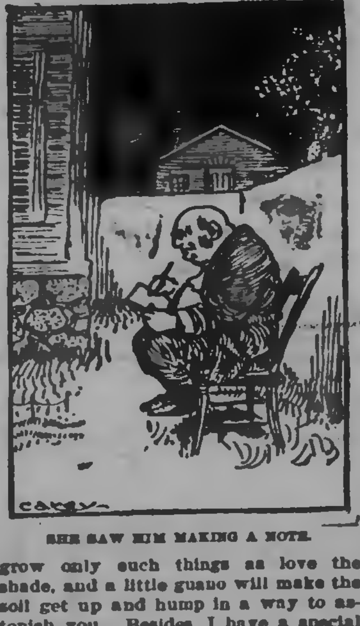
She had hardly ceased speaking when he arrived.

He had a spade and rake on his shoulder, and closely following him was a boy with several pots of plants and a package of seeds. Before Mrs. Bowser could ask for an explanation she was enlightened.

"You were saying the other day that you wished we had a bit of a garden. I'm going to make one. I'll fix up something to be proud of."

"But our back yard is no place for a garden," protested Mrs. Bowser. "It's mostly in the shade, you know, and the soil must be very poor. I wish you had spoken about it before you bought these things."

"Don't you worry about the shade or the poor soil, my dear woman. I shall grow only such things as love the shade, and a little guano will make the soil get up and hump in a way to astonish you. Besides, I have a special object in view. I will now get into an old suit and prepare the various beds. Digging and raking and smelling the fresh earth will carry me back to the old farm days again."



SHE SAW HIM MAKING A NOTE.

Undaunted by Vexations.

When he had changed his clothes he laid off a plot in the back yard and began work. The brickbats, old bottles, slates and broken kettles had remained undisturbed for years, but Farmer Bowser persisted until at the end of three hours he had prepared a bed ten feet long by three feet wide. During his labors he broke his spade, pulled the handle out of the rake and lost his spectacles, but he won out in the end. When the bed was ready he called Mrs. Bowser out and said:

"I have prepared this for an experimental bed. Later on I will lay the whole yard out into circles, crescents, crosses, etc."

"What sort of experiment is it?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"I will inform you later on this evening. I shall rather mix things up in this bed. I shall set out onions, tomatoes and flowers, and I shall plant the seeds of cucumbers and melons and potatoes and add a few hills of corn."

"I should think that a few apple trees, a grape arbor and an artificial lake would help things along."

Evidence of Domestic Carelessness.

"Just so. I was expecting you to say something mean. When you understand my object, however, you may change your mind. I shall now proceed to sow and plant, and when I have finished you can send the cook out to gather the 5,000 clothespins, the 3,000 forks and the 2,000 spoons I have dug up in making this small bed. I do not wish to find fault—no husband ever does—but if you could only manage to plant what few dishes we have left out here somewhere we could eat off the ironing board with our fingers."

There were two clothespins, one old fork and a broken spoon in sight, but Mrs. Bowser didn't dispute his figures. He had regained his good nature before dinner was over, and after the meal assumed the patronizing air of the average husband and said:

"I informed you that I had a special object in mixing up things in that bed, and I will now explain it. Did you ever give a thought to the vegetation around you?"

"Yes, several of them."

"I'm glad to know it, and I will mark it in your favor. What theory have you got as to why seeds grow?"

"It doesn't need any theory. Nature intended everything to reproduce itself. If a seed is planted in fertile soil it will produce again."

"But there must be favorable influences."

"Of course! It needs sun and rain."

"Anything else, Mrs. Bowser?"

"Nothing special, I guess."

"What about the moon?"

"Why, I believe that some old grannies contend that the moon has some sort of influence on vegetation, but I don't think that any level headed farmer believes it."

Will Get the Moon to Work For Him.

That was the point Mr. Bowser had been leading up to, and there was the light of triumph in his eyes as he walked back and forth and said:

"But if the moon does influence vegetation, if it exercises the greatest influence over the planting and growing, if it would make a difference of $100 a year to every farmer to consult the moon, then what?"

"Why, it would be a good thing for the world at large to know," she replied.

"Exactly, and the man who proved it to the world would become famous and renowned, wouldn't he?"

"Certainly. But what has all this to do with your planting a dozen different things in one bed?"

"Just this: I am going to prove the truth or falsity of this moon business."

"But how can you prove or disprove such a thing?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"By experiment, of course. Tonight is a moonlight night. I shall take a seat beside those tomato plants and onion sprouts for an hour or two and observe what influence the moon has on them. I will continue the experiment for a week, and by the end of that time I shall know one way or the other."

Mr. Bowser decided to do his watching from 9 to 11 o'clock or later, and he carried out a chair and got notebook and pencil ready before the hour.

Mrs. Bowser was watching from a back window, and presently she saw him making a note. It probably read:

"No particular effect as yet."

Morpheus Overtakes Mr. Bowser.

At intervals of ten minutes for the next hour he jotted down memorandums. Then Mrs. Bowser looked out after a little to find that book and pencil had dropped from his hand and that he was leaning back against the fence and sound asleep. A tomcat whose curiosity had been aroused showed up on the fence and then jumped softly down to investigate. He had scratched up about half the bed when he was joined by a second and in quick succession came grimalkins Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 6. They rolled over and over in the fresh earth; they raked that bed fore and aft with their claws; they scratched and dug and devastated, and yet Mr. Bowser slept on. It was an armed truce between the cats until the destruction was complete. Then they went in for a battle royal.

As if Pursued by a Thousand Furies.

Of course the fight had to begin right at Mr. Bowser's feet. The first mad grapple aroused him from his agricultural dreams, and as he sprang up he stepped on a bundle of cats as big as a barrel and pitched forward and rolled over.

There was a long minute in which Mrs. Bowser saw legs and arms and a bald head and six cats all mixed up and rolling over the grass, and then something struggled up with a whoop and dashed for the back door, with the cats in pursuit. It was Mr. Bowser. He entered the kitchen with a crash, closed the door behind him with a bang, and Mrs. Bowser got down from her room just as he tumbled up the basement stairs. He was a licked man. He was an ex-savant. He was a played out agriculturist and a busted experimenter. She estimated the number of scratches in sight at 350.

"Well, the moon got in its influence, I see," she remarked as she wondered where she could find rags and sweet oil.

He looked around in a dazed way, but did not answer.

"Is it Savant Bowser or who?"

A scared expression came into his eyes, and he shuddered, and she led him upstairs for treatment.

There are lots of people who become hopelessly mediocre from their much talking.

A doctor's orders seem good, sensible and much to be desired as long as it isn't you to whom they are applied.

A beauty doctor may get rich, but she doesn't do it trying to be beautiful.

Being a good fellow has its drawbacks, but if it didn't the forward impulse would soon cause it to lose sight of him.

Pioneer Railroader Dead.

LONDON, June 23.—The death occurred yesterday of Morgan Bransby Williams, who probably had more to do than any other man with the construction of the earlier railroads in the British Isles. He also planned and built many of the Italian railways, as well as thousands of miles of the Russian lines. He was born in 1825 in Wales, and after retiring from the engineering profession was for twenty years vice-chairman of the Metropolitan Bank of England and Wales.

THE SPORTING WORLD

BLOUNTMEN HAD EASY WIN IN FIRST BATTLE WITH BRANTS

Cellar Champions Played Like Leaders, in the Field and at Bat and Won 7 to 1---Tracey Bested Gero

WITH Tracey hurling excellent ball at all stages of the encounter, and his club mates leaning on Mr. Gero's twists when hits hurt the most, the Petes had little trouble in winning a seven to one game from the Brants at Riverside yesterday. It was the first peep the fans have had at the locals since one week ago last Saturday, and they certainly played snappy ball at all stages, and the sudden change in luck and reversal of form which accounted for the recent winning streak, certainly has made a different team, and even the groundkeeper remarked that he could hardly believe his own lamps. "Buck" Freeman handled the indicator, and the world's champion home run clouter made a fine impression with the fans. "Buck" is not provided with one of those bellow like voices, and his range is nearer the mezzo soprano, but "Buck" made a hit and not one of his decisions was questioned. He hustled the battle along, and by his action and the smartness of the play the game was over in one hour and twenty minutes.

The fans expected a pitching battle when Gero was trotted out by Rube Deneau, but right off the reel the Petes started to show Mr. Gero up by slamming his offerings to numerous portions of the arena. Someone in the stand thought it was Nero who was slabbing, but after Gero had been so kind in issuing a few passes and yielding a couple of bingles, the Nero thought was banished, as Gero was neither cruel nor harsh like his near namesake. In other words he was easy. True, Mr. Gero's support was not of the choicest, and Forgue had a bad day at short, booting three out of five chances, and they all hurt. Forgue was about as shaky as a gellatine pudding. The errors Forgue made cannot be made to spell defeat, as the Petes pounded in four runs, and that proved quite sufficient.

On the other hand, Ken Tracey had a fine day and once again he proved himself a master at control and a hard worker all the time, whether having it soft or having it break against him. He failed to issue a pass, which puts him in a class with some of the theatre managers. He hit one batsman, while trying to waste a ball, and mowed down five of the Brants, striking out Deneau with a man on third and fanning Taylor in the ninth when the latter was rushed in to pinch hit for Dolan. Ken mixed them up all afternoon and at only two stages was he in danger. In the third, the Brants grabbed one run on Fox's error and Tracey's wild pitch, while in the sixth the Red Sox had two on, but Dolan sent an easy roller to Rooney.

Enter Mr. Rooney.

Rooney, the new first sacker, who figured on Cy Young's Cleveland team of the Federal League last year, made his debut before a local audience and shaped up nicely. He takes an awful cut at the pill and gathered a hit, while his fielding was very fine. Tracey was helped to victory by timely pokes by Byrne, Welsh, Stewart, who drove in three runs, Rooney, King, Fox and Blount, and nice fielding all around. King at second had a great day, while Fox also shone, and his boot was one of the easy variety which looked sure. Kelly caught the game and shaped up as good as ever, and was there with the gab all the time. A feature of the battle was Joe Byrne's stab of Forgue's sizzler over the bag in the ninth. It was Joe's only chance all day and constituted the last out. The Petes also had their usual double, in which King, Fox and Rooney figured.

How We Scored.

Byrne, Welsh and Stewart singled in a row after Blount was out in the first and two runs scored. Fox caught the Brant infield flat footed on the first pitched ball in the second and got a hit via the bunt route. Kelly sacrificed him along and he came home when Forgue let Tracey's poke get away from him. In the fourth Fox drew a pass and was sacrificed along by Kelly. Tracey poled a high one to Deneau and Fox raced for third on the catch and scored when Forgue dropped the relay. In the fifth Byrne walked, was sacrificed by Welsh, Stewart singled to right and Byrne scored easily, but Lacroix dropped a needless throw to the plate on which Stewart went to second. He scored a moment later on Rooney's poke to right. In the eighth King singled, was sacrificed by Fox and scored on Forgue's error.

Briefly Speaking—

Lacroix got a life on Fox's error in the second, went to third on Gero's poke to right and scored on a wild pitch for the Brants lone tally.

FOUR LOCAL HORSES AT BELLEVILLE MEET

Four horses left the city last evening to take part in the Belleville meet of the Central Ontario Turf Association. The quartette were: Frank Montgomery's Jimmy Dircet, William Taylor's Undertaker, which is being looked after by Mr. Montgomery's stable corps, Dr. Johnson's Susie Hall and Jim Timlan's Angus Pointer. The horses were shipped in a special car via G.T.R. All are in good shape and much is expected of them at the Belleville meet. The meet will be Jimmy Direct's first race under Frank Montgomery's colors.

BEST RACE IN HISTORY OF LEAGUE

The league race tightened a little more by yesterday's results. Ottawa and London who have been striving to break away were both beaten and the other teams are trailing the leaders in dogged fashion. London still retains the lead by a half of a game by virtue of Bobby Heck's defeat at the hands of Shears the Jersey City recruit. Knotty Lee's Beavers downed Ottawa which shows that the little Leafs have taken a decided brace in the last week. Erie nosed out St. Thomas while the Petes smothered Rube Deneau's Brants. Deducting the loss credited to the Petes in the forfeited game at Toronto which is still under advisement by the league moguls there is only a six and one half game margins separating the Petes from the cellar and the top of the heap. With the game left in it is an even seven games. Such a race has never been [illegible] in the Canadian League before and right now the struggle is the keenest and closest of any of the minor leagues. Any club has a chance out in front and as the leaders have been getting their bumps quite regularly of late it will not be surprising to see some great changes in the standing by the end of next week.

WILCOX AND GORMAN WALK THE PLANK

Stark or Schettler to Twirl To-day

The pruning fork was brought into operation by Manager Blount last evening and Wilcox and Gorman were let out. The squad had to be cut, and Curly being well satisfied with Rooney's showing at first and sure that Wilcox would not strengthen the outfield was forced to make the cut.

Stark or Schettler will be the manager's choice today. It is likely that Stark will be sent to the hill and given a chance to display his repertoire. Opposed to him will be either Nicholls the long one who Deneau got from the South Michigan circuit or Taylor who humbled the Petes in the first game of Saturday's double bill.

Good crowds should be out from now on as the team is playing excellent ball and the management has displayed a readiness to do all in its power to help Manager Blount plug up any hole which he regards as weak.

ERIE PAPER HAS KNOCK FOR CANUCK CIRCUIT

The Erie Times, either through personal prejudice or rank ignorance hands the Canadian league an awful slap. It claims the brand of ball is not as fast as played in the Interstate League which Erie figured in a year ago. It also compares attendance figures with the season in that league and this season. Then the article displays ignorance or foolishness par excellence. It goes on to say that when Erie was away in front in the Interstate the attendance was much greater than now. Anyone who knows nothing of baseball whatever would know that a leader will draw better than a team that has been fighting to keep in the first division. It also speaks of the stars of the Interstate club and holds up Gygli, Scott, Colligan and Dawson as examples. As yet they have failed to show anything which would warrant the name star being affixed to their Canadian League careers. The trouble with Erie is that some of those who figured in the melon on other occasions are now but mere spectators. Another point is that Erie seems to think that Canada is a bush. Probably if the name of the league was changed to that of the Perry circuit or some other familiar Yankee name the Erie Times would be satisfied. The Times also clamors for major league ball of some description. Good night.

Jack Evans, who umpired in this circuit a portion of last season, and also a portion of this, is back at his railroad task again, being "brakey" on the Wolverine, running to Erie via way of Buffalo. There are a whole lot of people who believe that Evans can call stations better than diamond plays, and included in that lot are numerous ball players.

Gilhooley has been suspended by the Hamilton club. The little second sacker is not satisfied with his berth in the Ambitious City, and would prove a handy man with some of the other clubs on the circuit, as under conditions satisfactory to himself and his club, he would be just as good as any of the league's middle station men.

CONTRIBUTARIES BAND TO PROTECT THEMSELVES

To Meet the Action of Liquidator of Canadian Cordage Co.

Memories of the late lamented Canadian Cordage Company will be re-ected in the courts in the near future. G. W. Hatton liquidator of the defunct concern as previously stated has served notice of action on several of the contributaries who failed to pay for the stock subscribed, informing them that civil action will be commenced at once if they fail to unloosen their bank rolls and pay up.

On the other hand the contributaries are marshalling their forces to give legal battle to the liquidator. A meeting was held last evening in the office of Gordon and Widdifield of a committee of contributaries. It was decided to select one of the committee to defend the action threatened against him. The costs incurred will be paid by all the contributaries pooling a certain sum each, sufficient to meet the expenses involved. It is thought by the contributaries that if the court rules in their favor in the test case the liquidator will cease to press his claims further while on the other hand if the liquidator succeeds it is understood that the other contributaries will pay up without a legal battle.

The Canadian Cordage Company was organized some years ago but proved a bubble. Several prominent local men were among the promoters of the concern in its stage of infancy. The dark dismal factory on Aylmer Street which has not been disturbed by the burr of a wheel or has seen the sign of a pay envelope or dividend for some time stands as a monument to the death of several of good hard earned dollars of Peterboro citizens.

CARS OFF TRACK

Freight Train Comes to Grief

Six Grand Trunk cars loaded with merchandise, jumped the track a few miles this side of Campbellford, yesterday afternoon, and as a result, the traffic along that line was tied up till this morning. The cause of the accident is unknown, but it is supposed that it was a spread rail. The auxiliary from Lindsay and crew worked all night in an effort to clear the track. The train due here from Belleville at 8.50 p.m. did not arrive till after 11 o'clock. The passengers were transferred.

NOT A PRIVATE FIGHT

It was noon hour in a factory town. Two young mechanics were engaged in a game of fisticuffs which verged into actual fighting. A crowd of fellow-workers formed a ring about the pair of belligerents and egged them on with gist and cheering. As the fun grew fast and furious, a young Irishman made a way for himself through the ring of onlookers by means of some vigorous shoulder-work and, finally reaching the neighborhood of one who was constituting himself a sort of referee of the match, hoarsely whispered to the latter: "Say, mister, is this a private fight or can I get into it?"

A very similar question is often asked by those who do not consider themselves to be expert baseball "fans" concerning our Summer Pastime, and it should be plainly understood that no especial advantage is enjoyed by even the most expert at the game. Our contest is a public one, open to everybody, and with the aid of the Handbook at any rate, a man, woman or child who has never even seen a game of ball, stands just as good a chance of winning a prize as anybody.

GREAT AUDIENCE GREETS THE PREMIER AT TORONTO; STANDS ON PAST RECORD

Sir James Addressing Huge Meeting in Massey Hall Displays All the Vigor of His Earlier Days and Rouses Hearers to Enthusiasm---He Denounces Participation of Pulpit In Politics---Local Option a Success

Since his Government had taken office it had been made easy for the people to obtain the submission of a local option by-law all restrictions by local option municipal councils having been removed. Legislation had also been enacted protecting local option by-laws from being made of no effect because of technicalities. The Provincial Secretary had also been invested with power enabling him to withhold licenses from certain municipalities when thought desirable in the interests of the people, and in some cases this had actually been done. "In this matter, we have kept faith with the people," said Sir James, "and I promise for the fourth time that this question shall never be allowed out of our sight, and that from time to time as opportunities present themselves, we will be watchful to seize those opportunities and go forward in further minimizing the evils of the traffic."—Sir James Whitney.

Toronto, June 24—"A reception to the Prime Minister of this Province, Sir James Whitney, not a political meeting in the ordinary sense of the word," was the definition Hon. I. B. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer, gave to the big political meeting in the Massey Hall last night, a meeting that overflowed until it filled two other large halls. He welcomed Sir James back to activity in the affairs of Ontario "which he had loved so well and served so faithfully. No country ever had a truer son, or bolder defender of the rights of the people."

Sir James Whitney upon rising, and apparently in his former vigor, was greeted with long continued applause. He referred at the outset to his sickness. "My health and strength being practically completely restored," he said, "I am ready and desirous to re-embark upon the work that my colleagues and I have been engaged in for the past nine or ten years. (Applause.)

Gambling For Power

"The people of the Province understand the problems of the day and understand the way they have been dealt with by myself and my colleagues. It has never been my lot until now to say an unkind word of the leader of the Liberal party, but I am sorry to say that Mr. Rowell is ready to gamble for political power in the matter of my health or otherwise. On this very platform he said that 'Sir James Whitney would never be able to lead the Conservative party again.' And to-day he is going around telling the same story privately. And the Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King does not hesitate to repeat the language on the public platform." Groans and "boos" greeted the mention of Mr. King's name.

Sir James alluded to the record of his Government. "Ten years ago," he said, "we made some pledges to the people and I say we have fulfilled every one of them." He cited the increased grants to Toronto University, and the greatly increased sums spent upon agriculture in the Province.

Taxation Not Burdensome

"We have more than doubled the revenues of the Province," he went on, "and I venture to say that no one has been unduly burdened in the raising of the eleven millions of dollars that now flows into the provincial coffers each year. Briefly he touched upon the Workmen's Compensation Act and the Hydro-Electric expansion. "In the near future," he said, in speaking of the latter utility, "I venture to predict that Hydro-Electric current will be carried to the door of every farmhouse in the Province of Ontario." It was proposed, he went on, to construct good highways to the extent of 50,000 miles, so that every farmer would be benefitted thereby. "The revenue is increasing, and will go on increasing by leaps and bounds, and I tell you as an unreconstructed Conservative and an impenitent one to boot that we plead guilty to the charge of spending more money every year and we will go on raising more money and spending more but this I can promise that every dollar will be spent honestly for the benefit of the people of Ontario whose servants we are and whose servants we are proud to be."

The Liquor Question

Promises made in regard to the liquor traffic had been fulfilled. Not one Cabinet meeting had been held in the past ten years that the liquor question had not been discussed and no ten men had ever applied more thought to any question than the Cabinet had to this one. The Conservative party would never make this question a party cry, he declared amid cheers. It was impossible, he said, because of a decision of the Judical Committee of the Privy Council for a prohibition law to be passed in Ontario, but the Government had by wise legislation passed restrictive measures to mitigate the evils of the liquor traffic. Some of these enactments, he wished to mention briefly to the meeting.

Kept Faith With People

Since his Government had taken office it had been made easy for the people to obtain the submission of a local option by-law all restrictions by local municipal councils having been removed. Legislation had also been enacted protecting local option by-laws from being made of no effect because of technicalities. The Provincial Secretary had also been invested with power enabling him to withhold licenses from certain municipalities when thought desirable in the interests of the people, and in some cases this had actually been done. "In this matter we have kept faith with the people," said Sir James, "and I promise for the fourth time that this question shall never be allowed out of our sight, and that from time to time as opportunities present themselves, we will be watchful to seize those opportunities and go forward in further minimizing the evils of the traffic." Continuing Sir James said that the Liberals did not attack the Government's record nor did they now attack him personally, though in previous campaigns they had done so. Whatever their reason was, this was a great compliment to him.

Sought Snap Verdict

Proceeding Sir James said: "They are trying with blare and flare of trumpets and caricatures, they are trying to get a snap verdict on 'Banish the Bar but hold on to the Jug.' They say there are only a few municipalities where there are shop licenses. That is true, but I say there are only a few municipalities where there are any licenses. In the majority of municipalities there are no licenses. You know what the evils of the shop are," and Sir James read a letter he had received from a Toronto lady who urged him to do something to curtail or wipe out the liquor shop traffic through bottles which she said men took to their homes from shops. She closed by saying she would rather see no liquor at all, to which Sir James said with much fervor, "And so would I." He also quoted from a statement of the late Sir George Ross against transferring the bar trade to shops and thus to the private house, and also from a statement of B. H. Spence that the abolition of the bar would merely have an ameliorative effect. Shop would become a replenishing house for local option districts and blind pigs.

Sir James now turned his attention to the part some ministers are taking in the campaign. He said: "Liberals are trying to get clergymen to announce their allegiance to the Liberal platform, descecrate their pulpits, and use them as some of them are using the basements of their churches, namely, for Grit committee rooms. No question ever came before the people fraught with more serious consequences than the part a few clergymen are taking in this campaign. Rev. B. H Spence, the body and breeches of the Dominion Alliance in this Province has at last succeeded in turning this Alliance over to the Grit party and to-day that Alliance is taking part in the campaign."

A Misleading Circular

He then referred to a circular that had been issued by Canon Greene, and Rev. B. H. Spence, respectively President and Secretary of the Alliance and added, "There is not a statement on that paper with reference to this great question that does not contain a suggestion of falsehood. This is by two eminent clergymen whose occupation is the cure of souls. The clergymen who fall into this trap are very few in number, and those who do so must expect to be criticised. They have no right to take this question into the pulpit and denounce as bad citizens their fellow-men who do not agree with their methods. We are all agreed as to the evils of the drink traffic, but no man has any right to say that a man is bad or wrong because he differs with him as to the method of reducing or ultimately wiping out those evils.

LOOKS LIKE JAS. THOMPSON IN EAST RIDING

Much Interest in the Nominations at Norwood

REV. R. POGUE SPOKE

Paid Tribute to Hanna for Prison Reform

Norwood, June 24.—The nominations held here on Monday afternoon before Dr. S. P. Ford, returning officer were well attended by an enthusiastic and determined body of electors representing both political parties.

The town hall was about three parts filled with the supporters of both candidates.

Mr. Thompson's nomination was handed in first about 2.30 while Mr. Anderson's nomination was made about 1.30 or a little before that time.

After the nominations closed W. T. Buck, was appointed chairman of the meeting. Mr. Thompson was the first speaker and outlined the work of the Whitney Government pointing out in many ways where the administration had been advantageous to the people of the province.

Mr. Anderson followed with a short address. He solicited the support of the electors on the abolish the bar plank of the Rowell platform.

Rev. Mr. Pogue spoke in the interests of Mr. Anderson making a forceful appeal to the temperance people to vote to abolish the bar. He paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Hanna in praise of his Prison Reform but said that without any bars in Ontario, one hundred acres, instead of eight hundred acres, would be sufficient to accommodate the prisoners of Ontario.

Candidate Replies.

Mr. Thompson replied to the criticisms of the other speakers and called on the electors to recognize his work in the past in regard to his efforts in securing the best government the people of Ontario had ever enjoyed.

He felt confident the electors would rally to his support and return him with a splendid majority on June 29th.

The meeting broke up with cheers for the King and also for the both candidates.

Mr. Thompson has committee rooms over Mr. K. G. Thomson's drug store.

The campaign in this riding is being very strongly contested.

It is generally thought that Mr. Thompson will be returned but with a reduced majority. The vote in the village will be taken in No. 1 subdivision at the Town Hall with E. J. Laing deputy returning officer. In No. 2 division with Jas. Calder, D. R. O., at the Secretary's office at the Fair Ground.

THREE MEN IN A BOAT AND A DOG

Assistant Master at the Grove School, Lakefield Jack Davidson and Donald Cameron Have Commenced a Canoe Trip To New York City

Most people who make a trip to New York City, prefer the palatial railway coach as the means of transportation but the Review today reports an exception to this rule, as Mr. Gordon Graham, assistant master at The Grove School at Lakefield and two pupils, Jack Davidson, son of Rev. Canon Davidson and Donald Cameron, son of Dr. Cameron, left Lakefield at 9 o'clock this morning on a canoe trip of something over 800 miles, their destination being New York City. They expect the trip will last six or seven weeks.

Their only companion is Mr. Graham's dog. They have a seventeen foot Lakefield canoe, which besides the travellers, carries personal baggage and camping outfit.

The Big Four, came down the canal early this morning, said good-bye to the few who were waiting there to wish them all good luck and a pleasant journey, and passed on down the Otonabee River. The route will be via the Trent waters, Trenton, Bay of Quinte, St. Lawrence river, Richileau River to Lake Champlain, with a side trip to Lake George; along the Champlain Canal to the Hudson and thence on to New York.

Jack Davidson and Donald Cameron are in good hands as Mr. Graham is an enthusiast in open air sports and will take every precaution. He himself has taken part in some daring ventures. Last year, he walked from Lakefield to New York and this last Easter he hiked it to Rochester via Niagara Falls. He is also the author of a number of stories for boys on outside life.

BANK ROBBERY IS ATTEMPTED

VANCOUVER, June 24. — Three men attempted to blow the safe of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Mission Railway Junction, 36 miles from here. A time lock held the doors fast despite the explosion of nitro-gylcerine, and the men escaped after a bloodless revolver battle with Constable John Clarkson.

SMUGGLER FINED $1000

WATERTOWN, N.Y., June 24.—Lee Sam, or Lee Woo of New York, who Monday pleaded guilty to smuggling Chinese across the border from Prescott and Brockville, Ont., was yesterday fined $1,000 in the U. S court here. His accomplices, among them Jud Clark, a Utica hotel proprietor, who turned states evidence, were given suspended sentences until next term of court.

WILL MARK VOTE FOR MR. SODEN

At a meeting of one of the largest organized temperance societies in Peterborough, the Royal Templars of Temperance on Tuesday evening, a canvas of the qualified voters was made, with the result that it was found that they will vote for and are supporting R. J. Soden.

THE BIG STRAWBERRY.

Ye agricultural editor of this journal is aggrieved to learn that a reader should question the statement, that a strawberry from a Homewood Ave. garden, measured six inches in circumference. We admit that there have been occasions when a spread, such as was served at this sanctum yesterday, would be liable to turn our head, but having had two bona fide homemade meals, before the berries arrived no mistake was made. The measurement was taken in the presence of witnesses.

MINER SHOT BY OFFICERS

Struggle in Butte Results in Fatality

BUTTE, Mont., June 24.—Violence broke out anew last night in the struggle between factions of the Butte Miners' Union and three men were shot, one of them being killed by the fusillade fired by deputy sheriffs in clearing Union Hall.

An attempt has been made to dynamite Miners' Hall, but the charge failed to do any great amount of damage. The explosion could be heard for blocks.

Armed men proceeded to the Stewart Mine and boldly carried down boxes of dynamite in the attempt to blow up the hall, but the guns of deputies prevented effective placing of the charge.

Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, and other officers of the union who were to address a peace meeting in the hall, fled through the rear door of the auditorium when the shooting began.

FLOODS IN CHINA

LONDON, June 24. — Cablegrams from China report devastation by flood involving thousands of lives. The damage to property and crops is estimated at more than $5,000,000 around the West river.

The towns submerged include Sunshow, Dosing, Takhing, Shiuhing, Samshui, Kumchuk, Kowloon, and Wingshun. The railroad between Samshui and Canton is also under water.

HEARD WHITNEY SPEAK.

R. M. Waddell attended the big Whitney meeting in Massey Hall last night. Mr. Waddell says that Sir James spoke with all his old time vigor and directness.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE AT MEETING IN SELWYN

Mr. Soden Gives His Definite Stand in Regard to Temperance Question

The Conservative candidate met with continued encouragement at a meeting at the Temperance Hall in Selwyn, last night. He was accompanied by H. P. Lindsay and Ald. W. J. Johnston, but owing to a picnic, the meeting was late in starting and Mr. Soden was the only speaker.

He explained his own definite position on the temperance question, a stand, which was, he said, in advance of the platform of his opponent and the Liberal leader. The speaker dealt with the temperance question in a clear and reasonable manner and he received a splendid hearing.

Tonight, Mr. Soden and other speakers will address a meeting in Ennismore.

Optimistic reports are being received from all parts of the riding and it is anticipated that the Conservative cause will prevail, by the electors showing their appreciation of a government that has fulfilled its promises and maintained a clean and progressive administration.

FRASERVILLE INTERESTED IN FIND OF OIL

Discovery Made on Farm of Richard Latimer

Fraserville, June 24.—This community is somewhat excited over the discovery of an oil well on the farm of Mr. Richard Latimer. Mr. Latimer's farm is situated on the boundary line between North and South Monaghan near Whitfield's Wharf which is about nine miles from Peterboro. It has been the opinion of many people during the past that there was oil in this vicinity and Mr. Latimer discovered this while digging a well. He has samples under test now. Particulars are not yet known but Mr. Latimer was up to the city Saturday and it is rumored that he is highly satisfied with the report.

SALVAGE POSSIBLE ?

Expert Thinks Empress Can be Raised

QUEBEC, June 24.—The Empress of Ireland wreck enquiry continues to draw out interesting information. It is expected that evidence other than that of the experts will be concluded to-day. With a day devoted to this testimony, and another day or two devoted to the addresses of counsel, the investigation is expected to be closed by Saturday.

Edward Gossboon, the diver who lost his life at the wreck, had his story told by W. G. Weatherspoon, the salvage expert who has charge of the work of getting the bullion out of the vessel. Gossboon found that the Empress is pointing northeast, is lying in 15 to 20 feet of mud, and rests on her side, and is 75 feet below the surface. He believes she can be raised.

Capt. Walsh of the C. P. R. denied that officers were promoted for making rapid voyages.

Lord Mersey conversed with Mr. Haight over the latter's anxiety to find out if Adelard Bernier, the pilot of the Empresses, was always chosen for this work, asking when Mr. Haight found out that Bernier was an interested party, and saying that he himself always scrutinized the evidence of such witnesses carefully for bias. Lord Mersey told Mr. Haight that if this was true, it applied with equal force to each Storstad witness.

Alfred Tuftenes, first officer of the Storstad, produced memoranda from Montreal on the movements of the collier and the condition of the weather prior to the collision, but they added nothing to the particulars in the scrap log book.

SETS HAY ALIGHT

Four-year-old Boy Perishes and Mother is Burned

TORONTO, June 24.—Four-year-old Tommy Taylor of 163 Shanley street, was burned to death and his mother badly burned in attempting a rescue, in a fire which destroyed the stables of R. G. Bainbridge of 166 Shanley street at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. According to the information in the hands of the police the unfortunate child, along with another, lighted some hay in a stable. The child was unable to climb back to safety and was almost instantly suffocated by the flames which immediately shot to the roof of the stable.

Mrs. Taylor saw the flames almost immediately and rushed to the stable to rescue her child, but her efforts were in vain.

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1914

SIR JAMES WHITNEY.

Sir James Whitney has been in political life for over 30 years and there has never been a breath of suspicion against him—never a hint of wrongdoing or of taint. It is well worth bearing this in mind in casting your ballot on election day.

MR. ROWELL DODGES.

ELECTORS of West Peterborough will not forget that there is besides the question of bar abolition that of bilingualism in this election. Every minister who took it upon himself to pronounce a verdict on supporting the Government should have discussed this equally important question as well.

> "The political preacher," says the Toronto Telegram, "owes it to his flock to acquaint them with such facts as these—that in the County of Glengarry the population of French origin has gone up 1,491 in ten years, while the total population has fallen 872; the French population of Prescott has gone up 930, while the total has dwindled by 47. Stormont has lost 2,267 people, though the French-Canadian population is 12 more than it was in 1901. In Russell, too, the non-French element has decreased, the French gain being 4,853, while the total increase is only 4,260. In other words, here are four Ontario counties where the French-Canadian element has gained 7,286, while that total increase in population is just over a thousand."

The English speaking population of Canada is asleep so far as having an aggressive policy of extending their speech and institutions in comparison with the forceful policy of French Canadians. So far as Ontario is concerned, Sir James Whitney has pronounced his policy on bilingual schools. He insists that an English education be imparted in every school, a ruling which has displeased a number of French people, who want French taught and taught badly at that. Twitted on many occasions with having made no pronouncement on this problem, Newton Wesley Rowell has persistently given evasive answers. Speaking on Saturday last to his own constituents in Woodstock, the pith of his statement is contained in the sentence: "This is an English-speaking province and an English-speaking province it will remain." This declaration is no satisfactory definition of his position on the question of bilingual instruction in the public schools of this province.

When Mr. Rowell spoke in those ridings where a French vote predominates, he gave assurances that the right of French-Canadians in this province to have their children instructed in the language of their ancestors would be respected by any government of which he was the head.

An Ottawa French paper, Le Temps, says of Mr. Rowell:

> "Mr. Rowell has done better than to create a favorable impression. He has gained the esteem and support of all the French-Canadians who are truly sincere and patriotic. While a heavy struggle is waged against us, whilst the provincial Conservative party, and the ministers themselves, such as Mr. Foy, are officially declaring war against us, wishing to deprive us of all our privileges, wishing to gag and assimilate us by depriving our children of their right to learn their mother tongue, the chief of the Liberal party has recognized with pride in his programme the necessity for bilingual schools, and it is with frankness and sincerity that he yesterday demonstrated to the French-Canadians that they have in him a friend and protector."

Considering Mr. Rowell's statements, the fair minded voter must conclude that Rowell is preaching one thing to English speaking ridings and another to French ridings. His position is two-faced, and be assured that if Rowell gets into power, the English speaking ridings will get a decisive slap, so far as the English language is concerned. It would be a most unwise proceeding for electors to vote against Whitney and undo all that has been accomplished by the Whitney Government to solve this difficult problem and to secure an efficient standard of education in every public school in Ontario.

WHITNEY DECLARES HIS POSITION.

FOR THE TIME BEING abolish the bar has been placed in the background in the Ontario election campaign and the matter of bilingual schools is now the paramount issue. From the time that this troublesome question obtruded itself the attitude of the Whitney Government has been straightforward and consistent. While not desiring to work any injustice to the pupils in the French Canadian districts of the province, the Government had all along declared and insisted that English should be the language taught in the public schools in the province. In several ridings in Ontario the French-Canadian vote predominates and the leading French-Canadian authorities have sent out an ultimatum demanding that French be the sole language taught in the public schools in the French districts. The Government, through Sir James Whitney, Hon. Dr. Pyne, Hon. Mr. Hanna and Hon. Mr. Lucas, have publicly answered this by declaring that they will stand by the regulations. On the other hand, Mr. Rowell has publicly evaded this question by making no clear cut statement even when pressed to do so. He is trying to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds. Such a dangerous position should never receive the support of the people.

PROTESTING TOO MUCH.

OUR EVENING CONTEMPORARY says Mr. Soden protests too much. But it apparently has no idea that Mr. Gilespie has included shops in his temperance program, which Mr. Rowell has frankly declared outside his abolition policy. What can Mr. Gillespie do in this regard? He has tied his hands doubly, in the language he has used and in the policy of his leader, yet he protests to equal Mr. Soden in work for temperance reform. Mr. Soden has the Government behind him, which has shown nine years of honest, efficient administration. Methinks Gillespie doth protest too much.

A CASE FOR THE CENSOR.

IF TEMPERANCE PEOPLE who are responsible for those posters, thought twice of what they were doing, they would doubtless not have perpetrated such an offence upon good taste, manners and decency. What good will it do the temperance cause to depict a sodden drunkard on the billboards? When picture theatres were going to depict the methods and villanies of white slavers, of course with the good intention of hindering their business, the censors promptly ordered the offensive films off the screens. One reason was that they were too realistic. When a play depicting improper moral relations, known by the name of Deborah, was staged at Toronto, it was quickly put out of business. The bill boards are in the same position, and should be spared the illumination of those sordid details of lost character and self respect, with which the Pioneer delights to decorate its pages. The public gorge rises at this sort of thing and has ever shrunk from such depraved conditions.

It may be said in defence that drunkenness has been made less offensive by the humor of it. Be it said that there are degrees of drunkenness in some of which humor does appear, but these billboard pictures deal with the lowest stages and are overdrawn at that.

Rev. John Coburn wouldn't allow Deborah to be performed, for which he is to be commended, but he should take some action to remove these offensive pictures, which pretend to support the side that he supports. If white slave pictures of the same degree of depravity were posted on the fences every minister in this city would be up in arms, but apparently they see nothing censurable in these pictures.

SUPPORTS THE WHITNEY POLICY.

SPEAKING in Charlton Avenue Methodist Church this morning on the subject, "How Shall We Vote," Rev. R. S. E. Large, M.A., B.D., the pastor, said it would be dishonest of him to say that he was not pleased with the present Government. "To my mind," he said, "the leader of the party at present in power in Ontario has dealt most conscientiously and frankly with all questions. He has been consistent in all things. The leader of the Opposition has declared for the abolition of the bar and club licenses. He goes to the electors on that issue one week from tomorrow. It remains with you and me to decide which side of the issue we will support." Most people should support the Whitney side.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

IF a nomination has anything to do with prospects of election, Dr. A. E. Ross of Kingston, was safely nominated, having had Rev. Principal Gordon of Queen's University and Bishop Bidwell behind him. Dr. Ross has been a good representative, and should sweep his constituency.

A VOTE for Soden is a vote for the best Temperance Government Ontario has ever had.

A Discovery.

Kingston Whig.

A book has been issued by E. G. Harman to show that Bacon wrote the poems ~~of both~~ Spencer and Shakespeare. He was one of the world's prodigies, and, until Mr. Harman got it in his work, no one seems to have suspected it.

Mr. Burnham's Sorrow.

Toronto News.

How shall one comfort that unterrified democrat, Mr. J. Hampden Burnham of West Peterboro? Two years ago he set out to abolish all titles and distinctions in Canada. But in the very swath of the movement the leader of Mr. Burnham's party, the Minister of Trade and Commerce and several other ornaments of the political organization to which he belongs, accept titles. The path of the reformer is full of thorns. We mingle our tears with those of the unterrified patriot of Peterboro.

A Far-Fetched Comparison.

St. Thomas Times.

The London Advertiser endeavors, by a stretch of imagination to draw a parallel between Mr. Rowell and the late Abraham Lincoln. Well, there is a marked difference. Abraham Lincoln did not use the emancipation cry as a stepping stone to the presidency of the United States. He attained power first, and then allowed the people to decide the question of abolition, untrammeled by party politics on the eve of an election.

Rough on Rowell.

Chatham Planet.

"If Mr. Rowell gets in and becomes Premier, I will support his policies; if he is defeated, I reserve the right to vote as my conscience dictates."

This is the attitude of the Liberal candidate of West Kent. When two great political parties are before the people, should not all of the people have the opportunity to decide between them? How are they going to do it, when one of the candidates thus sidesteps the issue from which his party stands? Is it justice to the people of West Kent? We do not ask these questions for information; the answer to them is quite apparent, and by no means favorable to the candidature of the Liberal aspirant in this riding.

It is practically playing for votes under false pretences. If an elector of West Kent desires to vote for Mr. Rowell, how is he going to do it? If he votes for Mr. Bracklin, and Rowell becomes the head of a new government, it's all right. If, however, Rowell is defeated, the West Kent electors who voted for the local Liberal candidate have instead of assisting Rowell, made it harder for him by voting for a man who will oppose him.

THE FORTUNE TELLER

By Walt Mason

A gypsy maiden, strangely wise, with dusky hair and midnight eyes, my future life unveiled; she said she'd read the lines of fate for many another trusting skate, and never yet had failed. She was a maid of savage charms; great brazen rings were on her arms, and she had strings of beads; with trinkets she was loaded down; the noisy colors of her gown recalled no widow's weeds. She told me I would live to be as rich as Andy or John D., my dreams would all come true; I'd have a palace on a hill, and vassals near to do my will, a yacht to sail the blue. And as she told what blessings fine, what great rewards and gifts were mine, in low and dulcet tones, her nimble fingers, ne'er at rest, got closer to my checkered vest, and lifted seven bones. She touched me for my meagre roll, that poor misguided, heathen soul, but still her victim smiles; she gave me dreams for half a day and took me with her to Cathay and the enchanted isles. Her glamor caused me to forget a little while the strife and sweat, the city's bricks and stones; she took my toilworn soul abroad, and she is welcome to my wad—I still have seven bones.

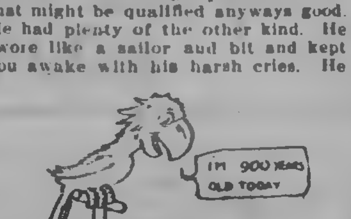
THE PARROT

EVERYTHING in this world has some good in it, leastways thet is what we were taught to believe and what we'd like to believe fust rate. I've allers believed it anyways until I came across the parrot, then I must admit I was in somethin' of a dilemma. Fer nearly two years I studied a parrot belongin' to Deacon Stubbs, tryin' my utmost to discover one good pint about thet bird. But I couldn't find a single p'int about him that might be qualified anyways good. He had plenty of the other kind. He swore like a sailor and bit and kept you awake with his harsh cries. He teased the cat and upset everythin' he could get his claws on and he made fun of hymn-tunes and everythin' sacred.



Then, one day, I found one good p'int about him. It was his memory. Thet bird had a memory that was flawless. He remembered the Deacon's family fer two generations back and called 'em all by their fust names jest as though they were there. It was mighty uncanny. He called the Deacon "Baby Willy," and thet's right whar his good quality rested, fer whenever the old man was crusty and cross, and Polly screeched, "Little Baby Willie," the Deacon 'ud have to grin and then there was sunshine.

OTTAWA, June 24.—Judge MacTavish ruled yesterday that the four controllers who were unseated in the courts ten days ago, on the ground that they were illegally elected last January, must be re-elected by the electors and not by the City Council, as some legal authorities claimed was the proper way. The four controllers are: Dr. Rufus Parent, J. W. Nelson, E. P. McNeil and Joseph Kent.

POSTOFFICE BARRICADED.

Parisian Employes Take Sensational Method of Expressing Indignation.

PARIS, June 24. — Excitement among employes of the Central Postoffice at the Senate's delay in passing a measure which would improve their working conditions, led to an amazing demonstration when the office closed last evening. The disorder was anticipated and 500 police had been assembled, but the postmen suddenly appeared in the windows of the upper floor and bombarded the police with stones until several of them were stretched out unconscious on the ground. Meanwhile other postmen unharnessed the horses from the vans which were about to take out the mails for delivery, and the courtyard gateway was barricaded by a heavy postal van. The police freed the gates, whereupon the postmen barricaded themselves in the postoffice, which they held against the police, and where they detained many sacks of mails which ought to be delivered in Paris during the evening. The postmen also announced their intention of preventing the departure of the provincial mails. It is estimated that at least a million postal packets are being detained by the besieged postmen.

Morning brought diversions which slightly relieved the tension. There were two editorials to be written upon the political situation. This was followed by conferences with men on the paper, and then came the letter to the newspaper broker announcing that the News was for sale. He did not dictate this to his secretary, but wrote it out laboriously in long-hand.

The morning was more than half over when he began to pack. It was Wright's intention to leave Belmont that night, ostensibly on a vacation for the purpose of recuperation after the hard campaign. The owner of the News felt, however, that he would never return.

The many steps necessitated in packing taught him how weak he was, and after lunch he called in Patty, the little daughter of his landlady, to help him. They had always been the best friends, and her sorrow when she learned he was going away on a long vacation was genuine. The child was of much assistance, bringing all the smaller things from the living room into the bedroom where the real work of packing was being done.

When the packing was about completed the little girl remembered that she had brought a doll with her. In searching for it in a pile of clothing beside Wright's trunk she felt something hard. To satisfy her curiosity she drew it forth, to discover, instead of her doll, that it was a framed picture of a young woman. It was a picture of Gloria which had appeared in a weekly society paper.

Patty had helped wrap the framed pictures in old newspapers, and as she brought Gloria's picture, she exclaimed triumphantly, "Here's another picture, Mr. Joey."

Wright had put it aside surreptitiously when packing the things he had planned to take with him for immediate use. For the fraction of a minute there had been a debate in his mind as to whether or not he would be weak enough to carry her picture with him. He had finally placed it under a pile of clothing beside his steamer trunk.

"It's extremely good of you to find that picture," the man remarked with the gravity he sometimes assumed in treating Patty as one of equal years and understanding; "I doubt if I should have found it."

"I was hunting for my dolly, and looked under a pile of things and found the pretty picture lady." She gazed at the picture of Gloria admiringly.

"Really, Patty, you astonish me! Your perspicacity is exceeded only by your perseverance. I don't think I should ever have found that picture. Just leave it on the table there, and don't—if you love me—lose your dolly any more, please; at least not until all my things are securely packed."

Patty was just on the point of asking the name of the young woman who had so taken her fancy, when the door bell rang. With the announcement that no one was at home and she had to answer the bell, she scampered off.

Wright picked up the picture and gazed at it intently. He was sacrificing all for her. Was the sacrifice worth while? The question would have been an idle one. He loved her, had never loved anyone else and never would love anyone else. No sacrifice was too great which would mean any increased happiness for her. The sound of some one being brought to his rooms by Patty caused him to put the picture hastily face downward on the table. The door opened to admit Dr. Hayes.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Wright," he exclaimed cordially as he came forward with hand outstretched. "I hope you'll let an opponent drop in to congratulate you on winning the election."

The editor's face lit up with pleasure as they clasped hands.

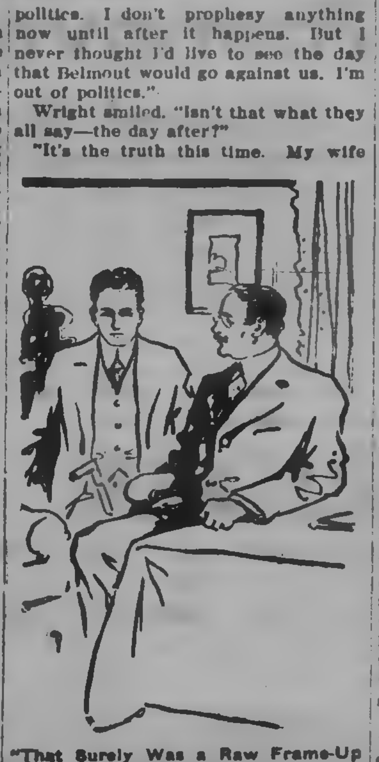
"Thank you, old man. It's awfully good of you to stop by before I started on a little vacation. The News won its fight; but of course we can't expect this to be the end of the contest, can we?"

The coroner shook his head dolefully.

"Don't ask me. I've ceased to be a political prophet. 'Do you think it'll be a boy, doc?' they ask. 'I don't know,' says I, shaking my head solemnlike. I'm going to get that wise about politics. I don't prophesy anything now until after it happens. But I never thought I'd live to see the day that Belmont would go against us. I'm out of politics."

Wright smiled. "Isn't that what they all say—the day after?"

"It's the truth this time. My wife has done nothing but read the riot act to me for the last two days."



"That Surely Was a Raw Frame-Up They Handed You."

"I imagine Mrs. Hayes is a purist in politics."

"Well, I can't blame her," the doctor admitted. "She's been poking around down in the river wards, and that surely was a raw frame-up they handed you. She got onto it, and she's dead sore."

Wright had discussed the affair with Dr. Norton and had also told Arthur Morrison what little he knew. This was the first intimation coming from the ring that they even knew of the occurrence. The newspaper man was curious to know the ring version of it. Dr. Hayes' remark afforded him the opportunity to approach the matter cautiously.

"What was Mrs. Hayes' connection with that—ah—little episode?" he asked. "I gathered from Dr. Norton that in some way or other she knew something about it."

Dr. Hayes stared at him in amazement. Miss Kerr had never uttered a word, yet he readily believed, as did the others, that both Wright and she were the only ones who could tell the story. The woman in whose room they had been found was still in a delirious condition at the city hospital and nothing could be learned from her. Although Kerr had ordered the police to bring in Ryan and Kelly, the search had been unsuccessful.

"What!" gasped Dr. Hayes, "don't you know how you got out of that mess and why the thugs didn't finish you?"

Wright shook his head. His visitor's manner puzzled him.

"I don't know a thing. I think some one helped me in some way or other, but Dr. Norton claimed he knew nothing.

"Well, I'll be darned!"

"Don't; there's no occasion for it now—you're out of politics. The first thing I knew was when I heard Dr. Norton say, 'He's coming to, all right.'"

Soon Hayes picked up his hat to go. He stood for an instant, as if inviting Wright to speak. As he did not do so, the visitor asked, thinking of Gloria the while:

"Is there anything you want to know, now that you're going on a vacation, or would you like me to deliver any—messages?"

"No, none." Then after a pause, "It is better so."

"Well, I'm off," remarked the doctor. He spoke carelessly, to hide his regret, for at heart he keenly sympathized with the man who was making so strong a fight for a principle that love itself had to give way before it. Then he added, apparently as an afterthought, "By the way, I believe that offer for your paper still holds good."

Wright laughed, the little world-weary laugh he had sometimes permitted himself since he and Gloria had parted in Judge Gilbert's office.

"My vacation has started," he answered, "and I'm not talking business. But you can tell Judge Gilbert for me that the Belmont News is not on the market for his clients."

"All right, I'll tell him," Hayes replied as they shook hands. "Here's good luck to you on your vacation."

Wright smiled grimly, the thought that good luck would perch upon his standard was a sorry hope. He refused to bind himself to the truth with any fleeting consolation such as that.

CHAPTER XXII.

The morning after the election, Gloria called for the Banner as soon as she wakened. The headlines told her at once that her father had been defeated. She searched carefully through the paper for some reference to Joe Wright, but no mention was made of him. Naturally enough, the Banner was not in a jubilant mood. It predicted dire things in store for Belmont, but Gloria, remembering what she had learned at so bitter a cost, felt that any change must be for the better.

The girl had now recovered from the first severity of the shock, and was anxious to know for a certainty what had become of Wright. She knew that he lived and was not seriously injured, else there would have been some mention of him in the paper. The day previous she had thought much of him, but there had been much else for her to think of. Now with a return to what was to be for her the normal, she wanted to know how he fared.

All the morning Gloria spent in revolving in her mind just what she ought to do. She knew that her father meant Wright harm. Pride and maidenly reserve wrestled with what she considered her duty. Her conscience told her that before she left Belmont forever she should warn this man who once had loved her. He must be placed on his guard against her own father. It cut her like a knife to think that the attack on the editor had really been made at her command. Now she could do no less than tell him how affairs stood.

Dr. Hayes could scarcely conceal his surprise when Gloria followed him into the hall after luncheon and asked about Mr. Wright's condition. He told her that he still kept to his room, but was reported as improving. Before he could frame a question, Gloria thanked him and fled up the stairs. About three o'clock she emerged from her room, dressed for the street, and announced to Mrs. Hayes that she was going for a short walk alone.

CURIOUS PIPEFISH.

The Males Have Pockets In Which They Carry Their Young.

The kangaroo has always seemed to have the monopoly of that convenient way of carrying its babies in a pouch, but it has been discovered that a fish has the same useful receptacle, which it uses for the same purpose. The pipefish, as it is called from the length of its jaws, has a pocket on the under side of its body nearly half its length. It is found in the male species only and is the only part of its body which is unprotected by large flat plates, which take the place of scales in its protective armor.

If a pipefish is taken from the water and its little ones shaken out of the pouch back into the water they always seem either unable or disinclined to run away. But if the father is placed in the water again all the small fish immediately swim back into the pouch. These curious little creatures have prehensile tails, which they use to hold on to the seaweed to protect themselves from being carried away by the tide. The pipefish is similar to the small eel, being about a foot in length and an inch in thickness. But, unlike the eel, it has a very long jaw and the peculiar defensive armor already mentioned.—New York Sun.

Woman's World

Rosalie Jones, the Suffragists' Little General.

MISS ROSALIE JONES.

The great suffrage parade in Washington can have among its ranks of distinguished and interesting women none who has made a greater impression on the public than has Miss Rosalie Jones of New York. General Rosalie's famous hike to Washington, in which she and her associates displayed pluck and endurance that won the reluctant admiration of even the most determined of the antisuffragists, will not soon be forgotten. With her little army she has made the march from New York to Albany twice, while the march from New York to Washington was made once.

The novel thing about Miss Jones' enthusiasm for woman's suffrage is that her mother is an equally well known and ardent antisuffragist. If she cared for society Miss Jones might be a leader in the New York and Newport smart set, for her family is both wealthy and distinguished. Miss Jones, however, has been quoted as saying that fashionable society bores her. The family has a town house in New York, but since the death of her father, which occurred recently, she spends most of her time with her mother at their country place on Long Island.

Personally Miss Jones is a versatile and talented young woman. She admits having several hobbies. One of them is the collection of book plates. She is an artist of some skill and a clever amateur bookbinder. Fond of books, history is of especial interest to her.

In the fall, when the New York legislature, which is to vote for the suffrage amendment in 1915, is to be elected, Miss Jones expects to again take an active part in suffrage work, working for the election of candidates favorable to the cause.

A Canadian Hero.

"When the war is over the general is made a hero and 'Bill Smith' is forgotten," said Commander Evans of the fatal Scott Polar expedition before a gathering of the members of the Canadian Club in Montreal recently. Continuing, the commander said:

"Such has been the case with the Polar expedition, for some of the men have not received the credit that is due them.

"The man who stands out foremost among them is Charles Wright of Toronto. He, at the risk of his life, piloted a party over the glaciers for 600 miles, while his pony was the second to be killed and he was forced to pull his sleigh and do a good deal of hard work.

"He is a splendid type of manhood and a credit to his country and a practical Canadian, and it is to him that scientists have to thank for the second year's observations of the expedition."

Intermittent River.

Motorists on the way from Dover to Folkestone, Eng., by the Alkham Valley main road have found their way barred owing to the road for a considerable distance now forming the bed of a river. This is due to the flowing of one of those strange streams, known as nailbournes, which run at irregular intervals. This stream is the Drellingore Nailbourne, rising at Drellingore Farm, in the Alkham Valley. It joins the River Dour at Chilton, near Dover. An old rhyme says, "When Drellingore stream flows to Dover Town, wheat shall be forty shillings and barley a pound."

An Eccentric Producer.

Mr. William Hamilton Codrington Nation, the eccentric Devonshire man who, after being disappointed in love, came to London and spent many thousands of pounds in producing plays that were performed mostly to empty theatres, died worth £311,672.

On more than one occasion when Mr. Nation was standing outside theatres where he was producing plays, passers-by, noticing his tattered clothes and generally forlorn appearance, mistook him for a beggar and threw him coppers. Mr. Nation angrily flung the money back.

ROBBING THE COAL PILE.

Smoke That Goes Up the Chimney Is Fuel Thrown Away.

For the benefit of any one who may not see the analogy between a robbed coal pile and a smoking chimney it may be briefly and simply explained.

The visible part in smoke is nearly all carbon, either as soot or cinder, and carbon is the principal combustible part of coal—i. e., the useful part, the part capable of yielding heat. Carbon completely burned forms an invisible gas, carbon dioxide; therefore whenever the gases from a stack show black they contain carbon, which indicates that complete combustion has not taken place in the boiler furnace.

In other words, all of the available heat in the coal has not been realized. It is the same as though the corresponding part of the coal fed into the furnace had been thrown away, for, although it has passed through the furnace, it has been thrown away up the stack beyond recovery. Is this, then, so very different from robbing the coal pile?

The owner who through ignorance allows conditions to exist which are not favorable to the most economical operation of his boiler furnaces, although he is unwittingly robbing himself, is nevertheless stealing from his own coal pile.—Power.

Disconcerting Query.

"What makes you old bachelors say such horrid things?" asked one of the dearest girls you ever heard of. "Married men never talk that way," she continued, assuming a wide knowledge.

"No," answered the savagest bachelor you ever saw. "We only say what the married men think. But how did you know?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

J. D. FLAVELLE SCORES THE LIBERAL LEADER

Rowell is Criticized by Fearless Temperance Worker Who Has Fought in Two Local Option Campaigns

Lindsay, June 24.—Mr. J. D. Flavelle, leading citizen of Lindsay, and brother of Mr. J. W. Flavelle of Toronto, went after Mr. N. W. Rowell, leader of the Opposition without gloves here in a meeting in the interests of Mr. John Carew, the Conservative candidate in the riding of South Victoria. Mr. Flavelle dealt altogether with the Temperance issue. Hon. I. B. Lucas, the Provincial Secretary, discussed at some length the record of the Government, touched on the "Abolish the Bar" policy, and centred his attack on the failure of Mr. Rowell to come out clearly and frankly and state his position with regard to regulation 17 and the bi-lingual school question.

An Attentive Audience.

The meeting was held in the Opera House and every seat was occupied when the chairman, Dr. Wood, president of the local Conservative association, opened proceedings sharp on the stroke of eight. The audience was most attentive, not one person left until the meeting was concluded at ten-thirty. The applause was generous, but it was evident that the audience was composed of thoughtful people. They were not party stalwarts in the ordinary sense of the word. They were there to hear the issues of the day discussed, and wanted something to take away with them. In this respect it differed from the ordinary political meeting.

Leading Temperance Man.

Mr. Flavelle has been one of the leading temperance men of this riding for years past . He is, and has been, for some years, chairman of the South Victoria License Board. He was one of the few who attempted to have the Scott Act enforced and he has been an active and influential worker in two local option campaigns here. He is also a leading member of the Methodist Church and his family take an active part in the church life. He has been deeply affected by the charge which his own minister made last Sunday to the effect that those who did not vote for Rowell were destined to go "below." His experience with the Scott Act has shown him clearly that without a strong body of public opinion behind it such legislation can never be enforced.

Supported Worst Enemies.

Mr. Flavelle in opening characterized Mr. Rowell as the "most ex-

NEAR ENOUGH TO COLLISION

Young Men Ditched Their Car to Prevent Accident

ON CHEMONG ROAD

An auto fatality was apparently averted on the Chemong Road, last night, by the driver of a car carrying a number of young men, sending his car into a ditch, which action prevented a collision. One of the wheels was damaged and the young men were treated to a bad shaking up.

The offending car, contained a party of young ladies with one of the number at the wheel. The car was travelling at a high rate of speed and it would appear that the driver became confused and turned to the wrong side of the road and in the path of the other car.

To prevent a head on collision the driver ditched his car and the other proceeded onward without slowing down.

LARGE NUMBER COMING OVER

It is estimated that within the last ten days not less than one hundred Liberals have signified their intention of voting for Mr. Soden. His clear cut temperance policy is winning support daily. It is useless to compare any policy which proposes to retain the shops with Mr. Soden's policy and this is now being brought home to the Liberal party daily.

LAID AT REST

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. S. Gamble was held this afternoon from the late residence Ross Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, followed by a solemn and large cortege of friends of the late Mrs. Gamble, who was widely known and highly respected throughout the city. Rev. J. G. Lewin the short service at the house referred to the lofty ideal Christian life led by Mrs. Gamble. She had always been an earnest church worker and took active interest in the care of others in their many troubles. She had endeared herself to her friends.

The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful, among them being several from the various church societies of Mark Street Church.

MERCANTILE LEAGUE.

In view of the fact that the players in the Mercantile League have not been very particular about starting the games on time the executive of the league met last night and decided to enforce the rule of starting the first game of the double header on Saturday afternoons at 2 o'clock. Teams not obeying this rule will be fined or the game forfeited.

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

HOW THE MATTER STANDS.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir: — How the matter stands:

1. Regarding Temperance, Sir James Whitney, in the opinion of many, should have made a distinct advance over his past policy.

2. Mr. Soden has made that advance. He goes to the extreme limit, leaving nothing to ask.

3. Mr. Rowell has made a distinct advance, but has left "the shops."

4. Mr. Gillespie will vote "when required" in favour of total abolition, but while in that one respect he is level with Mr. Soden, in all the other aspects of temperance he is woefully behind.

5. The temperance people want a man who will not "wait" as Mr. Gillespie promises until he is required by a political party to vote on the question. He has been trapped into that promise. The hope of temperance lies in unrestricted, independent, vigorous, immediate and capable action.

6. Would any man with an ounce of self-respect sign a document requiring him to keep his word? A man who would stoop to that is no man at all. If we have got so low as that we had better quit politics and go into something less exacting.

7. In view of these facts can any honest man look the world seriously in the face and say, "Mr. Gillespie is my man?" Is it not irresistibly true that Mr. Soden will be a power in the legislature, for temperance, that Mr. Gilelspie does not even lay claim to be either personally or by what he professes?

8. Are you in favour of Whitney's course in bi-lingualism or are you in favour of the French rebellion?

9. Beyond some minor items is there one flaw in other ways in the really unequalled record of the Whitney Government?

Yours
READER.

AFTER THE UNWARY.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir:—In the absence of any facts to back up its weak cause, the Examiner gets off some cock and bull stories to ensnare the unwary, which are quite refreshing these hot days.

In speaking of the Gillespie meeting in Ventriss' Schoolhouse in its yesterday's issue, it announces in conspicuous headlines, "Even Harvey has Rowell converts" and "Old Conservatives announce revolt," and then goes on to say that a "prominent" farmer, on the strength of Rowell's specious promise (not on his record) would vote Liberal this time, and that he would try and get his son to do likewise. The Examiner then cites another instance; this time a farmer (he drops the "prominent") at Rockcroft, who made the same assertion, but the latter had been derelict in his duty to his country and had no boys to whip into line.

It is amusing to see The Examiner exulting on these two cases "as an evidence of how widespread is the revolt against the entrenched liquor traffic." However, it unwittingly gives itself away for citing cases so far away in order that it may not be found out by saying that "The instances of Conservative aid at these outlying points are mentioned because of the fact that Harvey is more remote from the City than other points recently visited."

I would respectfully ask The Examiner to name the two instances in question, so that we may know who these rare specimens may be which furnished so much evidence of its boasted widespread revolt, or forever hold its peace, and to name ten farmers in the whole district of Ventriss' School house who will vote Liberal at this election.

It also notes the fact that the plank discussed was temperance and that R. R. Hall was the temperance apostle.

Yours truly,
ELECTOR.

June 24th, 1914.

(Advertisement.)

Editor, The Review,

Dear Sir,—In Monday's issue of your paper Mr. Soden makes another attempt to persuade voters that he is on the temperance platform. Even if his absurd proposal were feasible his actions and statements on the temperance question have been so elusive, evasive and contradictory that no confidence can be placed in his position.

Note the following: In a speech to temperance workers in the Y.M.C.A. at the close of the last Local Option compaign, Mr. Soden vigorously denounced the government's three-fifths handicap and stated he "would never cast a vote for the government while that clause remained." (Applause.) In his speech at Young's Point he stated "the three-fifths clause is the best thing the country ever had." A flat contradiction.

Mr. Soden's weakness is apparent in that he has not stated in any public utterance that he will vote with either political party on the issues presented by the Temperance Association,—that is, the abolition of the three-fifths clause and the abolition of bar, club and shop licenses either collectively or separately.

Mr. Soden's insincerity is disclosed in that he repeatedly tries to make pronouncements similar in apparent meaning but utterly valueless when closely scrutinized. The object of such statements is to mislead and hold the unwary temperance voter.

Mr. Gillespie unreservedly places temperance interests before party interests and merits our support. Mr. Soden utterly fails to do this but persists in pretending to do it. Soden says, "I may," Gillespie says, "I will."

Mr. Soden ties his own hands at his own convention by stating he would not pledge himself on these matters. Mr. Soden requested me to have our Executive defer its pronouncement 24 hours that he might go to Toronto and see if he would be recognized as a Conservative candidate if he went all the way on temperance matters. He stated to me in the presence of a leading Conservative business man of this city that he was prepared to accept our first two questions asking for the abolition of the three-fifths clause. We deferred our pronouncement at his request; he went to Toronto, saw Dr. Pyne, returned and stated to a member of our Executive that he could not sign our questions and in the course of a few days completely flopped on the three-fifths clause.

We have no use for men of that calibre; they have proved a greater menace to our cause than open opponents. Past experience bids us beware of these statements that are hollow, deceptive and misleading.

To the discerning, thinking, temperance voters of West Peterboro, we may say, away with temporising, let us stand by our principles, stand by our candidate, stand by our cause.—A. B. Cuningham, Secretary, County Temperance Association.

THE WOMEN'S SUMMER PASTIME

No Special Knowledge Necessary to Enter

While many women readers are following the Summer Pastime with interest there is occasionally to be found one who asks: "How can I enter; what do I know about outdoor sports?"

Such a remark is almost foolish, considering what has been stated so plainly in the announcements. The names of players are used because they represent a large and somewhat picturesque list, but the fact that they are players makes no more difference than if they were names taken from a list of taxpayers or from a city directory.

The Summer Pastime Handbook gives a list of 2,500 names and it is guaranteed that those in the rebus picture series may be found in this book. Thus it becomes as easy for an invalid grandmother to participate as for a sportive grandson.

There will be complete fairness and the valuable rewards will positively be given. Apart from the prize that is being sought there is a fund of amusement for every participant.

A CORRECTION.

Last evening our local contemporary contained an article stating that the dance held at the pavilion at the end of the Street Car Line was in charge of a number of young ladies from St. Peter's Sodality.

We learn that this information was entirely incorrect and are further informed that if any members of St. Peter's Sodality happened to be present it was entirely without the approval of the Sodality.

To the Men of Peterborough

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

> "If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop, I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party."

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am just 52 years of age and during Change of Life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. THOMSON, 549 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Preachers Back Conservatives

He was glad to observe that the nomination of Dr. Ross, Kingston, had been moved by Bishop Bidwell and Principal Gordon. This they had perfect right to do as citizens, and ministers also had the right to nominate Liberal candidates if they desired to do so, but they should not go into their pulpits and advocate the election of the men they nominated. The action of a few clergymen in this campaign had already done unlimited injury to the temperance cause, "and I say more, that if these men, few as they may be, go on they will strike such a blow to the influence of the churches of this Province, as will be felt for a century to come. I call upon all true and good men to resent the action of these ministers in a way that they will not forget, this desecration of the pulpit."

English-French Schools

Sir James passed on to the bi-lingual school question. "Mr. Rowell," he said, "declares that he did not sign any statement on bi-lingual schools. That's all right; he has never been accused of signing any statement, but the trouble with Mr. Rowell is that you have to build a ten-foot fence around any subject that he undertakes to discuss." He quoted the Toronto Globe on Mr. Rowell's position on bi-lingual schools.

"This is an English speaking Province and an English speaking Province it shall remain," Sir James quoted. "It is the duty of the Government to provide that every child shall receive a thorough English education."

—"That's h's position and there isn't one word in it about bi-lingual schools," the Prime Minister commented, adding, "But at New Liskeard, he had more to say."

He quoted the Liberal leader's statements in that town to the effect that be would be glad to see the children of French-Canadians receive an education in their mother tongue.

"What's your objection to that, Mr. Whitney?" shouted a man with a French accent from under the gallery. "I am only showing, my friend over there in the semi-darkness," that Mr Rowell is trying to ride two horses at once an before I'm through I may show that he is trying to ride three."

Dodging the Issue

Mr. Rowell, the Premier went on was stating in French-Canadian centres that no obstacle should be placed in the way of the teaching of French in the bi-lingual schools. He was trying to line up the French-Canadian electors into one solid phalanx to support him on the implied promise that he was favorable to the teaching of French. "Isn't Mr. Rowell—I won't say slippery—but isn't he intensely elusive? When you put your thumb down on him be isn't there. Have not his followers reason to be astonished when they read in The Globe that he has nothing to say about any kind of an education but an English one and then read his statements made at North Bay and New Liskeard?" he asked.

Sir James dealt with the history of the regulations dealing with bi-lingual schools, declaring that his Government had consistently refused to be a party to educational enactments which would make a third class of schools in Ontario. "Mr. Rowell," he declared, "may play at battledore and shuttlecock with this question but no man in this Province, no matter how illiterate can be in the dark as to our policy on bi-lingual schools. Our policy is plainly and definitely stated on the statute books and in the regulations of the educational department and upon that policy we stand firmly."

Sir James apologized for occupying so much time. "Go on, go on," came shouts from all over the hall.

Promise For the Future

He proceeded: "We may have made mistakes in the past. We are, as Mr. Lucas said, only human but in asking you a fourth time to support us we pledge ourselves to a continuation of the policies we have been proud to carry in the open."

Sir James then undertook to thank the people of the whole Province for the kindness and sympathy shown to him while he hovered between life and death. His voice broke pathetically as he spoke of the kindness he had received from men of both parties and from persons in every walk of life. "May God bless you every one," he said with emotion as he took his seat. As one man the vast audience arose and cheered—cheered till the great building fairly vibrated—waved handkerchiefs and hats from the ground floor, the boxes and the two great galleries and redoubled its efforts when Chairman Price called for "three cheers for Sir James Whitney."

New Knight Spoke

Sir Adam Beck followed the Premier, receiving a rousing reception as he stepped forward to make his first public speech since receiving the honor of knighthood from his Sovereign. "Ten years ago," said the Hydro-Electric genius, "Sir James Whitney was a man of many promises; to-day he stands before you as a man who fulfilled his many promises." The "Minister of Power" devoted the greater part of his speech to the work of the Hydro-Electric Commission and to the expectations of the publicly owned system for the future.

Hon. I. B. Lucas, Provincial Treasurer, made a splendid fighting speech, interspersed with witticisms that put the big crowd in great humor. As custodian of the public funds of Ontario, Mr. Lucas declared that though the Whitney administration had expended one hundred millions of dollars during its tenure of office it had not been so much as hinted that one dollar of this vast sum had gone in graft or been dishonestly spent.

Stands For Temperance

He also affirmed that he took no second place to Mr. Rowell in his desire to see the abolition of the liquor traffic, a statement which was received with enthusiastic cheers.

"The Whitney Government is a human Government—not a perfect Government," he said. "It has made mistakes and probably will still make mistakes. But the question was, 'Is it right in its fundamental principles?'"

"You can't judge a Government by spots and specks," he went on, "and you should not condemn a Government because you do not see eye to eye with it on one of a thousand details. What you want to ask yourself is this: 'Are they moving in the right direction? Are they advancing?' I think I am reasonably safe in saying that we are. We have a record of nine years of administration without the shadow of a charge of graft or scandal."

The Government's Record

Mr. Lucas aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm by his recital of the benefits accruing to workingmen from the Workmen's Compensation Act. "That's social legislation," he declared amid applause, "and social legislation of the most important character. But the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Hydro-Electric policy and the nine year record of the Whitney administration Mr. Rowell asks you to forget, and to remember only his policy of abolish the bar."

Mr. Lucas said he was a firm believer in the principle that the temperance question should be kept out of politics.

Dealing with Mr. Rowell's Woodstock meeting the Provincial Treasurer propounded this question: "Were you, Mr. Rowell, one of the Temperance Liberals who turned the Ross Government out?" "No," answered a great many voices.

Great reforms, said Mr. Lucas, do not spring up in a day. "They are the result of just the kind of work that Sir James Whitney has been doing in this Province."

A Plain Record

"Are you satisfied with the policy of Mr. Rowell on bi-lingual schools?" he asked. Cries of "No."

"What's Whitney going to do?" shouted some one from the gallery. "Sir James Whitney's policy," replied Mr. Lucas, "is written clear and unmistakably upon the statutes of the Province. Has Mr. Rowell been frank in stating his position?" "No," chorused the crowd. The Provincial Treasurer closed his remarks with a warm personal tribute to the Prime Minister.

The Chairman's Joke

Mr. W. H. Price, Chairman of the meeting and Conservative candidate in Parkdale, made a hit when he said the Liberal platform had but one plank and that was a one-inch board upon which Mr. Rowell stood gingerly with one foot while the other reached back for support upon the firmer foundations of "shop licenses."

Hon. Mr. Lucas raised a laugh when he declared that he got his best campaign material from The Toronto Globe. "We have a lot to thank The Globe for," he said. "It gave up Reciprocity and we know the result; it gave us Mr. Rowell and we will soon know the result."

"We will be watchful to seize those opportunities and go forward in further minimizing the evils of the traffic."—Sir James Whitney.

"Nine years of administration and not a dollar of graft."—Hon. I. B. Lucas.

HOME RULE BILL OPEN TO CHANGE SAYS CREWE

Liberal Leader in Lords in Introducing Proposals for Exclusion of Ulster Hints a Further Compromise on Part of Government

LONDON, June 24.—The crisis in connection with the deadlock in regard to the granting of Home Rule Rule to Ireland entered another stage yesterday when the Marquis of Crewe, Liberal leader in the House of Lords, introduced a bill to amend the Irish Home Rule bill.

The terms of the amending bill are identical with those offered on March 9 by Premier Asquith and contemptuously refused by Sir Edward Carson, the Irish Unionist leader, who described the Premier's proposal as a "hypocritical sham."

By the new bill the Parliamentary electors of each county in Ulster are to be allowed to decide by vote whether the county shall be excluded from the provisions of the Home Rule bill for a period of six years from the first meeting of the new Irish Parliament.

The situation has never been paralleled in Parliamentary procedure in the British Isles. Never before has a bill been presented to Parliament to amend a measure not yet on the statute book. This was, however, the only means of overcoming the deadlock, as the House of Lords refused to consider the main bill until the full proposals of the Government were before it.

The Marquis of Crewe made it quite clear, however, that the amending bill was not necessarily the Government's last word. "The bill gives the widest possible latitude for an amendment," he said, and he explained that under it the civil government in the excluded areas would be administered by the Lord Lieutenant through officers to be appointed by him.

The Marquis of Lansdowne expressed relief that the Government had at last realised the necessity of making some effort to avert an imminent danger. He wished he could add that its contribution yesterday had met the need for fundamental changes in the Irish Home Rule bill which alone could make it workable.

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

LIBERAL LEADER AT STRATFORD

Mr. Rowell Addresses the Electors of North Perth

STRATFORD, June 24—Mr. N. W. Rowell, the Liberal leader, addressed a crowded meeting of electors of North Perth in the Opera House here last night.

Mr. Rowell, who was cheered on rising to speak, declared that the Government thought they could trifle with the temperance sentiment of Conservatives in the province, that they could get the support of the liquor interests and yet expect their Conservative friends to stand by them. "All honor to the thousands of Temperance Conservatives in this province," remarked Mr. Rowell, "that they refused to fall in with such an alliance and placed patriotism above partisanship in this contest. The Government has dissolved and called for an election, but we have made the issue."

Concluding his address, Mr. Rowell declared: "I say to the man who believes that the bar is a curse, and yet who, for the sake of party, votes to retain the bar, that he must carry in his conscience to his dying day his share of responsibility for every home blighted, every life blasted, every child ruined by the continued existence of the open bar.

"You cannot dodge the issue. The liquor traffic is lined up on one side, with all the resources it can command. Organized Christianity is lined up on the other. You must go to the polls and vote for one or the other. Now is your chance. Will you be patriots and Christians, and rise up and smite the traffic? If so, the 29th of June will mark the death signal of every open bar in the Province of Ontario?"

J.D. FLAVELLE SCORES LIBERAL

tremo opportunist in Ontario." His great fault was that he could only see one side and that was the political side. Mr. Flavelle took his audience back to the year 1905, when the Ross Government was fighting for its life. Then in spite of the warnings of his friends Mr. Rowell deliberately sacrificed his temperance principles for his party. He supported the worst enemies temperance ever had in this Province—the Ross Government. He stumped the whole province and sold his temperance convictions to keep the most corrupt Government Ontario ever had in power. "If he had his way," continued Mr. Flavelle in his terrific indictment of the father of the "Abolish the Bar" policy, "the Ross Government would be in power to-day."

Favors Three-Fifths Clause.

Mr. Flavelle said that the only complainst against the Whitney Government was that they did not abolish the three-fifths clause and adopt the Liberal temperance plank. Mr. Flavelle had been a supporter of the three-fifths clause nine years ago and after fighting in two local option campaigns, the last of which had been lost because of that provision, he declared that he was more in favor of it than he had been when it was introduced. When local option carried with the three-fifths clause the question was settled and the battle was over. The liquor men were beaten and the people could settle down to the new order of things with the feeling that it was permanent. This Mr. Flavelle's long experience told him was an inestimable advantage to the temperance forces. He characterized the Whitney Government as the only one in fifty years that had enforced the liquor laws. There had not been an atom of criticism on this ground.

Birth of "Abolish the Bar."

Mr. Flavelle then related the circumstances under which the "abolish the bar" policy had been adopted by the Liberal party at a convention held in Toronto in 1911. Then they had said let us drive Whitney into the arms of the liquor interests. We have nothing to lose. It was born for the express purpose of bringing the Liberals back into power. A prominent Liberal told Mr. Flavelle that the shop license had not been included in the abolition policy because it would not get votes. What security had they, asked Mr. Flavelle, that Mr. Rowell would carry out his pledge any more than Mowat and Ross had. They were just as good temperance men as the present leader of the Opposition.

Best Province Ever Had.

"We are asked to forsake the best Government this Province ever had," continued Mr. Flavelle, "by a man who deliberately knowing it to be the case, preferred his party to his conscience."

Mr. Flavelle then read from the report in the local Liberal paper of Rowell's speech in Lindsay in which the Leader of the Opposition said. "Before God I have done my duty. Now it is for you to do yours." With a gesture of distaste at the wording of the Liberal Leader's appeal, Mr. Flavelle said: "Mr. Rowell is the most arrogant political hypocrite in the Province today."

"I am a temperance man first, last and all the time and I say do not let a red herring be drawn across the trail," concluded Mr. Flavelle as he sat down amidst great applause.

Belgian Steamer Ashore.

MONTREAL, June 24.—The Belgian steamer Gothland, which went ashore yesterday on the rocks two miles to the northwest of the Bishop Rock, Scilly Islands, while on her way from Montreal to Rotterdam, carried 89 steerage passengers and between 250 and 300 of a crew, including stewards. She left Montreal on June 12. The Gothland is a Red Star vessel, running under the management of the Canadian line.

The Gothland struck during a dense fog. Lifeboats from St. Agnes and St. Mary's in the Scilly Islands, have gone to the scene of the wreck.

One Killed In Cave-In.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Nearly half a block of sidewalk and superstructure over a new Brooklyn subway caved in yesterday, burying more than twenty workmen, killing one and badly injuring six. A wagon and a team of horses were engulfed and one of the animals was killed. Many tons of debris filled the excavation, and firemen and police reserves had to dig out the injured. It was one of the worst cave-ins in the history of New York subway construction.

Troops Will Bivouac Together.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., June 24.—A bivouac of Canadian and United States troops about a common camp fire will be a feature of the celebration here next month of the 100th anniversary of peace between the English-speaking peoples, it was announced yesterday. A camp of Canadian and American regular soldiers and state militiamen will be established on July 3, and on July 4, all of the soldiers will participate in a parade.

PETES WALLOP BRANTS BRAND NEW TWIRLER

RUBE Deneau took a chance and tossed a Nickell in the ring at Riverside yesterday in an effort to stop the Petes but Rube's Nickell proved a phoney and the Petes slammed out 14 bingles, one of them a triple and three, two base clouts, for a total of eight runs while the sliding Brants were only able to collect seven hits and three runs off the delivery of Louie Schettler. Verily Mr. Nickell was sorely plugged and the Petes simply kept punching holes in his offerings regardless of his efforts to plug up the breaches and repulse the assault. Nickell comes from the South Michigan League.. While Mr. Nickell was being rudely treated, for a debutante, Schettler was making the Brants eat out of his paw and for the first four innings not a Brant reached first. In the sixth they solved Schettler's shoots for three pokes and one run while again in the ninth after the game was safe they collected three more for two counters.

IF WE SHOULD WIN TO-DAY AND ---

If Peterboro takes the third game of the series from the Brants today and Hamilton and Toronto lose the Petes will be in fifth place. It is very seldom a half a game separates a tail end club from fifth place in the league race but the fact that such is the case in the circuit indicates emphatically just how close the Canadian League race is. And what is more if St. Thomas loses to Erie today and the other "ifs" referred to materialize the Petes will only be a half a game from fourth place or the tail end position of the first division. Baseball is a funny thing however and who knows but that all the teams in the "if they lose class" may win and the Petes may lose. Even if the Petes do lose they will not fall out of sight by and means. Right now the club is playing just as good ball as any club in the league and if it continues at the present classy speed will be right on the heels of the leaders before many moons have passed through the clouds and broken up humerous spooning matches. No one can deny the fact that the infield playing at its present clip is good enough. Every man is fielding nicely while the inner circle crew is also hitting timely and often. Then in the outfield the work both at bat and in the field is all that can be desired with Dad Stewart topping the list of timely swatters. Given good box work the Petes will surely take a journey upwards.

SOME SMART WORK.

The score would indicate a slow game but such was not the case as the play was featured by some smart infield work including two doubles by the Brantford crew. The inner circle men had a busy day of it but looked after everything that came their way in good style. Roth at the keystone sack for the Red Sox played a nice game and had eleven chances without the sign of a boot while Forgue's work was a striking contrast over his erratic game of Monday. King and Fox covered a lot of space around second and short for the Petes and only one piece of slow work was noticed and that was on Deneau's slow hit through second in the sixth. Joe Byrne also had a great day and went out into left after one which looked out of his reach. There was not a poor throw all afternoon. Rooney the new first sacker again made a hit with the fans and gathered two hits. Dad Stewart was there with three pokes one of them a triple while Mully Miller poled out three. A peculiar incident occurred in the seventh innings. Miller hoisted one back of third which looked like an out. Instead of running Miller stood at the plate and when Forgue and Nelson let the pill drop between them Miller raced for first and was safe, thereby earning his third hit. Fox had two clouts at the leather while Welsh stung it for two safeties.

It was good baseball that won the game for the Petes as they did not miss once on the sacrifice and worked a couple of double steals to perfection. On the other hand Miller had the Brants sticking to the bags like a crew of Ancient Thirsteriners to a keg. So while Schettler twisted them over in great style and did not allow a base on balls, struck out five Brants and was heady and steady at all times, still his team mates did their share to sew up the game.

FAST AND NUMEROUS.

Blount walked to start Mr. Nickell on his rocky journey. Byrne forced him at second. Welsh came through with a poke to center and Stewart slapped one into left scoring Byrne while Welsh went to third. Welsh was out at the plate while Rooney rolled one to Ivers. Rooney and Stewart worked a double steal and the latter scored and Rooney romped home on King's two bagger. In the third Stewart started off with a triple to deep center and scored on Rooney's single. The latter was sacrificed along by King and then swiped third. Fox drew a pass and Miller's single to left scored Rooney. In the fourth Blount worked Nickell for a pass, his third of the day, went to second on a wild pitch and scored on Byrne's sacrifice and Welsh's single. In the sixth Blount started off with a double to center was sacrificed along and came home on Welsh's sacrifice to left. In the seventh Rooney singled, was sacrificed along and scored on Fox's single. The eighth was the only innings in which Peterboro did not get a hit.

CHESTER KING
The Petes' middle sacker is giving the fans some mighty fine baseball.

FEW AND FAR BETWEEN.

The Brants never had a chance until the sixth when Nickell scratched a hit, went to second on Burn's single and scored on Deneau's poke through second. In the ninth Rooney, Schettler and King allowed Nelson's pop to drop between them. He went to second on a wild heave and scored on Deneau's drive to right. Rube scored on Taylor's two base poke to right and that will be about all for the time being.

COMMENT
As You Like It

TY COBB'S southern blood caused him to run amuck with a gun at Detroit Saturday. He claimed the butcher insulted Mrs. Cobb, at the point of a gun. Ty forced the butcher to apologize via the phone route. He then started to clean up with his fists and suffered a battered thumb which will keep him out of the game for a week.

DOC REISLING in an interview at Hamilton, says the Canadian League is playing faster ball than any of the other "B" class. The doc also contributes a few flowers to the ultimate funeral of Canadian League ball in Erie. He says that the newspapers or some of them are prejudiced against outside ownership, and in his opinion George O'Neil would do well to dispose of his franchise, as the people over there are sore. The doc's statement is only another evidence of the narrow minded spirit Erie fans have displayed since coming into the league. Erie could not get into a league that could weather the storm of a season until the Canadian League placed a club there, and the fans would do well to remember that had not the Canadian League invaded Erie, there would have been no organized ball there this year. It seems as though the spirit of being easily led by foolish newspaper statements is one of the points wrong with the Erie fans. Their team is only two and one half games behind first place. What more do they want?

JACK JOHNSON, the world's champion pugilist, will defend his title on Saturday at Paris, when he will hook up with Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh coal heaver or some other sort of profession. The big ink spot is expected to win easily and should if in condition. Reports from the training camps of the pugs are contradictory. One report states that the big smoke is shot and cannot stand the grind, while another pronounces him in the pi[illegible] admit he has not lost any of his cleverness and that iron like defence which is said to be the greatest possessed by any fighter in ring history. According to that, Moran will have to be mighty clever and strong to batter it down. If the fight becomes a long one, Moran may have a chance as condition would then tell, as no matter how Johnson looks, a man cannot carry on the life of debauchery and ease that he has and expect his frame to stand a long grind. Therefore, watch out for a hurry up battle on the negro's part.

Mr. Clothing Buyer
Dear Sir:—You would read every word of a letter from a friend; wouldn't you?
We don't believe even your best friend could write you a more important letter than this one.
Several of your hard earned dollars will go for Clothes and Furnishings this season. Oftentimes there's a big difference in the value you get for the dollars you spend, and it's better to find out before you buy where your dollars will go farthest, than to wish you had.
Drop in here, tell us what you would like to see, and we will consider it a privilege to show the goods to you. If it's a suit, you may try them on, stand before the glass and see for yourself how particular we are about every little feature that makes for perfect fitting garments.
You are going to discover that our determination to outdo other stores in point of extreme value-giving this season is going to mean considerable money saved, or increased satisfaction to you. Take our $15 and $18 suits for instance. If you buy one, you'll get more style-value, fit-value and wear-value for the price than you ever did before. And we are selling corresponding values at all prices from $5.90 to $25.00.
But a personal visit to the store is the only way for you to satisfactorily understand what this value-betterment means to you.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

FITZPATRICK—TORPEY.

St. Joseph's Church, Douro, was the scene of a very pretty wedding this morning at nine-thirty, when Rev. Father McGuire united Mr. John Fitzpatrick, son of Mr. John Fitzpatrick of Asphodel to Miss Mary Torpey, daughter of Mr. M. Torpey of Otonabee. They were attended by Mr. F. Hurley and Miss Mary Condon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick will reside in Asphodel.

LANGEVIN—LETELLIER.

One of the prettiest and most popular weddings was solemnized in the Church of the Sacred Heart at nine o'clock this morning, when Dr. J. O. Langevin of Ottawa, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Olive Letellier, daughter of Mr. L. D. Letellier of this city. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. J. J. O'Brien, in French, the mother tongue of the young couple. The bride, who was given away by her father, was charmingly gowned, as was her attendant, Miss Eva Gordon. Mr. Aleric Letellier attended the groom. Little Louise and Eva Letellier were the flower girls.

The altar and church was fittingly decorated. The Sacred Heart choir, of which Rev. J. V. McAuley had charge, acquitted themselves very creditably. Mr. J. Armstrong, the organist, rendered the appropriate music in an exceptionally fine manner. The edifice was taxed to its greatest capacity with friends and acquaintances, including many members of the Sacred Heart Sodality, of which Miss Letellier was a member. Among the out of the city guests were Miss M. Camfield of Chicago and the groom's father, Mr. J. Langevin, of Montreal.

After the ceremony the happy couple and a few immediate friends assembled at the home of the bride and a wedding dejeuner was catered by Mr. T. Hooper and staff.

The bride and groom were the recipients of numerous congratulations and costly gifts bespeaking of popularity.

Mr. and Mrs. Langevin left on the C.P.R. 11.22 en route for a wedding trip to Boston, New York and Atlantic City, which will extend over a period of four weeks. On their return they will take up their residence in Ottawa.

Miss Eula Rose of Belleville, who has been attending Normal School, returned to her home yesterday.

Miss Daisy Thaine has returned to her home in Campbellford.

Messrs. Lewis and Newton Thompson, of Cleveland, are visiting with their parents.

Mr. T. Barnett of Ottawa, is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Barnett, 12 Stewart Street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Pearlman of Detroit, accompanied by Miss Fay Rothenberg of Detroit, are guests at the Oriental. They are leaving for Kawartha Lakes for a vacation.

Mr. Archie Lampman of T.C.S., Port Hope, is a guest in the city.

Mr. O. A. Langley, of Lakefield, was in town to-day on legal business.

Mrs. Margaret Schwerdt and her two sons, of 58 Victoria Ave., left to-day for a two months' trip to England and Germany, visiting her mother and other relatives.

Miss N. Stenner of Ardwick, England, is a guest in the city.

Mr. James McGuire of Toronto, is among the visitors in the city.

A GOOD MAN HAS DEPARTED

Hon. S.H. Blake Was Known From Sea to Sea

FUNERAL ON THURSDAY

TORONTO, June 24. — The Hon. Samuel Hume Blake, K.C., distinguished lawyer, churchman and educationist, passed away early yesterday at his residence, 46 Maple avenue. Deceased was 79 years old and had been in poor health for the past few months. Yesterday he took a turn for the worse, and, owing to his advanced age, his physicians held out little hope for his recovery. His family were, therefore, notified and remained at the bedside until the end.

The late Mr. Blake was a brother of the late Hon. Edward Blake, M.P., and was senior member of the legal firm of Blake, Lash, Anglin & Cassels.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon, following a service at St. Paul's Church at 3.30 o'clock. The interment will be private, and the family have made a request that no flowers be sent.

Born in Toronto in 1835, S. H. Blake was educated at Upper Canada College and Toronto University, graduating in 1858. Two years later he became a barrister and took silk in 1872. Almost immediately he was called to the Bench and was Vice-Chancellor of Ontario until 1881, when he resigned and resumed general practice. He had the respect of the entire Bar of Ontario, and had filled most of the offices of honor in their gift.

HON. S. H. BLAKE, K.C.

His chief joy in life, outside of his profession, was the English Church. He was truly a religious man, upright, and uncompromising as the Puritans, and with a passion for the modified Ritual of the low branch of the church. He had no sympathy with the Oxford movement.

All his life he had been a Sunday school teacher, and it was a rare privilege to listen to his clear and masterly exposition of Holy Scripture. He was one of the founders of Wycliffe College, has been president of the International Sunday School Convention, of the Toronto Y. M. C. A., and of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Proud of his church, proud of his creed, determined, vigorous, broad-minded and supremely intellectual, he was beyond question the most eminent layman of the Anglican communion, and one of the most eminent Christians of this country.

Of late years the most spectacular legal cases in which he was engaged was the Gamey trial, when he held a briew for the Provincial Conservative party, in opposition to Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C.

Mr. Blake was twice married. His first wife was the daughter of the late Bishop Cronyn, of London, and his second, Miss Baird, of Toronto.

THE DAILY REVIEW

INDUSTRIAL EDITION | PETERBOROUGH, JUNE 24, 1914 | FIRST SECTION

The Peterborough Daily Review

"PETERBOROUGH'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER"

INDUSTRIAL AND GREATER PETERBOROUGH EDITION

A Message of Prosperity:

PETERBOROUGH, having advanced with giant strides in civic and commercial importance, it seems fitting that the fact of the city's unpredecented growth and prosperity should be proclaimed for the benefit of the home makers and the investing public. The advancement of Peterborough and its evolution from a small town into a progressive city of commercial and financial importance coincides with that of the Review. This announcement carries with it the assurance of still greater progress and growth in the immediate future. This edition of the Review proclaims the general prosperity of to-day and invites the investors and the home makers of the country to share in the future growth of the City of Peterborough.

We, as representative citizens, business men, manufacturers, wholesalers, merchants and professional men, heartily endorse the Industrial and Greater Peterborough Edition of The Review as a medium for proclaiming the truth about Peterborough, for extending its commerce and increasing its prosperity, and for aiding in the work of building up the Greater Peterborough in which we all share.

We know the City, we know the conditions that have made it what it is, and we know that those conditions, improved by the enterprising and progressive spirit of our citizens, are bound to make it one of the leading industrial centers of the Great Province of Ontario.

PETERBOROUGH is a natural center for distribution. Two great railroads, with their branches, place it in direct connection with every important city in the Dominion. Though growing rapidly, it offers excellent factory sites and can furnish attractive homes for many times its present population. With a moderate tax rate, it supplies an excellent water and sewage system, and ample fire protection. It has the best of banking facilities, and superior public and private educational institutions, one of the Provincial Normal Schools being located here.

Its present population of 22,000 represents a growth in the last ten years of 70 per cent. It stands in the heart of a rich agricultural and dairy region, and within a radius of 50 miles of the City there is a large trading population with Peterborough as its market and purchasing center.

Information regarding the many advantages of the City may be secured by addressing The City Clerk, The Mayor, The Review, The Board of Trade Secretary, or any of the business firms or individuals whose names appear below.

The De Laval Dairy Supply Co. Limited

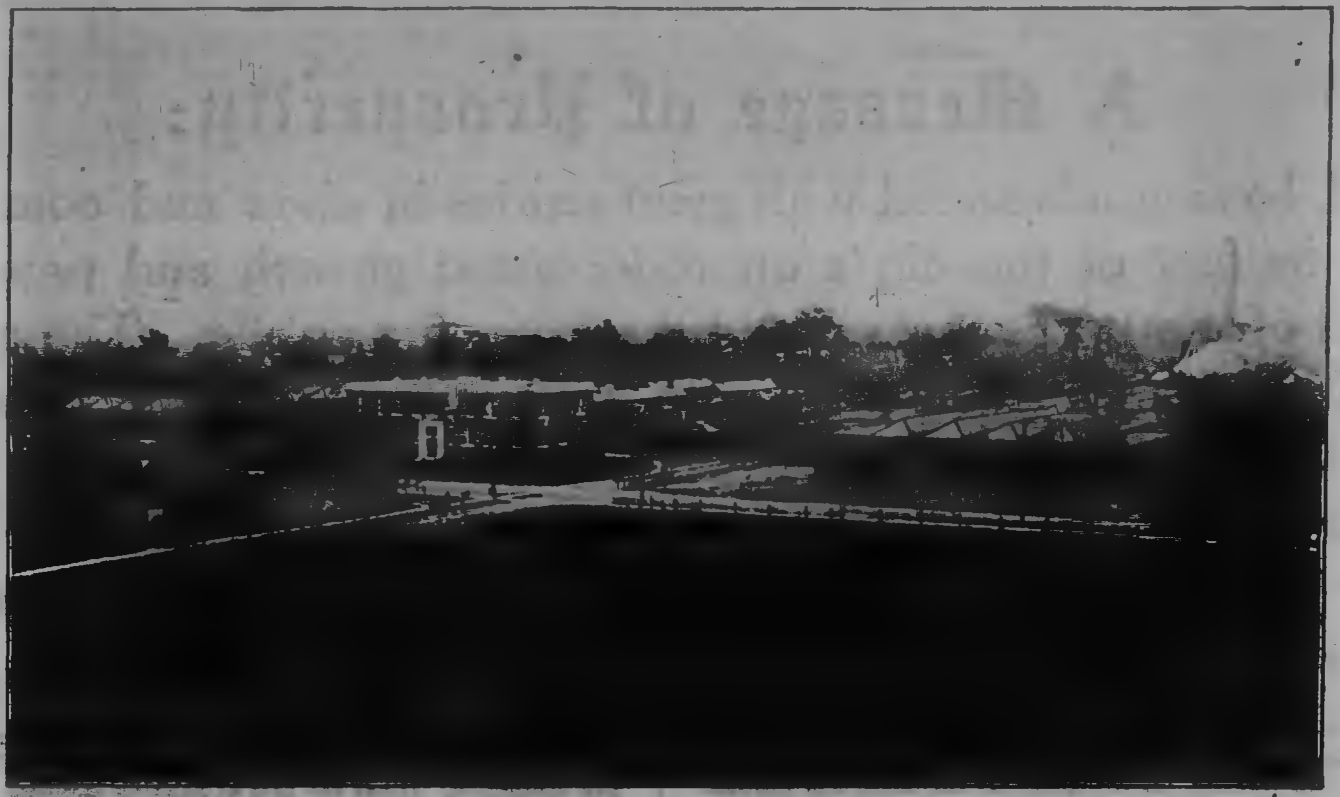
Where is the Most Modern and Scientifically Constructed Office and Factory Buildings in the Dominion

For more than thirty-five years, the name "De Laval" has been synonymous with evidences of progressive dairy conditions all through this world. The growth of the De Laval Cream Separator business has not been an accident. Built on efficiency of operation of the machine, which the company has made its highest aim, the trade has developed until there isn't any question of the superiority of manufacture, operation and organization of the machine and the company back of it in this and every other dairy country in the world. More than one million seven hundred thousand De Laval Cream Separators have been sold. Other separators of one kind and another have come and gone, but the De Laval efficiency has maintained its position in spite of any competitive efforts, which shows well that the quality argument is not lost on discriminating dairymen.

The De Laval Dairy Supply Company, Limited, is a Canadian Company, with a Dominion charter, and operates in every province of our Dominion. It has offices in Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Peterborough, where its general offices are located, as well as the manufacturing plant. Some several years ago, the De Laval Company took up the manufacture of the general milk dealers, creamery, cheese factory and farm dairy equipment and supplies, including its celebrated Ideal Green Feed Silo, which is known from one end of the Dominion to the other. De Laval equipment is to be found in practically every city across the continent, and the name "De Laval" may be easily substituted for the word "quality," or vice versa, without disparagement to either. Government farms are equipped with De Laval manufactures; great railroad companies use De Laval goods in their institutions, and in the various dairy schools and experiment stations, De Laval equipment is used and specified, and the De Laval policy of co-operation in educational matters is greatly appreciated by those who have this work in hand.

Some two years ago, the company's manufacturing location proving inadequate, both in their St. Johns, Quebec, and Montreal factories, it was decided that a new location of the De Laval Dairy Supply Company, Limited, factories and general offices would be made. A careful survey of the possibilities afforded in various sections of Ontario was made, and after full comparison from every point of view, it was decided to build the new plant in Peterborough. Arrangements were effected and plans made which have been carried through with the result that to-day, on the fifteen acre site on Park street, Peterborough, there stands the most scientific and modern in every respect general offices and factory that there is in the Dominion of Canada. Visitors to the plant have been astounded at the beauty of the finish and the substantial, sanitary and convenient arrangement in the offices and factory, and have not hesitated to express themselves in admiration of the result.

That the Company's location here has been a tremendous asset to Peterborough is without question. The employees of the company are practically all Peterborough people, with the exception of a few old employees brought from the Montreal and St. Johns factories, who look upon Peterborough as their home and are well satisfied with the change. The company has distributed more than twice the amount of wages which it was estimated they would do, and through all the depressing trade conditions of the last year or two has maintained its efficiency in manufacture with a full force, which indeed it was necessary to do to take care of the large amount of orders and fill the requirements of the tremendous organization back of the De Laval Dairy Supply Company, Limited. When it is understood that the De Laval organization embraces in the neighborhood of three thousand local agencies, and that its general lines are looked after by a field force of forty supervisors, it can be readily seen that business must come where these well trained forces are directed toward the accomplishment of securing business and placing quality goods through their great outlet.



DE LAVAL DAIRY SUPPLY CO. LTD., PETERBOROUGH.

The plant at Peterborough is divided into three sections; section one being known as the creamery factory building, in which all of the dairy and creamery equipment and supplies are constructed. Here may be seen the large factory churns, capable of churning out as high as twelve hundred pounds of butter at one churning, the tremendous bottle washing machines, bottle filling machines, pasteurizers, sterilizers, butter workers, Babcock testers, Ideal Green Feed silos, and other articles entirely too numerous to mention here. Through all of this line of manufacture, De Laval quality is kept strictly to the front, and those who purchase anything from the creamery factory building may be assured that it is just as high-class in construction as is the De Laval Cream Separator. The second wing is the warehouse for finished goods of all kinds. It is two stories high with a mezzanine floor and a monitor roof which gives splendid light. The third wing is the separator factory, where the cream separators are built. The creamery and separator building are one story, saw-tooth roof construction, and even on dark days this roof arrangement gives a beautiful light that means very much to the workmen and to the work.

It is now just about a year since the company started operations here in Peterborough, and to say the least, the City of Peterborough is very proud of its acquisition and takes the liberty of saying to any prospective business looking for a location that reference to the De Laval Company will certainly give the reason why any business looking for a new home or a change in location should "SEE PETERBOROUGH FIRST."

The company's purchase of millions of feet of lumber and steel and iron and other raw material is tremendous. Its aim is to purchase everything in Canada that can possibly be secured in Canada. More than half a mile of railroad tracks are laid on the Company's premises affording splendid shipping facilities for all departments of the business. The plant is sprinklered throughout and in addition maintains a one thousand gallon per minute fire pump, which has an independent supply from a cistern containing one hundred and fifty thousand gallons of water. Industrial tracks are laid throughout the grounds, so that transportation of raw materials is carried on with the least expense.

The administration building has one hundred feet front by fifty feet deep, two stories and basement. In this building there are employed about forty people.

As Peterborough stands to welcome all manufacturing enterprise looking for the best in locality and convenience and economy in operation, the De Laval Company in particular extend a cordial invitation to all inquirers in this respect to visit the plant and at any rate before doing anything elsewhere, "SEE PETERBOROUGH FIRST."

J. J. Turner & Sons

Manufacturers of Tents, Flags, Awnings, Etc., Have Become Known All Over Canada for Quality of Goods

If the modest beginning made years ago by J. J. Turner is now remembered, it means that all the more credit must be given the man who is now the head of a business that is known in various foreign countries as well as all through the Dominion of Canada. As a matter of fact, there is no need to recall the starting point of this industry for the sake of comparison. It may be compared with existing businesses of the present time and it will be found that the present organization of J. J. Turner & Sons has not only made a remarkable development in itself, but has become a leader in its field, throughout the world. This somewhat wide statement may be substantiated in this way; that this concern, whose founder learned his trade in England, now sends back to England and sells them there, the very commodities he learned to make there. South Africa takes some of the products of this company, and the United States in placing orders here, virtually admits that the Turner work and products are not equalled in the States. Also from Charlottetown, P.E.I., St. John, N.B., through to Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., there are increasing demands for any and all of the canvas and rubber goods that are manufactured by J. J. Turner & Sons.

This company has occupied for some ten years the modern and impressive brick building on George street, which comprises six floors. Two of these floors were added last year, and yet the organization has not the capacity it needs. There are some forty machines installed and eighty-five to a hundred people are employed, and some thirty thousand square feet of floor space occupied. The street floor presents an idea of the transactions of this house, disclosing as it does flags and tents, awning materials, canoes and canoe furnishings, yacht and boat sails, camp furniture of all sorts, and lumbermen's tents and blankets. Even this is but a general list, for under each caption it is likely to be found that these manufacturers have invented or developed some special feature. But in any event any thing that is needed in rubber protection, sail or canvas is made here. There are no sail makers on this continent that equal those in this establishment, and this is not an exaggeration since J. J. Turner himself has the confidence of the fastest and steadiest of boats, and he scours the Dominion, the States and England to have worthy men along side of him. Sails are made here for any or all sort of craft, and they are made so that the great sailing capacity will be given by these canvasses. Tents for any purpose whatever are manufacturer, and the tent of to-day, with its comfortable design and convenience, is little like the peg top affair of some years ago. They are made to conform with modern ideas of sanitation, and in this respect the Turner people have so completely met the desires of experts that their tents are used by hospitals, explorers, the militia and by the Government for various purposes.

Flags for all nations may be made here, though the Imperial designs are largely produced. Thousands of flags and pennants are produced annually. This concern has made awnings for some of the largest buildings in Ontario, and has sent other orders to far away points. It has been one of the most frequently mentioned names in any part of the country when celebrations were taking place, and as decorators, this Peterborough organization is second to none. A year ago, it sent out four car loads of decorations to Regina, Sask. This year it has been given numerous contracts in the cities where the Governor-General has been visiting and all necessary materials for a striking and handsome display have been provided and arranged with the good taste, which is another attribute of this company. The trade mark 5/T is attached to horse blankets, stable sheets, fly sheets, robes and other horse furnishings, but this only stands for quality that is always visible and demonstratable in all goods manufactured or handled by J. J. Turner & Sons. Workmanship and durability have always been factors in the business of this house, and they are solid portions of the foundations upon which the business has been constructed. J. J. Turner was a sailmaker in England twenty years before he came here. Fourty-four years ago he came to Peterborough, and with but a few shillings in his pocket, he started operations for himself. Even though they have grown to where nearly a hundred people are employed, and four of his sons are associated with him, Mr. Turner is now called upon by old customers to plan and cut a sail himself. And he takes time to do this in spite of a multitude of other duties. His sons are John J. Turner, Jr., Reginald H., Webber F. T., and Achilles W. Turner. These have been partners for fifteen to eighteen years, and have been reliable and progressive business men, though initiative, ability and energy is supplied by J. J. Turner quite as voluminously now as twenty years ago.

B. F. ACKERMAN, SON & CO.
WHOLESALE HARNESS, COLLARS, SADDLERY &C.

B. F. ACKERMAN, SON & CO.

B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co.

One of the Greatest Harness and Saddlery Companies in Canada, Has Been Operating Here Twenty-two Years

In reality the Ackerman harness and saddlery business dates back to 1871, when it was founded in Norwood, and moved to Port Perry in 1878, by B. F. Ackerman. But the firm of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co. is entirely identified with Peterborough, and the wide reputation of Ackerman products has come since the business was brought to this city. It is likely that from the earliest day of operations there was something about the quality and workmanship of the Ackerman goods that appealed to customers. But it was by coming to Peterborough that greater facilities could be obtained; more convenient shipping accommodations be secured; and much greater territory reached. Thus the success of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co. is really counted from 1892, when nearly twenty years after the industry was started in Port Perry it was brought to this city. The premises that were taken at that time were sufficient for only a few years, and in 1899, the plant on George street, nearly to the C. P. R. depot, was constructed. Even that was not adequate for a great length of time, for two additions have been erected in succeeding years; while for the trade of the Great West it has been necessary to have a warehouse in the Prairie country. In this city the main building has three extensive floors, while other buildings are two stories high, in all about forty-five thousand square feet being the floor area. In Regina it has a five storied warehouse. The building was erected in 1911. The company from its factory here ships to the west in car loads and makes Regina its distributing point westward, so that orders that are received by B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co. are filled without that loss of time, that would ensue if goods had to be sent on from this eastern site. Though the west is a great market for our factories in the east, Ackerman harnesses and horse goods are known to the eastern limits of this country. One salesman travels through the Maritime Provinces and three in the west. Three go directly from the factory here through intermediate territory.

There is literally nothing that is needed for horses or stables that is not handled by B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., and harnesses for working or pleasure driving animals are turned out in large quantities in quality and designs to suit any number of different tastes. There is, however, always one essential, and that is that each piece of leather goods that goes out of this Peterborough factory must come up to the Ackerman standard in material and durability, and to this end the leathers that are best finished and in their raw state are lasting and wearable, are used. Expert men have for years had the designing of patterns so that saddles, bridles, hames or collars will fit and cause the horse that wears them no irritation or annoyance. There is in the working harnesses durability that is not excelled; while for pleasure driving, there is an elegance and style that is appreciated by lovers of fine horse flesh, and who want everything in their turnout to be appropriate. Riding saddles are made for men and women and are handled by the Ackerman Company in the lower priced as well as in the high priced goods, that are handsomely ornamented and designed. Robes, coats, whips and saddlery hardware of all kinds are handled and the harness trade throughout the Dominion of Canada is served by this organization which is one of three leaders in this field in the country. As wholesalers, B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co. also call upon the shoe trade and handle findings, leather, stains, polishes, etc., this jobbing department being a valuable part of the business.

The company, when it first began operations in this city, gave employment to about thirty-five people. Now the pay roll will often contain one hundred names, and the moneys that are distributed by this harness factory is an important addition to the financial disbursements in this city, and is a benefit to all the establishments in this community. The present company is composed of B. F. Ackerman, W. C. Ackerman, C. H. Ackerman and other family interests. Mr. B. F. Ackerman, who was responsible for the industry, continues a forceful factor in its progress and substantiability, and the two sons who have been associated with the business for all their working years are enterprising and alert and co-operate effectively with the senior member of the house.

WILLIAM HAMILTON COMPANY LIMITED

Manufacturers of Water Wheels, Saw Mill and Pulp Machinery, are Continually Enlarging Field of Operations

Anything in special machinery is the recommendation that is given the Wm. Hamilton Co., Ltd., and this reputation is making the organization more and more widely known and bringing it orders from all parts of the Dominion. To be sure it is not as though the Wm. Hamilton Co. had not been known for years, but the fact remains that there is constant changing and progression in the industrial world, and only those who keep pace with the procession may expect to add to their trade or even hold old patronage.

The Wm. Hamilton Co., Ltd., was re-organised by its present stockholders in 1908, but even these six years have presented notable advancements. New operations have been put into effect or old ones have been improved, and now it is known that any demand in special machinery may be filled at the Peterborough plant with entire accuracy, skill and competent workmanship. This firm is probably most widely known as manufacturers of saw mill machinery, as this type of machinery has been built in the Reid street plant for over fifty years, and their operations have extended from the Pacific Coast to Newfoundland. This is a large line of machinery, comprising as it does the machines necessary to handle the huge logs of the Pacific coast, as well as the smaller logs in Eastern Canada.

The great increase in the number of hydro-electric plants in this country has provided a good deal of work for this company, who also build water wheels in all sizes. The turbine wheels in the new Auburn plant here were built and installed by the Company, who have handled the "hydro" end of many large and modern plants in Ontario, Quebec, and the Maritime Provinces.

These plants are built complete at the company's works, even to the large steel pipe lines used in so many installations. The shop which turns out these pipe lines is also equipped to handle structural steel work, steel tanks, smoke stacks and all forms of steel plate work, and a large business is now being done by the company in these special steel structures. This concern is one that has become convinced of the possibilities of pulp manufacturing in the Dominion, and to this end it has devoted much of its energy in the making of special pulp mill machinery. The Hamilton Company has already equipped a number of pulp mills with its specially designed machines, and is prepared to do more of this work as the pulp mill business expands in this country.

The Wm. Hamilton Co., Ltd., has lately, as is well known in this city, turned some of its attention to the manufacture of ornamental light poles. The handsome street lighting equipment in our own city was made by this company, and similar work is now in progress in Windsor, with a contract for 300 poles. The contract that was awarded to the Wm. Hamilton Co., of Peterborough, by the Municipality of Outremont, Montreal, was certainly a compliment to the workmanship and fair dealings of this local house. There are to be 500 poles, and the price will run to something over twenty thousand dollars.

This Peterborough concern is the one that has the preference from one of the largest automobile manufacturers in the world. It makes castings for the Ford Motor Co. to such an extent that in the spring and summer months a carload is shipped to Windsor every two weeks, and undoubtedly it is this far-reaching and varied ability of the company that has kept it in constant operation and has brought it demands from new territory and new patrons.

This organization, with its fine plant on Reid street, running to McDonnell, has its own pattern department, foundry, machine shop and boiler works, and each part of the work undertaken comes under the supervision of expert people. From 125 to 175 men are employed, and during this past winter parts of the plant were run three nights a week.

The officers of the corporation are all men active in the plant so that personal and interested efforts are exercised for the good of each department and the business as a whole. The president is G. G. Gladman; vice-president, L. A. Potvin; secretary-treasurer, J. C. Smith; other officers being C. R. Cameron, sales manager; G. R. Munro, engineer.

MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL LIMITED

Evolution and Remarkable Growth of Packing Business Has Taken Place from Peterborough

Though the plant of Matthews-Blackwell Ltd., on George street, near the C. P. R. depot, bears only a little resemblance to the original establishment, the operations and principles of the business are the same as when it was modestly started here by George Matthews. It was the desire to serve the public, and the ability to do that gained trade for the concern at its foundation; and with expanding trade and territory there has been a greater amount of facilities and capacity so that customers should be attended most efficiently and promptly. The building that was occupied back in the eighties is now enclosed in the great packing plant that is utilized by the Matthews-Blackwell Ltd. But instead of a small building with a couple of thousand square feet there is now a main brick factory of three floors that presents an area of sixty thousand square feet. There are other adjacent or adjoining buildings for the plant in its entirety is one of the largest in Peterborough, excepting, to be sure, the few manufacturers whose products go all over the world.

In its expanding years the Matthews-Blackwell Company have taken upon itself new operations, but the premises in this city are confined to the packing of pork products, and these are eatables that have had a considerable share in the upbuilding of the reputation of the Matthews' business. There is no food stuff, perhaps, that one wants to be surer of than hog products, and because the public generally has confidence in the quality of Matthews' goods, it has continued to demand them.

The hogs that are received at the plant in this city are killed, cleaned and dressed in the most thorough and scientific manner. Two Dominion Government inspectors carefully inspect every car load of live hogs on arrival, and this inspection is continued throughout all the processes of manufacture, until finally the finished product, bearing the Government's seal of approval, is placed on the market. The severity of this Governmental supervision means that all the various products of the Company are absolutely wholesome, pure and unadulterated.

Principal foodstuffs that are manufactured here are hams, bacon, lard and various kinds of sausages. The premier brand is the Rose brand, and there is also the Anchor brand, and these two are both guaranteed and conform with every requirement of the pure food law. One can, of course, conform with laws and still not provide anything especially palatable, but in case of the Rose brand products, there is a zest and piquancy that is most appreciated by people of discerning taste. There is only a slight difference between the Rose and Anchor, and for the price, it is allowed that nothing packed in this country is more delightful than what is prepared right here at this Peterborough plant. This same company packs and handles beef products, but has other factories where different work is done. The business under its present title has only been conducted since 1911, as formerly it was the George Matthews Co. Ltd. But three years ago the Matthews Ltd. was merged with the Park-Blackwell Co. of Toronto, and the Laing Packing & Provision Co., of Montreal. Factories are operated in Toronto, Montreal, Hull, Brantford, and this city, and the head office is in Toronto. Distributing branches are in Sudbury, Fort William and Winnipeg. To the east the shipments are made to Sidney, Cape Breton and Halifax, N.S., and trade in the west is as wide as the boundaries of the Dominion. There are about fifteen salesmen employed locally, which gives one the idea of the territory that is covered from here. In the plant there are about one hundred and twenty employees, which is also a considerable crew in a business of this kind.

The factory is operated by electricity, though there is an auxiliary steam plant which is used for heating and drying, and is also ready for motive power at any time. The refrigeration of the packing house is a scientific and economical method and the machines that are employed for that purpose have a capacity equal to the melting of eighty tons of ice per day.

The officers of this limited company are W. E. Matthews, president, Ottawa; C. S. Blackwell, Toronto, vice-president; T. F. Matthews, Peterborough, secretary-treasurer. The business dates back to 1868, when it was founded in Lindsay by George Matthews. It was located in this city in 1888, and was in charge of W. E. Matthews until 1892, when W. E. Matthews went to Ottawa and T. F. Matthews took charge here. The premises were enlarged in 1896, again in 1898, and later in 1904, so that the first building of 48 by 100 has been hidden by the heavier construction in later years. A partnership existed until 1894, when the George Matthews Co., Ltd., was formed, and Mr. Matthews, Sr., retired. The merging that took place in 1911 was the next important step, and with the consolidation that is now in effect, the Matthews-Blackwell Ltd. is now one of the great figures in the packing world of Canada. In this city there are three very well kept and modernly stocked retail stores and they are conducted with the thoroughness and effective series that have been characteristics of the wholesale business, and which have been conducive to development and success in both manufacturing and merchandising.

The Calcutt Brewing and Malting Company Limited

Soundly Established Industry Has Given Satisfaction in Its Field to Local and Outside Consumers

There is scarcely a manufacturing field of ordinary or general importance that has not some representative among the industries of Peterborough. This has been a beneficial matter for the city which is really complete in its own resources, though as it sends out much of its manufactured products naturally it expects to bring some share of what it uses. Ale, porter and lager have for nearly half a century been local products and the Calcutt Brewing & Malting Co., Limited, has catered to the demands in this line with completeness and success. The output of this brewing company has been sent to towns outside of Peterborough also, but the largest consumption has been within the local limits, and those who are in the best position to know how these beverages are manufactured, are those who are most eager and generous in their patronage.

The Calcutt Brewing & Malting Co., Ltd., has a number of trade mark beverages on the market and each one of these stands for quality in its particular class. There is Champagne ale, Dublin porter and Trent Valley lager. The lager is brewed in the most skilful manner and the materials that enter into its composition are most carefully selected. Every stage of the brewing is done skilfully and the fermentation is carried through in a perfect manner. The cooling and ageing processes are the best ones known by which the exhilirating taste of the beer will be retained in all its freshness. The Champagne ale is made of the highest quality malt and other condiments and there is a sparkle and life to this beverage that is healthful and invigorating. The body that is most necessary in a wholesome and nutritious porter is furnished in the Dublin stout that is manufactured here and there is always a guarantee of purity with any of the malt liquids that are produced by the Calcutt Brewing & Malting Co., Ltd.

Modern and sanitary vessels are installed in the brewery and every operation in brewing is performed carefully so that no foreign element will come in contact with the liquids. Separate departments are each equipped with machinery for different purposes and the bottling department is distinct from the others. Here are machines for filling bottles so that there is no personal contact with the contents. The bottles are labelled and capped expeditiously and they are put into cases with celerity. Half and whole barrels are also made ready for the trade and about the city there are two teams engaged in deliveries. The Brewing & Malting Co. has transactions with hotels and liquor stores, but through the wholesalers many households are provided with these beverages and the people of Peterborough have always agreed that the malt liquids manufactured in their own city are equal to any for refreshment, palatableness and invigoration. Spring water is obtained on the premises and tests are taken of it from time to time, so that the consumer may be always assured of its purity.

The Calcutt Brewing & Malting Co., Ltd., occupies a group of buildings and a fine piece of property on Burnham street, and the buildings run deep down into the land that banks the river here, so that the brewery presents a capacity of eighty to a hundred thousand barrels a year. About twenty people are employed.

The business is managed by H. Gordon Logan, who is secretary of the corporation, and the Calcutt family that were founders of the industry retain their holdings in it. Mr. Logan has been identified with the enterprise for years and for himself and as the representative of the Calcutt interests, he deals fairly and straightforwardly with the public; gives the best product of which the brewery is capable and offers the trustworthy service and accommodations that the public appreciates.

The Quaker Oats Company

Remarkable Manufacturing Plant Has Been Constantly Enlarged for Expanding Canadian Patronage

Possibly no other investment or enterprise has brought to Peterborough quite so much publicity and desirable notice as the Quaker Oats Co. It was a recommendation to the city when the company decided to locate here, and the fact that numerous other sites were presented, was proof that Peterborough had more advantages than could be offered by others. The Quaker Oats Company's products has an immense distribution, and as every one of its packages that leave the local plant bears the name of Peterborough, it is almost inestimable the number of people who have looked upon this name from time to time and been made familiar with the "Home of Quaker Oats." This foreign advertising, as one might call it, is of course but one of the minor benefits that has been effected by this mammoth cereal company. Its tremendous plant is one of the greatest factors of the community, and the size and number of the buildings is sure to impress the observer with the importance of Peterborough as a manufacturing site, while one is also struck with the thought that an industry requiring such a plant must have an enormous turnover.

Both thoughts are undoubtedly effective, for the advent of the Quaker Oats Co. gave a splendid impetus to industrial life in this city, and there is no question about the reputation of Quaker Oats and the conviction that it is the national breakfast food. Figures that corroborate these impressions are not lacking, for the company here use 35,000 bushels of grain a day, and handles forty cars a day. The business has been in operation since October, 1902, though the buildings were begun two years before that. Since then there have been repeated expansions, so that the location in Peterborough has justified itself not only through economic location, but through increased trade. To the original large building, Warehouse B, a building of five floors 80x90 was added in 1906, and the first building was made more commodious by raising it one story. A new storage elevator has been constructed and in it are eighteen twenty-one foot tanks. The elevator is 95 feet high and has a storage capacity for 750,000 bushels. A concrete warehouse of four floors and a basement has also been constructed in later years, and this has a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 280. In all the company has some 326,700 square feet of floor space, exclusive of its elevator.

The entire plant is electrically driven, power being generated at its own dam and power house, which has a capacity of 3,500 h. p. Through the buildings there are some 40 motors installed that range in capacity from two H. P. to 300 horse power. The company has machines for assembling its boxes and making the shells for packages and it also makes its own barrels by machinery. It has four spur tracks through the yards, so that car load consignments are unloaded at its doors and shipments may be made in the same way without any waste in time or labor. The plant in truth is the largest and best equipped in Canada and is creditable both to the Quaker Oats Co. and to this city.

Even with the great additions that have been made to the plant in the past eight years, the capacity has not kept up to the demand and there has been constructed in Saskatoon a smaller mill that reaches the Western trade both in Quaker Oats and flour, facts not wholly related to Peterborough, yet emphasizing the ever increasing demand for these foods. The factory in our own city is operated from Sunday night to Saturday midnight, and there has been no lull in activities the twelve years the business has been here. As there are about five hundred people employed it is seen what an economic feature this industry is and has been. It has one of the largest working forces that is employed here, and it keeps them settled and contented by steady employment. The annual pay roll is about one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, and this enters and benefits every trading channel in the city. The administration and over head expenses and the large investment are other features that are helpful to this community. Flour, Quaker Oats, rolled wheat and puffed cereals are milled at this plant, and all these commodities are offices of the company, brokers and salesmen. Sales offices are maintained in Montreal and Toronto.

The Quaker Oats Company

CREAM of the WEST
FLOUR

CAMPBELL FLOUR MILLS CO., LTD.

Campbell Flour Mills Co. Limited

"Cream of the West" and Other Products Have Led to Increased Business in Enlarged Peterborough Plant

It is only little over three years since The Campbell Flout Mills Co., Ltd., began operations in Peterborough, but in that time much has been accomplished. It is known that the achievements have been beneficial to Peterborough, and it is assumed that they have been advantageous to the manufacturers. To be sure the Campbell Mills, as they were founded by Archibald Campbell, who died last year, have been one of the industries of Toronto for more than twenty-two years, and is recognized as one of the solid industries of that city. But the Peterborough plant, nevertheless, has taken care of a market about here; has been operated economically and has reached some consumers more promptly and cheaply than could be done from Toronto. The plant near the C. P. R. depot that has been in possession of the Campbell Flour Mills Co., Ltd., since May 22, 1911, and had been occupied some ten years before that by the Central Milling Co. It meant, however, a thorough remodelling and improving when the Campbell Co. took hold, and there has been more or less expansion in the period that has followed. The mill has a capacity of four hundred barrels a day, and to get this output, the most effective and productive machinery has to be operated. This is what the mill is equipped with, and in improved and reliable methods, there is no flour plant in any part of the country that is better supplied with modern and tested equipment. This makes it possible not only to turn out a quantity of flour, but to turn out the quality for which the Campbell Mills are noted.

The "Cream of the West," "Toronto Pride" and "Monarch" are the three brands that are most in demand, and are most intimately associated with the name of Campbell. Cream of the West is the guaranteed flour, and housewives have baked with it for years, and add their commendation to the guarantee of the company. It is a flour that is always made of selected wheat, and it is milled to an even color and smoothness. It is tested so that it is always equable and in bread or pastry it is always uniform from year to year. The other brands of the Campbell Flour Mills Co., Ltd., are just as carefully manufactured, and whatever grade they are placed in, they represent the greatest nutrition and best appearance that are found in those grades. This company is a market for all the wheat that is raised about here, though it has to depend, like all other millers of the present day, upon western wheat. The Manitoba grain is brought here in large quantities, and coming through the great lakes and the canal, this Peterborough plant is supplied with its raw material at less cost than mills that are inland and nearer the wheat country. Also distributing facilities are adequate and economic for this industry, so that when domestic trade is somewhat quiet, operations at the mill are kept up by supplying a foreign trade. Shipments are made from this Peterborough flour mill to London, Scotland, South Africa and the West Indies, and the majority of the time, the mill is kept running night and day.

In addition to the remodelling which took place three years ago, this company last year doubled its storeroom and put in an elevator or feed plant. This year a poultry food plant has been installed, so that virtually all sorts of food are manufactured on the premises. A wholesale trade is almost exclusively catered to, and the immediate territory supplied is from Port Hope to Brockville. One salesman is sent out from here, but from the Toronto head office, there are travellers in Quebec two of them; three in Ontario; two in the Maritime Provinces, and agents in West Indies, and orders that may be filled or shipped more economically from Peterborough are given to the mill here, so that being a branch concern, such as the Campbell Flour Mills are here, is an advantage rather than a detriment.

D. A. Campbell, formerly general manager of the company, is now president, and N. H. Campbell is secretary-treasurer of the company and manager of the Peterborough mill. Both are sons of the founder of the business, and have been schooled in every phase of flour manufacturing. Manager N. H. Campbell is not displaying his training and experience, but is demonstrating an enterprise and efficiency that are successful and productive.

PETERBOROUGH CEREAL CO., LTD.

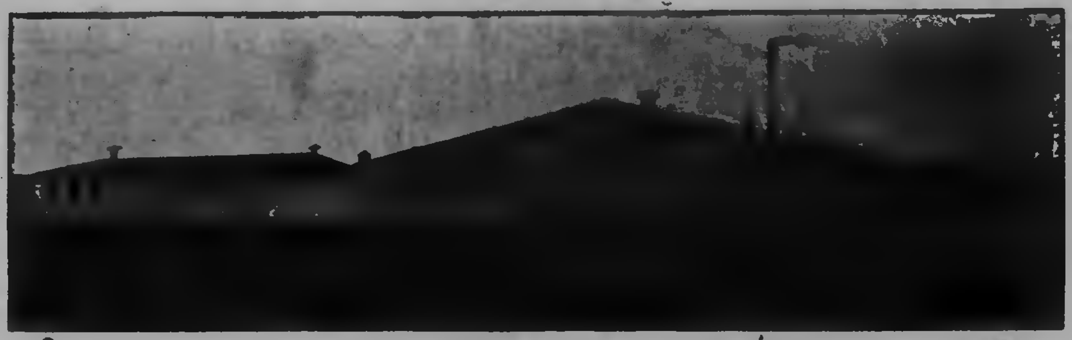
Peterborough Cereal Co. Limited

Extensive Plant Fully Equipped is Productive in Highly Recommended Flours

Local retailers have been most fortunate in their experiences in handling the products of the Peterborough Cereal Co., Ltd., and the satisfaction of the retailers has been realized because the consumers themselves have appreciated these products and have made a continual demand upon their grocers, who in turn have looked to these local millers for their supply. The Peterborough Cereal Co., Ltd., then is one of the industries that is really patronized in its own town, and this is the exception rather than the rule, since there is a proverb notably true that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country.

The Peterborough Cereal Co., with a modern and fully equipped mill on Simcoe street, has won its patronage because it has given patrons the quality and selections that they might desire. Simply because the business was conducted in Peterborough was not considered a reason that Peterborough people should use its goods. But this organization has looked for trade on the strength of the smooth and even flour that it manufactures and the satisfaction that different brands give for all baking purposes. The "Reindeer" is the special flour that is milled here for bread making, and this flour is made from choice wheats and is white and smooth, so that the bread comes from the oven, attractive and wholesome looking, and is in fact a most nourishing food, as all the good qualities of the wheat are retained. "Five Thistles," "Peach Blossom," "Mikado," are other bread flours, while "Periwelss" and "Delight" are special millings that are recommended for pastry. Something like sixty grocers handle more or less of these goods within the City of Peterborough, and this includes all the good sized retailers. However, even that is not all the reputation these flours have obtained, for they are sold all the way from Toronto to Halifax, N.S., and Newfoundland. An export trade is also conducted and shipments made to the West Indies, to England and other points occasionally.

The company has up to date equipment for milling flour and is also engaged largely in the feed business, corn, oats, barley, rye, etc.; some of the most modern machinery in Central Ontario being operated here for crushing oats, corn, etc. There is an elevator with a storage capacity of one hundred thousand bushels, and the flour mill has a capacity of 350 barrels a day. A certain amount of wheat that is raised around here is bought by this Cereal Co., but the majority has to be brought in from the West. The company has its own spur track right at the door and the waterways are also used for economical transportation. The company makes its own barrels and has a cooperage plant with all facilities for this work. The property, in fact, is an extensive one, and has a frontage of fully two hundred feet on Simcoe street. Thirty people are employed and two teams used about the city. Also four salesmen are sent out from here. Semolina and Wheatlets are special foods prepared at this plant, though the manufacture of cereals which was the principal operation when the mill was founded in 1905 has almost entirely been succeeded by flour manufacturing since 1909. The property in 1908 changed hands, and the present limited company, which took active control in 1909, consists of J. W. Meyers, president, and B. H. Meyers, secretary-treasurer. Mr. J. W. Meyers is also the manager, for he was in the flour milling and feed business in another part of Ontario before coming here. His practical and thorough experience in the milling business has been most effective for he has developed the Peterborough Cereal Co. with increasing productiveness and success. He has been ably assisted in several departments by his son, and it is undoubtedly the attention and expertness that has been given to all essentials that has worked for the good and prosperity of the whole plant.



THE BRINTON CARPET COMPANY, LIMITED.

The Brinton Carpet Company Limited

A Very Active Industry in Peterborough

The Brinton Carpet Company, Limited, has been in operation in Peterborough since September, 1906. They produce some of the finest carpets that are woven in Canada. Of course this company is in competition not only with Canadian manufacturers, but with all carpet concerns who sell to the Canadian trade, namely, England, Scotland, France and Germany.

The Brinton Carpet Company is not manufacturing cheap carpets. On the contrary, is turning out the best in Brussels, Wiltons and Axminsters, under no circumstances using anything but first-class materials and the most skilled labor attainable. The increasing amount of business done and the large orders that have come from purchasers who are solicited by virtually every manufacturer, prove conclusively that the Brinton Carpet Company can, and does, manufacture floor coverings that from intrinsic and artistic standpoints are not surpassed.

Ninety per cent. of the production is in rugs, for except that used in hotels or great buildings of that character, piece goods are not so much in demand.

The company employs a staff of designers, for, though not quite as changeable as millinery, there is always a prevailing style that must be considered by the carpet manufacturer, and the Brinton Carpet Company is most alert and foresighted in this respect.

The plant of the company, which is attractive both from the outside and the interior, is of a particularly heavy concrete construction. It has a floor space of seventy thousand square feet, with a very high ceiling, affording an unusual quantity of room for each worker, abundance of light and free circulation of air at all times. The plant is operated and lighted by electricity, though there is a steam generation of one hundred and forty horse power for dyeing, heating and drying.

The Company owns nine acres of land and there is a beautiful stretch of lawn that runs from the buildings to Lock street. Part of this was turned into a splendid bowling green last year, and the three trophies that were donated by officers of the company, were vigorously contested for by between forty and fifty employees of the company. Tennis courts were opened at the same time and have proven very popular. The grounds are lit by a generous number of electric lights and the sports are often continued well into the evening.

About one hundred and eighty people are employed, who are mostly all residents of this part of the city, and these have helped wonderfully in the great growth that has taken place in this section.

Mr. G. R. Copping, of Toronto, is president of the company, and I. E. Brock, general manager.

THE ORIENTAL

Peterborough's Leading and Widely Reputed Hotel

A contention that a hotel would not pay without a bar and that travellers would not patronize it, has been removed by the Oriental this past year. Moreover the Oriental continues to occupy the leading position that it has done for many years. It is the hotel that is patronized by the commercial men of standing who have liberal expense accounts allowed them. It is also patronized by the higher class of tourists or transients who have any business in Peterborough. Actually it is not an expensive house for the standard rate of $2.50 a day is only increased when certain extras are demanded.

There are several rooms with private baths and half a dozen with running hot and cold water. There are some twenty sample rooms. Many salesmen take these rooms for days or weeks at a time and travel through the surrounding territory but get back to Peterborough each night. This certainly means that they like the lodgings, food and service that are provided for them.

The Oriental has just installed a handsome soda fountain and counter and has put on sale in the same room the ice cream which it manufactures itself. The fountain is one of the finest in Peterborough and every sort of a summer refreshment is served in this attractive apartment. A large room in the rear has lately been fitted up for billiards and first class tables are in use.

The Oriental is a four storied brick building that has a frontage of 114 feet on Hunter street. There are 85 rooms and as some of them are double, there is no trouble in accommodating one hundred or more guests. The dining room seats seventy-five, but at one banquet the number present was 183. The Oriental has always been the headquarters for public gatherings—political, social or fraternal—and its dining room and parlors have sheltered notable guests. The rotunda is large and comfortably furnished and there are well arranged and conveniently equipped writing room, ladies' reception room and other relative facilities. The halls and rooms are kept in excellent shape. Though the hotel has been in existence for years, it has been improved from time to time and long distance telephones are being installed in the rooms and is up-to-date throughout. Accommodating service is given in all parts of the house and a bus is sent to the stations for all trains.

In fact making guests feel at home and responding to any reasonable request is the method prevailing here.

The Oriental for the past year has been managed by the late T. McDonough, who was for years chief clerk. Mr. McDonough's illness threw much of the responsibility upon the assistant manager, J. Donald Shook, and it was Mr. Shook who supervised the innovations this spring and looked after the installing of the soda fountain and the equipment of the billiard room. Mr. Shook is a young man well known in Peterborough, though he had been in Regina just previous to taking this position here. He has demonstrated adaptability and enterprise in his management and is credited with a large share of the success in the Oriental in the past twelve months.

THE PETER HAMILTON CO. LIMITED

Farm Implement Manufacturers That Have Made Peterborough Known Throughout the Dominion

In the past decade or two, Peterborough has become known for the number and variety of its products so that it has a recognized position as one of the manufacturing cities of Ontario. But the beginning of its present industrial greatness was made long ago and earlier organizations like the Peter Hamilton Company, Limited, had made Peterborough known as a producing site long before some of the present organizations had been heard of. Farm implements bearing the name of Peter Hamilton Co. have given confidence to agriculturists for more than a generation and the association has given consumers a personal interest in the makers of these tools and the city where they are produced.

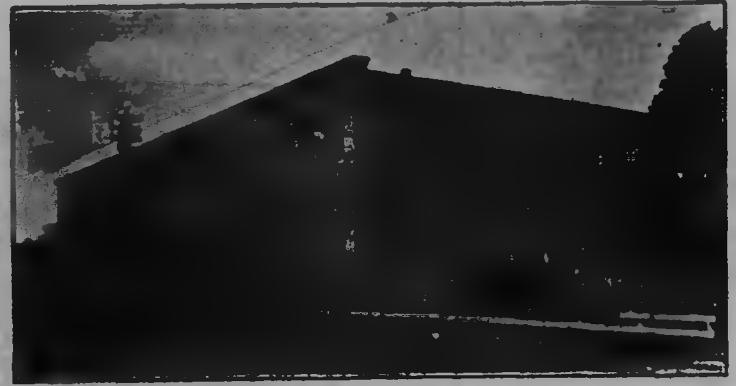
With its great plant on both sides of George and King streets, the Peter Hamilton Company, Limited, has one of the most complete as well as convenient manufacturing premises in this part of the country. It is in a position to receive materials economically and to ship expeditiously. It has employees who have been with the organization for years and it has under its own roof, the different departments that supply or supplement one another, so that the lowest cost of production may be maintained.

This company has never tried to reach a vast area, where transportation would be most expensive. It has cultivated the region about here and with the result that the farmers of Ontario are convinced of the merit of the Peter Hamilton Co. implements and are steadfast in their use of them. These implements, moreover, are sold in cities that are the homes of other makes; and this is added evidence of the satisfaction that the Peter Hamilton implements give. Numerous shipments are made through the province of Quebec and New Brunswick also presents a receptive market. Also this Peterborough industry has connections in Australia and an export business has been effectively developed.

These manufacturers of farming implements make their own patterns. They have a large foundry and make their own castings. Steel and wood work are done expertly and the construction of any Hamilton implement is carefully supervised from the beginning to the end. There are particular points of advantage about practically every implement made and these are readily observed and appreciated by those who use them. Drills and disc of various capacity, cultivators, seeders, harrows, ploughs, etc., branded with the name Peter Hamilton Company have endured for years and are now being operated with the ease and productiveness for which they have long been known. Feed cutters are given particular attention by the Peter Hamilton Co. and the demand and results show that they are worthy of the application that has been given them by the producers.

The Hamilton business was founded in 1848, and besides the changes in administration and production, there has been improvement in equipment and also the necessary expansion to keep up with the heavier market. From one hundred to one hundred and twenty-five men are employed and this concern has always been one that has distributed thousands of dollars annually in wages and has been a benefit to the community through its employment of labor, and disbursement of finances.

James Hamilton, the managing director, has been identified with the business for years and has been in entire charge since the death of the late Peter Hamilton. He is one of the well informed men in the implement manufacturing field and is a worthy representative of the family industry that has been built up by ability, experience and integrity.



THE BONNER-WORTH COMPANY LIMITED

Spinning and Dyeing Yarn One of the Successful and Increasing Industries in this City

A notable success has been made by the Bonner-Worth Co., Ltd., since it was established in Peterborough in August, 1911, and the success has not only gratified those who were interested in seeing the industry located here, but it has more than pleased the people who are financially concerned. It has been found that Peterborough is not only a good place for operating but that it presents a market that was hardly expected when this yarn organization located here. The yarn that is spun and dyed here is purchased in considerable quantities both by carpet and woollen mills here. Also there is a considerable portion of Ontario, like St. Catharines for instance, that can easily be cultivated from here, so that the marketing of the products is facilitated by being manufactured here.

This company to be sure makes a yarn that is demanded again and again after it has once been used, and the reputation of the men with the business has led to a number of big concerns giving the yarn a trial, that would not have been given a totally unknown company. Once used it has been found that the yarns from Bonner-Worth's are altogether superior to the ordinary yarn offered here. It is second to none in perfectness and quality and it has a durability and tensile strength that makes it most effective for the uses for which it is designed. Any and all colors are secured here and perfect levelness in all shades are guaranteed.

The yarns of worsted are mostly used for sweaters, hosiery, carpets and garment materials. The Bonner-Worth Co., Ltd., for both spinning and dyeing has made an unusual reputation in a comparatively short time and doubtless one of the facts that has contributed to its advancement is the exclusive and experienced attention that is given to the operations. This mill is in fact the only one in the Dominion that devotes itself entirely to spinning yarn. Others that spin also manufacture, but the Bonner-Worth Co. applies itself to getting out the very best yarns and there is no lack of market among the manufacturers who turn out designed worsted products.

The Bonner-Worth Co. has brought new distinction to Peterborough for it adds to the considerable variety of industries here and as it is a leader of its class there is special credit due the firm and the city where its operations take place. Beside this more or less intangible good, this corporation has done this city, are more obvious helpfulness. For instance, the company employs something like a hundred people and has an annual pay-roll of twenty-five to thirty thousand dollars. Its plant was begun early in the year of 1911 and last year there was an addition built, to give it double the capacity; the two floors and basement that are now occupied presenting a floor area of 33,600 square feet.

The neighborhood in the west end where the plant is located on McDowell street has been largely populated since the Bonner-Worth Company came here, for not only have the employees of this mill chose to live as near as possible their employment, but other workers who have come to the city and not found accommodations in the centre of the city have chosen to go out that direction for the atmosphere and wholesomeness that are offered.

The air is always fairly cool; also it is somewhat moist; at least not dry, and these are conditions that are helpful in the manufacture of yarn and assist in the high grade of the yarn that is produced by Bonner-Worth.

This liability company has for its officers, I. Bonner, president; E. Worth, secretary-treasurer; D. Worth, superintendent. Also W. Worth and J. W. Worth have the supervision of different departments. All of these men had formerly been with the well known Penman Company, manufacturers of sweaters and underclothes as well as of yarn, and President Bonner is still identified with Penman interests. The Messrs. Worth had apprenticeships and experiences in the old country as well as here, and there is nothing that shows the effect of thoroughness and ability than in spinning and dyeing. So that it is not extraordinary that consumers recognized the quality that is being offered by this Peterborough plant and the patronage and prestige that has already been gained by the Bonner-Worth Co., Ltd., is only one step in the long lane of prosperity that lies before it.

Peterborough Hardware Co. Limited

One of the Oldest and Best Known Distributors in this Section, has Developed Territory.

PETERBORO HARDWARE CO.

The pioneer business house, like the pioneer explorer or engineer, has the path to blaze and the underbrush to clear away, so that whatever or whoever follows has the benefit of the work that was done by the initiative forces. The Peterborough Hardware Co., Ltd., was one of the earliest wholesale houses in this city, and there must always be credit given to the pioneer spirit of the early partners in this business, who, by their success, demonstrated the facilities of Peterborough to reach a large part of the province promptly and economically.

The business as it is manifested to-day is one of the largest in this part of Ontario and caters to a wider territory than almost any other jobber about here. The reason probably lies in the fact that the concern has been known for so many years, that people have a confidence and friendship for it that cannot be displaced. Even though they may remove some miles from this shipping point, they feel that no more satisfactory relations could possibly be encountered, and so they stick to the firm which they have at all times found reliable. Other reasons contribute, of course, for with its present transportation facilities, Peterborough is the logical market for the country for many miles about here. This Peterborough Hardware Co., Ltd., moreover, looks after the isolated towns with as much thoroughness as the more congested ones and the retail trade is not given spasmodic calls, but frequent and continued attention.

The plant of the Peterborough Hardware Co., Ltd., moreover tells its own story for the size and solidity of the building at 190 George street is the indication of the volume of business that takes place here. It is a brick building of three floors with a wholly usable basement. An elevator gives quick access to any floor, and there are private sidings so that the consignments that are being received by rail, are often surplus stock that is not counted in the capacity of the building. This fine structure was constructed in 1910 and has a frontage of forty-four feet and a depth of one hundred and seventeen, so that the area comprises 20,592 square feet.

This capacity is needed, for in light and heavy hardware, this corporation has resources that make it depended upon. There is nothing that the retail dealer in hardware can demand but what is met here. There are the trade and farming tools that are mostly required in this part of the country, and there are special makes of all sorts of implements that denote they are the best to be secured. There are all sorts of house hardware, with sizes and materials to suit all purposes. The contractor reverts to the Peterborough Hardware Company when he is doing any building work, and finds both tools and materials here. The dealer who is connected with Peterborough by rail can order as small a quantity as he likes, knowing that these wholesalers can be reached with very little delay, and that shipments will be made the same day that orders are received.

Garden tools, guns and sporting goods are dealt in; paints, oils, varnishes, etc., cutlery and table ware, and the score of articles that are identified with the hardware trade. It goes without saying that this Peterborough company must have as great a variety as is found in the largest cities, for it has to meet competition from such places. And always it has measured soundly with any other wholesale hardware house, and increasing transactions has been practically an annual event. The territory that Peterborough may look upon as its natural territory is within a hundred miles of this city, and the Peterborough Hardware Co. has been one of the jobbers to open and cultivate this section, going as far north as Bracebridge and Gravenhurst; through Lindsay, Orillia and Hallburton section, and east to Tweed, and down to Belleville. Two travellers are employed.

The retail store of the Peterborough Hardware Co., Ltd., 368 George street, is, of course, known to any and all people who reside or visit this city, for its central location, fine windows and excellent displays call attention to the industry, though such a majority of people have had some negotiations here, that every one knows its situation. It is a beautifully arranged store with its hardwood finish, neatly stocked drawers, shelves, etc., and goods and store equipment are so installed as to be most convenient for customers, whereby thorough service may be given. All the reliable lines and makes of goods that are handled by the wholesale house are sold at retail in the centre of the city, and between the two establishments there are twenty-one people employed; one team and two rigs kept in use.

The retail and wholesale businesses were in fact conducted together, until four years ago, when it was imperative that greater capacity be allowed both investments, and the separate building for jobbing followed. In fact, perhaps half a century ago, the retail business was so entwined with the wholesale that they could hardly be told apart. It was started by McKee & Davidson, and they were two astute and far-sighted merchants who were constantly reaching out and making expansions both in retailing and wholesaling. In 1893 the Peterborough Hardware Company, Limited, was formed, and the founders of the business were in the corporation during their lifetime.

PETERBORO PLANING MILL

LOCAL INDUSTRY UNDER W. H. BAKER GIVES COMPLETE SERVICE IN THIS FIELD

Since last August the Peterborough Planing Mill has been under the proprietorship of W. H. Baker, and modern and economic machines have been added. Mr. Baker bad been former manager for this planing mill. The building at times has been rebuilt or renewed and as machinery for planing was invented or improved, it has been installed here, so that all equipment for mill work on interior and exterior finish, is operated here.

The mill is located on Dublin street and the lot on which it is situated is 144 by 200 feet, while the building itself is 65 by 144, with two floors. The yard space is fully needed for half a million feet of lumber is the quantity that is usually at hand and more than that is often kept in stock. The products are frames and sashes, joined wood in any pattern, hardwood for interior household finish and all kinds of lumber for exterior finish or for general building purposes. This mill gives employment to some twenty men and three teams are used for delivering and for carting. This is a considerable crew for a city the size of Peterborough and is evidence that local consumers appreciate the service that is given here and are unanimous in patronizing it. Practically all of the lumber handled here is taken by local contractors.

W. H. Baker has been in the contracting field for some years in Peterborough and in taking over this mill last year he became head of an industry with which he had relations for some years.

PETERBORO CREAMERY

NEW ADDITION ON AYLMER STREET GIVES ACCOMMODATION FOR GREATLY INCREASED FACILITIES

Every new building in Peterborough adds just so much to the assets of the city and in connection with business houses gives proof of the growth and success of that particular industry. It is gratifying then to note the construction that is going on in connection with the Peterborough Creamery on Aylmer street, for already this company has made considerable development since it was founded, and in comparatively a few years has become a big distributing factor through this territory.

The company started the manufacture of butter eight years ago, and three years ago it began the production of ice cream. The cream is brought in on both the Grand Trunk and C. P. railroads and is secured within a distance of twenty-five miles, so that none of it stands long. It is treated at the creamery in the most skilful way, so that its freshness will be retained. It is kept in just the right atmosphere and handled in a most sanitary manner by the most improved methods. As much as a ton of butter a day has been manufactured at this plant and it is put up in prints and in bulk. It is a deep rich and high grade butter that is always made of selected cream and milk, and is churned with the motion and speed that produces the smoothest and nicest appearing butter. This Peterborough Creamery, as the butter is known, has appealed to and satisfied many particular people and is sold as far east as Montreal, though the greater part of the output is taken in locally.

Three years ago the plant was enlarged and at that time the manufacture of ice cream was made an important operation. A smooth and delicious tasting ice cream is made here and hundreds of gallons are turned out during the season, and lesser quantities daily througout the year. The company in its plant has the brine system of refrigerating which is considered the most sanitary method in force, for nothing touches the materials that are to be frozen. Also pure cream and extracts are used, so that it is not at all surprising that this part of the business of the Peterborough Creamery has grown tremendously in the past few years. The building that is now being constructed will be a milk plant and storeroom and the two floors will provide floor area of seventy-two hundred square feet. Nine or ten people are employed.

G. A. Gillespie is the managing director and he has been the forceful promoter of the enterprise since it was established. It has met the needs of the public because it gave the goods and the service that the public required, and its expansion and success are bound to result when there is such trustworthy and able administration as has been given the Peterborough Creamery.

In March, 1913, a sanitary milk plant was installed. The milk is brought in from the best farms in the vicinity, clarified, pasturized and put up in sterilized bottles by automatic machinery, delivered to the consumer absolutely pure and safe. The consumer can depend on getting at all times finest creamery butter, finest ice cream, and a safe pure milk.

Central Liquor Store

Well Stocked and Enterprisingly Conducted Establishment Has Been Here Ten Years

A wholesale and retail liquor business is carried on at the Central Liquor Store, 182 Simcoe street, by P. J. Kenny, and this establishment has been for ten years one of the reliable and well known merchandising houses of Peterborough. Owing to the prevalence of local option in surrounding territory in recent years there has not been such a large wholesale business as was formerly maintained here. Nevertheless, it is one of the few stores here that is depended upon by a high class trade for their supplies in the liquor line.

As Peterborough is looked upon as a market for wholesale groceries, fruit, flour, etc., so it is looked upon as the source of high grade wines, beers, etc., and though the towns about here can not handle these goods, the desires nor appetites of people are not changed by law.

The Central Liquor Store is an establishment where it is a pleasure to trade. The premises are most attractively arranged and the stock in jugs, flasks and fancy bottles is inviting to look upon and shows in a glance or two the many countries that have been called upon to contribute to this stock. There are the gins in peculiarly shaped foreign receptacles that have been bottled in Holland or other European countries. There is brandy from France, with a flask that tells of old country manufacture. There are still and sparkling wines from foreign and domestic vineyards, and all are grouped upon shelves or in cases, so that the picturesque labels appear and disclose the country where they came from and the dealer or distiller who packed them.

The Central Liquor Store has the agency for Cosgrove's beers and ales and has built up a fine patronage for these malt products which are made in Toronto. Munich beer from Germany. Budweiser and Stroh's from across the line are handled and also the wholesome products of the Calcutt Brewing & Malting Co. are distributed through these retailers and wholesalers. A considerable family trade is done and whether liquors are wanted for health, stimulation or cooking purposes, just the brands that will give satisfaction are to be secured here. Cigars in boxes and in smaller quantities are sold here, but the premises are kept as free from tobacco or liquor odor as though some entirely different lines of goods were handled here. A street floor and basement is occupied and no warehouse is necessary as all duty paid liquors are handled here.

Deliveries are made to all parts of the city and three or four people are employed in the store. Mr. P. J. Kenny, the proprietor for the past year, had been manager for four years before securing the ownership of the business. He had however been responsible for the conduct and success of the enterprise before it was his own investment. The extensive patronage and reputation which the establishment enjoys must be attributed very largely to Mr. Kenny.

Fanning's Steam Laundry

Modern and Complete Facilities are Furnished in Industry That Has Lately Been Expanded

Since Fanning's Steam Laundry has been established in this city, patrons of that industry have received high class service and have been satisfied with the work done here. Possibly customers have not noticed any difference in later months, though the fact remains, that earlier this year there was some twenty-five hundred dollars worth of machinery installed in the plant at 285 George street. However, the machinery was not so much to make customers notice the result at once as to have them realise from time to time that their clothes always look well and are lasting longer than ever.

For there is no doubt but what the well equipped steam laundry is an economy in the way it handles clothes, and all the machinery that is being invented or that has been improved is done with the intention of doing away with friction or any of the processes that wear out clothing. Thus in the machinery installed at Fanning's Laundry in the spring there was a flat work ironer, and this goes over large pieces of linen or cotton with a smoothness and facility that brings out a cloth without a wrinkle, and it is done without that pressure or friction that a domestic gives it. A domestic collar ironer gives a collar the appearance a gentleman wants, and the iron does the work so quickly that it lessens heat or wear on the linen. Also in the new equipment are collar edgers and collar turners, and these operations which were formerly performed in other ways are done quickly and effectively and will not produce rough or "saw" edges. So that if patrons of Fanning's Steam Laundry did not realize what has been done in the plant this year, they must know that their clothes are looking better than ever and are lasting even longer than usual.

To be sure, since Fanning's Steam Laundry was established here some fourteen to fifteen years ago, there has been a progressive policy pursued and all the machinery that is good for economic laundry work has been installed from time to time, so that the very best of service has been given Peterborough in this field. Outside of the city proper, the work of this plant has been appreciated and different agencies have been started regularly, until most of the country about here depends upon Fanning's for steam laundry work. Orders come from as far east as Sharbot Lake, and where there are summer cottages or tourists within fifty miles of Peterborough, their laundry cames here to Fanning's. The hotels of this city, some of the boats, restaurants, etc., send their laundry here for virtually it is the one plant that can completely attend to work of this sort in quantities. Two rigs are used for deliveries and collections and ten or twelve people are employed.

Mrs. Fanning, who is at the head of this industry, had been in the same field of operations in the States before coming here, and is both skilful and enterprising—qualities she has demonstrated here. She has continually extended the volume of operations aud the number of patrons of the Fanning's Steam Laundry and has gone forward with a success that has been steadily and meritoriously gained.

Windsor Hotel

Big Trade Accommodated in House That Has Been Known and Liked for Many Years

There are numerous hotels in Peterborough that have been here for years and have been patronized by the same guests each time they have visited here. However, the Windsor Hotel, on Brock street, around from George street, can hardly claim that the same guests have been coming here since the hotel was erected for it is likely that many of the first guests are dead, as it is claimed that the Windsor is the oldest hostelry in Peterborough, and that all the first class trade was formerly accommodated there.

Only a small portion of the transient trade of the present day could be accommodated here, even if it were so minded that it wanted to come here. For Peterborough has not only grown but it has one of the greatest transient populations of any city in this part of Ontario. It is putting it very mildly when it is said that the Windsor gets its share of patronage. And though the original patrons of the original Windsor Hotel are not now present, their descendants may be for the Windsor now, as in earlier days, gets much of the farmer trade and the patronage of those who drive in here from surrounding towns.

The hotel could use many more rooms than it has, but the majority of them may be occupied by two, so that twenty to twenty-five people are accommodated over night. As many as thirty to fifty are served with their dinner, for this hotel keeps up its reputation as a house of quality as regards food and drink, and there is no doubt in the minds of the public but what each one who sits down to the table here will receive more than his money's worth.

The bar is largely patronized for it is conducted capably and the malt beverages and spirits that are mostly in demand are handled in all the makes and brands that are popular. It is a convenient bar and the men met here are ones that people are willing to know any place.

The Windsor throughout is in good condition and is equipped with electric light, hot and cold running water, modern plumbing, and is furnished with neatness and completeness. There are nine people employed so that prompt and efficient service is given in each department.

A. T. Johnston, who has been proprietor of the Windsor for the past eight years, has made improvements from time to time and has allowed nothing to run down, so that the property at present is more valuable than when he took it. Also there is the regard in which the hotel patrons hold Mr. Johnston, and that in itself is a considerable resource as the hotel business more than the majority of enterprises is built up through personality.

Albion Hotel

Hunter Street Hostelry is Only Public House in East City at the Present Time

Though there has always been considerable competition in the hotels across in East City, there has never been any noticeable change in the policy or patronage of the Albion Hotel, Hunter street, of which P. Hogan is the proprietor. This year there is less competition than usual, but that hardly makes any difference for the reason that the Albion has been taxed to its capacity for a number of years, and whether there is one hotel or half a dozen over here, The Albion has all it can cater to. Unfortunately it is a smaller house than is really needed, for Mr. Hogan has built up a reputation for himself and his property that is sound and desirable, and there is no doubt but what there are more people than he could accommodate who would like to enjoy the hospitality of The Albion.

There are eighteen bedrooms for guests, and though there are a few of these that may be used double, even then all the applicants can not be accommodated. The dining-room will seat forty, and this capacity is used every day, particularly during the noon hour. There are scores of patrons of the Albion who drive in from surrounding country and do not have to remain over night. They have their meals at this hotel and enjoy the relaxation that can be had in parlor or reading room. There is a large quantity of land around the hotel, with sheds and stalls for the accommodation of horses, and this facility assists in making Landlord Hogan's place a popular one.

There is another feature of the Albion that must appeal to men and women. That is the food which is cooked as it is cooked at home, and consequently has the wholesome taste and nourishing qualities that one needs. People who come to this house have robust appetites and they need never rise from the table here until every desire has been satisfied. And the rates for transients are but one dollar a day, so that it is agreed that a dollar goes longest and buys most at the Albion of any hotel in this city.

There are three floors to the building and each one of them is kept in the neatest and cleanest state possible, for the workers about this establishment have been trained for their tasks and all perform them with interest and ability. There is a well-stocked bar, and that portion of the business is conducted with as much orderliness, regularity and decorum as any other part of the house, so that a most respectable element enjoy patronizing this department.

P. Hogan, who has been landlord here for twenty-three to twenty-four years, purchased the property after he bad been in charge about three years, has made a number of improvements and enhanced the value of his property from time to time. He has earned the good-will of the public which is also an asset, and has made himself known as an upright business man.

Montgomery Hotel

Reasonable Priced House That is Patronized by Many Appreciative People

Peterborough is one of the cities that has no intention of taking all the money a man has simply because he stops over night here, and maybe has a meal or two. While we don't want to take too much credit to ourselves, it does appear that for hotel accommodations at reasonable rates, there are few cities in this part of the country that offers so much for so little. When one can get into such a hotel as the Montgomery House for $1.50 a day, there is no need to complain at the high cost of living. One couldn't have the accommodations in his own home, and the food that is served at the Montgomery at the price that is asked there.

This means of course that there is capable and foresighted management. There must be careful buying and keen supervision of all details in these days of hotel keeping and competition, and that the Montgomery is conducted on the scale of prices that it is is sound proof that it has at its head a resourceful and experienced landlord, who attends to all the details that make for the comfort of his guests.

There are three floors in the Montgomery and all the bedrooms are neatly arranged and furnished. There is running hot and cold water, steam heat and electric lights, and summer or winter, all of the year around, it is kept comfortable, well ventilated and wholesome. The dining-room has a seating capacity for forty-eight people, and the capacity is generally taken, as the skilled supervision of this house includes the dining part, wholesome and seasonable foods being purchased in such quantities that materials that one could hardly expect on the table where such small prices are asked are being constantly served, and they are well seasoned and thoroughly cooked.

The Montgomery, on Simcoe street, has a favorable location, and it is well known through Central Ontario, particularly among the outdoor workers, such as contractors, linemen, electricians and others of this class who may be in this city for weeks. Also these same skilled men, when they are on jobs anywhere around here, will come into Peterborough for a few days and renew acquaintances at the Montgomery.

Frank Montgomery, the proprietor of the house, has had this property for about five years, and before locating here had been at Parry Sound and one or two other places, totalling in all twenty years' experience as landlord that has been increased to twenty-five, counting his career in this city. Naturally these years have made him familiar with what the public wants and how it likes to be served, and making the most of what he has experienced in a quarter of a century, he is expeditious and painstaking to give his guests anything in food or lodging that is desirable.

King George Hotel

Modernly Furnished House Provides Excellent Accommodation at Reasonable Prices

The King George Hotel is really one of the newer structures in this city and it presents an up-to-date and pleasing appearance that commends it to many people, for it must be admitted that the outside of a hotel often has much to do with its selection by a transient who has just arrived in town.

The King George, on Simcoe street, is close to the sidewalk, and one steps into a wide cool lobby as they leave the street. The entrance shows a roomy and inviting looking property, while a further inspection of the place confirms the first favorable impression. There are about thirty rooms, and each of these is well furnished and has good bedding, so that a comfortable rest is assured those who stay over night here. Practically all of the rooms are outside ones and there is plenty of air and light, and coolness in the summer; just as their is good heat and ventilation in the winter. Electric lights are installed throughout the house. The plumbing is modern and sanitary, with bathrooms on each floor; hot aud cold water and convenient lavatories. The dining room has a seating capacity for thirty and this is the number that is served each day.

The house has a numerous patronage among people who want to get the best they can for a reasonable amount of money, and at $1.50 a day there is all that the ordinary person requires to be had here. The rooms, as was remarked before, are neat and contain all that a guest needs. The food is wholesome and well cooked, and more than that, it is plentiful. It is the King George that is largely patronized by show people, and it is well known that these professionals require more than any other class of people. Boatmen and tourists who come through here in summer often seek the King George, and men who have been in the lake or lumber country are likely to make this hotel their headquarters when they come to the city for a while.

The King George has been under the proprietorship of D. Corkery since last August, and he came here from Cobourg where he had also been in the hotel business. He knows the trade thoroughly and is familiar with the demands of the travelling public.

PETERBORO MODEL FOUNDRY AND MFG. CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF WOOD PUMPS HANDLE OTHER UTILITIES AND HAVE EXTENSIVE TRADE

As the market for the surrounding country, Peterborough has a sound reputation, so that consumers for miles around here look to dealers here as the source of their supply. Practically all accommodations are furnished here, numbering among them machine and pump concerns such as the Peterborough Model Foundry and Manufacturing Co., with complete plant on Hunter street. But the patrons of this organization need not even come to the headquarters on Hunter street for the firm is one that believes in good service and in its case this means going to customers. This foundry and Pump company keeps an automobile on the road all the time and two men accompany it. One of these is a veteran in the pump business and the utmost confidence is held in any operations he performs either in installing a new pump or repairing or putting in working condition an old one. Some twenty miles in all directions around Peterborough is covered by the auto and both new and old work is done by its occupants, and deliveries are also made.

The Peterborough Model Foundry & Manufacturing Company are the manufacturers of wood pumps and do all kinds of iron and wood work. The pump, though almost forgotten by city dwellers is one of the implements upon which the farming community must always depend, and there is a continual demand for them. Later day pumps are most easily operated, have greater capacity and durability than the old styled ones. This company in looking after the farming interests, handle numerous other implements besides pumps and have the agency for the Cockshutt Plow Co., which is the maker of all machines for tilling or harvesting the soil. The Frost & Wood Implement Company is also represented. Gasoline engines which are one of the labor saving devices in agricultural communities, are dealt in and old engines are repaired or renewed. This plant has embracive facilities for any work in its field, with machine shop, blacksmith department, blast furnace and moulding room as conveniences and nine or ten men employed. The business was started the first of May, 1911, as a partnership between Ruth and Condon, and later was transformed into a limited company. John Condon has been an operator on pumps for 22 years and was employed in one plant for over eleven years. He is a machinist of thorough training and experience and is known as an authority in this field. T. H. Ruth visits the trade in the automobile and is a successful salesman and executive. Wm. H. Pethick is a stockholder and co-operates with Ruth and Condon in their progressive and complete methods.

THE KNOX SODA WATER CO.

HIGH CLASS TEMPERANCE BEVERAGES MANUFACTURED BY OLD ESTABLISHED BOTTLING HOUSE

It is quite in the way of expectations to learn that the Knox Soda Water Co., with plant and office at 384 Queen street, is one of the permanent and soundly established business houses here, and that its career has been a successful one for about thirty-five years. The business changed hands about three years ago and there has been added enterprise and progressiveness in that period, but the old solid reputation of the organization is still an asset. The plant on Queen street has lately been equipped with some new machinery and the operations have been bettered and facilitated accordingly. A rotary filler is one of the improvements and this is the only invention of its kind in this part of the province. The bottles are automatically filled and as the machine is driven by electric power it may be revolved as speedily as desired. One hundred and twenty dozens of bottles may be filled in an hour. A new corking machine has also been installed and this also works most expeditiously, so that a surprising number of bottles are made ready for delivery.

Labelling and washing are operations that are virtually performed by machinery, so that there is little or no personal contact with the materials that are used either before they are mixed or when they are ready to be bottled. This concern uses the most carefully selected materials for its temperance drinks and puts upon the market all the flavors that are popular and healthful. Ginger beer and ginger ale are manufactured correctly so that there is life and exhiliration to the taste; also a coolness and smoothness that relieves the thirst. All sorts of high grade beverages and all kinds of aerated waters are bottled here and the popular reputation that has always been borne by these goods should be greatly advanced this year, with the improved methods that are now in use in the bottling plant. Peterborough consumers have always shown their appreciation of the D. Knox sodas and aerated waters by a continual demand for them, so that they are carried in all stores, cafes, etc., where soft drinks are sold. But a greater part of the production is nevertheless taken outside of this city and shipments are made as far as Cobalt, west to Toronto and east to Perth. One team is used around the city and one in the country about here, in addition to rail shipments. Six men are employed and the building owned has three floors. One of these is devoted to the manufacture of cider and cider vinegar and these products which add to the reputation of the Knox concern are being manufactured mostly when the season for soft drinks is over, so that the plant is kept active from one end of the year to the other. A press of improved facility and notable capacity is used for cider and vinegar making. The plant altogether is one of the best and most complete between Montreal and Toronto. It has been under the proprietorship of Arthur Rountree for the past three years, when the David Knox Company was bought out. Mr. Rountree has not only conducted the business with all the trustworthiness and enterprise that distinguished the business in all its years, but he has made a considerably larger investment of it and brought it up to the standards of the present time. He has been able to supply a larger trade and giving high class goods.

American Hotel

Hunter Street Hostelry Has Experienced Manager Who Looks After Affairs Thoroughly

Hunter street seems to be a natural location for hotels and some of the best known public houses of Peterborough have always been situated here. This is true to-day as it was at any time and it is true also that one may find the hotel here that will accommodate one's purse, whether they can afford the costliest or cheapest accommodations. Also of course there are mediums between the highest and lowest priced and in this intermediate place we should reckon the American Hotel.

The American is a dollar and a half a day house, and this appeals to many people who naturally do not care to pay out all they may earn in a day for their board and lodging. It is a house that attracts people who come in from lumbering or contracting camps, and it is also patronized by men who come up to this section for game, trapping or fishing. It is a hotel that is solid and substantial appearing on the outside, and it is kept in good shape on the inside, so that people who want comfort and plain living are satisfied with what is offered here.

There are about twenty sleeping rooms and as some of these are large there is really a capacity for thirty to forty lodgers. The dining-room will seat twenty-five, but is speedily reset when there is a rush. Also the attendants are quick and neat and there is a general desire among all the employees of this house to please the patrons and be alert to respond to any of their requirements. There is a large lobby on the street floor, and a parlor on the second. There is bath and lavatories, electric light throughout, and furnace heat in the winter.

The American was for three years conducted by S. Long, who sold out to Arthur Mulhall this past May. Mr. Mulhall had been in the hotel business in several towns east of here and upon taking possession of the American made a number of improvements. New furniture has been added and the old furniture has been repaired and renewed. Carpets and draperies have been put in good condition and a general effect of alertness and progressiveness has been noted. Mr. Mulhall has rapidly made friends here and is developing a success which he deserves.

White & Ackford

Machinists and Motor Specialists Have Facilities and Plant in Central Location

The second season of White & Ackford, on George street, corner of Dalhousie, has opened with the patronage that would only have been secured through the confidence of the public. This firm of machinists located here in May, 1913, and during the first summer of its operations, it built up a considerable trade. Even after the outdoor season had waned there was plenty of machine and special jobs to do, and this company kept up its high-class operations, so that it was continually adding to its reputation for thorough workmanship and fair prices.

Consequently the year 1913 was in reality a preparation for the year 1914, and there has been thus far a quantity of business done, that makes the success of these young men unquestionable.

They are expert and trustworthy machinists, and with an experience that allows them to take hold of any sort of a device. Particular attention, of course, is given to the machinery of motors that are installed in water craft, for the work has been generally in this direction, and White & Ackford, through practical results, have shown that they are competent to do anything in this line. Any sort of machinery is made by them according to patterns furnished, and the materials that are most effective are used, while specifications are accurately followed.

Automobile repairs are made at this shop, and practically any make of machine is put in thoroughly good shape here, whether a small repair has to be made, or if the car has to be entirely overhauled. The company is familiar with most makes of autos, and are mechanics enough to get to the trouble of any engine or body and to correctly re-assemble them after repairs have been made.

Motor engines are installed by this firm, and any trouble that occurs to a motor can be quickly detected by this concern, and can be remedied at once. The firm has the agency for the Gray Motor Company, and this organization manufactures motor engines of small or large capacity, having in mind the requirements of the boats that are used in rivers or lakes.

White & Ackford have a well-equipped shop at their central premises on George street, and have the lathes, drills and other machinery that is effective in their field of work. Special parts of machinery are made here for different factories that are located in Peterborough and numerous other towns about here send in patterns to have duplicate parts made by this concern.

The young men who compose this partnership were formerly in London, Ont., and are machinists by training and experience. C. A. White and L. Ackford had worked together in London, and they came here together in May last year. They were convinced that Peterborough offered greater opportunities for expansion and advancement than almost any other Ontario city, and the trade that is now coming steadily to them corroborates the impression they had of the opportunities here.

White House

Comfortable and Well Conducted Hotel Has Experienced Man at the Head of It

The White House is one of the hotels that has for years been responsible for the transient patronage that has been pleased with this city. The White House is roomy and hospitable; and homelike and up-to-date accommodations are provided. In the summer there are big darkened rooms and corridors that keep the house cool yet airy. In the winter there is steam heat that is furnished plentifully so that no one comes down to breakfast with that woebegone look that one has when "They slept cold." Every room is furnished neatly and with all the fixtures that are necessary for the comfort of the traveller. Each apartment is scrupulously clean and constant care is given to all parts of the house, so that no one place is neglected or cared for at the expense of another.

At the rate of two dollars a day, it would not be extravagant to say that in the entire province one could not get more for their money than they get here. There are writing rooms and parlor, while the lobby and rotunda is spacious and comfortably furnished, so that social and friendly gatherings are held and numerous business or entertainment projects considered. The White House particularly under its present management is known as the sporting headquarters of Peterborough. One should not jump to any false conclusions regarding this appelation, as the men who congregate here are interested and take part in clean sports or athletics, and are always keen about contests between men or beasts. So that if any driving or riding is going on in this part of the country; if it is baseball or football season; if there are international sporting events—boxing, running, wrestling—or other happenings of this nature, the result is known promptly at the White House and generally there are groups of enthusiasts who are in waiting while such contests are taking place and are alert for the decision to be known. Baseball players, lacrosse and hockey teams and others in the sporting world register generally at the White House when stopping in the city and the accommodations afforded as well as the general atmosphere is so congenial that they not only express their own satisfaction but are warm in their recommendation and praise to others, so that this hotel is hardly able to take care of its always increasing business.

There are twenty-five bedrooms; hot and cold baths on each floor; running water and electric lights; and house accommodations such as cigar stand, newspapers, valet service and bar, which give the guests all the service any transient may desire without leaving the house. The dining room is attractively furnished and prompt service is given there.

Though the White House was constructed perhaps thirty years ago, it is only a few years ago that it was remodelled and improved, while new furnishings have been added from time to time. The business was purchased by Christopher G. Graham the first of January, 1913, and has been expanded and thoroughly established in the meantime. "Chris" Graham was for some twenty years with the Oriental, and the trade that he knew in that house has come to him at his present house. Also he has continually made new and influential friends so that one hears of Graham's White House along the road in many parts of the Dominion. Mr. Graham is known as a most capable hotel man and is a genial and hospitable host whose welcome is appreciated by hundreds of people.

Coleman Bros.

Decorators and Painters Who Keep Complete Stock at Store on George Street

For more than eight years Coleman Bros., the decorators, have been in operation in Peterborough, but it is only in the past two years that they have had a store. Consequently it is in that latter period that the most complete service has been offered and that the public generally is appreciative of such accommodations is shown in the extensive and increased patronage that has resulted.

This firm, at 445 George street, handles paints, varnishes, polishes, wall paper, etc., and as they are most expert in decorating they have an unusually good trade among people who want such work done and yet want the opportunity of selecting their own materials. Thus in wall papers Coleman Bros. handle a great variety of patterns and qualities. There are the light weight and small priced papers; also the heavy and beautifully textured ones that are in solid or two toned colors or are covered with graceful and effective figures. Borders, friezes and all the paper accessories that go with any apartment are shown here, and the company is alert to all the new effects as they come from the presses and put them in stock as soon as they are in the market.

This concern handles Moore & Co.'s paints, which are the most lasting and effective paints that may be obtained for durable work in this part of the country. These paints have been well recommended so that other contractors beside these dealers use them for exterior and interior work. There are also Ronuk's floor polishes and hardwood finish and all those liquids that are used in fine houses on floors, stairs, wallboards and other fixtures may be obtained here. Mouldings and wall finish are handled and any of the materials that are carried at this shop are correctly installed by this same firm.

Coleman Bros. are among the best known contractors in this part of the province and have done some notable work both in interior and exterior decorating. They have done a number of artistic jobs on the interior of banks and schools, and also did the notably [illegible] work in the De Laval office, also on the new shop of the Canadian General Electric. Scores of houses have been painted and decorated by them and each job that has been completed has added to the reputation of the firm for thoroughness and workmanship.

The partners of the business are George R. and Jesse Coleman, both of whom are painters by trade and served their apprenticeship in England, with other experience following that. They have been in Peterborough for some ten years and as noted have been established for themselves all but two years of that time. They are alert commercial men with practical experience and financial acumen, that have been effective in their continual advancement and success.

E. A. Stinson

Proprietor of Chamber Street Stable Succeeds M. Storey and Has Well Known Establishment

There are many good roads in and around Peterborough and a great deal of driving over them. This makes business for the livery stables, though it might be said that the livery stables themselves are responsible for all these encouraging conditions. The fact is that when people do much driving they demand good roads and they are stimulated to driving when they can get as good horse-flesh as may be obtained about here.

One of the places where a fine driving rig may be obtained is at E. A. Stinson's on Chamber street. For some years previous, M. Storey was the proprietor of these stables, but the premises for many years have been used for riding or driving horses and equipment, and are consequently well known to either residents or transients. The stable, such a little ways off Hunter street, and of course convenient to George street, is easily sought by those familiar with its location, or those who may have to be directed. Moreover, the business has always been conducted reliably so that in recommending a person to inquire at Stinson's and get a rig there if possible, one knows they are doing the renter of a vehicle a favor, if he gets accommodations there.

Mr. Stinson has ten or more driving horses, beside a heavy team, and he has all sorts of carriages to which these horses may be hitched. A number of buggies are owned, and there are among them, solid, rubber or pneumatic tired wheels. There are Surreys, two and three seaters, and the horses that are harnessed to any of them are heavy, well cared for, and well-conditioned animals, so that nothing beyond their strength is asked of them. Light travelling around the city or long jaunts along the beautiful river roads are favorite work for these horses and they perform them willingly and thoroughly.

The stable has some twenty stalls, as well as ample room for all the vehicles owned by Mr. Stinson. A number of boarders are accommodated at certain times of the year, and these are rubbed and fed, and looked after with the same expertness as is applied to the livery horses. A couple of experienced horsemen are employed and harnesses and other accessories are kept in fine condition also.

Mr. Stinson bought out Mr. Storey the first of May. He came here from North Lindsay, and had been in the stable business there. He knows this line of trade completely, and beside being a judge of horse flesh, he is familiar with the public wants; and his good service as well as his facilities are assisting him to success and to a desirable reputation in this city.

The Munro House

This Moderate Priced Hotel is in Central and Convenient Location

There is no reason why the visitor to a city should not be comfortably housed, regardless of the size of his pocketbook. There should be in any community the hotels that cater to people of moderate circumstances as well as those that look after the comforts of wealthier folks. Peterborough is particularly fortunate in having hotels that look after the comfort of all classes of people and at the Munro House, Hunter street, corner of Water, the rate is $1.50 a day, with accommodations that can not be excelled in any part of the country at that price.

The Munro House is one of the best looking hotels we have here. Its corner site gives it especial attractiveness and convenience, and at night it is brightly illuminated. Virtually it has air and light from three sides, so that in the day time it is pleasant for the transient who likes to see the life of the town in which he or she is stopping. There is at the Munro House a very large reception room in connection with the office, and there are numerous comfortable chairs arranged with neighborly closeness, where congenial gatherings may take place. The ladies' parlor on the floor above is neatly and appropriately furnished and is a feature that is appreciated by patrons of this house. There are a large number of guests who come to this house from a short distance out from Peterborough and they have numerous friends here. The parlor and reception room are thus favored for the sake of meeting these friends.

There are about thirty bedrooms and these are kept clean and wholesome, with all the furniture in good repair and with all accessories that are helpful to a good rest and complete satisfaction. The dining room will seat about sixty and this capacity is often taxed as numerous guests come here for meals and are able to get away from town to their own homes at night. Much of the trade of the Munro is from Peterborough county, so it is a patronage that comes here regularly and thinks of no other place to go outside of the Munro House. The fact that much of the business is what is known as family trade is indicative of the orderly and efficient manner in which the business is carried on. The bar is a large and well stocked one, and patrons of this department are as gentlemenly and discreet as those who are found in other parts of the house.

R. J. Munro, who has been the proprietor of the Munro for more than twelve years, is a hotel man of enterprise and experience, and his best efforts have been given to the right conduct of this hotel and to giving satisfaction to its hundreds of patrons. There are only a few occasions when the Munro House is not filled to its capacity and this is the best proof of Mr. Munro's success and the popular favor in which the Munro House is held.

Snowden House

Food the Prime Necessity of All Persons is a Recommended Feature of This Hotel

The Snowden House, on Charlotte street, under the proprietorship of R. P. Gollop, has made a tremendous number of friends in the past four years. These friends, however, have been made through service and hospitality, for it is agreed that the Snowden looks after the comfort of its guests.

It has one of the largest number of table guests that may be found any place in this part of the province for it is well understood that no table is better supplied than the one here. The cooking has not the monotonous taste that is usually associated with a hotel or restaurant where quantities of food are cooked daily. In fact this Hotel is proof that even where large meals have to be gotten up, a distinct flavor can be retained in all the edibles, provided they are cooked rightly and carefully. And at the Snowden they are presented with the taste that one gets at home. The fodos are selected expertly in the markets, are seasoned wholesomely and are cooked just the proper time, so that everything is most eatable and is brought to the dining room, hot or cold, according to the temperature that it would be most tasteful. The kitchen and refrigerators of this house, as well as the dining room and other apartments, are kept in the cleanest and neatest condition possible and to look through the cooking premises or at the food in stock is to create an appetite. And all this is only typical of the conduct of the hotel at all times as it is conveniently arranged and nicely furnished throughout and offers comfort and contentment to the hundreds of guests that it shelters during the year.

The Snowden, on Charlotte street, with its portico and shaded piazza, looks inviting from the outside, and this good impression is strengthened when one gains the inside. There is a wide and roomy rotunda with heavy oak chairs placed at neighborly intervals about the room. There are writing and reception rooms; reading room and parlor. There are thirty-eight bedrooms and with the doubling capacity that some of them present accommodations may easily be furnished for fifty people. The dining room will easily seat fifty, but can be extended and so arranged that about one hundred can be taken care of. This has to be done when there are any big events that bring many people to our city. A bus to both railroad depots meets all trains and the Snowden is especially popular with grip men or with commercial men who make a long stay here, canvassing the surrounding territory as well as Peterborough itself. The rate of $2.00 a day is a fair price that travellers are willing to pay for the first class treatment that is given at this house. R. P. Gollop, the proprietor, has been at the head of the Snowden for nearly four years and came here from Toronto. A number of improvements have been made by him, but in the main the Snowden has been kept up-to-date and in good repair since it was constructed. Nothing has been allowed to run down under the present management, while the food department as already stated, has been given such expert attention that the table is heard of favorably in all parts of this country where tourists or travellers circulate. Mr. Gollop is known for his strict and effective attention to the business, so that the high reputation of the Snowden is a natural result of well directed efforts.

A. E. Micks

Hardware Business and Heating Installation Well Known Industry Here

In making a contract with A. E. Micks for heating, plumbing or the securing of any supplies in the hardware line, the customer has the assurance that any transaction that is completed with this business man will be satisfactory. It has been demonstrated many times during the business career of Mr. Micks that anything he undertakes, he does thoroughly and accurately, and that he considers no job finished until the other party has agreed that everything is all right.

In consequence of these trustworthy negotiations the Micks concern has been given an increasing amount of business, and in plumbing and heating, its services are constantly in demand. All sorts of heating apparatus is installed and furnaces or boilers that are put in by this company, are placed in the position where they will be most easily and economically operated. Not only are the best makes of furnaces and boilers recommended and handled by A. E. Micks, but generally they consume less fuel than others, and this condition is brought about by their designs, and also by the position in which they are placed by Mr. Micks, where they will draw well and evenly.

At the warerooms on Hunter street may be seen many styles of heaters among which are the Jewel makes of stoves, ranges, etc. They are well-known household implements, being effective both for heating and cooking. They will accept any sort of fuel and are run for as little expense as any range on the market. Oil stoves, kitchen utensils and household hardware are handled at these premises, in the rear of which is a large workshop. Here the plumbing and heating tools are kept at hand, and tinsmithing is also done. Any sort of tin work is made up here, and it is supplied for houses, factories or business blocks. Repairing is also done. Six or eight men are employed altogether and the majority of these are kept occupied almost the entire year.

Mr. Micks has been in the hardware and heating business for close to a quarter of a century. He has been in the building now occupied for some seven yeard, and previous to that was on Hunter street, the other side of George. He is really one of the veterans in the particluar fields in which he now operates, and while the fact that he has been known so many years is one reason for the extensive patronage he enjoys, it must be allowed that his ability and integrity have gained for him the confidence of the public; and this undoubtedly is one of the greatest assets of his standing and success.

The Grand Hotel

One of the Best Looking and Best Equipped Hotels in Ontario Offers Reasonable Rates

The Grand Hotel is one of the first to impress itself upon visitors to Peterborough, and if entrance to the city is made via. the C. P. one is very likely to stop at this attractive and hospitable appearing house on George street. There is really no better looking hotel in Peterborough, and this is said with the fact in mind that the rate at the Grand Hotel is but $1.50 a day, whereas the prices in some other houses run considerably beyond this.

However, the Grand, with its clean exterior, looks up-to-date and modern, and once the rotunda is entered this impression is deepened. There are hardwood finishings and burlapped walls, while a soft and restful shade of brown predominates. This color is prevalent in the lobby, reception room and dining room, and soft and dainty colors are used throughout the house. The oak chairs in the lounging rooms downstairs are comfortably upholstered and in good condition; and on the floor above is a ladies' parlor, nicely furnished. About eight years ago, under Mr. Nixon, the Grand was remodelled and refurnished throughout, while last spring the interior was again gone over and newly painted, papered, etc. It was purchased the middle of January this year by K. W. Schmuck, and the indications to date are that Mr. Schmuck will not only keep up the first class condition of this hotel but will improve it from time to time as he sees the opportunity.

The hotel is a three-storied stone building and has thirty-three sleeping rooms. Each of these is neatly and completely furnished and the grip men who are a chief part of the patrons here find that their comfort and satisfaction is as thoroughly looked after here as in the higher priced houses. The beds are given particular attention, so that they are not only comfortable but are perfectly clean and well aired. The food is wholesome and nourishing and there are ten or a dozen people who are capable in each department, and are prompt to give response to any request. The house is quiet at all times, so no one's rest is disturbed and porter service is given to and from trains. A cigar stand well stocked is maintained, and the bar is stocked with all the bottled or bulk goods for which there is any considerable demand.

Mr. Schmuck, who took possession here on the 17th of January, had previously been in Toronto and had been connected with hotels in the Queen City. He is a young man of hustling abilities and genial disposition, and the acquaintances he had in other parts of Ontario always look him up when going through here. Also, he is continually making other friends both for himself and the Grand Hotel, and the prosperous business that has always been done at this hostelry is being exceeded almost daily since Landlord Schmuck applied himself to its conduct.

J. T. O'Connell & Co.

Real Estate Dealer Who Has Assisted Largely in Continual Development of Peterborough

No community makes a marked or steady progress without considerable assistance from real estate dealers and in Peterborough a great deal of effective work has been done by J. T. O'Connell & Co., 136 Hunter street. The real estate concern such as O'Connell & Co. is one of the first to realize that a growing population needs new and extended accommodations. The real estate dealer also knows that if such facilities were not forthcoming there would be no growth, for however favorable a location a municipality may have, manufacturers and settlers can do without it, unless other conveniences are to be had.

J. T. O'Connell & Co. have been alert at all times since Peterborough assumed any industrial importance in developing properties that would be suitable for any of the purposes that are concurrent with manufacturing prosperity. This concern has opened entirely new neighborhoods that are neighborly to factories. It has handled business propositions and has been the medium through which exchanges have been made, so that a man having city property and wanting country or suburban property would be assisted in effecting such a result. Conversely the country resident might want to come into the city; the retailer might want to become a farmer or the farmer a merchant. All and more people who want to make changes have for years relied upon J. T. O'Connell & Co., and are satisfied that in the handling of property, business propositions, leases or rentals, this concern is the one that has the greatest insight and most complete information to aid the prospective seller or buyer.

Mr. O'Connell, the head of this business, has been a factor in the development of the south end of this city and had eight acres in what is now Byersville that he cut up into lots that were immediately in demand. He also has ten acres in Monaghan below the De Laval and this is a location that must sooner or later be greatly desired as it is accessible in every way and must inevitably be supplied with all of the city's utilities. Other additions have been encouraged by the part in which Mr. O'Connell has taken, and in every direction in Peterborough one finds satisfied clients who had dealings with this firm. Business property is also handled and J. T. O'Connell & Co. have some fine Toronto properties listed with them.

Groveland is also being put on the market by this house and will attract the interest of people who would like a cottage along the river here. Eventually it will be reached by street cars so that the time to buy is at present before all the improvements have taken place. Groveland is one of the prettiest spots on the river and the plans disclose the fact that it will be particularly charming when it has been built upon.

People of the soundest financial ability are aware that real estate is the most dependable investment that can be made. Moreover there is a feeling that for profit and safety Peterborough offers unusual opportunities. Correspondents from all parts of the country are in communication with J. T. O'Connell, and besides the opportunities he has given local investors, he has attracted much outside capital and has helped Peterborough generally by the trustworthy exploitation he has given it.

COUGHLIN'S MONUMENTAL WORKS

MEMORIAL DESIGNS MADE IN LARGE NUMBERS BY EXTENSIVE AND EXPERT PETERBOROUGH INDUSTRY

For more than twenty years Coughlin's Monumental Works, at 214 Hunter street, has been an industry that has brought much trade to Peterborough. It is a business that is known through the greater part of Ontario and especially to the east of us, is depended upon for monumental products. At this plant on Hunter street there are tons of stone in stock, and from this raw material monuments of all kinds are given beautiful form.

Vermont and Italian marble are kept in stock. Granite from the quarries that are most widely known is handled. Also Canadian granite is used considerably and is made up very effectively by the Coughlin Company, with either a light or dark color predominating, according to the taste of the purchaser.

The works are supplied with electric motors and pneumatic tools are operated, which are most accurate and effective in their operations. Polishing machines are part of the equipment here and all sorts of tools of improved design are used. In fact there is hardly a year that Mr. Coughlin does not add to his facilities either by installing entirely new machinery or by improving the equipment that is already in place. Also he handles a larger and larger stock, and this spring received as one shipment five car loads of granite, which was followed soon after by three car loads.

This year he is to install a pneumatic lift so that stone can be hauled into the second story of the plant with little trouble and expense. Eight to a dozen men are employed here and the works have agents in Havelock, Marion, Hastings, Blairton, Cavan, and most of the towns within forty miles.

E. H. MANN & CO.

MANUFACTURER OF CHEESE BOXES HAS COMPLETE PLANT AND HEAVY PATRONAGE

Something [illegible] thousand cheese boxes are manufactured in this city by E. H. Mann & Co. during a year, and while this output is taken very largely by Peterborough and vicinity, the shipments often go a considerable distance and the dairying country around Brockville is supplied. E. H. Mann & Co. is the successors to some well known men in this field and the present concern is being conducted with all the thoroughness and enterprise that has ever characterized this investment.

The Mann Company has been located off George street, near the C.P.R. station, for about five years, and at this plant a number of improvements have been made. At the Mann plant there are some of the most efficient and economical machines that are known to this industry.

The boxes proper are made from elm wood and the veneer is made from the logs at the plant, this being not only an interesting and effective operation, but an economic one, as the bark and heart that is not usable for manufacturing purposes is put to some other purpose. In fact this company operates from the stump to the manufactured product, and this means that all intermediary expenses are eliminated. It means moreover that a good sized crew of men is kept employed throughout the year, for while the manufacturing season may be over, there is work to be done on the timber which has to be got out and virtually there are twenty men employed by this company throughout the year.

E. H. Mann was formerly in business in the East City before leasing the premises he now occupies. He is also owner of the lumber yard on Aylmer street between Sherbrooke and Dalhousie, and a portable saw mill that is operated there. He has been connected with some part of the lumber industry through all his business career and has the training and knowledge to make a solid success of any efforts in this field.

Now that the organization has actually begun manufacturing, the satisfaction among all who are interested in Peterborough's welfare, is deepened.

The Henry Hope & Sons of Canada, Limited, is the Canadian establishment of Henry Hope & Sons Co., Ltd., of Birmingham, Eng., and this is one of the soundest and most substantial firms in the Mother Country. Having the benefit or the experience that has been earend in the parent concern and also having the benefit of many of its resources; the Henry Hope & Sons of Canada, Limited, begin its active career nere with prospects that are seldom equalled and rarely surpassed. The steel sash manufactured by this company is known throughout the world. It is in use throughout the whole of Canada and is appreciated here as being the best steel sash made. This knowledge does away with any introductory period and the concern starts out with the assured future that comes from a responsible and reputable past. The Henry Hope Company of England, doing business in Birmingham and other cities of England, has been in existence a hundred years, and each successive year has been an advancing one both in production and accumulative prestige. The English company has filled many contracts in the Dominion and for steel sash work has no superior on either side of the Atlantic. High class equipment of this sort has been installed in numerous large buildings in Toronto, Montreal and through the west. Also contracts have been filled by the Henry Hope & Sons Co. of England, in New York and other cities in the States. In fact the company has a selling organization in New York and its steel sash also goes to South America, Japan, India and Australia.

For years the Henry Hope Co. has had an office in Toronto located at 45 King Street, West, anc this will be the head office of the Canadian Company. The new plant in Peterborough will be able to take care of all the requirements of this country for Hope sash and through it the consumer is now brought nearer the producer.

All kinds of cast lead work will eventually be done in the Canadian factory as in the plant in Birmingham but for the present the great demand is for steel window sashes and the company will confine its efforts to this end of the business for the time being. Steel sash as has been demonstrated, is cheaper than wood when large sizec windows are used and being narrower than the wood, a larger glass surface is obtained and consequently considerable more light. Glass is cheaper than brick and with the strength and rigidity of steel frames, a much larger window space can be secured than if the glass were held by wooden frames. There are no draughts where steel sash is used and as the steel frames are not affected by weather conditions there is no swelling or sticking.

The saw tooth building where Henry Hope & Sons of Canada is housed, has attracted considerable attention for it gives the impression of a number of bays under one roof. The six saw tooth tops face the north from where the clearest, most penetrating and longest lasting light comes. The building has attractive grounds now under cultivation and the floor space covers more than forty thousand square feet. A spur track from the C.P.R. comes up to the side and the Grand Trunk railroad passes to the rear part of the property.

The specially designed machinery for making Hope Steel Sash, is now installed. The plant includes a most up-to-date tool room, in which practically all of the tools used in the manufacturing of their steel sash, will be made. The rolled steel that is used is now being brought from England but it is believed that domestic rolled steel will be very suitable and that shortly it may be obtained here. It is expected that about one hundred men will be employed and that once the steel window business has been properly started, other steel work such as is done in the shops in England, will be undertaken here. This company though an offspring of Henry Hope and Sons of England is now a Canadian corporation, lately registered here. H. Donald Hope of England is President and is the principal also in the English corporation; A. L. Young of Toronto is Vice-President and Manager; and Victor Richardson is superintendent.

Mr. Richardson has been in Canada but a few months and came here from the Hope plant in Birmingham, where he had a technical and practical training, that is being applied with good effect to the management of the factory. The Henry Hope & Sons of Canada, Limited, took for its first contract in Peterborough, the manufacture of basement and bulkhead lights for the new Turnbull store and this local patronage is but a straw showing the way the wind blows and foretells the friendly and helpful relations that will quite likely be maintained by Henry Hope & Sons of Canada, Limited, and the people of Peterborough in general.

TURNBULL'S

Magnificent New Store Will Give Merchants Greater and More Productive Patronage

There is no doubt but what the magnificent modern building that will be occupied by the Turnbull Co. by the end of this month, will be a publicity exploiter of the first rank for this company and for Peterborough itself. Any person who visits Peterborough must be impressed with the facilities that are afforded by this establishment. It is the most striking feature of the down town district and must give at least two or three favorable deductions. The size of the store naturally leads one to believe that every department is large and complete; and further encourages one to believe that Peterborough in dry goods, etc., is able to fill all its own requirements. Also such a structure illustrates the fact that this city is growing and that an entirely up to date and extensive plant is needed for merchandising affairs.

The new building at the corner of George and Simcoe streets presents in its four floors and basement, space of twenty-seven thousand square feet. It is conspicuous in the immense amount of glass that is used, though the artificial illumination is of notable strength and clearness, also so that day or night, there is a clear view of each part of the store. On the George Street side of the street floor, there are two great windows and the main entrance. On the second floor there are three very large windows, and there are five on the Simcoe side of the building. They are generally six or seven feet deep and two of the largest windows are 8 feet by 14 feet 8 inches. The backs of windows are of crotch mahogany, which ~~comes from Honduras~~, and is a mahogany that is taken from the crotch of trees. The size and number of the windows will allow, as is easily realized, the greatest capacity for display that has ever been provided in this city. And those who know the able and alert management of Turnbull's are quite confident that every such opportunity will be embraced to its fullest extent.

The solid construction of the building is apparent from the outside and throughout the interior, every precaution has been taken for comfort and security. The floors are mill construction with planks laid edgewise upon which the maple floor is placed. Underneath the planks is the metallic foundation. An electric elevator, made by Stephens of Glasgow, is the safest and best that could be secured. A spiral staircase leads from the upper floors to the second floor and from thence to a fire escape on the outside of the building. The structure is as near fireproof as human ingenuity can make it.

For years, Turnbull Co. has been the leader in dry goods, millinery, ready-to-wear, house furnishings, dressmaking, etc., and these departments in the new building will be allowed all the capacity they need and with modern conveniences will be capable of better services. The dressmaking department of the fourth floor is especialy well arranged and will be able to accommodate more patrons than ever. New departments will be added in this new store, but adequate time will be taken to get the old departments running smoothly and effectively before new ones will be installed. The ready-to-wear goods on the second floor will be a shop in itself, and the department is atractively arranged so that goods may be completely displayed, tried on and fitted precisely.

The lower floor has a height of fifteen feet and the beautiful white high ceilings give a spacious and charming effect. Broad aisles assist in the comfort of shoppers and every transaction is facilitated by the equipment and salespeople's efforts. Mahogany fixtures are installed on the street floor and interior finish is of this same highly polished and uniquely solid wood. All the fixtures are entirely new on this floor. The semi-indirect lighting system is in use and the newest Lamson cable cash system is the improved facility in that operation. Other stories of the building are thirteen, twelve and eleven feet high, with lighting and cash system complete. There is a freight as well as a passenger elevator, and all consignments of stock are taken to the basement and then distributed to different departments. No goods are left on the sidewalks and none are unwrapped on sales floors.

The Turnbull Company, which has been a notable dry goods organization in this city since 1881, has in later years taken such an advanced position in merchandising, that it is known throughout the county quite as reliably as in the city. For a number of recent years, as many as seventy-five people have been employed, and in the new building, the staff will shortly be increased to one hundred. F. J. Might, who has been proprietor of the business since 1901, has been at the head of it, during the periods of its greatest expansions. He has labored diligently and inexhaustively during the construction of the new Turnbull Store, and his watchful and eager anxiety to give Peterborough the very best in a departmental store, has borne fruit, as the thousands who will soon visit the store, will testify.

TAIT OPTICAL CO.

MODERN AND COMPLETE FACILITIES PROVIDED BY EXPERIENCED AND PRACTICAL OPTICIANS

There is no organ more delicate than the eye, though it might not be overstating the case if one were to say, there is no organ more abused either. In Peterborough there is no good reason why this should be so for in the Tait Optical Co. the public here has as complete and desirable facilities for testing the sight; for remedying defects and for being supplied with proper glasses as can be found anywhere in Canada. Moreover if glasses are not necessary one may be assured that this Optical Co. will not prescribe them. As one is never certain when the sight is failing, it is a good idea to have some advice and this company is experienced and reliable so that any information given may be depended upon.

The Tait Optical Co. has been a name known to Peterborough and the surrounding country for some eighteen years and though there have been changes in ownership in that time, the original name has been an asset that has been retained. Now the business is in the hands of the founders again and is being conducted with the discretion and integrity that have marked Tait operations. The headquarters at 410 George Street, are one of the most complete optical establishments that may be found in this section of Ontario. The room for the testing of the sight is a dark room that is illuminated by electricity and it is in such an environment that the surest tests are made. The most accurate and improved methods for testing the sight are used; and following this a correct prescription is given.

The company has its own machines and department for making glasses and the size and shape of the glass is cut by special machines that are operated here. The lens are ground to the thickness or thinness demanded and there is the gradations in each one, that are of course necessary to fit the sight.

Lenses are here manufactured from the rough material to the finished product; first quality of fused crystal being the material used and there is also equipment for repairing, making or mending all sorts of bows or frames of spectacles. A great deal of this work is of course performed for Peterborough people but scores of patients come here from different parts of the province. Dr. B. J. Tait who reorganized the business about a year ago was connected with it, fifteen years ago. It was founded eighteen years ago by his brother, Dr. J. G. Tait, who is now in Hamilton in charge of the head branch of the company which is many times as big as the Peterborough one and is really a great factory. J. G. as well as B. T. Tait went from here to Cuba but the former has been in Hamilton nine years. B. T. Tait remained in Cuba ten years where he carried on an official business in Havana and also has large tobacco holdings on his plantation there. However his native land as a permanent home attracted him and returning to the north he took over the Tait optical business here and with greatly improved facilities and premises, is creating for the Tait Optical Co. a greater patronage and prestige than ever. Also he is giving Peterborough and vicinity better and more complete service than they have ever known in this field.

SODEN'S BOOKSTORE

EXTENSIVE FACILITIES AND TRANSACTIONS AT R. J. SODEN'S WHERE A VARIED STOCK IS CARRIED

A cursory view of Soden's book store does not furnish an adequate idea of the stock carried or the accommodations offered here. To be sure there is a centre door and two good sized windows at 369 George Street, but it would take several weeks with daily changes to express in the windows, all that is handled in the stock.

On the lower floor there is much more even than the casual customer imagines. One might enter the premises many times for books, periodicals, etc., and not notice that R. J. Soden has one of the handsomest and finest lines of china that is shown in the city. There has been undoubted good taste disclosed in the selection of this china and though there may not be the number of sets that might be found in a great crockery and china store there is nevertheless just the makes and patterns to which one would finally settle down to a selection. All of them are open patterns so that in case of accident, breakage or loss, one can make the set whole again. Pretty pottery and metals are shown in attractive designs and on the second floor, there is one of the most complete lines of wall paper that is handled in this city. On the third floor, picture mouldings are displayed and picture frames are manufactured.

The first floor where the china is exhibited, presents the greatest variety for it is here where magazines and newspapers are handled. All weekly or monthly periodicals are put on the counters here as soon as they are issued and one might be astounded to learn that there were so many publications as may be seen at these headquarters. The newest novels and standard works of literature are handled in different editions, bindings, etc., and as soon as one has seen a review of any book, one may feel sure of securing it at Soden's.

Paper, stationery of all grades; pens, inks, and all office supplies are handled here. Day book, ledgers and loose leaf or bound volumes are dealt in and the various catalogue systems that are efficient may be secured here. Wall paper on the upper floor, is shown in the seasonable patterns and textures as designs and materials become popular from year to year; one may see these changing tastes in the up-to-date stock at Soden's. This department is patronized by people from all over the county as well as by Peterborough patrons.

Mouldings in all woods and finish that are used for picture framing are shown on the third floor and they are made into appropriate shapes for pictures. The colors, woods and weights are discriminately selected so that the canvas is adorned by the harmony of its frame. Experienced people are employed in this department and good service and courtesy are noticeable in each department.

R. J. Soden the proprietor has been located here for the past nine years or so and has given Peterborough such complete and efficient accommodations that the city has naturally responded with more and heavier patronage until Soden's has reached a point when it is regarded as one of the sound and progressive mercantile enterprises. Mr. Soden is the nominee of the Conservative party for the legislative assembly of the Province of Ontario and his staunch support of party principles as well as personal integrity, makes him an aspirant for whom success is generally predicted.

GEORGE A. BRENTON

EXPERIENCED AND EFFICIENT SANITARY AND HEATING ENGINEER PROVIDES COMPLETE SERVICE IN THIS FIELD

The city that has within its own environments' all general facilities, is the one of course, that will go further forward, as it is husbanding its own resources and keeping labor and wages within its boundaries. Thus a plumber with such facilities and experience as Geo. A. Brenton is really helpful to the entire community, for Mr. Brenton can take contracts of considerable size, and has the materials and tools with which to fulfill them promptly. He has done a great deal of important work in both heating and plumbing and it must be admitted if there was not such a concern as Mr. Brenton's in this city, contractors from outside of Peterborough would have to be brought in to do the work that is done by him.

Mr. Brenton is now doing the plumbing at the new Empress Hotel, and this is one of the most notable contracts that has been awarded in this city for years. The Empress is an unusually large hotel for a city of this size, and its plumbing and heating facilities will be of the most modern and sanitary character, so that it is an undeniable recommendation for Mr. Brenton that he is intrusted with this contract. The installation so far shows skilful workmanship and scientific engineering, for pipes and implements are placed where they will work most readily and accurately, and the most suitable materials are in use.

George A. Brenton, with shop at 99 Hunter street, has been in business for himself for four and a half years, and in that time has done a great deal of high-class work in plumbing and heating. He has been given such large contracts as the Empress Hotel, Bells' Block, on Hunter street, and other commercial and warehousing properties. He has been called upon for operations in most of the best houses that have been built since he was in business, and he has given a complete satisfaction, that has caused his services to be in demand continuously. At his shop on Hunter street one may gain an idea of what materials are used, for in this city there is no finer display than is made here. There are the latest ideas in bathtubs, sets, sinks, stands and all the glistening accessories that are comfortable in bathroom or lavatory. These are shown in the newest designs and sanitary materials, so that merely looking over the stock is indication that hygiene is one of the primary requisites of this concern, so that one is not surprised to learn that all plumbing installed by Geo. A. Brenton is laid with care, so that drainage and ventilation will be wholesome accessories of the plumbing. All sorts of heating apparatus except hot air is installed by Mr. Brenton and these operations are done efficiently, so that the best service will be given by furnace or boiler and the greatest amount of heat will be furnished from the minimum of fuel. This result is secured by installing the heaters in the right place, where drafts and flues will operate correctly. Also Mr. Brenton has compared different kinds and makes of heaters, and is authority in advising the most durable and economical designs.

Eight or ten men are now being employed by Mr. Brenton, and, though they are informed in their special lines, all work undertaken by this concern is given personal supervision by Mr. Brenton. Thus when a contract is concluded, he is responsible for it and he allows nothing to remain undone that will add to its finish and perfection, this conscientiousness and skill having led to his reputation and leading position among plumbers and heaters.

HOOPER'S

THREE COMPLETE ESTABLISHMENTS PROVIDE SERVICE IN BREAD, CAKE AND SIMILAR MERCHANDISE

It is not too much to say that of all business houses most frequently mentioned in this city there is none that is referred to more frequently than Hooper's. All classes of people have transactions with this concern. There is the householder of ordinary means who depends upon it for bread or biscuits. There is the woman who entertains and wants fancy cake for guests or for her own family. There are the countless young people who go to one of Hooper's three shops for confectionery, ice-creams, soda, etc. All of these traders bear out the assumption that Hooper's is more generally known and sought than any other mercantile establishment in Peterborough.

Facilities offered have caused this general patronage, and almost every year in the quarter of century that Thomas Hooper has been established here, some new or more extended accommodations have been offered. The business was founded in what is now known as the lower store at 327 George street. The centre store has been in operation for about eight years, and is perhaps the most active of all the properties, as it is most convenient for sodas and ices and for the high-class trade in sweets and confections. The third store at 601 George street has been in use about five years, and all the baking is done here. At each of these places the multiple of cakes that are made by T. Hooper are shown in complete assortment. A variety of bread is dealt in and displayed at each place. Light lunches are served at the two down-town stores, and prettily furnished apartments are furnished in each store for the serving of ice-cream, sodas, sundaes, etc.

Hooper is known as a wholesale as well as a retail baker, and the bread that is manufactured here is distributed through a score of towns within twenty to twenty-five miles radius. Shipments are made as far east as Perth and on the west to Cavanville. The lake regions are supplied in the summer, and grocers and retailers in Peterborough satisfy their customers by taking orders and delivering Hooper's bread. At the bakery on George street, corner of Dublin street, there are three modern and commodious ovens which are used nightly for the baking of bread, of which there are some four thousand loaves a day turned out. The ovens are used during the day for cake-baking. Any one who has been in Peterborough for a few weeks knows the delectable pastry that is produced by T. Hooper. There are the conventional sorts of cakes—sponge, angel, fruit, etc.,—that may be secured at most bakeries. But additionally here there are scores of dainty concoctions that are made of the best and purest materials, and in combinations that are distinctive to these bakers. There are fresh assortments each day and great quantities are disposed of in the three stores, as well as through the other mediums to which Hooper sells at retail. Three rigs are kept in commission for the handling of bread, and one for cake. There are nine bakers; twelve in the stores; three or four on rgis, and several candy makers at the lower store. Numerous confections are manufactured by Hooper and other high grade chocolates are handled at each store. More than thirty people are employed, which is the largest staff in any merchandising enterprise in Peterborough outside of the very largest department stores.

Thomas Hooper, the sole owner of this substantial business, had his training in the Old Country, and began for himself in Peterborough in a small way. The satisfaction that was given by his goods easily accumulated more patronage, and the extensive expansions that have been made, were in response to the demands of the public. Mr. Hooper has won, through energy and merit, his position as a foremost business man, and has the esteem that is accorded the man who goes forward, prosperously and fairly.

RISHOR'S

LIMITED

WHOLESALE GROCERY HOUSE THAT IS CONDUCTED ENTERPRISINGLY AND WITH ALL FACILITIES

Such a wholesale grocery house as Rishor's Ltd. is an asset to Peterborough as it would be to any city where it was located. The building that is occupied by Rishor's Ltd., for the past two years, is a fine, substantial structure with three floors and a basement which presents an area of close to twelve thousand square feet. A track of the Grand Trunk railroad runs along the side of the building where the goods are received, and as there is more often than not a car on the tracks, even the area of the building does not cover entirely the warehousing capacity of the concern. Thus, as stated at the beginning, the limited company of Rishor's is an asset to the city, for it has on hand an immense stock of groceries and grocer's specialties, and if the city of Peterborough were shut off from the outside world, at least it wouldn't go hungry for a few days, judging by the amount of goods that is on hand here. The wholesale house like Rishor's performs a service that sometimes is not taken into account by the public. Yet such an establishment with a great supply of goods means that the consumer may have his orders always filled, though the consumer does not, of course, come in direct contact with Rishor's. But the retailer, finding he is out of some commodity, can readily get it, and without loss of time, so that any order that has come to him has been filled without interruption.

Beside accommodating the dealer and his customer in this manner, the wholesaler also performs another service, for the dealer, knowing where he can get his goods, has only to carry a stock on hand for immediate wants. He is not obliged to invest in a surplus stock, for the wholesaler has virtually done that for him. At Rishor's Ltd. all sorts of food stuffs are handled, both in bulk and package goods. One exception to this rule is flour and feed, but other eatables that are in demand in the home are handled here in large quantities. Sugar and other staples are carried in accordance with the market; a great amount being on hand when the market is going to advance, and smaller stocks when there is likely to be a decline. Cigars, tobacco and cigarettes are dealt in and sold largely, also candy and sweet biscuits; canned vegetables and fruits from the best known packers in this country or the U. S.

This wholesaler has a machine for washing fruits and currants, raisins and similar dried fruits that are obtained from Rishor's are ready for use. It is the only machine of this sort that is operated in this part of the country. Canned fish and imported meats and fish in tins are dealt in, and the investment in these goods reaches an astonishing figure, so that only the jobber who has a frequent turnover in stock could really carry them. Pickles, sauces and cereals; soaps, brooms, paper bags, twine, etc., are handled, and there is nothing that is inventoried by the largest wholesalers but what is shown here in stock and offered to the retailers by Rishor's travelling men. Two salesmen are kept on the road, and towns for about fifty miles about here are covered by them. This concern operates a motor truck, upon which deliveries are made in the nearby towns. A team is also used and five or six people employed.

Charles Rishor, the president and general manager of the corporation, has been in the business seven years and two years ago took possession of his fine warehouse near the Grand Trunk railroad and station.

EMPRESS HOTEL

NEW HOSTELRY ON SITE OF NATIONAL HOTEL PRESENTS BEST FACILITIES PETERBOROUGH HAS EVER KNOWN

In a month or two the Empress Hotel will be open for traffic and in its finished state will be one of the finest public houses in this part of the country; and incontestably will be the most complete and modern one that has ever been conducted in Peterborough. It will be as is evident at the present time, a structure that will be notably creditable to the city itself, and a monument to the sagacity of its owner and his confidence in Peterborough. For only a man with belief in the community would make such an investment as the Empress Hotel stands to Mr. George N. Graham.

The Empress, which was formerly known as the Hotel National, is entirely new, except for the outer walls, and it has been planned by George M. Miller, of Toronto, one of the most capable architects in the Dominion. The porte cochere in front of the main entrance is one of the striking points that makes the Hotel attractive and dignified. This is the principal exterior or addition; but in the interior there is hardly a point of similarity between the old National and the new Empress. For that matter, old partitions, walls and ceilings have been torn down and have been entirely replaced. The building, for one thing, has been made fireproof, and to this end, some twelve tons of steel have been installed by the contractors. The Empress has some seventy-five bed rooms and each one of them has stationary bowls and hot and cold running water. There are numerous baths on each floor and a number of suites that provide private tubs as well as parlors in connection with the chambers.

On the ground floor, there is a large and handsomely furnished bar, which is at the west end of the Hotel. There is a writing room between the office and rotunda and on the corner of Water Street and Charlotte, is the dining room. The rotunda is made entirely of tile and marble and the grand stairway from this main lobby is of white marble. The dining room is in white enamel and the clearness of walls and ceilings make this apartment a bright and inviting one, that positively must add to the contentment of those who take any meal there. To the south of the dining room on the Water Street side of the house is the Grill room, which is finished in Georgia pine. Both the Grill and dining room will have furniture to match and there will be entire harmony between the colors of each room as they relate to one another, and also between the finish and design of rooms and furniture.

The dining room will have a seating capacity for one hundred and with the Grill adjoining it, there will be the largest seating accommodations that have ever been presented here. This means that a public occasion, banquet, reception, social or fraternal gathering can be held here with conveniences and space that hitherto have never been obtainable. Moreover, as accomplished chefs and assistants have already been engaged, there is no doubt of the ability of the Empress to take care of any function that may be desirable.

From the Grill room on the Water Street side, ten new sample rooms have been constructed and these are well lighted, well ventilated and most expertly arranged so that the commercial man can display a large stock without discomfort of any kind. There seems reason to believe from the accommodations thus offered, that Peterborough will become more and more the headquarters of the travelling man and that he will aim to get the Empress not only for local business, but to remain here between times, such as Sundays or holidays, and give Peterborough the name of being a "good hotel town." This reputations is worth more to a city than many people realize for the favorable comment of the travelling man who goes to many places, is given weight by business men; and it is on such recommendations or sincere good words, that attention is drawn to a community, followed perhaps by interest and investment. The Empress Hotel must certainly be a favorable argument for Peterboro, and as it will take a staff of some fifty people to look after the many departments, it will be an industry that will give circulation to considerable sums in wages. The Hotel that pleases people and keeps them as long as possible in town, houses guests who inevitably patronize other enterprises, and thus the city generally is benefited.

There is no doubt of the services that will be given in the Empress and every requirement of the public is being anticipated at present. There will be news and cigar stands; valet service; elevator and floor supervision; private telephones; with carpets, draperies and linens of fine quality. Men and women of experience will render courteous response to all inquiries or demands and the modern arrangements and furinshing of this handsome Hotel will be supplemented by the promptness and efficiency that will govern all its operations.

C. J. CARROLL & CO.

ALERT DEALER IN REAL ESTATE CALLS ATTENTION TO OPPORTUNITIES IN INVESTMENT IN PETERBOROUGH

No one person can do so much for a community as a reliable and far-reaching dealer in real estate, and this contention has been proved in our own city by the concern of C. J. Carroll & Co., with offices at 372 Water street. The additions to the city that have been placed upon the market by this company have been seized upon by investors and home builders, and are today among the most desirable properties in Peterborough.

This company has looked up the available and desirable tracts of land that are accessible to the centre of the city or the industrial neighborhoods, and has interested capital in these projects. More than fifty thousand dollars was brought into the city last year by C. J. Carroll, and this means that this amount of money went into circulation or became an asset to other enterprises of a local nature. The exploiting that such a concern as Carroll & Co. do also bring to the front the name of Peterborough, and there is no doubt but what the city's location, resources, manufacturing plants, and shipping facilities have been made known to a considerable number of people through the operations of C. J. Carroll & Co.

This concern brought into the city the Hatton property known as Victoria Heights, and this beautiful sub-division was laid out in metropolitan and attractive style before lots were put on the market. Most local people know the class of residents who have taken lots at Victoria Heights and the style of buildings that will be erected on them, is wholly assured. There are certain restrictions governing these lots. That is, no house worth less than thirty-five hundred dollars is to be erected there; but knowing the business men, bankers, and manufacturers who have purchased there, it is realized that, without exactions, modern and luxurious homes will be constructed there.

The Heights comprise 64 lots, and of these, 34 were gone two months after they were placed on sale. The ground slopes beautifully, looking toward the city, and the natural elevation insures a clear, beautiful atmosphere and delightful perspective. Lots are fifty feet wide, so that no crowding takes place, and the avenues laid out by the real estate dealers are 66 feet wide. Water, sewerage, lights, etc., are to be had at Victoria Heights, and it is believed the street cars will run by there this year.

DeLaval Gardens has been opened by J. C. Carroll & Co. in quite another part of the city—toward the south and below the Agricultural grounds. The DeLaval Gardens may be reached in short order from the DeLaval plant and the plot of ground that has been named for the industry and its people is a beautiful, level piece of ground, that contains 278 lots, with various size frontages, 100 of which have been sold. The DeLaval Gardens and surrounding district has been very largely developed and populated in the past few years; DeLaval Gardens offers an economic opportunity for the investor as well as for the purchaser who may be able to build at once. Fourteen lots have been purchased for a church site by the Presbyterian society, so that the immediate accommodations of this part of the town will be fulfilled. A year ago Braidwood, the other side of the De Laval, was put on the market by C. J. Carroll & Co., and some very fine plots of land have been handled by this concern during its career. Houses and other improved property are bought and sold, leases negotiated, and mortgages and loans transferred or secured. In fact, any service that an up-to-date and efficient realty organization can perform is performed by this company, and buyers and sellers have been brought together with mutual satisfaction.

C. J. Carroll, the principal of this business, has been established in Peterborough for about five years, and though he was formerly in the piano business also, in later years he had to abandon that to devote all his time to land and financial transactions. Each year has brought an increasing number of transactions, and the volume of business has been heavier and more important. It is encouraging to know that even this year when industries are generally quiet there has been a healthy increase in Mr. Carroll's business and he predicts that this will be the best building year that Peterborough has ever known.

T. KINNEAR & CO.

Peterboro's Leading Grocer House

T. Kinnear & Co., with commodious warehouse at 200 George street, continue to be the leading firm in its line. This company was established in Toronto some forty years ago and is regarded as one of the most reliable commercial houses in the Dominion. The demand for the goods of this establishment warranted closer facilities for Peterborough than was given from Toronto and in 1904 it was decided that they should locate here, the decision being followed by the warehouse that was operated the first part of 1905.

T. Kinnear & Co. sends its men from here as far east as Tweed and west to Port Hope and all intermediate towns. The stock and plant in this city means that orders can be filled here more quickly than as if they had to go to Toronto, and there is less transportation to be met. These economies are shared with the customer so that such a wholesale establishment as T. Kinnear & Co. is a thrifty institution for the public generally.

Sugar and other staples are handled in large quantities by this company, and all sorts of bulk and package foods are carried in stock. Spices, coffee, tea, sauces, cereals, molasses, vinegar, and table condiments are dealt in; fancy biscuits, and confectionery, etc. Grocers' specialties also are handled, such as brooms, glassware, paper bags, twine, etc., and there is always a stock on hand to meet any requirements of the trade in this part of the Province. The warehouse of T. Kinnear & Co. has three floors and a basement, and close to ten thousand square feet of floor space is occupied. The floors are facilitated by electric elevator service, and the company has its own spur track which runs alongside the big receiving door.

Robert Ross, the manager, has been the representative of T. Kinnear & Co. for about five years, and was also with this concern in Toronto before coming here. He has conducted operations without friction or pause, and his own enterprise and ability, combined with the resources of the Kinnear Co., have been an effective combination that has spelled a greater success annually.

H. B. TAYLOR & SON

COAL, SEWER PIPE AND CEMENT HANDLED AT WELL KNOWN YARDS AT WOLFE AND AYLMER STREETS

There are certain lines of merchandise that are effectively grouped together, and this is illustrated in the business carried on by H. B. Taylor & Son, corner of Wolfe and Aylmer streets, where a considerable property is occupied for coal, cement and sewer pipe. It is readily seen that when coal is little in demand there are greater requirements for sewer pipe and cement, and the result is that such a concern as H. B. Taylor & Son is in operation all the year round.

This firm has been established a little less than two years, but H. B. Taylor had formerly been well known in his connection with a business of the same kind under another firm name. Moreover, this firm purchased the anthracite coal business of the Ontario Coal Co. and secured the retail trade which the Ontario Company had catered to for some five years. Consequently from the start H. B. Taylor & Son had patrons who knew that the concern could be relied upon and that the stock would always be what it is recommended.

Canada cement, which has been demonstrated to be a most valuable and lasting building material, is handled by this concern, and as the premises are large and capacious there is always stock on hand, so any order may be filled. Sewer pipe of the quality and sizes that are most effective in and around Peterborough are dealt in; and contractors who are busy on a job never have any worriment about getting a large or small supply, but know that when they are in need of either cement or sewer pipe, all they have to do is inform H. B. Taylor & Son and they are immediately supplied. Phone 209.

There are at these premises storage capacity for a thousand tons of coal, and the best grades of hard and soft coal are dealt in, so that homes and factories may be supplied. Five or six men are employed, several teams used, and traffic in one of the stocks dealt in is kept up through all parts of the year.

H. B. Taylor is a well-known business man in Peterborough and has been for years identified with the trade in which he is now established for himself. His son William Everett is the junior of the firm, and his enterprising assistance is aiding in a larger patronage and stronger reputation.

THE REID COMPANY

Ready-To-Wear Store for Women Is Only Exclusive Shop of Its Kind in This City

The Inviting Front and Ample Window Space of The Reid Co., George Street.

One might designate Reid's as the smart shop of Peterborough and be well within the truth. In fact among patrons this is the description most often applied and even transients or passers-by who pay attention to the store, find that chic, good form, natty and smart are adjectives that are brought to the surface by the attractive displays.

Doubtless there will be no controversy over the statement that the most alluring window displays in this city are made at Reid's, Not to disparage other business houses, it will, of course, be admitted that gowns, waists, separate skirts, coats and women's ready to wear lend themselves most adaptably to window dressing and that a window dresser specialising with such commodities can work out more effective combinations than as if he were putting in one class of goods one day and a different class another day. There is the one class of material for the window trimmer here and there is no doubt but what he has studied designs, colors, shaping, draping and effect. Much depends upon the window man, for he has to bring out the points of the stock. He must make the public pause before the windows and must induce them to go inside. Of course, he is marvellously assisted by the goods he has to show, and at Reid's one must divide one's admiration between the stock and the way it is arranged. To be sure, not everything gets a place in the windows, but the good taste that characterizes those exhibits, is sustained in the store proper.

The most modish creations in gowns are shown here, and these frocks are for household wear, for afternoon or evening occasions or for street wear. There are the soft, clinging and much draped affairs or there are the strictly tailored made suits. Wraps of all sorts are shown; separate skirts, waists, petticoats, and these are shown in [illegible] seasonable materials and designs as are marked in dresses and suits. Hosiery and gloves are handled and all ready to wear goods for women.

Different makes of corsets are shown and a particular apartment is to be set off for this line of goods this fall. There will be an experienced corsetiere in attendance who will make correct fittings and white goods will be handled in the same space. Sweaters, raincoats and other such protecting garments are carried, and distinctive quality, as well as style, is presented in them. Smartness and distinctiveness are sometimes synonomous or sometimes supplementary. One adds charm to the other, and the highest point of attractiveness is reached in the exclusive styles that are shown at Reid's. Capable dressmakers are employed, and when alterations are necessary they are made thoroughly and precisely.

A millinery shop that is patronized by exclusive women is maintained on the second floor and surplus stock is held on another floor.

This establishment of Reid Co. has been founded only since February, 1913, and the recognized leading position it now occupies, is a remarkable achievement. It mears that Peterborough was ready for a specialty shop and that Reid's provided the stock and service that filled the field. The business is under the management of J. Gillespie Stewart, and this young man is alert and initiative and is exercising every means at his command, not only to hold the store's present reputation and patronage, but to continually improve and enlarge it.

J. Gillespie Stewart, Managing Director The Reid Co. Store.

White Rose Garage

CANADIAN OILS LIMITED

NEW AND EXTENSIVE FACILITIES OFFERED AT HUNTER STREET PREMISES

There has been natural progress in the enterprises that have been for several years conducted by G. K. Rackham, so that now, when he has secured commodious and central premises on Hunter street, he has developed from a dealer in oils to Garage facilities and automobile accessories, and has in mind a further invasion of the automobile field. The steps taken so far have been almost inevitable for there is nothing more essential or more important in the automobile field than oils and lubricants. The dealer in oils is bound to enter into very close relations with the automobile owner, and from being interested in the best oils for motors, he becomes interested in all parts of the car and in all the materials that are good for it.

Thus the White Rose Garage has come into existance, and here may be secured the best oils and lubricants that are on the market in this country. The right consistency and the accurate parts are comprised in the oils sold here, and as they were sold by Mr. Rackham even before the Garage was started, there are many car owners who can testify to their worth. This Garage has the agency for the Canadian Oil Companies, Ltd., and this gives it the greatest resource offered by any independent organization. The American Company in Cleveland is the strongest competitor of the Standard Oil Company, and has worked itself into its leading position through quality of oils and prices. All oils and by-products are handled here, and a gasoline tank with a capacity of 500 gallons is one of the resources of the Garage.

Kerosene is largely dealt in, and a tank wagon goes through the country within a 25-mile radius of Peterborough and makes deliveries from the wagon. Beside the oils for which the White Rose Garage is getting more and more desirable reputation, tires and other accessories are handled here. T. W. Appleby is superintendent of the repair shop, and he is an expert mechanic who has worked on automobiles for some years and is familiar with different makes, so that he can detect ordinary troubles quickly and remedy them in corresponding time. Mr. Rackham is going to handle automobiles at this Garage, but before taking an agency, is going to compare the cost, upkeep and service of various makes and will decide upon the one that stands the tests most satisfactorily.

ONTARIO COAL CO.

The Ontario Coal Company has covered the wholesale field for the past two years. As Peterborough regards itself as a natural market for a considerable territory it is gratifying to know that in wholesaling coal, this company has accomplished enough to justify its position in this field and prove anew that Peterborough is a logical distributing point.

To be sure, where orders for coal are not for the city proper, the coal is not brought in here, but goes direct to the purchaser. But the fact remains that the purchaser looks to Peterborough as his source of supply, and this is the confidence and reputation that Peterborough most desires. The O. C. Co. handles hard and soft coals, and selling at wholesale has transactions almost entirely with manufacturers and dealers. Some of the largest manufacturers, who use as much coal as a retailer, buy through the wholesaler, and these large orders, in and around Peterborough, are generally booked by the Ontario Coal Company, Ltd.

PETERBORO STEAM LAUNDRY

OLD ESTABLISHED AND RELIABLE INDUSTRY PROVIDES HIGH CLASS SERVICE

The Peterborough Steam Laundry, 177-179 Charlotte street, is one of the complete facilities of the present day and has been one of the city's accommodations for nearly thirty years. The Peterborough Steam Laundry has for years given satisfaction to particular people. It is a modern plant with improved machinery so that articles are not only washed thoroughly but they are handled with great care so that delicate fabrics are not injured through any of the processes. Then in starched goods, there is an attractive appearance given to steam laundered work which can not possibly be furnished by the individual who labors by hand. Recently there has been some new machinery installed that is most effective in operations and results. A Trojan flat work iron and shirt presses are included.

The quality of the work performed here has met with favor both in Peterborough and adjoining territory and the Peterborough Steam Laundry has agencies in Millbrook, Sterling, Delora, Hastings, Kenmount, Keene and Warsaw. Hotel work in Peterborough and a number of the boats that tie up or go through here, have their linen nicely cleaned and pressed at this establishment. Two rigs are used for local collections and deliveries and about two dozen people are employed, the majority of whom have been with this one concern for years and are familiar with the best methods in steam laundering.

W. P. Hetherington has been here over twenty years and was formerly foreman for Mr. Parker. He has been proprietor of the business for the past nine years and there is no laundry man in this part of Canada who has a more thorough practical or tenical knowledge of this industry.

PARKER'S DYE WORKS

SCORE OF AGENCIES REPRESENT WELL KNOWN INDUSTRY CONDUCTED BY MR. R. M. BEACH

Parker's Dye Works, 177 Charlotte street, not only serves this municipality with thorough facilities and experience, but that there are seventeen towns about here that send their work here. In that number of towns Parker's Dye Works have agencies, and in addition to these regular customers. Goods are received from Kingston, Belleville and from different points in the eastern part of this country, where Parker's has been heard of and recommended as one of the best establishments of its kind in this part of the Dominion.

The business has been in operation here for nearly thirty years, and has been under the proprietorship of R. M. Beach for nine years. From the start the business has been conducted skilfully and painstakingly while under Mr. Beach's supervision it has been made thoroughly modern and up-to-date.

This concern has the most satisfactory methods known in the trade for the materials or garments that are to be cleaned or dyed are studied for their particular textures and are then treated in the individual way that is best for certain fabrics. The dyes are fast and durable and when these works accept a job it is satisfied just what can be done with it, and promises the customer literally what it performs. Dresses, cloaks, piece goods, outing flannels and all sorts of summer attire that has to be cleaned and renewed often are made to look like new, while the price for some of this work might be called nominal. In any event it is a very small amount for the wonders worked. From twenty to twenty-five people are employed and this staff is significant of the amount of work done here.

R. M. Beach has applied himself to processes of dyeing and cleaning and he has continually developed both his operations and facilities.

Richard Hall & Son Limited

The Only Mercantile Business Institution in This City Sending a Buyer Direct to the Foreign Markets is Richard Hall & Son Limited

Once again Mr. S. Dickson Hall, foreign buyer for Richard Hall & Son, Limited, sets sail on the SS. Royal George, leaving Montreal on Tuesday, June 30th, in the interest of the customers of this old reliable and well-established business house. For a period extending many years back the firm of Richard Hall & Son, Limited, has always been represented in the foreign markets by Mr. S. D. Hall, who is a thoroughly capable and careful buyer. In his semi-annual tours of the European continent he secures for his firm not only the newest creations, but the very latest and most up-to-date novelties in seasonable and stylish conceptions, as produced by the master hand of Fashion. The tremendous increase in the volume of business done by this reputable dry goods firm in the past few years has rendered it imperative that two voyages yearly must be made to satisfy the demands for Hall's quality and moderate priced merchandise.

The direct buying and selling methods have many advantages, which the customers of this house quickly realize and thoroughly appreciate, the principal one being the saving of money on the purchase of wares in favor of the customer. By purchasing direct from manufacturer and selling direct to consumer, this far-seeing business firm eliminates all wholesalers' or middlemen's profits, thus saving the customer twenty to thirty-five per cent. on the purchase price. Another great advantage is in the securing of correct fashions. It is a generally conceded fact that styles are first originated in Paris, modified in London, and copied in New York. The firm of Richard Hall & Son, Limited, with its foreign buyer right at the helm of Fashion—in the city where the styles are first originated — has undoubtedly the first chance, and a great advantage over all its competitors, in securing what is absolutely new in fashionable accessories and costumes for any season.

In these days of such radical style changes, it is compulsory that such a progressive firm as Richard Hall & Son, Limited, be represented by an individual foreign buyer who personally selects with care and discrimination the accredited fashions to satisfy the needs of the hundreds of customers of this fastly-growing and go-ahead business house.

As for exclusiveness, this firm emphasizes most forcefully the fact that everything imported from abroad is strictly confined to them for sale in Peterborough, which does away with that provoking thought of two articles being exactly the same in a city so limited in size as this. This trip which Mr. S. D. Hall is contemplating in the interest of R. Hall & Son, Limited, will complete his fiftieth voyage across the wide ocean, and the merchandise which he shall select will be exhibited by his firm during the Fall Opening displays which, the firm is already planning to make the most elaborate in the history of the business.

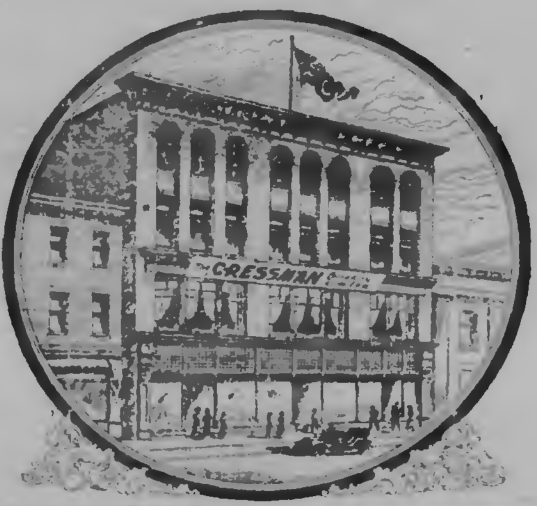
CRESSMAN'S LIMITED

Dependable Merchandise for Men, Women and Children

Sold in Reliable Store

Twenty departments under one roof is a state of affairs that makes Peterborough immune from commiseration. In a city this size, that is as near a very large city such as Toronto, there are oftentimes lacking some of the larger cites' merchandising facilities, and visitors look upon such a community pityingly or superiorily. Peterborough will not stand for such airs, for in Cressman's Ltd., as well as in several other departmental stores here, there are stocks that are not only adequate for Peterborough, but are sufficient to gain the patronage of a large number of people in surrounding territory. This store in its present capacity has twenty departments, and before the end of this year there will be several more added to this number.

This has been the policy in sixteen years, for greater capacity and more complete service has been the aim since Mr. A. W. Cressman founded his enterprise in 1898. Then it was a small dry goods store; but so marked was the effort to give satisfaction that an increasing patronage rewarded these efforts. And as the patronage increased, capacity became necessary, and space and departments were added, so that Peterborough and vicinity might be given the accommodations they required. This year the furniture, fancy goods and children's departmens were added. Arrangements have been completed whereby another store will be added by the first of August, and this will not only allow greater capacity for some of the existing departments, but will advance the project of installing some entirely new ones.



One small store chiefly devoted to dry goods was the establishment that Mr. Cressman founded, and it was considered an auspicious beginning, with a staff of six people. Now there are seventy-five people employed by Cressman's Ltd. There are four floors, with an area of twenty-four thousand square feet, which will be increased to thirty thousand square feet in two months. Two years ago a stock company was formed, and two sons, Harry W. and Fred C., were made vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

There is no business house in any city, be it a large or small one, that can satisfy every one. Such an unanimous verdict was never given anything or any one, and probably never will. There have been doubting Thomases from the earliest records. But Cressman's enjoys a remarkable popularity, and this is not a mere expression in words, if one stops to consider that small store sixteen years ago and the fine establishment that attracts attention on George Street. From the stocks of dry goods, fancy goods, ready-to-wear for men and women, underclothing for both sexes — boys, girls, babies; hosiery, gloves, neckwear, household goods, etc., the windows are dressed, and one has to take but a casual look at these displays to be impressed with the variety and quality of goods that are handled here. Many people come from other towns to trade here, and a considerable business is done by mail. People are ready to trust Cressman's methods and Cressman's goods. And who will gainsay this evidence, that confidence built up by trustworthiness, has not been one of the principal factors in the upbuilding of this business?

MIDNIGHT FIRE WIPES OUT McDONALD SHINGLE MILL

Fishermen and Matches Are Said to be Responsible for the Blaze

LOSS IS $3500

Firemen Were Fighting Against Stiff Breeze Managed to Save Main Mill

Fanned by a strong wind, fire which broke out at the McDonald Estate Lumber Company last midnight, totally destroyed the shingle mill, entailing a loss of about $3,500 to buildings and machinery which is partially covered by insurance, before Chief Howard and his fire fighters finally subdued the blaze. Only good work on the part of the chief and his squad saved the main mill as the fire in the shingle mill was licking its way towards the larger plant when the department arrived on the scene. It is thought the fire originated from a lighted match thrown into the sawdust bed by some person fishing off the crib. It was 11.50 when the watchman at the plant telephoned in an alarm and a few moments later another alarm was rung in from Box 18 on George Street. Hundreds of people rushed to the scene of the blaze as the illumination in the sky caused by the fire was very brilliant and could be seen for miles.

When the fire fighters arrived the shingle mill was practically a wreck. The building collapsed shortly afterwards and the sparks and debris which flew out following the crash made the work of the fire fighters difficult. Connecting the shingle mill with the log mill, is a frame runway or chute. Up this the flames were eating their way and Chief Howard at once turned his attention to saving the big mill and after a hard fight succeeded in checking the fire fiend in its mad rush onward. The fire was a difficult one to fight in many respects. It had at least fifteen minutes start on the department. The chief stated that a resident of Ashburnham told him that he noticed a glare on St. Charles point about 11.30 and that he decided to find out what it was. While on his way down George Street he heard the fire bell ring. Another handicap the department was up against was the matter of securing water services as the two nearest hydrants were a few hundred yards away and it was necessary to lay 4,000 feet of hose in three streams to give battle to the flames.

Waist High in Water.

Mr. Duignan complained to the the company was quickly on the scene and after realizing that the shingle mill was a mass of ruin, urged the chief to check the flames in the race towards the outer portion of the crib. The bed of the crib is composed solely of sawdust which has been filled in from time to time and if the frame work around the bed had fallen prey to the flames, it would have meant the collapse of other buildings and great damage as the sawdust would have been easily washed away by the water of the river. A huge punt was brought into operation and the firemen played a stream on the framework from the punt. Several huge logs used as supports also caught fire and it was necessary for the firemen to wade waist deep into the water in order to check the fire in that section of the crib. As evidence of the narrow escape the main mill had, is shown by the charred wooden walls of the building. It was 7 o'clock this morning when the last line of hose was rolled up. Among the materials

YOUNGSTER CAUGHT BY SWIFT CURRENT BUT RESCUE IS EFFECTED

Courtland Miller is Brought Ashore by Two Men, One Having Jumped from the Hunter Street Bridge

Was Playing at Raceway Below the Cereal Dam—He Showed Considerable Nerve

Courtland Miller, aged ten years, son of F. C. Miller, Dublin Street, had an exciting experience in the Otonabee River, yesterday afternoon, and had it not been for the splendid work of two men, Wm. L. Davidson, 159 Aylmer Street and Chas. Duggan, 35 Stewart Street, his chances of surviving were very small.

Young Miller was at play at the raceway leading from the Cereal dam, above the Hunter Street bridge. He was caught by the current and carried down stream. People on the bridge saw him, among them being Wm. Davidson. Partly disrobing himself, Davidson jumped off the high bridge and caught the lad, and both continued to float with the current. Chas. Duggan also took in the situation and running along the bank, he picked out a suitable spot and without waiting to remove his clothes, he plunged into the river to give assistance. The combined efforts of the two men brought the lad ashore.

Fire Department Called.

In the meantime, a hurry up call had been sent into the fire station and a portion of the brigade and Chief Howard responded, bringing with them the pulmotor. Dr. Morgan was also on the scene and in a short time the lad had recovered. He was taken to his home by Dr. Morgan.

Current is Strong.

At the point where the rescuers took to the water, the water is very deep and the current very strong. It was a splendid piece of work on the part of the rescuers. Young Miller did not lose his head, as he kept his mouth closed and held his nose to keep out the water.

The incident appeared to be a very trivial one for Mr. Duggan, as after assuring himself that the youngster was out of danger, he sauntered over to the ball park and remained there throughout the game, without taking the trouble to make some arrangement for a change of clothing.

Not the First One

The incident recalls a similar one of several years ago, when Jas. Ellis rescued a small boy who had been caught by the current and came down the opposite side of the river. Mr. Ellis remarked yesterday that people having canoes in that vicinity should always have them ready, so that quick action might be taken.

Board of Works Deal With Letter From Labor Council

A MATTER OF PATTERNS

The Board of Works, last night dealt with a letter from the Trades and Labor Council, in which it was asked why castings for the city were not tendered for, and why certain work had been given to one firm, without tenders being called.

It was explained that matters such as this, had been left in the hands of the City Engineer and he had placed the order with the firm having the patterns.

Ald. Saunders held that tenders should be called in every case and it was decided to pursue this course. The castings in the case mentioned were made by G. Walter Green, who had the patterns. Last year, the Wm. Hamilton Co. secured an order as they had the patterns.

MR. SODEN POINTS TO SPLENDID RECORD OF WHITNEY GOVERNMENT

Mayor Buller Explains the Radial Railway Policy

A LARGE AUDIENCE

A large audience greeted Mayor Buller and R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate in the hall at the Cross in Ennismore Township last evening.

After the meeting had been called to order by the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, who occupied the platform with the speakers, Mr. Galvin was chosen as chairman. In a few well chosen remarks, Mr. Galvin introduced the first speaker, Mayor Buller.

The Mayor, on rising, complimented those present on the large attendance and then proceeded to lay before them the Whitney policy of Radial Railways in which he was particularly interested, inasmuch as it would benefit the City of Peterborough and also the rural districts adjoining the city.

He drew attention to the facilities offered in this scheme, for drawing city and county closer together, and showed the advantages to the farmer in the matter of transportation, light and power, and closed with a plea that the Whitney Government be allowed to complete so good a work, so well begun by them. The Mayor was enthusiastically applauded on resuming his seat.

The candidate on rising heartily thanked the electors for their large attendance, and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick for the courtesy extended by him to himself and Mayor Buller. Mr. Soden then dealt with the increased revenue of the province under the Whitney Government, showing that the increases were drawn not from the men who could least afford to pay them, but from the large and wealthy corporations to whom the increase was but a small matter as the facilities afforded them by the Government for doing business were such as would justly call for increased taxation, and which taxation their resources enabled them to pay without hardship. He then showed how the Whitney Government had wisely used this increased revenue by increasing grants to education, to agriculture, to hospitals and charities, to the betterment of the roads, etc. He dealt at length with the grants to agriculture and education, and outlined the recommendation to the Good Roads Commission on the proposed legislation to expend $30,000,000 on good roads in the next 15 years. Summing up he showed how besides taking care of the before mentioned grants, the Whitney Government had wiped out the deficit of their predecessors, and accumulated a surplus of $1,175,000 in nine years without resorting to the direct taxation which Sir George Ross in 1904 had said was the only means of making the revenue meet the necessary current expenditure.

He appealed to the electors to support Whitney on his record of deeds as shown in his nine years of Government and to vote for himself, the candidate of the best Government the province ever had.

The meeting was closed with cheers for the King, the Whitney Government and the candidate.

A.W. Cressman Complains of Dust Nuisance to Board of Works

At almost every meeting of the Board of Works someone registers a kick against the dust, so prevalent on George Street. Last night a complaint in the form of a letter came from A. W. Cressman. He claimed that it was detrimental to business and was the cause of ruining considerable goods. Ald. Duncan explained that a wagon for flushing the streets, which was the only manner in which the dust could be eliminated, would cost $850 and there was no money to buy one this season.

He and the City Engineer however were endeavoring to convert the largest watering cart, into a flusher and if their attempt is successful the dust nuisance will be abated.

ASK PAVING TENDERS FOR WHOLE OR PART

Estimated Cost for Extension of Work is $85,082,85

At the meeting of the Board of Works last night City Engineer Parsons presented his specifications for the further paving. The streets are: Charlotte from Water to George; Charlotte from Bethune to Park; Simcoe from Water to Aylmer; Brock Street from Water to Aylmer; Aylmer from Charlotte to McDonnel; and Water from Charlotte to Brock. The estimated cost of the work, including the surface drainage will be $85,082.85.

The question of letting the work on the base to local contractors was given considerable discussion and it was finally decided to advertise the work in the bulk and also for the base or surface.

Five years' guarantee will be asked for, also that the company or parties doing the work furnish a bond which will be left to the City Solicitor to decide whether acceptable or not. Tenders will be advertised for immediately and will be called for two weeks.

Prospects Over the Province For Election Day—The Situation.

Reports as to probabilities are beginning to circulate. Mr. Burnham, M.P., on being asked if he had heard anything of the probabilities in the province for polling day, said that the French were against Whitney to a man on bi-lingualism, and that as they held the balance of power in the North, East, and along Lake Erie in no less than 15 or 20, he thought beyond a doubt Sir James would have his hands full. The temperance issue has subsided in the face of the language peril, which is much more dangerous. There is no likelihood of temperance going back, but it would be a disastrous thing for all Canada if Sir James got so severe a shaking up as to make a new policy of compromise necessary. We are all strong in defence of the French right to preserve their language, but it must not displace English in this country. On that point we are firmly resolved if it is within our power.

FOUR PARDONED

Other Dynamiters to Serve Prison Terms

WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Wilson yesterday commuted to expire at once the sentences imposed on Michael J. H. Hannon, of Scranton, Pa.; Frank H. Painter, of Omaha; Fred. J. Kooney, of Duluth, Minn., and William Shupe, of Chicago, all convicted in the "dynamite conspiracy" cases.

The other twenty defendants, including the leaders, must begin serving their sentences to-day in Leavenworth penitentiary.

Clemency for John H. Barry and Paul J. Morris, both of St. Louis, was withheld while they have an opportunity to submit separate petitions.

BURGLARS ROUNDED UP AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, June 25.—With the arrest of four men here yesterday the police believe they have members of an international gang of burglars who for the past few months have been terrorizing the city, and who are known to have committed thirty-seven extensive burglaries in the last two weeks.

NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

The case of Mrs. Noah Guerin, charged with neglecting her children, was enlarged until next Friday. Facts of the case were aired in Police Court to-day. The children are at present at the Shelter while the mother is engaged in her work. The husband is out of the city working. "It's one of these hard cases to deal with," remarked Magistrate Dumble in enlarging the case.

CHARGE OF THEFT.

James Wallace, well known in Police Court circles, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning charged with the alleged theft of $60 from a boarding mate, named Robert Elliott. He was remanded until the 3rd of July. G. N. Gordon acted for the prisoner.

DON'T TAKE THE GLASS AWAY AND GIVE THE BOTTLE

Says Sir Adam Beck at Monster Picnic

PORT STANLEY, Ont., June 25.—A monster picnic, under the auspices of the Conservative Association of Elgin and Middlesex, was held here yesterday. Special trains were run for the occasion, and with the ideal weather there was a big turnout. Speech-making was the feature of the day. With Dr. Fred Guest of St. Thomas as chairman, addresses were delivered by Sir Adam Beck, Donald Sutherland, M.P. for South Oxford, S. Frank Glass, M.P. for East Middlesex; John McFarlane, M. P. P.; Finlay Macdiarmid, M. P. P.; C. A. Brower, M. P. P.; David Marshall, M. P., and Major Beattie, of London, and several others.

Sir Adam Beck, after saying that he as much as any man desired to "remove the damnable temptation of drink from the young men who would abuse it," declared that the Government had solved the temperance question in a permanent way that would eventually remove the bar, the bottle, the jug, and the barrel. The people, he said, had now the machinery to help them out, "but," he said, "don't make it the plaything of politics. Don't take the glass away and give the bottle."

ARCHITECT'S EVIDENCE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Quebec, June 25.—John Reid, a naval architect employed by several famous shipbuilding firms, was put on the stand in the inquiry this morning by Mr. Haight. He said the hole in the Empress side would be about twelve feet in diameter. Only one water-tight compartment on the Empress was injured he thought, and the water that got into other parts of ship entered through portholes and watertight doors. The Empress rudder although enlarged six years ago, was not large enough to make her a good steering ship.

E. W. COX NOT ILL

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 25.—The head offices of the Canada Life in daily cable with President E. W. Cox in London, states there is no truth in reports cabled to newspapers as to his condition. He was not operated upon on Sunday nor is he lying ill at Hotel Metropole. He left yesterday for several weeks' sojourn at Eastbourne.

FIRST CHARGE IS DISMISSED

But Liberals Now Allege Conspiracy

GODERICH, June 25.—The bribery charge against Dr. A. H. Macklin, Conservative candidate for Centre Huron, was dismissed by Magistrate Kelly yesterday on the ground that it was improperly laid and hence he had no jurisdiction.

A second charge was laid, Dr. Macklin and Rev. Joseph Elliott being accused of conspiracy.

Thomas Gundy, constable, claims that A. H. Macklin and Joseph Elliott did unlawfully, fraudulently, deceitfully among themselves conspire, combine, confederate and agree together to procure the election of A. H. Macklin unlawfully by bribery. The specific charges are of giving J. B. Hunter $10, Fred Weir $3, Peter Weir $3 and J. Mancil $5.

Evidence will not be taken until July 3.

RUMOR OF CONCESSIONS TO HINDUS IS NOT CREDITED

Orientals Likely to Stay on Their Boat For Some Time.

OTTAWA, June 25.—A story gained currency yesterday to the effect that the Canadian Government would defer to the wishes of the British Government regarding the Hindus, and admit to British Columbia the 350 East Indians on board the Komagata Maru, the Japanese vessel, which is still in Vancouver. In the absence of the Premier, who is at Petawawa military camp, it was impossible last night to get any official statement regarding this rumor. However, among the officers of the Immigration Department, the story was treated with scant consideration.

One official said that the feeling against the Hindus was so strong in Vancouver that if the Government gave orders to allow the Hindus to land, serious rioting would follow.

The statement made by the Government a few days ago was that the Hindus would not be allowed to land in Canada and nothing has transpired since which would lead to the view that there would be any relaxation of the order barring them out.

To Make Test Case.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 25.—Apparently the Government intends to have the legal end of the Hindu controversy fully threshed out in the courts. Yesterday morning there was another formal announcement in court of an adjournment of the mandamus proceedings brought by counsel for the Hindus to compel the immigration officials to give decisions on examination of immigrants in order that these decisions might then be in line for appeal to the courts. Up to the present there has been no right of appeal on habeas corpus, because no decisions were given. Yesterday morning, however, a conference between counsel was held, and it was virtually decided for both sides to proceed immediately to a test of the law in the highest courts.

It looks, too, as if the Hindus would be kept aboard the Komagata Maru for many weeks to come, for the officials will not consent to even a temporary landing of the men.

"MR. SPEAKER."

FUNERAL OF THE LATE HON. S. H. BLAKE

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 25.—St. Paul's Anglican, the immense new church on Bloor St., was filled this afternoon on the occasion of the funeral of the late Honorable Blake, when men prominent in every walk of life attended. The service was the usual Church of England burial service with the deceased's favorite hymns "Rock of Ages" and "Just as I am." There was no sermon and no procession either to the church or the grave. The remains were placed beside those of the late Hon. Edward Blake, in a vault at St. James' Cemetery.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JUNE 25, 1914

SIR JAMES WHITNEY AGAIN.

THE PRESENCE of Sir James Whitney on the platform at Massey Hall was an inspiration to Conservatives throughout the whole province of Ontario. Those who were privileged to be present at the great meeting in Massey Hall, heard the veteran leader of Ontario politics, speak with a vigor and a directness that astonished his hearers in view of his recent long struggle for health. His address was an excellent defence of his nine years of office and a withering attack of the Liberal policy, but fine as was his speech, the thousands of hearers who jammed the great hall, came not so much to hear the oration as to see with their own eyes the bluff, honest Premier and to hear with their own ears the ringing tones of his voice, as he outlined his position for the approaching day of balloting. He gave a sharp rebuke to Newton Wesley Rowell for gambling on his health and saying he would never again lead the Conservative party. But there the Premier was, on the party platform, as strong a leader, as forceful a speaker as ever he had been. He declared he was proud of his record of office, proud to serve the people of Ontario and would be glad to serve them in the future if they so willed to keep him in his office. The electors of Ontario should remember the offer of Premier Sir James Whitney, now restored to health, to lead the Government, and give him their support. He is the most trustworthy man in the present political field.

PRINCIPAL GORDON FOR WHITNEY.

THE FACT that Principal, the Very Rev. D. M. Gordon, of Queen's University, has endorsed the Whitney policy by nominating Dr. A. E. Ross, should have a wide influence on the voters of Ontario. Principal Gordon is known all over the province as one of its most distinguished educationists and as one of the most eloquent preachers in the Presbyterian Church. He has, however, taken no active part in the campaign. He has a finer sense of the fitness of things. Still, he has approved of the Whitney Government, and, along with Bishop Bidwell of Kingston, and many other prominent men, signed the nomination paper of Dr. Ross. That practically means the election of Dr. Ross and the principal's quiet approval of Sir James Whitney should be a powerful factor in deciding this election for good Conservative government.

EXPLOITING THE PULPIT.

OUR LIBERAL FRIEND takes up the cause of ministers delivering campaign speeches in the pulpits under the sole reason that conditions have changed and that they should be on the same footing with honest bricklayers. These are "heavy" arguments. Perhaps our friend would rather listen to the disquisitions of bricklayers than the efforts of qualified preachers. We wouldn't. We would rather have an honest bricklayer lay bricks than preach, and a good minister preach than lay bricks. The chances are either, if transposed, wouldn't earn the scale. Apparently our friend thinks ministers have not the rights of honest bricklayers, but he fails to be specific. As a matter of fact, ministers have full powers of citizenship as much as any honest bricklayer. They are protected by the same laws and exercise the same electoral privileges. It is in their power to address public meetings. What we object to is the turning of the pulpit into a political huskings, to giving a religious sanction to political questions that are of a contentious character, to an attempt to combine ecclesiastical authority with temporal power. A minister is protected in the pulpit from disturbance, for it is an indictable offence to disturb a religious meeting. He may deliver the rankest party speech and is protected from interruption. The party system in an appeal to the people invites discussion and leaves the people to choose between two opinions. A minister does not do that. He does not say what he thinks is right and then admit he may be wrong by leaving his hearers free to choose another, perhaps opposite, course. The pulpit is conducted on entirely different lines from party politics. That is why the pulpit should not be employed for such purposes. For the same reason, for the fact which is assumed that a minister speaks with authority, he should consider seriously the wisdom of going on the party platform outside his church. Such action is contrary to established custom, but is within his rights. We may object to it on the ground that it violates usage, but to justify an exploitation of the pulpit for party purposes requires weightier arguments than our Liberal friend has yet advanced. Even the ministers who have taken an active part in this election have made little or no attempt to justify so unwarrantable a procedure as they have taken.

FOOLING THE PEOPLE.

SINCE we are giving some attention to our evening contemporary, we might consider its laboured effort on "The Waste of the Bar." It is very emphatic in dealing with Mr. Soden's language. It wants Conservatives to be definite, but in a column and a half of editorial, the writer is definite in hardly a line. He says "it is estimated" that dollar day added at least $30,000 to the receipts of the merchants and business men of the city. This generalization is so exaggerated that it is humorous. Something funny however, adds, at times, a bit of spice to a serious subject. If dolar-day was not a frost, why not state in plain, blunt English what the facts were?

The same passion for accuracy pervades the following sentences of the article in question. Note this one: "If the receipts of one bar average $35,000 a year," ten others will be ten times as much. That is a good sample of the "truthful statements" of the Liberal press in this election. If it is twenty miles from Peterborough to Millbrook, of course it is ten times as far to Toronto. Then our friend goes on, "at a moderate estimate at least $300,000 are spent over the bars of Peterborough in a year." Please note the prevalence of that word "estimate." Having arrived at the above figure, a column of argument is built up which is absolutely undependable, because the very basis of it is only an estimate. Figures are usually given in an argument to represent some exact quantity or fact, but when such twisted arguments are advanced to support the abolish the bar policy, it appears like an effort to hoax the people.

THE LATE HON. S. H. BLAKE.

THE DEATH of the Hon. S. H. Blake on Tuesday removed one of Canada's foremost citizens. He was one of the most distinguished lawyers that ever pleaded in a Canadian court, and came from a family that had a reputation in the practice of law. He was a graduate of Toronto University of the class of '58, and sat for a number of years on the Bench as Vice-Chancellor of Ontario. He resigned in 1881 and resumed general practice.

While normally a Liberal, perhaps his most outstanding characteristic was independence. He had high ideals of public and private life and had a deep-seated hatred of political corruption. He opposed the Ross Government and openly avowed himself a follower of Sir James Whitney. He was an adherent of the low Anglican Church and vigorously opposed any Romanizing tendencies in the Church of England. It is the independent spirit of such men as the Hon. S. H. Blake which redeems Canadian public life from falling wholly into the power of "machines," "bosses" or interests. He was a man of powerful intellect and when he attacked he brought into play all his great powers, which made him something of a lion to his antagonists. But he always played fair, and his victories were but the triumphs of his own genius and ideals. Perhaps he lived too much in a day that was past when he desired to force Canadian national life back to the simple, homely ways of a half century ago. That was natural to one of Puritan tendencies who could not compromise with standards of a later time at variance with those he had outlived. While he could not force Canadian life in a channel of his own choosing, he sounded a warning which is always needed but sometimes wanting, to check the tendencies of the time to transitory and frivolous things. He was independent of society's sway as he was of party's domination. His independence always made him a true citizen, made him victor over the claims of self and party, and for his good influence, his high standard of citizenship, he deserves the public praise.

IN AND OUT OF OFFICE.

THOSE who vote in this election should not forget the record of the Ross Government and should compare it with the Whtiney record. Says the Toronto News:

> "The Grain Growers Guide remarks that when in power the Liberal party did little to reduce the tariff. It adds that Liberals evidently believe in free trade only when the Conservatives are in office. This reminds us of the Liberal party in Ontario. For 33 years in control of the Legislature, it dodged and straddled the temperance issue like a veritable athlete. On the one hand it made promises to the prohibitionists. On the other it drew its campaign funds from the saloon keepers. When the time came for dancing, the men who put up the money called the tune. Most of the actual temperance reform in Ontario has been achieved under the Whitney Government."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SOME well-intentioned people may say that the day is past when ecclesiastical tyranny can exist in this country. But note the following case, which, if not tyranny, is a direct and close approach to it. Rev. Mr. Smith, of Thorold, a minister of the Presbyterian Church, said that Major Sharpe was not a good Presbyterian since he would not vote Grit.

A LETTER in the local morning paper, signed P. Nut, is clearly a case of deception and is not playing fair. No man who uses the words "kin" and "nuthin" would use "jockeying" at the same time, nor would he construct a sentence using the alternative whether.

The Fitness of Things.

Hamilton Herald.

The names of the Rev. Dr. Gordon, principal of Queen's university, and the Anglican coadjutor bishop of Ontario appear on the nomination paper of Dr. Ross, Conservative candidate in Kingston. It is not likely, however, that these clergymen will stand in the pulpit and preach that it is the duty of good citizens to support Whitney candidates at the polls. They have a finer sense of the fitness of things.

THE GLAD GAME

By Walt Mason

All men admire the cheerful gent who doesn't grumble worth a cent when things are going wrong, who doesn't nurse his trifling sores, but whistles as he does his chores, or splits the air with song. This worker hasn't much to say, as cheerily he toils away, and hoes his row of beans; he preaches to us by his acts, and not by handing Helpful Facts through books or magazines. Example is the stuff we need, for admonition's gone to seed, and precepts are a bore; we're growing tired of Sunny Jims who swing their jaws and wave their limbs and preach forever more. One man who does his little stunt without a grumble or a grunt, and beams wtih seemly mirth, does more his brothers to inspire than all the bards who swat the lyre, or orators, on earth. One sorehead, working in a crowd, will act upon it like a cloud that threatens rain or snow; but one brave chap who gaily sings, the while his busy hammer rings, will dissipate its woe. The sermons that achieve the most are sprung by men who seldom boast of how they sing and dance, who wear the workman's sweat-stained clothes, and give their jaws profound repose whene'er they have the chance.

THE GARDEN BEAUTIFUL

I reckon everybody enjoys seein' a beautiful garden. A long, slopin' lawn, hedged with green and dotted with splashes of color is restful to the eye and leads one away from the old humdrum world a leetle piece into a restfulness thet seems an antidote fer fagged brain and ragged nerves. Most any one of us will go out of our way to view a perfect garden, but how many of us see more than the flowers and the shrubbs and the vines? There's a lot more than these things to be seen in the garden if we look clost enough. There's the care, the patience, the untirin' effort which somebody has bestowed on plant and tree to bring 'em to the height of perfection, there's the big love that the gardener has felt fer his plant children. I guess maybe not all of us have the power to descern this, but those of us who have, have seen the most beautiful flower in thet beautiful garden.

ASQUITH'S CONCESSION.

Home Rule Amending Bill Shows It Is Greater Than Expected.

LONDON, June 25. — The Irish amending bill which had now been issued shows that the Government proposes to be rather more generous than might have been at first inferred from Lord Crewe's statement. This refers to the provision of the first clause, which says that if within three months after the date of the passing of the act a petition is presented to the Lord Lieutenant from any county in Ulster demanding a poll with reference to the question of temporary exclusion from the operation of the act, and the Lord Lieutenant is satisfied that the petition is signed by not less than one-tenth of the Parliamentary electors in the county, he shall cause a poll to be taken. The question shall be submitted to the electors in the following form: "Are you in favor of exclusion from the operation of the Government of Ireland act of 1914 for a period of six years?"

An Early Election Prophesied.

LONDON, June 25. — The Dublin papers yesterday mostly follow the usual party lines in discussing the Home Rule amendment bill, though The Independent is suspicious that the Government is weakening. The Irish Times declares a general election is assured within a few weeks.

The Belfast News Letter says the latest move is a bid for a bargain, but that Unionists must refuse to haggle. The Northern Whig insists on total exclusion for Ulster for an unlimited period.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

By Harry King Tootle

Illustrations by Ray Walters

Copyright by A. C. McCLURG & Co., 1912

What the daughter of David Kerr told her hostess was the truth. She did go for a short walk, a walk that took her in the most direct way to the house where Joe Wright resided. The door was opened for her by a little girl who invited her to enter.

"I wish to see Mr. Wright," Gloria explained to the child.

"I'll take you to his sitting-room. He told me to bring anybody in that came to see him, and to tell 'em he'd be back in a minute."

All was silence in the room when the little girl threw wide the door and bade her enter.

"Then he's not in the house, you say?"

"No, he's gone to get a baggageman, but he said to wait," Patty insisted.

"Whom did he wish to wait?"

"Oh, anybody. He said somebody's coming to pack his books. He hurt himself and can't bend over the box."

"Oh!" cried Gloria, with a little gasp of pain. She remembered all too well the hurt of which he complained. Then at the same time came a new thought, why was he packing his books? A more critical look showed her many evidences that he was giving up his apartment. She could not understand.

"Is Mr. Wright moving everything?" she ventured.

"Yes, he's going away."

Gloria gazed at the child in surprise, not quite grasping what she said. A smothered exclamation caused her to look up quickly. There, staring at her from the doorway in honest amazement, stood Joe Wright. She felt her cheeks crimson.

"Miss Kerr! You here!" he gasped, before he could master his surprise. Then in an instant he went on in an even, conventional tone, "I beg your pardon, I scarcely expected to find you here."

"No, I—I—I scarcely expected to find myself here, but here I am." As she said this she extended her hands, then dropped them, a gesture which seemed to typify the simplicity with which the visit had been accomplished.

Wright readily recognized that there was some motive in the call, and dismissed Patty with instructions to let him know if anyone asked for him.

"Won't you sit down?" he begged, remembering his duty as host.

"Thank you, I haven't a moment to stay."

Wright looked about for a chair, to find them filled with odds and ends of things intended to be packed. The girl insisted that she preferred to stand, and listened to his apology for the appearance of the room and the explanation that he was moving.

"I learned at luncheon that you were going away," she acknowledged. "Since you would not come to see me, I had to come to see you."

Again his amazement equaled that the sight of her in his living room had occasioned. He permitted it to betray itself by exclaiming:

"Since I wouldn't come to see you! Surely, Miss Kerr, you didn't expect that? There was nothing whatever equivocal about my dismissal!"

This was something she had not planned, a reference to the past. She wished merely to warn him and then take leave of him forever.

"I didn't come with a desire to refer to that," she answered. "You must realize that what I have to say seems to me of the utmost importance, else I—oh, you can't know the effort it has cost me to come here."

"I'm sorry if your dislike is so intense."

She shook her head, with a smile that was only a sad lighting up of her countenance, like the last flare of an expiring flame.

"Let us not speak of like or dislike. All that is past. It is true I promised myself never to see you again, but since that day in Judge Gilbert's office events have shed such a new light on Belmont and on me that I feel some explanations are due you before you go away."

Quick as a flash he saw that she had learned the truth, or at least some part of it. With his characteristic generosity he wished to relieve her of the necessity of making explanations.

"I appreciate your coming, Miss Kerr, from the bottom of my heart I do, but if—if anything you think you have to tell causes you pain, I'd rather far that what you wish to say should remain unspoken."

"That's generous of you, but I should find it harder to maintain silence—because I want to be just."

"Miss Kerr! There is no occasion for you to—"

"Please, please, don't interrupt me. It's hard enough as it is." A chair he had brought for Gloria she had refused, and now he sank into it himself, his head resting in his hands as he listened. "I have lived away from Belmont," she went on in an even, repressed monotone that cut him to the heart, "since I was a little girl, too young to understand, and I was brought up to believe that my father was—well, just the opposite of what he is. It was all a mistake, of course. It was no fault of mine, but I must suffer for it just the same. I had everything money could buy; and then you came—and—and I had love."

Her voice trembled for the instant. Wright could not stand it.

"Gloria!" he cried, seeking to stop her, but she went on again in the same impersonal manner, apparently unheeding his gesture for her to desist as much as she did the cry of pain that burst from his lips.

"But no one was really kind to me. I lived in a fool's Paradise. I did not know the truth." Then vehemently, losing control of herself: "Oh, why did you ever speak to me of love! You, of all men, to make my humiliation doubly great."

"Don't speak so, I beg of you," Wright commanded. "Can you believe that I have not suffered?"

She chose to ignore his question.

"Oh, if I had never come home! If I had even not gone to Judge Gilbert's office that day! It was fate, Joe, it was fate. I can see it all now. We boast that we dominate circumstances, the gods laugh and are our masters still. Looking back the way we've come from that first night I met you here I can see that every step relentless as death, was leading to that day when I learned the truth about my father."

"And you know?"

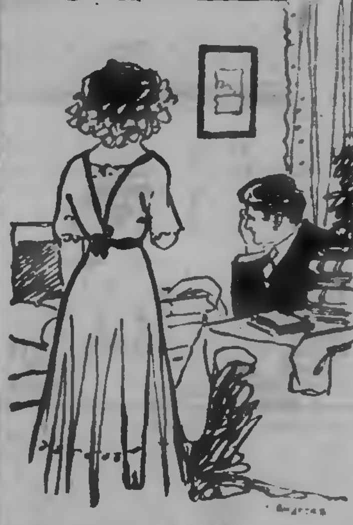
"Everything. That's why I'm here. It was really such a little time ago that I came back to Belmont, yet it seems ages. Oh, why didn't you go away? You must have seen how it had to end. Since I came home and first met you, I've lived and suffered and grown old. And I had dreamed such dreams!" Here she paused, as if to fight back the painful memories of those rainbow dreams. Then she admitted them. "And they became rosier and rosier—because of you. Even the disappointments my father's lack of polish caused me were nothing—because of you. Then you ceased to see me, and I didn't understand.

"I wanted you so very much—then—and you did not come. I know now what it was; the election was coming on, you had begun to fight my father. You knew I didn't realize his position in Belmont. I'm sincere. I want you to know I understand how hard it was for you, my friend—because—I believe you loved me—sincerely."

"Sincerely, Gloria." His reply was almost a sob. "You know I begged you to go away. I would have followed you, and you would never have known."

His last sentence was full of bitterness, an acknowledgment of the Never-Never Land whither all happiness had flown.

"That's true, but the gods laugh and are our masters still. I felt that I owed it to my father to remain with him in Belmont. Then came the day in Judge Gilbert's office. Did ever a girl have a courtship crowded into half an hour? So short a time there was between those few words of love and the rude awakening which followed that there remains to me now not even a sweet memory of that avowal which all girls cherish so. And then—well, that's why I've come today. I couldn't let you go away without asking you to forgive me for what I said in Judge Gilbert's office."



"The Gods Laugh and Are Our Masters Still.

"There's no need of speaking of forgiveness. Please do not say any more."

She was not to be deterred from her set purpose, and therefore affected not to hear, going straight on with her narrative.

"You see, I was proud of my father. All my life he'd been an ideal, not a reality, and I thought him incapable of anything else. It turned out I was wrong—what I said about you."

HAIR ORNAMENTS.

Fashion Decrees That They Shall Be of Becoming Elegance.

JEWELED EFFECTS FAVORED.

Coiffure Ornaments to Match the Color Scheme of the Evening Gown—A Fad With Some Fashionables Is the High Psyche Knot.

The simplicity of the fashionable coiffure is discounted this season by the use of many elegant and expensive ornaments. Most women appear at their best in evening attire and make special effort to select a becoming coiffure.

The French are past masters in the art of arranging the hair, and their coiffures are at present of Grecian simplicity. The hair is drawn back over the forehead in soft waves, and the back tresses are coiled in a Grecian knot or a figure 8. Another favorite coiffure resembles that of the Empress Josephine at the time of her coronation. The hair is dressed low over the forehead, and soft ringlets fall about the ears and brow. The back hair is arranged close to the head, and a fillet of jewels is worn well over the forehead.

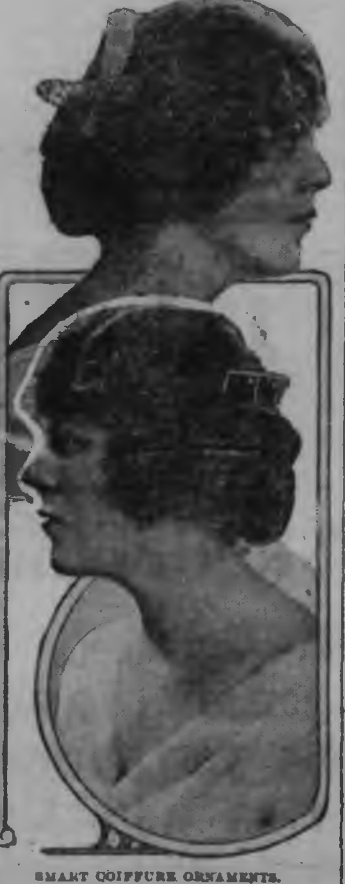
Another arrangement much approved is obtained in this manner: The hair is softly waved and drawn back over the forehead in a low pompadour. At the back, starting at the nape of the neck, the hair is rolled tightly, following the contour of the head to the crown. On each cheek a question mark is formed with a slender strand of hair. These are moistened with gum arabic to hold their position flat against the cheek. A ring of hair may be fastened to the cheek in the same manner. For the more conservative a single small curl can be formed at each side of the face.

Many smart women are favoring the low pompadour, surmounted by a high Psyche. Frequently these are ornamented with pins or fancy combs.

Any variety of coiffure, if it is high and leaves the ears exposed, is correct.

At present pins and combs and ornaments for the hair are important.

Hairpins in gray and gold and bronze and brown come in small packages. The new hairpins have a crinkle or curve or bend that runs lengthwise. This is seen in the short as well as the very long pins.



SMART COIFFURE ORNAMENTS.

The separate curls that match the hair and that are worn to conceal the lower but not the upper part of the ear cost $1.50 and $2. These are attached to a strong wire pin of sufficient length to insure their safety.

A very pretty bandeau is of pearls, with small Mercury wings studded solidly with pearls. Glittering sequins strung on a single wire, with an upstanding bow of sequins, are also worn. A pretty ornament, without the bandeau, is made of pearls and rhinestones, and it is attached to a shell pin.

Bandeaux set with colored stones, green, tango, orange or blue, are also to be seen. They have some pretty ornament either in the center or at both ends of the same stones.

A pretty ornament, made of a band of black tulle, is relieved by several small buckles of rhinestones set along its length.

The tendency of the season is to make the coiffure as simple as possible, but to have no such scruples as to the ornaments used. These may be as elegant as one can afford. Fancy jeweled effects in shades to match the costume are favored. Rhinestones and uncolored crystals are much used. Illustrated here are two of the simpler ornaments. The side comb shown here has an outstanding ornament of rhinestones. The comb for the back of the head is bordered and is also set with rhinestones.

SUFFERED AGONY WITH NEURALGIA

Nothing Helped Her Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th. 1913.

Good News.

The milkman had deposited several bottles of the fluid on the steps of the rear door and was about to start for his wagon when an upper window was opened and Mrs. Newlywed stuck her head out.

"Oh, milkman," said Mrs. Newlywed, "do you keep your cows in a pasture?"

"Yessim," replied the milkman.

"Are you certain of that?" demanded Mrs. Newlywed.

"I sure am," replied the milkman.

"I'm awfully glad," announced Mrs. Newlywed. "It will be all right to leave the milk. My husband told me to be sure and order pasteurized milk."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Supreme Court.

The supreme court of the United States is supposed to be strictly nonpolitical, free from all parties and above all parties. It was designed by the fathers of the constitution to act as the "governor," or "flywheel," of our system of government, maintaining justice and right in the midst of the wrangling factions and clashing interests. According to the theory, the supreme court is to know nothing but the constitution and the laws that are made in pursuance thereof and in every matter that is brought up before it to hold the balance even, regardless of everything else.—New York American.

A Golf Outrage.

The Earl of Wemyss was on a Fife golf course on one occasion accompanied by an old caddie. His lordship got his ball on one occasion so near the hole that to play it was, as it appeared to him, superfluous. So he simply tipped it in with the toe of his boot.

The caddie revolted instanter, threw down the clubs and looked horrified. When he found words to speak it was to say, "Hang it, me lord, gowf's gowf!"

Tipping the Headsman.

Ancient usage in England has a peculiarly consecrating effect in the matter of tips and fees. Horace Walpole records the astonishment of George I. when told that he must give guineas to the servant of the ranger of his park for bringing him a brace of carp out of his own pond. Apparently everybody in England is at some time or other justified in demanding a fee unless it be the monarch. When Tait became archbishop of Canterbury and met the queen he breathed a sigh of relief on at last encountering a person to whom he had not to pay something. According to Bishop Burnet, a man used to have to give a tip in order to be decapitated. He tells the story of Lord Russell when under sentence of death for high treason asking what he ought to give the executioner. "I told him 10 guineas. He said, with a smile, it was a pretty thing to give a fee to have his head cut off."

The next best thing to loving your enemies is not to have any.

Our readers are becoming very much interested in the Summer Pastime. It is a Pleasant and Profitable Study

The main feature is to take each day's rebus picture and evolve from it the name of a well known player of baseball, football (soccer or rugby), hockey or lacrosse. She wore a pretty bridal veil and carried a beautiful bouquet of lillies of the valley. She was given away by her father and attended by her sister, Miss Jean, while the best man was Mr. F. After the ceremony a dainty supper was served and the young couple left on the morning express for Toronto where they will reside, the bride travelling in a brown whip cord suit with hat to match.

Havelock's splendid junior team won the championship of Group 20, O.A.L.A. series, at Norwood, when they defeated their opponents by a score of 10 goals to 4. Rose started the fire works when he batted the ball in for the first counter after two ineffective shots on goal. Bohan followed a few minutes later and Jones got the third tally, when he secured the ball from the face off and ran down and scored half a minute afterward, making the 1st quarter score 3 to 0. In the second period Havelock netted four more, Bohan doing the needful on three occasions and Farrar notching one, while Norwood also found the nets for their first counter. In the 3rd quarter Norwood livened up and tallied three goals. Havelock also obtained two from Bohan's stick. The final period saw only one goal. Farrar doing the trick for Havelock, making the score 10 to 4.

The local line up: goal, J. Taylor; point, J. O'Brien; cover, P. Innis; 1st def., R. O'Brien; 2nd. def., H. Haughton; centre, E. Jones; 2nd home, H. Farrar; 1st home, D. Innis; outside, C. Bohan; inside, C. Rose. Rev. Father Kelly refereed satisfactorily as usual.

Locals Defeated at Peterboro.

The locals went down to an underserved defeat at Peterboro on Friday afternoon by the score of 5 to 3. Umpire Le Bar of Peterboro proved to be as good a player for the Petes behind the nets as any in front and failed to award the Havelock team with 2 square goals. Referee Doyle also disallowed a goal scored by Ferguson which was an unjust decision. The game was played under most disagreeable weather, and on a wet, slipping field. The Petes started the scoring and at half time led by 4 goals to 0. In the 3rd quarter the Havelock boys broke into the scoring column and added two, while each team got a goal in the final period. The Petes had nothing on our boys in field play, but our home were a little wild in their shooting, while Fleming in goal had horse shoes hanging around him. Havelock line up: goal, Lancaster; point, Andrews; cover, Robson; 1st def., Pacey; 2nd def., Rose; centre, Papuet; 2nd home, Armstrong; 1st home, Quinlan; outside, J. O'Brien; inside, Ferguson.

REPORT ON CANAL

Inquiry Into Possibility of Georgian Bay Project

OTTAWA, June 25.—W. Sanford Evans, chairman of the commission investigating the feasibility of the Georgian Bay Canal, is here this week in connection with the preliminary work of the commission, and he states that excellent progress has been made by the staff who are gathering statistical information regarding the volume of traffic for the proposed canal route and the present rates on freight. Some thirty thousand freight manifests have been examined and much other information is now being got together. A meeting of the commission will probably be held this week.

The commission's instructions call for an exhaustive enquiry into every phase and feature of the commercial side of the great propect, which is estimated to cost $125,000,000.

Besides going thoroughly into the traffic question, they will consider also the waterpower that would be made available and the natural resources to be developed in the region of the canal.

WINDSOR IS VISITED BY DISASTROUS FIRE

Loss in Exciting Conflagration is Estimated at $75,000—Plucky Man Saves Baby and Pony From Flames—Ten Stores Destroyed at Niagara Falls.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 25.—Fire of unknown origin, breaking out at three p.m. yesterday totally destroyed the Windsor curling rink, the big supply house and barn of the Cadwell Sand & Gravel Co. and a number of barns and houses, and badly damaged the newly-erected $30,000 Oddfellows' temple, and a number of houses and stores in the vicinity. In a number of instances persons were compelled to leap from second storeys. The firemen going to a wrong address allowed the blaze to get a good start. Fortunately the wind was not strong.

The scene of the fire is just off Oullette avenue, four blocks from the Detroit River dock. The damage is estimated at $75,000.

William Belson, 97 Goyeau street, was one of the first to go to the aid of the firemen. He rushed into the burning barn of the Cadwell Sand & Gravel Co. on Dufferin place, and, placing his coat about the head of a pony, led it to safety. He then ran into the house at 18 1-2 Dufferin place, across the street from the Curling Club, and assisted Mrs. Reginald Ingram to carry out her 15-months-old boy, who was ill.

Carrying their household goods to a safe distance, the residents of Ouellette avenue, Goyeau and Wyandotte streets, and Dufferin place directed streams from garden hose on the roofs of the houses. Bucket brigades and battering rams were used to advantage. Low pressure from the waterworks seriously handicapped the firemen in their work. In many places the water could not be thrown ten feet from the nozzles. Firemen working on a two-story barn were forced to carry hose to the roof in order to play the stream into the loft.

Ten Stores Burned.

NIAGARA FALLS, June 25.—Ten stores adjoining one another in the Laing Block on Clifton avenue were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The block, which is a frame one-storey building facing Clifton avenue and Park street, consists of twenty stores.

Small Fire In Senate Wing.

OTTAWA, June 25.—The quiet of Parliament Hill was suddenly broken yesterday afternoon by an alarm of fire. A gasoline stove in use by some electricians in the Senate wing of the Parliament Buildings exploded, and started a fire and considerable excitement. Officials hastily put valuable Parliamentary records in vaults. Meanwhile a chemical engine from the nearest fire station dashed up, followed by other clanging fire reels, hook and ladder wagons, etc. The blaze was speedily extinguished by the first firemen on the scene. The damage was slight.

VICTORY IS CELEBRATED

Many Gather at Thorold for the 101st Anniversary of Beaver Dams

ST. CATHARINES, June 25.—Representatives of historical societies, Daughters of the Empire, and the United Empire Loyalist Association, and numerous residents of the surrounding districts celebrated the 101st anniversary of the Battle of Beaver Dams at Thorold yesterday afternoon. The 12th York Rangers, under Lt.-Col. Nichol, marched in front of the monument, erected to the fallen heroes.

Addresses were given by Mayor Battle and F. E. Keefer of Thorold, grandson of the founder of Thorold, to whose memory a window was unveiled at St. John's Church by Lt.-Col. G. Sterling Ryerson, of Toronto, president of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada, and Clarence Warner of Napanee, president of the Ontario Historical Society. A resolution was passed for submission to the Minister of the Interior, calling upon the Government to set aside 40 acres of the Government land, part of the old battlefield, for an historical park, Major Leonard, Dominion Transcontinental Railway Commissioner, who is a lessee of a part of it having expressed a willingness to surrender his rights for this purpose.

A memorial from the Six Nation Indians was presented by Chief Smith, referring to the tribe's allegiance and fighting support of the British Government since the time of Frontenac, asking for the franchise, right of representation in Parliament and appealing to the societies to urge against any move to do away with the reservations.

DEATH OF P.C. SILLS

Had Been With Local Force for Two Years

Police Constable William Sill, aged 29 years, passed away at 2.20 this morning at his residence, 31 Lansdowne Street. Deceased underwent an operation some five weeks ago for appendicitis but other trouble set in which finally caused his death. He had been a resident of this city for two years and has been on the police force during that time. Just previous to his illness he was acting-sergeant.

He is survived by a widow and one child. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 to the Little Lake Cemetery.

NINE HOUR DAY CLAUSE IN CONTRACTS

The Board of Works last night considered a letter sent from the Trades and Labor Council and signed by C. Hammacott, in which it was requested that the hours worked per day by all city laborers and laborers connected with paving companies doing work in this city, be nine. Alderman Green thought that it would not be right to ask a paving company to abide by any such rule, but the City Engineer explained that all it called for was to insert in the agreement, that nine hours constitute a day's work.

On motion of Ald. Stratton, seconded by Ald. Johnston, it was decided to insert that clause when the contracts for the new paving are awarded.

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

WHY?

Editor Review,

Sir,—Why did Mr. Rowell refuse to abolish the shop? It was not to please the temperance people. It was clearly to please the whiskey people. He compromises on the boose question by hammering the bar and leaving the bottle. In God's name what kind of a temperance policy is that? Is it any better than Whitney's? Very little if any and I don't believe with the Canada Temperance Act (requiring a bare majority) it is as good for that Act would wipe out the shop so well. But surely Mr. Gillespie's policy does not compare with Mr. Soden's. No honest man can claim that it does. Vote for Soden, the champion of to[illegible] prohibition—the man who will not wait—that is if you really want to throw a bombshell into whiskey ranks in the legislature. Of course if you want to wait until one of the "political" parties "deems it wise" then wait and may God have mercy on your soul!

Yours,
READER.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

Editor Review,

Sir,—If Mr. Soden said that he was in favor of the abolition of the bar, the shop and the club (as he has said) but that he will wait until some political party brings forward a measure to that end, what would you think of his temperance? Mr. Gillespie does that. If Mr. Soden was asked to sign a statement handed to him by a non-political body of citizens making him virtually their nominee what would you think of him of he signed it after accepting a convention's nomination? If Mr. Soden had to sign a statement of his intentions before certain people would believe him what would you think of him if he signed it?

If Mr. Soden said that he was in favor of abolition of bar, bottle and club and would introduce a measure to that effect in the House whether the parties asked him to do so or not what would you say of his temperance?

If Mr. Soden compromised by leaving out the bottle what would you say of his temperance?

If you didn't support him what would you think of your own professions?

Yours,
READER.

TURN THE PICTURES TO THE WALL.

Editor Review,

Will you allow me space for a few words in connection with this present campaign. I do not wish to get mixed up in it publicly, but I cannot refrain from a word of kindly protest against some pictures we see pasted up over the city. I take it for granted these are supposed to be in the interest of Christianity and temperance. Now, sir, I would be very sorry to think that this cause which we love and have such confidence in as being of God, requires any such dreadful looking pictures to advance its interests. I for one do not think they will advance the cause of Christ or temperance one iota. In all sincerity I would implore those who are responsible for them, to have them taken down at once. And if we need pictures let us have a picture of a saintly father or mother teaching their child or grandchild the ten commandments, the beatitudes or the 27th Psalm or something of that kind. To my mind it would be much more elevating to public thought, and more credit to the cause of Christianity.

I hope the brethren will not think of this as impertinent, but will receive it in the spirit in which it is written. I am not writing for or against either party, it is the principle I wish to touch, that of picturing evil that good may come.

Trusting this will not give offence but may bring forth fruit to the glory of God.

Thanking you for space,
Sincerely yours,
R. J. TODD.

N.B.—Since writing the above I see that the editor of The Review has taken up the question.

DEPUTATION COMPLAINS OF ENGINE HOUSE

Smoke and Noise Makes Life Miserable

The Board of Works met in regular session last night, those present being Chairman Ald. Duncan, Ald. Green, Duffus, Stratton, Anderson, Saunders, McIntyre and Johnston and City Engineer Parsons. Ald. Duncan reported that he and some of the members of the Board, had met Superintendent Coyle of the G.T.R. on Tuesday and made arrangements with him for the placing of the duckets on the east side of Bethune Street. As to the roundhouse, Ald. Duncan stated that Mr. Coyle was more anxious to have it removed than the city council, but he cannot do so at present. He had applied for an appropriation of some seventy-five or eighty thousand dollars, and when this is allowed immediate action will be taken.

Engine House a Nuisance.

A deputation of four residents of the section of the city in the vicinity of the roundhouse waited on the Board and testified that it was really a nuisance as there were three or four engines there all day long, and the smoke and noise from them made life in that neighborhood very miserable. The chairman explained the meeting of the Board and Mr. Coyle, but the visitors didn't like the idea of allowing the G.T.R. to place their duckets on the street and then removing the roundhouse at their own convenience. Ald. Duffus then moved that the Board recommend the Council to write the G.T.R. and further urged them to remove their roundhouse before the end of the present year and also urge that the King Street ducket be placed at the north side of King Street and east of the main tracks. This motion was seconded by Ald. Johnston, and when carried, found favor with the deputation, and they withdrew.

The Board also recommended that the Council consent to the Sherbrooke Street ducket being placed as the G.T.R. requested, that is on fourteen feet columns.

A letter was read from Mr. McNabb, the local G.T.R. agent, permitting the city to place sewers under the G.T.R. tracks on McDonnel and Wescott Streets.

Ths Street Railway Company was given permission to use George Street from Lake to Romaine and Romaine from George to Lock. Ald. Saunders thought the streets mentioned were left in poor shape, but the City Engineer assured him that some grading is to be done.

AN ACTION FOR $200 DAMAGES

Peter Hamilton Co. as the Defendants

An interesting action has been commenced in the county court by Daniel O'Connell of O'Connell and Corkery, in which William Rudkins asks for damages to the extent of $200 from the Peter Hamilton Company, and also an injunction to force the defendants to abide by an agreement said to have been entered into in 1893. The plaintiff owns a property at 185 King Street adjoining the defendant company's factory. He claims that the company agreed to construct a sheeting to prevent the ice from falling off its roof to the premises owned by the plaintiff. This they have not done, according to the statement of claim, and as a result of the company's failure to live up to its agreement, Mr. Rudkin's property has been damaged. He asks also for a mandatory order compelling the company to construct the protection and also maintain it.

MIDNIGHT FIRE WIPES OUT

lost were several tool kits belonging to workmen and valued at several hundred dollars without a cent of insurance covering them.

Had Notified Police.

Mr. Duignan one of the officials of police a few weeks ago that men were in the habit of using the crib as a fishing spot. It is claimed that a match thrown into the sawdust bed caused the fire. It is supposed that the sawdust commenced to burn below the surface and slowly ate its way to the mill. There was no fire in the mill at all last night and the match theory is very feasible.

Joy Riders.

Chief Howard is hotter under the collar today than some of the boards were last night. He tied his horse up near the fire and when one of his men went to get it about 3 o'clock this morning it was gone. It was later found tied to a post on George Street. The beast was covered with lather and evidently some foolish persons used it for joy riding purposes. The chief is investigating and will prosecute if he can secure enough evidence to prove a charge against the parties suspected of the outrage.

Men Out of Work

The work of rebuilding the mill will be commenced as soon as the insurance valuators have completed their work. A few insurance men were on the job this morning and a company official said the mill would be rebuilt at once. Twenty-five men will be thrown out of employment as a result of the fire. The company officials although somewhat disappointed as a result of the blaze, are thanking themselves that the wind was from the west and not the east. Had it been from the east, the entire plant, including shingle, log and planing mill and yards, would have probably been demolished.

The insurance rate on lumber mills is about the highest of the many rates quoted by the companies. The rate asked in this city is $4.35 per each hundred dollars' worth per year. It can readily be understood under the rate conditions why few if any lumber mills are insured for the total value.

EMPRESS STEARING GEAR WAS CHANGED IN 1908

Expert Shows Why Wrecked Liner Sank so Rapidly After Accident—Diver Whitehead of H.M.S. Essex Testifies Regarding His Survey of the Hull.

QUEBEC, June 25.—The explanation of all the suggestions that have been made during the enquiry in the wreck of the Empress of Ireland about the vessel's steering gear came out yesterday afternoon at the enquiry of the Dominion Commission, when Percy Hillhouse of the Fairfield Shipbuilding Co., which constructed her, explained how, after an accident to it in 1908, one foot was added to the Empress' rudder area to improve her steering qualities.

Mr. Hillhouse gave the first adequate explanation of the actual injuries to the Empress and his telling of the water rushing through a wound of 328 square feet at the rate of 260 tons a second gave a clear cut impression of how it came about that the liner listed over quickly and shortly afterwards capsized.

Another noteworthy feature was the evidence of Gunner Wilfrid Whitehead, the diver from H. M. S. Essex, who, in addition to inspecting the hull of the Empress risked his life in an effort to save that of Edward Cossboon, the American diver, who died from injuries received at the wreck. The announcement that Whitehead was to appear brought hundreds of women to the court, including several from the entourage of the Duchess of Connaught and Princes Patricia, one of whom sketched him.

Whitehead was very modest and beyond mentioned that he had "gone down to the wreck on Sunday in an emergency" made no reference to his courageous, if unsuccessful, effort to raise Cossboon before it was too late.

Whitehead and other divers from the wreck were ordered from the court to the scene of the wreck after a conference between Captain Walsh, marine superintendent of the C. P. R., and Captain Watson of the cruiser Essex, when it was decided to make one more attempt to get the 500 bodies entombed in the Empress' hull.

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

ROWELL SPEAKS AT WINGHAM

Addresses Meeting in the Skating Rink

WINGHAM, June 25.—Mr. N. W. Rowel's arrival here last night, after a busy day of speeches at Exeter and Clinton, brought out the Liberals and Temperance people in full force, and an audience of over a thousand assembled in the skating rink.

"The liquor interests are scared as they have never been, and the Government also are scared as they have never been," said Mr. Rowell. "They know that Ontario is against the bar, and unless they can turn your thoughts away from that upon which you have set your hearts they are going down to defeat by the bar by which they have stood. So they are introducing all kinds of side issues into this contest, if possible to save the Government and the bar."

Dealing with the assertion that he was insincere, Mr. Rowell remarked: "The liquor traffic has no doubt on that score. They would not put up their hundreds and thousands of dollars in this fight if they thought I was insincere. They don't waste their money in [illegible]

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, June 24.—Flattering reports about the wheat harvest in the United States caused a severe break in prices in Liverpool before trading here began. The result was an abrupt setback for the Chicago market the instant that business opened. There was a general rush, which was followed by a reaction on profit-taking, and by a renewal of weakness, with later a second rally.

E. Bishop secured his degree as a doctor of science in 1913 at Queen's University, Kingston, but his home is in Lincoln, Nebraska.

KING PETER SLIPS AWAY.

Servian Monarch Will Abdicate According to Report.

BELGRADE, June 25—King Peter I. of Servia was reported yesterday to have abdicated the throne in favor of his second son, Prince Alexander.

The King left Belgrade in the afternoon for the baths at Vramya, in the southern part of Servia, and a note issued by the official agency in announcing the King's departure, did not say he had abdicated, but confined itself to the statement that His Majesty had signed a ukase entrusting the Government of Servia during his absence from the capital to Crown Prince Alexander.

Prince Alexander was born on Dec. 4, 1888. He has hitherto been very popular among the Servians. He was educated in St, Petersburg, and is of a studious and refined temperament.

George, the eldest prince, who in 1909 renounced his claim to the throne, did so because of the fault openly found, even in the National Assembly, with his dissolute manner of living. At the time, threats were also heard that Peter might meet the fate of his predecessor.

King Peter, born in 1846, is a grandson of the Servian patriot, George Czerny, surnamed Karageorge, or Black George. On the assassination of King Alexander I. and his consort, Queen Draga, by army officers on June 11, 1903, the officers who perpetrated the murder invited Peter to ascend the throne. Shortly afterwards, he restored the constitution of 1889, which had been abrogated in 1894.

EX-ALDERMAN GOES TO TRIAL

MONTREAL, June 25.—Ex-Alderman Judge was committed yesterday by Judge Leet for trial at the Court of King's Bench in September on a charge of perjury. The accused was a member of the City Council of Montreal last year, and the alleged perjury was in connection with evidence given by him before Justice Fortin last fall at the judicial inquiry into the city's land deals. It was on Justice Fortin's report that the charge was laid.

BRANTS TOOK FINAL GAME

Opportunity knocks at each man's door but it never picks the lock. Yesterday the Petes had the opportunity of the season as a win would have lifted them from the cellar but it was not to be and Brantford walked off with the battle by a 4-2 score. Stark was sent to the mound by Manager Blount and from the outset he was lucky, all the breaks counting for him while Welsh pulled down a poke off Forgue's bat which was labelled "three sacks." It was Stark's second start of the season and the sore arm which caused his release from Erie and Hamilton worked as though the soreness has not left it yet. Stark should never have been left in as long as he was because at no stage was he a puzzle and the blow up which came in the eighth was not unexpected. In that innings he passed one, hit a batsman and yielded four hits for a total of three runs which proved sufficient to win. The Petes lost another opportunity to add to their total of runs by dumb base running. Stewart and Rooney were on the pillows with two down in the fourth when Fox hoisted what looked like an easy out between centre and right. Deneau dropped the ball and while it was in the air Stewart and Rooney were slowly wending their way towards home. Stewart scored but if some life had been shown on the play Rooney could have scored and the Petes would have had at least three runs. Fox also loafed on the poke and while he should have reached second he only got as far as first. A moment later Rooney was caught flat footed off third on Fox's steal of second, Lamond faking a throw and ripping it to Nelson who had Rooney by yards. A little baseball would have helped some in that innings as Kelly who was first up in the fifth singled. Of course Kelly may not have singled in the fourth but it was bad baseball anyway.

WELSH'S GREAT CATCH.

Altogether the game was a snappy affair and was featured by some sharp fielding by both teams, Forgue's grab of Blount's intended Texas Leaguer being a nice piece of work while Welsh's one hand stab of Forgue's long hit to left was the real feature and the smartest piece of outfielding pulled on the local lot this season. Welsh ran almost to the foul line and back near the brewery barn. The ball was hit on a line and looked good for three sacks. With some of the luck in their favor when they were at bat the Petes would have won. They had men on in almost every innings but the necessary clout was lacking. They also bunched their hits with more regularity than the Brants but the punch was not there. On the other hand had Stark not been shone upon by the star of good fortune the Brants would have rolled up a larger score so it is all square and the best team won so far as play is concerned.

Chase hurled for the invaders and while he was touched up freely and issued four passes he was very steady in the pinches and deserved to win. The big fellow got a bad start when he passed two in the first but after that his slab work was good enough to win the majority of struggles. Although his team mates had three errors behind him they held him up in good style in the pinches.

Stark was afforded perfect support by his team, the only Peterboro error shown in the box score being credited to Stark himself. Fox and King had a great day again while Welsh looked after five chances in perfect style.

A GOOD START.

The home crowd threatened to chase Mr. Chase in the opening frame when he passed Blount, who was sacrificed, by Byrne to second and went to third on a passed ball and scored on Welsh's sacrifice fly. He also passed Stewart but Dad was an easy out in his attempt to steal. The Blounters threatened again in the third when after two were dead Blount singled and swiped second only to be left there when Byrne flied to Burns. In the fourth the Petes got their second and last run on Stewart's life on Forgue's error, Rooney's single and Deneau's muss of Fox's fly. As said before the Petes should have scored more than one and only poor base running robbed them of at least one run. In the fifth the locals looked dangerous again when Kelly and Stark singled. Blount forced Kelly at third and Byrne rolled out to Chase. Welsh was passed and the bases were choked but Stewart whiffed, thereby cutting off a glorious chance to make matters interesting. We had three on again in the seventh but Welsh failed to come through in the pinch. A fast double by Brantford checked a rally in the eighth and away went the old ball game.

THE WORST IS YET TO COME.

Rube Deneau's hirelings were not dangerous until the third when a pass, a fielder's choice and Nelson's long double to left scored Chase. They had two on in the fifth but a double by Stark, Fox, Rooney and Byrne which was completed when Lamond was run down between second and third silenced the visiting artillery. In the seventh Stark hit a batsman and walked one but the Brants failed to score. Then comes the eighth. It all happened after two were out. Burns drew a pass after Chase had been thrown out. Nelson, following Burns, flied out and it looked real nice from our point of view. The worst was yet to come however and Deneau, Ivers, Taylor and Roth singled in a row and Forgue was hit by Stark. Sterling was rushed to the rescue and with a full house on the bags he fanned Lamond.

ARROWS WON FROM VEEMANITES

Once again the Arrows defeated the Veemanites to the tune of 16-12. The Veemanites were leading up to the last stanza when the Arrows made a desperate dash for supremacy and nosed out ahead of Manager Veeman's crew by four runs after pulling down a three run lead.

The game was fast and snappy throughout, except for the last innings when the Arrows commenced their artillery. The features of the game were a home run by A. Jackson and a flying line stab by P. Schweler for the Arrows. F. Sharpe on the mound for the winners exhibited splendid pitching, while his blonde brother did the receiving.

Although Rutherford Park is no ball diamond, and the Veemanites no ball team, some splendid plays were enacted on both sides, the losers having three pitchers knocked out of the box.

The Veemanites are not content with this second trouncing, but are clamoring for another one. They'll get it—in the neck.

The teams were:

Arrows—1st A. Sharpe, 2nd A. Jackson, 3rd P. Schweler, s.s. Willie Rose, c.f. F. Jackson, r.f. E. Francis, l.f. M. Green, p. F. Sharpe, c. C. Sharpe.

Veemanites—1st R. Munroe, 2nd B. Munroe, 3rd G. Welch, s.s. Charlie Cook, c.f. Mgr. Veeman, l.f. H. Jemison, r.f. C. Dobbin, p. F. Fuller, c. J. Munroe.

The next game will be played at Rutherford Park at 6.45 Monday night. Tickets on sale at 5 o'clock.

LACROSSE GAME ON THE HOLIDAY

The lacrosse management has arranged for a game with Tweed at Riverside Park on July 1st at three o'clock. The locals play at Norwood tomorrow night and a practice is called for this evening.

COMMENT
As You Like It

IS IT GOOD BASEBALL to send a man home when there is a chance to stretch a triple into a homer with one out in the ninth and one run required to tie the score? The question arose when Knotty Lee sent Trout home in Tuesday's game with Ottawa. Trout was caught by a perfect relay. Some of the Toronto critics argue the point along the lines of bad baseball and point out that had Trout been held on third the score would have been tied, as Isaac singled shortly afterwards. Then the question assumes another attitude. Supposing Isaac had not singled. Trout would have been left stranded if he had remained on third, so the chance looked like a good one. The News describes the play as good baseball on both sides and accounts for Trout's out by a perfect relay to the plate. The Star also upholds the coaching of the Toronto manager and says the play was rightly pulled.

SCOUT JIMMY McGUIRE of the Detroit Tigers watched the game from the stand yesterday. He was not here for the express purpose of looking over any particular player, but in the hope of digging up a future star. McGuire is taking a swing around the circuit in search of material. Evidently the Canadian League is attracting a whole lot of attention as numerous big clubs have assigned their expert pickers for scout duty on the circuit.

OUTFIELDER WILCOX, formerly with Peterboro, was a visitor to the ball club headquarters this morning seeking a job. He was released by Curley Blount. If he wanted a job he didn't go the right way about it, apparently, for the club officials state he was after a president's salary.—Hamilton Herald.

CHARLIE GOOD, writing in the Toronto News pans the fans for not patronizing the Canadian League and points out that the class of ball is worthy of excellent support. He also states that it is understood that the men behind the Toronto club are not any too eager to continue under present conditions. It is to be hoped that such is a wrong impression as the Beavers are sailing along nicely now and should prove good drawing cards on the road.

THE TIME WORN SUGGESTION of fake has been circulated regarding the Johnson-Moran fight Saturday. It is hard to even imagine the negro faking in a fight with a white man after all the trouble the whites made for him in Chicago, trouble which finally meant his exile to Paris, a chance of never being able to see the United States again. It looks as though the big smoked ham will seek revenge rather than negotiations for fake.

THE LEADERS in the greatest race staged in the league, were beaten again yesterday, and once again their efforts to widen the small gap between themselves and the second division clubs failed. Ottawa succumbed before the class of Toronto, London dropped one to Hamilton, who were led to victory by Dolan's masterly hurling, while St. Thomas beat Erie. Had the Petes won, Brantford would have been in last place. The Hamilton club's twirling corps has been greatly weakened by the illness of Patsy Dougherty, who was ordered to the hospital yesterday. The club plays in Ottawa today and will certainly feel the loss of Dougherty, as the young portsider was going great guns and was being counted on to take at least a game from the Senators. A few more reverses such as Ottawa and London have been suffering of late will find a new leader before the season is advanced very few weeks. The Petes hit one of the hardest series of the season when St. Thomas open a three game stay this afternoon. The Saints have been going nicely of late and Reisling and Deneau think Midge Craven's crew is the team to beat for the flag.

WON FIRST RACE UNDER NEW OWNER

Sporting the colors of Frank Montgomery for the first time Jimmy Direct easily annexed the 2.15 trot at the first day of the Central Ontario Racing Association's Belleville meet yesterday. Another Peterboro horse to get [illegible] money was Dr. Johnson's Susie Hall. Jimmy Direct was third in the first heat of the 2.15 and second in the second heat, Montell winning the first two heats. In the third, fourth and fifth Jimmy Direct won easily. His best time was 2.15¼. The 2.25 class was won by Montalvo which won the event here last week.

SAINTS HERE FOR THREE GAMES

Scrappy Midge Craven and his collection of railroad men from St. Thomas hook up with the Petes this afternoon in one of the most important series of the season. A majority on the series means a whole lot to the locals while Craven is just as eager to cop the honors in order to keep his team on the heels of the leaders where it is now located. Hughey and Nevitt will work for the visitors and Belting or Sterling and Miller or Kelly for the Petes. Kopp is out of the game for the Saints. He is one of the speediest men in the league and a leading run getter and his absence hurts, especially in close games.

AVIATORS HONOR DEAD.

Aeroplanes In Mourning Attend Funeral at Vienna.

VIENNA, June 25.—An escort of twenty aeroplanes, flying mourning flags and manned by aviators from several nations, formed a flying guard of honor at the burial yesterday of the nine Austrian officers and men killed in the tragic air catastrophe a few miles from Vienna on Saturday.

An enormous concourse of people, including several archdukes, members of the Austrian Cabinet and foreign military attaches was present at the graveside.

While the funeral service was in progress the small air craft circled round and round the cemetery and then flew off in company.

Tornado In South Dakota.

CHICAGO, June 25. — Tuesday night's wind storms in the Western States caused no loss of life.

The storm was most severe at Watertown, S.D., where it reached the proportions of a tornado, destroyed buildings over thirty blocks, and injured 22 persons.

Wires are down in Wisconsin, Minnesota, parts of Iowa, South Dakota and the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Information that no great damage was done outside Watertown was gained from railroads in the storm area.

To the Men of Peterborough

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

"If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop, I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party."

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

WEDLOCK—WINSLOW.

Toronto Star.

A very pretty but quietly-celebrated wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, June 24, at 3.30, in Old St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, when Ethel May Winslow, youngest daugher of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Winslow, was united in marriage to Mr. Louis Merritt Wedlock, eldest son of the late Mr. Jas. Wedlock and Mrs. Wedlock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. Harper Gray. The bride, who was given away by Mr. D. J. Clark, wore a blue moire silk suit, with black milan hat, trimmed with black moire silk and white osprey, and wore a corsage bouquet of lily of the valley and sweet peas.

Miss Edna M. Winslow, sister of the bride, and Mr. R. Stirling Wedlock, of Peterboro, brother of the groom, witnessed the wedding.

After receiving the congratulations of many of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wedlock left on a wedding trip for points east, and on their return will reside in Toronto.

The bride is well known in this city and on several occasions she sang in St. Paul's and St. Andrew's Presbyterian churches. Local friends will extend congratulations and best wishes.

STEVENSON—SMITH.

The George Street Methodist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding this morning, when Miss Violet A. Smith, of Peterborough, was united in bonds of holy matrimony by the Rev. Robert Pogue to Mr. Mat. M. Stevenson of Asphodel, Peterboro County. The young couple were attended by Miss A. M. Patterson and Mr. George Stevenson, brother of the groom.

GOULD—FREE

A very pretty house wedding was celebrated at the home of Mrs. S. J. Fox, Kent Street, this afternoon, when her niece Miss Edith Alice Free, formerly of Campbellford, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Wm. Wilson Gould, C. A., of Edmonton. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Tucker, of Campbellford, in the spacious drawing room banked in the corners with verdant palms and ferns. The bride, carrying a shower bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley, entered the room on the arm of her cousin, Mr. H. T. Free, who gave her away, and was dressed in cream charmeuse. She was unattended. Master Douglas Gould rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march while the nuptial knot was being securely tied.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold pendant set with pearls.

The dining room was replete, and tastefully decorated with white and pink roses and smilax.

The bride's going away suit was purple moire silk with hat to match.

The happy young couple leave on the evening train for a trip on the St. Lawrence to Montreal. On their return they will leave for their home in July for Edmonton. — Lindsay Warder.

REGIMENT IS HOME AGAIN

Dragoons Are Expected This Afternoon

Following a review by Field Marshall H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught the demobilization of the greater part of the 12,000 troops stationed at Petawawa for the past few days, took place yesterday afternoon. The 57th Peterborough Rangers arrived home this morning at four o'clock, after a five days most strenuous and instructive training. Demobilization and entraining was under the charge of Colonel Morrison who had taken the men to camp without an accident serious enough to report to headquarters. Over 500 cars are used to carry the troops to their various homes.

Petawawa Camp comprises about one hundred square miles of country on the west side of Lake Alumette which is part of the Ottawa River and runs north and south forming the division between the provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

At a banquet in honor of Field Marshal H.R.H. the Duke of Connaught, he urged the men to go in for shooting. "There is plenty of room for improvement and you should realize that important feature," he said.

In the manouevres the 57th Regiment Peterborough Rangers displayed ability that won well merited approval from the staff officers and were personally congratulated by Hon. Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia.

The 57th formed part of the 3rd Division in the Whiteland Army, which were successful in winning the sham battle.

Considerable dissatisfaction arose over the Peterborough regiment having to go without their breakfast the morning they arrived. They strenuously objected. The matter was settled without further trouble.

To-day Lt.-Col. Clegg stated to the Review that outside of the water the men had a most profitable experience and training. The means of transportation was not as good as expected, but they were satisfied. The five days was a hard one for the men, owing to the cold weather and heavy sand, also the rain that fell on Wednesday evening.

The 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons are due to arrive in Peterboro this afternoon after a twelve days' strenuout training. The local Dragoons under Major S. T. Johnston acting as the advance guard distinguished themselves in the Brown Army manoeuvres on Tuesday. Their work and ability was commented upon by the staff officers and visitors present.

The 45th Regiment will also reach home today. The 10th Brigade and 24th Field Battery will arrive home on Monday.

MISS MYLOTT AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

The concert given by Eva Mylott last night in the Opera House was in many respects a failure. In the first place the time was inopportune, and as a result a very few people were in attendance. There were no programmes, the manager from Toronto not having put in an appearance. The pianist met with an accident and had to be removed to the hospital, so Miss McKee of the Conservatory staff on short notice acted as pianist. The piano solos were therefore not given. The programme was apparently much revised and shortened. Miss Mylott sang two or three classical pieces that showed that she could render a real concert if only reasonably supported. Several pieces were sung as part of the programme which are usually given as encores, but which were nevertheless much appreciated. The Little Irish Girl and Annie Laurie were favorites. "A Perfect Day" was also well rendered, but it was evident that Miss Mylott was not at her best under the circumstances. We heard her four or five years ago when her concert was much better. It is hoped that when she comes to this city again everything will not combine to make a really gifted singer's performance a frost.

An Athens despatch says that the United States Congress, by authorizing the sale of the warship to Greece, has averted an immediate declaration of war.

Labor Conditions Bad.

MONTREAL, June 25. — "The industrial conditions all over Canada are in a deplorable condition, many are starving because they cannot get a chance to earn even the bare necessities to sustain life, and never in the history of Canada did things look so bad for the workers.

Such was the statement made yesterday by J. C. Watters, president of the Trades Congress of Canada.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 25.—Twelve charges of selling goods on Sunday have been dismissed by Magistrate Shaw, acting on a recent decision of Justice McPhillips that it was not unlawful to sell bread, as it was necessary food.

"I cannot differentiate between bread and fruit," declared Shaw.

Fomenter of Trouble Escapes.

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 25.—Enrico Malatesta, the Italian anarchist, whom the Italian Government has been seeking to arrest in connection with the recent revolutionary risings in Italy, has succeeded in making his escape.

Disguised as a workman, Malatesta made his way to the Swiss frontier, crossing the boundary at Chiasso. He remained in concealment for a time, and is now believed to be on his way to London.

Original of "Genesis."

LONDON, June 25.—Prof. Stephen Langdon, who holds the chair of Assyriology at Jesus College, Oxford, has deciphered the Nippur Babylonian tablets belonging to the University of Pennsylvania, of which he made a copy while in Philadelphia last year.

The tablets give pre-Semitic accounts of the fall of man and the deluge. The latter, he says, is clearly the original of the story preserved in the Book of Genesis.

Militants Break Out Again.

LONDON, June 25. — The activities of the militant suffragettes, which have been in suspense since Premier Asquith agreed to receive a deputation of East End working women, were resumed yesterday in the shape of attacks on city pillar boxes and an organized raid on many west end theatres. The militants also created disturbances at a social function at the Royal Academy of Arts.

Royal Arthur Lodge A. F. and A. M., named after His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, the Most Worshipful the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of England, was instituted on Thursday, June 25th, by Right Worshipful B. W. Squire of Norwood, District Deputy Grand Master of Otonabee District No. 20, acting on behalf of Most Worshipful W. D. Owing to the rapid growth of the two local lodges, Corinthian and Peterborough, the institution of a third lodge has been considered advisable in the interest of Masonry in Peterborough.

FRATERNAL DAY NEXT SUNDAY

Plans Completed for Parade to Churches

Next Sunday will be a red letter day in the history of fraternal societies in this city, the occasion beinging the first annual fraternal Sunday. All fraternal societies of the city will unite in one body and parade to various churches to attend divine service. The members of the various societies are requested to meet in their respective lodge rooms at six o'clock in the evening and their lodge marshals will conduct them to the market square. Here they will be taken charge of by the three marshals, Mr. Bruce Reid, Colonel Miller and Chief Howard who were appointed by the committee.

The churches at which a division of the parade will be present are George Street Methodist, Murray Street Baptist, St. Andrews, St. Johns, Army Citadel and St. Pauls. The respective pastors will preach sermons appropriate for the occasion. Half of the collections to be taken up in the churches will be turned over to the Health Society to assist that body in their commendable undertaking of providing a two month outing for the consumptive patients of the city. This is a worthy act and it is to be hoped that the societies will be well represented and the contributions liberal.

JUDGMENT IS LOOKED FOR IN TWO WEEKS

Commission Hearing the Addresses of Counsel

Canadian Press Despatch.

Quebec, June 26.—Counsel acting for the owners of the Empress of Ireland and the Storstad were busy this morning preparing their addresses to be delivered to the wreck commission this afternoon. Butler Aspinall, for the C.P.R., starts his address at two-thirty, and it is expected to occupy him two hours and a half, after which an adjournment will be taken, and C. S. Haight for the Storstad will address the court to-morrow. Mr. Aspinall will be allowed to reply and E. L. Newcombe for the Dominion Government, will conclude the counsel addresses, probably Saturday afternoon. It is now practically settled that judgment will be delivered in Quebec, probably in two weeks.

CANDIDATE WELL RECEIVED AT BRIDGENORTH MEETING

Liberal Leader, He Says Can do Only as His Party Allows

A large audience greeted Mr. R. J. Soden at the Park Pavilion at Bridgenorth last night. The meeting being called to order, Mr. T. T. Millburn was elected chairman and called on Dr. Sutton as the first speaker. The Doctor dealt with the bi-lingual school question, showing the danger of allowing dual language schools to exist in the Province of Ontario. He went thoroughly into the matter of the French national movement, showing that the aim was to make the French race the dominant one in Canada, and pointed out that the difference in Mr. Rowell's statement as made in Cornwall and as made at Drumbo. He appealed to the electors to stand by Whitney and a British Canada.

The candidate was the next speaker. He thanked the audience for the large attendance and the ladies on the interest they exhibited. He then touched on the Bi-lingual school question for a few moments and pointed out the danger of introducing the race question into politics, declaring that Canada could not exist half French and half English, but must be all either one or the other and asked the electors to choose as between Whitney and a British Province and Rowell and a French one. He then took up the temperance issue, stating clearly his stand and his reasons for that stand. Dealing with the Rowell policy, he showed how a leader of a party could do only what his party allowed and pointed to Liberal candidates who were opposed to Abolish the Bar, others who did not mention it at all in their platforms and still others who were not total abstainers, as Mr. Moss. Was it reasonable to suppose such men would support abolish the bar. He then dealt with the Ontario Club situation and the Summerhayes engagement as campaign leader for the Rowell party. And asked for support for the Whitney Government on their record for honesty and good Government.

During his plea for the abolition of the shop, he was endorsed even by Liberals in the audience by such remarks as "that's so," "that's true," etc.

On resuming his seat he was applauded to the echo.

Mr. H. P. Lindsay then made a short address asking for Mr. Soden's return on the ground of his known principles, his sincerity and his ability. He was followed by Alderman Johnston, who endorsed Mr. Lindsay's remarks and dealt shortly with the Hydro and Radial Railway projects of the Whitney Government and asked for support for Mr. Soden as a man well able to make known to the Government the wants of the riding and for the Whitney Government on its clean, progressive legislation.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King, the Whitney Government and the candidate. After which a gentleman who had interrupted during the meeting and had been silenced by Mr. Soden, called for cheers for Mr. Gillespie and was rewarded by a sickly attempt, which died out before the required number was complete.

WHERE DOES MR. GEO. A. GILLESPIE STAND ON BILINGUAL QUESTION

The Rowell Party Would Admit the French Language and Gillespie Says Rowell's Platform is My Platform

Time for the English Speaking People to Wake Up

There is very great danger at the present time of this English speaking province being handed over to the control of the French, providing the Liberal Rowell party are given the reins of power. It is therefore up to the people of this province, and more particularly this county, to make sure that no such calamity should befall us.

That Rowell is prepared to admit the French language into Ontario schools on an equality with English is quite apparent. What other conclusion can be drawn from his statements at Cornwall and New Liskeard, which are close to French districts? Speaking at New Liskeard, Mr. Rowell said:

"There are children in this province belonging to other races. As English is the language of commerce, so is theirs the language of diplomacy and of literature and of science, and it is only natural that they should desire to retain their mother tongue, and so, consistent with a good English education on the one hand, I would be glad to see, and I believe all public-spirited citizens would be glad to see, the children of our French-Canadian fellow-citizens receive an education in their mother tongue as well."

Again at Cornwall in an address, Mr. Rowell said:

"In every school in the province it is the duty of the State to see that every child receives a good English education. If that were done—that is the law to-day, and the breakdown is in the administration of the law—I believe there would be no ground of complaint in any section of the province; and consistent with that, if the French-Canadian parents desire that their children should also in the schools study their own language, so that they may acquire a facility to use that efficiently and well, I can see no ground for objection on the part of any citizen of the province."

Is there any cause for surprise then that the French Canadians are being told by their leaders to vote solidly for the Rowell candidates?

The stand which Rowell is taking he hopes will deliver him some fifteen to eighteen seats, where the French vote is heavy. That the French are supporting Rowell and his party makes it quite apparent that they have received some sort of assurance from Rowell other than his public utterances that their demands will be met. It is up to the people to retain Ontario as an English speaking province. Let the French have their language, if they want it, but Ontario officially and in education must remain English.

Come, Mr. Gillespie, declare yourself to the men of Peterborough on this all important matter, and do not continue to hide under Rowell's skirts. If you have any idea of the importance of this matter, the people would like to know where you stand.

The Bilingual Issue

Editor Review,

Dear Sir,—I must apologize to your readers for intruding my name so frequently in these matters but as anonymous letters are of little value my name is appended to show that I take full responsibility for what I say. Bilingualism is the issue in all Canada today. The French in the House and out of the House in matters big and little are striving with might and main night and day to compel political parties to grant them full rights in the use of the French language. In speaking of the question in the House I intimated that while no one would go farther to preserve to them the right to keep their language their faith and whatever else they cherished as theirs in private life or as had been clearly agreed upon, the time was clearly come to warn them that the idea which they were now cultivating of ignoring English and determining to employ French in all matters public and private whenever it suited them, is going altogether too far. Much as we like the French, much as we respect them, this country is a British country and must remain so. Their language rights in Canada are those existing in Quebec and in the House of Commons. They were granted at Confederation. They have no such rights in Ontario and it is an impossible situation which they seek to create. Rowell is taking advantage of Whitney's dilemma. Sir James has been forced to take a stand and has done so. Mr. Rowell is being prayed for by the French. That I know. What more need be said? There would be no conflict if Whitney had yielded. Do you propose to support him in the struggle?

Yours,
J. H. BURNHAM.

WAS FOUND GUILTY ON THREE CHARGES OF THEFT

George Clarke From Buffalo is Sentenced to Central Prison for Six Months

Found guilty, on theft charges, George Clarke a stranger from Buffalo, was sentenced to six months in Central Prison, by Magistrate Dumble this morning, at Police Court. Clarke was charged with the theft of water taps from the Empress Hotel valued at $10; tools valued at $15 from Robinson and Windsor. He has a record in other places according to the information received by the Police Department. In passing sentence Magistrate Dumble remarked that he did not know who the man was, but evidently from his actions here he was a detriment to the community, and six months would rid the country of a nuisance.

Clarke came here on the 9th of this month looking for his wife and children whom he believed to be in this city. He had been deported to Buffalo from Toronto.

TEN MILLION DOLLAR LOSS IN MASSACHUSETTS TOWN

TEN THOUSAND ARE HOMELESS

Historic "Witch City" is Victim of Conflagration Which Sweeps Half Mile Path For a Distance of Two Miles, Destroying a Thousand Buildings.

Salem, Mass., June 26.—A revised estimate of the loss in yesterday's conflagration is ten million dollars instead of twenty million. The fire is burning itself out to-day in the levelled ruins. The charred body of Mrs. Cunningham was found in the ruins of a tenement building, and this is thought to be the only life lost. Governor Walsh and other State officials spent the night here conferring with Mayor Hurley, and relief measures are well under way. The fire followed a terrific explosion in the Korn Leather Company's factory, supposed to have been caused by ignition of chemicals used in making patent leather.

SALEM, Mass., June 26.—Nearly half of the old witch city of Salem, rich in historic buildings and tradition, was devastated yesterday and last night by a fire that caused an estimated loss of $20,000,000; destroyed one thousand buildings, including a score of manufacturing establishments, and made 10,000 of the 45,000 residents homeless.

The fire originated in the Korn Leather factory on the west side of the city about two o'clock yesterday afternoon, swept through the shoe and leather manufacturing district, ruining every building in a curving path two miles long and more than a half a mile wide.

Burning embers, carried by a strong northwest wind, started fires in two other sections; the fashionable residence district adjacent to Lafayette street and a manufacturing and tenement house district on the peninsula bounded by Palmer's Cove, South river, and the waterfront.

"The House of Seven Gables," was also in the danger zone. The fire burned a semi-circular path. Originally driven in a southeasterly direction from the foot of Gallows Hill, the place where witches were hanged two and a half centuries ago, it spread to South Salem and then changed its course and crept steadily in a northerly direction toward Town House Square, the centre of the city's retail business life.

For a time the whole city seemed doomed. Then the firemen concentrated their energies in a single point of defence near the Boston & Maine Railroad station. Several buildings in this vicinity were dynamited, every available line of hose was directed against the approaching flames, and late last night the fire had been checked.

$400,000 Loss by Fire.

MANCHESTER, N.H., June 26.—Loss estimated at $400,000 caused by the fire which destroyed the five-storey brick building of the John B. Verick Co., on Elm street, and surrounding property. The blaze started at 2.30 a.m. Five firemen were burned about the head and face when an explosion of chemicals and powder hurled them through a window.

STEAMER OTONABEE ON FIRE WHILE CARRYING AN EXCURSION PARTY

Barrie, June 26.—Crowded with passengers, chiefly women and children, the Lake Simcoe Navigation Company's steamer Otonabee caught fire while out on the lake, bound for Barrie late yesterday afternoon. Prompt work with axes and hose saved the boat, and averted what promised to develop into a dangerous panic. As it was the situation looked so serious for a few minutes that the steamer was turned head on to the shore and sent forward at full speed. The fire started in the woodwork at the top deck around the big smoke stack. For some time the wood had been smouldering, and finally a woman noticed smoke. It was the signal for a rush to the life-belts, women became hysterical and vainly tried to fasten on the belts. The crew lost no time, and with axes broke away the wood around the stack, and a two-inch hose was turned on the smouldering wood.

The Otonabee had on board two hundred members of the Northern Baptist Convention, in session here, who had been taken to Big Bay Point as the guests of the company.

The steamer was purchased from local interests by her present owners.

DUART VILLAGE IS FIRE SWEPT

Canadian Press Despatch.

Highgate, Ont., Fire which started about midnight in the village of Duart, three miles east of here, destroyed the old hostelry known as the Koeheler House, Gange's Cabinet Shop, Lawrence Bros.' store, a vacant store, several barns and other smaller frame buildings.

A bucket brigade was the only means of fighting the fire which consumed everything within reach.

EMPRESS OF IRELAND PROBE CREATES RECORD; EVIDENCE NOW ALL IN

Counsel For the Sailor's Union is First to Deliver Summing up and Representatives of Companies Involved Will Follow With Speeches.

QUEBEC, June 26.—After a day spent mostly in the consideration of technical evidence from John Reid, a naval architect from Montreal, the Empress of Ireland Wreck Enquiry yesterday afternoon exhausted the long list of witnesses summoned to give testimony before it concerning the ramming of the liner by the collier Storstad on May 29 off Father Point, and heard the address of one of the counsel, George Gibson of Quebec, representing the National Sailors and Firemen's Union of Great Britain and Ireland. Yesterday morning the first and only woman to give evidence before the commission, Miss Townsend, of Australia, was called.

Mr. Reid, called by the Storstad lawyers, gave testimony consisting principally of flat contradictions of that put forward by Percy Hillhouse, connected with the Glasgow shipbuilding firm which constructed the Empress. He contended that the angle at which the ships came together was 40 degrees, instead of 80 degrees as laid down by Mr. Hillhouse and that only one watertight compartment was penetrated by the collier's nose as against two claimed by Mr. Hillhouse to have been opened up, while he believed the water reached other parts of the ship through open watertight doors and portholes. That portholes admited water was claimed in statements of passengers read during the day.

The enquiry looks like creating a record for investigations of its character, being much shorter than the Titanic and a number of other probes into big marine disasters.

Lord Mersey commented to the reporters yesterday on the speed with which the enquiry had been carried on, and also on the fairness with which counsel have acted towards each other.

When speeches of counsel have been made the commission will hold conferences in Quebec, in private, when all the evidence will be sifted by the aid of the assessors and admiralty experts appointed by the Dominion and British Governments. It is expected that these sessions will last about two weeks. It is thought the decision of the commission will be delivered at Quebec, although this is not yet decided upon.

With the exception of Capt. Kendall, First Officer Jones and Engineer Brennan, all the C. P. R. witnesses were allowed by the commission to go home on the Virginian, which sailed for Liverpool yesterday afternoon. The Storstad witnesses were given a similar permission yesterday.

Counsel Gibson in his address pointed out that there had been no cowardice on the part of the crew, and contended for a larger quota of able-bodied seamen, at least two men for each boat. The Empress had only 19 A. B.'s to 42 boats.

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE

Donation of $10 Towards Day Camp for Children

A PRESENTATION

The regular monthly meeting of the 57th Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, was held in the Recreation room of the Armouries, yesterday afternoon. This was the last meeting to be held before the summer recess, and it was well attended and greatly enjoyed.

After the regular business, the question of the Day Camp for children, now being planned by the Health Association, was discussed, and a donation of $10.00 made towards the expenses of the same. Several ladies also offered to contribute magazines and books.

Mrs. L. M. Hayes, then read extracts from a very interesting lecture on "Nation Building" before the I.O.D.E. Convention in Toronto lately, by Prof. Hutton.

A feature of the meeting was an address and presentation to Mrs. (Judge) Hayes on the occasion of her retirement from the office of Vice-Regent of the Chapter. After an address read by the Secretary, expressing the regret of the Chapter at losing Mrs. Hayes, the Regent, Mrs. Clegg, presented her with a beautiful silver mesh purse. Mrs. Hayes replied expressing her thanks, and her keen regret at having to sever her connection with the local Chapter.

After a pleasant cup of tea, goodbyes were said until the next meeting, in September.

EMMERSON ILL

Former Minister's Recovery is Doubtful

MONCTON, N.B., June 26. — Reports from Dorchester last night are that Hon. H. R. Emmerson is in a critical condition, and the end is a matter of but a few weeks, possibly days. The ex-Minister is suffering from heart affection, from which recovery is said to be very improbable. Members of the family have been summoned to his bedside.

HON. H. R. EMMERSON.

Mr. Emmerson was in attendance at the recent session of Parliament. He is 60 years of age, a barrister, and was Premier of New Brunswick 1897-1900, when he resigned to enter Parliament. He was Minister of Railways 1904-7.

THAT $50,000 FEE.

MR. N. W. ROWELL has never yet satisfactorily Explained His $50,000 Fee From the Steel Corporation at The Soo.. The Liberal Government Made a Deal With That Company Involving Several Million Dollars, and Mr. Rowell Was Engaged by the Government to Look After Its Interests—and Yet the Steel Co. and Not the Government Paid His $50,000 Fee!. And This, Despite the Fact That When This Huge Grant Was Made, the Wages of the Workingmen of the Company Were Long in Arrears.

THE PROSPECT.

ALTHOUGH the French constituencies are not expected to elect Conservative candidates in this election, the prospects for the Conservative cause are bright. Even if the Conservatives lost every French seat, which is hardly likely, they would still have a splendid majority. In view of the rising importance of the language question in the campaign and the splendid address of the Premier, Sir James Whitney, the Conservatives are confident of carrying most of the English constituencies which elected Conservatives at the last election. Among these are numbered the ridings of West and East Peterborough. Those who are familiar with the ridings and with indications in the Province, have every reason to expect that Sir James Whitney will still be the Premier of Ontario, with a good working majority behind him.

THE HYDRO ELECTRIC ENTERPRISE.

THERE IS one point which has not been emphasized very much in the present campaign, but which is important enough to warrant every elector giving his vote in support of Premier Whitney. That point is the work the Conservative Government has done in bringing into being the great Hydro Electric enterprise.

In pursuance of the policy of securing cheap power for the people, the Whitney Government appointed the Hydro Electric Commission, which has dealt not only with Niagara, but with various other power centres, and is to-day controlling and developing throughout the province electrical power at cost. The work of the Commission has from the first been strenuously opposed by the Opposition supported by interested parties. Efforts were made at the outset to get the Federal Government to disallow the legislation of the province constituting the Hydro Electric Commission. When these efforts failed, legal proceedings were instituted and litigation obstructed the Government at every point. The next move against the proposal was an attempt to prevent the Government from being able to raise the necessary funds and the campaign was carried on in England for the purpose of convincing financiers that the securities of the Province of Ontario which were offered to raise money for the Hydro Electric would be a bad investment. Sir James Whitney personally went to England to prevent this campaign and succeeded in doing so. Subsequently, when the Government submitted its plans to the people of Ontario, the Opposition declared first of all that power could not be obtained at the figure promised; then it declared that a better way of developing power would be by means of gas engines; and, finally, when a contract for cheap power was secured at a rate much lower than had ever been contemplated, the Opposition affirmed that the proposed rate was far too high.

Notwithstanding this, the Government, through the Hydro Electric Commission, of which Honorable Adam Beck is the head, and of which Honorable J. S. Hendrie and Mr. W. K. McNaught are members, proceeded to secure cheap power for the people. It made a contract for power from the Ontario Power Company at $9.40 per h.p. up to 25,000 h.p., and $9.00 for the amount required when it exceeded that quantity. Transmission lines were built and other equipment provided at an investment of $5,190,858. Forty-five municipalities associated themselves with the Commission in distributing this power. In 1913 there were 63,157 customers for light and 2,532 customers for power.

The Niagara system last year distributed 435,751 h.p. at a total expense of $617,252. The total receipts were $751,191, showing a surplus of $133,939, which is available towards depreciation and sinking fund. All other charges are provided for in the amounts mentioned.

There has been no charge of wrong-doing in connection with the Hydro Electric. In the face of almost insuperable obstacles, the scheme has been carried to a successful position. It has secured cheap electric power, light and heat for the people of Ontario, and opened the way for an industrial expansion that means high wages, progress, prosperity, and all those advantages that come with these things. That should be reason enough for giving Premier Whitney another lease of power.

THE YOUNG BANK CLERK of Montreal who appropriated $150,000 of his bank's funds will likely have a few years to reflect on his lamentable error. Having done that, it will take him perhaps the rest of his life to recover the ground lost. In these days it is impossible, to all intents and purposes, to escape the consequences of misappropriating other people's money.

WOMEN AS WRITERS.

THE PROPORTION of women in journalism is larger than in any one of the callings open to women except teaching. There are 30,098 journalists in the United States, of whom 2,193 are women, or 7 per cent. In law there are 1,010 women out of 114,703 in all in this occupation, and 7,399 among 134,225 practitioners in the medical profession. If the proportion of women were known in architecture and in the higher ranks of teaching, the comparison would be as favorable to journalism. It is only in the field of writing that the woman is paid on the same basis as the man, receives the same consideration and obtains as large a return. In every other field there is some discrimination against the woman, but a publisher pays as large a percentage on the novel by a woman as on that written by a man. Women have received some of the largest sums paid in fiction.

PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER FOR WHITNEY.

CLERGYMEN in Ontario are by no means all on the side of Rowell. Indeed, a careful review should show those taking an active part in the campaign to be fairly evenly divided. The majority will exercise their franchise as they deem it wise, without declaring their position. But of those who have made a profession of their politics, the following statement of the Rev. T. J. Glover, made on the platform of W. J. Drope at Jordan, and reported in the St. Catharines Standard, is worthy of note:

> "Some might be surprised to see a minister on the political platform, but 'there's a reason.' If it were not for the fact that an attempt was being made to make temperance an issue in this campaign he wouldn't be there. All his life he had been a temperance man, and he had travelled all over the Province doing the work of the Dominion Alliance.
>
> Abolish the bar was to his mind only a means to an end—to bring back into power a Grit Government, and to cover up the fact that they haven't a real platform and policy on which to appeal to the country.
>
> Temperance sentiment is strong all over Ontario, and the Grits were making use of that sentiment to regain power.
>
> To his mind Rowell could not be trusted to abolish the bar.
>
> Whitney's record was a record of promises fulfilled.
>
> An annihilated party sprung abolish the bar on the unsuspecting community for the purpose of regaining power only."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE POLLING will, as usual, show some changes from the last election that were not anticipated at the beginning of the contest. Haldimand, according to latest calculations, will forsake Mr. Rowell, as Dr. Jaques, the Whitney candidate, is well known and highly esteemed throughout the riding. He is a capable man and is running strong.

MR. THOMAS CRAWFORD and W. D. McPherson, K. C., the Conservative candidate in North-West Toronto, have been endorsed by the Laymen's Association of the Westmoreland Methodist Church. The people there know the value of good, honest government.

DID Whitney ever break a promise to the people of Ontario? Never. Then vote for the Conservatives on Monday.

REMEMBER, R. J. Soden is the standard-bearer of Sir James Whitney in the riding of West Peterborough.

IF you want Whitney to be the leader of the next Provincial Legislature, vote for him on Monday.

VOTE for Soden.

The Divorce Law Disgrace.

Simcoe Reformer

The editor of this great family journal spent a portion of last week about the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa, and while there ran up against some corridor gossip relating to a divorce case that would have tried the digestion of an ostrich. Just why the members of Parliament—Senators and Commoners alike—do not rise in their might and put an end for ever to the scandal of Canada's divorce methods is hard to fathom. The idea of the fate of a divorce petition being decided by political exigencies is surely repugnant to decent men. It is high time the disgrace was removed from the Dominion.

Real Temperance Men.

Kingston Standard.

His Lordship the Bishop of Kingston, Coadjutor Bishop of Ontario, the Very Rev. D. M. Gordon, Principal of Queen's University, Canon Grout, and Rev. Mr. Bourne are good enough temperance men for The Standard and the people of Ontario to follow.

Fooling the Temperance People.

Durham Chronicle.

The Liberals fooled the temperance people for many years and now they are back again to try another crack at them. The only real temperance reform we ever got came from the Whitney Government, and Whitney didn't go into power on the strength of promises he thought he couldn't fulfill. He was old enough to be honest and honest enough to pursue the course he thought best. Big delegations didn't intimidate Mr. Whitney. He may have been arbitrary at times, but he was generally right.

Clergy in Politics.

Canadian Courier.

For many years the Protestant churches of Canada have been complaining of the interference of the Roman Catholic Church in general elections and the influence of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in political affairs at other times. Just now the Protestant churches are doing exactly what they have condemned in their Roman Catholic brethren. They will answer that they are working for the general good of all the people, Roman Catholic as well as Protestant, and not for the particular advantage of Protestant bodies. Nevertheless, there are many people who see grave objections to the course that has been followed, and who believe that the temperance question should have been kept non-partisan. They object to members of the Protestant ministry offering themselves as candidates for the Legislature, and thus setting a precedent which, if followed by all religious bodies, might create an entirely new and baleful condition in political affairs.

THE HARVEST HAND

By Walt Mason

Triumphantly the toiler roared, "I get three bones a day and board! That's going some, eh, what?" And on he labored, brave and strong; the work was hard, the hours were long, the day was passing hot I sat at ease beneath a tree—that sort of thing appeals to me—and watched him as he toiled; the sweat rolled down him in a stream, and I could see his garments steam, his face and hands were broiled. He chuckled as he toiled away, "They're paying me three bones a day, with board and washing, too!" That was his dream of easy mon—to stew and simmer in the sun, for that, the long day through! And I who earn three iron men with sundry scratches of a pen, felt sorry for the jay; but as I watched his stalwart form, the pity that was growing warm within me, blew away. For he was getting more than wealth—keen appetite and rugged health, and blessings such as those; and when the day of toil was through, no doubt the stalwart worker knew a weary child's repose.

SUMMER HOLIDAYS

A lot of people come down our way every summer from the city to spend their summer hollerdays. They seem to be quite satisfied with every thing they see and the home-made cookin' seems to suit 'em fine. Now, I've never what you'd call taken any summer hollerdays, myself, seein' I'm right in the country all the time and ding well pleased with my surroundin's, but some day I'm goin' to pack my carpet-bag and hike across the fields and put up at neighbor Thompson's place fer a week er so. I'm goin' to praise Misses Thompson's cookin' and say her butter is the best I ever tasted. I'm goin' to bathe in the lake every mornin' and get my neck and shoulders sunburned I'm goin' to invite mosquitoes to bite me and if I kin find nettles and pisin ivy, I may invite 'em tew do their dingest. Ye see, thar must be sumthin' about this summerin' business thet I've missed. If so, I be goin' to find it.

GOOD FISHING

BARGE CANAL FOR THE WEST

OTTAWA, June 26.—A new means of transporting western grain and coal is planned for in the survey of the Saskatchewan river which is to be completed this autumn by engineers of the Public Works Department.

The idea is to have a waterway from the Rockies to Winnipeg sufficient for barge traffic. The cost is roughly estimated at fifteen million dollars, the principal items being a series of locks along the river.

The total cost would be reduced by valuable waterpowers to be developed along the route.

"No, Gloria, you just didn't understand."

"But just the same, I was wrong, and wanted to tell you so before I went away. I knew I should not be here when you return, and so I came today."

"You're not going to leave Belmont!"

"Yes, I am. Do you think I could stay!" Her tone made Wright's heart sink. "No, I lack the courage, Joe, the moral courage. There's that much of the butterfly left in me. I'm not strong and brave like you are."

Gloria could not know how his strength and bravery were slipping from him little by little as they talked. Her very presence was weaving its subtle spell about him, snaring him with her wan beauty, maddening him with the thought that he was losing her. So she was going away. He wondered why, speculating on how she had come to learn the truth. This led him to ask:

"But your father?"

Had Wright known what a piteous outburst this would evoke, he never would have spoken.

"My father! What am I to him? I haven't seen him from that day. Since then I've been with Mrs. Hayes. When I learned at luncheon that you were going away, I had to come because I can't forgive myself for what I said in Judge Gilbert's office that came near ending so — disastrously — for you."

"Please don't think of it," he begged. "I don't connect you in any manner with the attack on me."

"But I do," she insisted, "because I know the truth." Here was the whole reason for her coming, she told herself. "Since you're in this fight to stay—even though you're fighting my own father—I want you to have all the protection that knowledge of the truth will afford. I've come to warn you."

Wright saw that he had not made her understand that he was giving up the fight.

"But I'm going away."

"Yes, you've told me; but you're coming back again because you know your place is here. There's work to do."

He recognized instantly that it was her wish for him to remain. Her belief in him, such as it was, centered about his efforts to make Belmont a better place. Not wishing to explain what pain it would constantly give him were he to do so, he avoided the matter by referring to her own future.

"What are you going to do?"

"I? I'm going abroad in a few days."

"What does your father say to that?"

Gloria's lip curled with scorn at the question. Her answer came with the coldness of a woman of the world.

"He can't say anything. What is he to me? I haven't even sent him word yet. He gave me everything in the world, but then at the supremest moment of my life he robbed me of it all. Would a father do that?" she asked fiercely. "What allegiance do I owe him. The claim of blood! Bah! He's always wished I'd been a boy. He didn't lie to me because he loved me. He didn't even know me. Do you think it wrenches my heart to leave him now? No; a thousand times no. We've lived too many years apart. What have we in sympathy? We'd be strangers though we lived under the same roof for years."

"But when you go abroad what are you going to do?" He could see no future for her.

"Just drift. There is so much that I want to forget."

"Much, Gloria?" he asked gently.

"Yes, much." She would not let him trap her into a damaging admission.

"Everything?"

"Everything painful."

Her attitude, he felt it was antagonistic, impatient even of his kindly questioning, stirred him to a vigorous reply. After all, she was but a child, and like a child wanted to shirk the lesson life was teaching her.

"Surely I've not been mistaken in you," he began. "It's by suffering that we learn to live. You've only come to see life as it is, that's all. Would you throw away the precious knowledge that is power for an Arcadian ignorance akin to weakness? You've just said that you've come to warn me of something. Were you true to your theory of life, you would leave me in ignorance, because the truth would give me pain. But you don't believe that."

From the depth of his world-scarred heart he pitied her. She was so young, and so rebellious. He yearned with a great longing to protect her.

"It's easy enough to talk and give advice," Gloria flung back at him. "What has suffering taught you?"

Here was a question he could answer, and answer decisively.

"It has taught me to be true to my better self." He spoke sternly. Then he regretted that he had seemed harsh with her, for it did not soften her, and she made no comment.

"Please sit down," he said. She accepted the proffered chair stiffly and waited. He had listened to her patiently, and she felt it only fair to hear what he had to say before she left him forever.

Wright came as close to her as he dared. As he spoke, she abandoned the rigid attitude she had felt constrained to assume and sank back in the big chair.

"Gloria, I didn't mean to be harsh just now. God knows I would spare you all you have been through could I have done so. Blot out this terrible week. Can't we go back to that headlong courtship crowded into half an hour? Let everything be as it was. Then I begged you to go away. Now since you are goin , let us go together. Listen, don't you remember?

The sun is the flame of the desert,
And you are the flame of my heart,
Dreary indeed is the desert unsunned
And dreary without you, my heart.

SUFFERED AGONY WITH NEURALGIA

Nothing Helped Her Until She Tried "Fruit-a-tives"

CAMPBELLVILLE, ONT., May 5th. 1913.

"I cannot speak too highly of "Fruit-a-tives". For over thirty years, I have suffered from Chronic Neuralgia and Constipation, experiencing untold agony. The Neuralgia settled in my lungs and I took bottle after bottle of medicine without relief. The doctor told me I would not get better but "Fruit-a-tives" proved that the doctor was wrong, by giving me quick relief and finally and completely curing me.

I would not have my present health if it was not for "Fruit-a-tives" and I am glad of the opportunity of giving you this letter about such a splendid remedy as "Fruit-a-tives", for the guidance of other women who may be similarly affected"

MRS. NATHAN DUNN.

"Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine made from fruit juices and is particularly suited to women because of its mild action and pleasant taste.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c, or may be obtained from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WILL NOT HEAR OF A TRUCE

Militants Turn Deaf Ear to Mrs. Besant

LONDON, June 26.—The militant suffragettes are determined not to relax their campaign. Mrs. Annie Besant, president of the Theosophical Society, author and lecturer on religious subjects, in a recent lecture in London on the suffrage question, made an eloquent appeal to the militants to consent to a truce with the Government on condition that the Ministers promise to introduce a bill in the next Parliament.

Miss Wylie, presiding at a meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union, declared yesterday that the militants would not dream of a truce.

The trial yesterday of the suffragette, Miss Irene Casey, who was arrested at the time of the King's recent visit to Nottingham, has revealed that she was carrying in her dressing bag a regular arsenal, including for quarter-pound boxes of a high explosive, detonators, 20 feet of fuse, a bottle of benzine, chisel, pliers and glasscutter.

Points for Mothers

Children's Pockets.

Children's pockets are always apt to tear away from the seam to which they are sewed, and nothing looks more untidy. To avoid this sew one end of a piece of tape to the top of the pocket and the other end to the waistband or, if it is an overall, to the armhole. Fasten the tape just tightly enough to take most of the strain.

It is an excellent plan to make the pockets in boys' suits of waterproof material. Then when he puts sticky things into them—as he is certain to do—they can easily be sponged clean.

Fault Finding.

Every one knows that a child must be carefully trained. It is necessary to find fault sometimes. But this is just where many people make a mistake. They overdo the faultfinding part of the business.

You cannot cure either children or grownups of faults by continually talking about them. After a scolding let the matter rest for a bit and then see what a little kindness will do and a word of praise when it is due.

Bananas For Children.

Most little ones of three years and older can digest a banana if trained to eat it slowly and masticate it thoroughly. When swallowed in lumps bananas are very bad, even for grownups. Bananas are good food and nourishing. Mash them with a fork and mix a teaspoonful of cream with them. They should not be given to younger children.

MUSKOKA LAKES

The words, "All aboard for Muskoka" is a call that sends a thrill of delightful anticipation through thousands, who, having perfected their plans, are ready to depart for that greatest of all Canada's playgrounds. Do you wish to view Nature's most lavish handiwork? Muskoka is a constellation of the wildest prodigalities. All are here fertile plains, peaceful villages, rugged rock-ribbed ridges, a wilderness of forests, laughing streams, rushing torrents over precipitous declivities or sparkling lakes, nestling on their bosoms hundred of island gems, rivalling Mirza's entrancing vision of Paradise. ABOLITIONISTS HELD MEETING

Temperance Rally at Massey Hall.

TORONTO, June 26. — What was probably the biggest temperance rally in the history of Ontario was held in Massey Hall last night by the "Abolish-the-Bar" forces of Toronto and surrounding cities and towns. The hall was crowded with temperance workers, who received the speeches of their leaders with vociferous applause.

In the chair was Rev. Father Minehan, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church, Toronto, and on the platform with him were Rev. Dr. Carman, general superintendent of the Methodist Church; Rev. John McNeill of Cooke's Church, Toronto; Rev. John MacNeill, of Walmer Road Baptist Church; Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant, home mission secretary of the Presbyterian Church; F. W. Galbraith, of East Durham; J. J. Mason, of Stratford; Mrs. E. A. Stevens, of the Ontario W. C. T. U., and many others. Charles Steele, Independent Conservative candidate in East Welland, was unable to be present.

Temperance banners were displayed on all sides. "The barrooms are boy-catchers," read one streamer. "The bar must go," spoke another. "Banish the bar," "Wake up, Ontario," "Municipal votes for married women," were others.

Rev. Dr. Carman opened the meeting with an invocation, and Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant followed. "The liquor traffic is in politics. The only bar that is not in politics is a closed bar," he declared.

EARL IS ARRESTED

LONDON, June 26. — A Kiel despatch to The London Daily Mail says that Earl Brassey, who has served as Civil Lord of the British Admiralty, Secretary to the Admiralty and president of the Institute of Naval Architects, and who was the founder of The Naval Annual, was arrested by the police yesterday, while passing the Imperial dockyard in the dinghy of his yacht. He was held on suspicion of being a spy, and it took more than an hour to establish his identity and obtain his release.

Made Loan of $300,000.

ST. JOHN, N.B., June 26.—Testifying in the provincial graft inquiry as regards the Valley Railway, B. Hal Brown, of the Prudential Trust Co., stated that a loan of $300,000 had been made to the railway company. There was an agreement to deduct one per cent. from amounts due the railway company in repayment of this.

The witness said while there was nothing to conceal, they had a certain duty to their clients, and he did not believe they should be called on to reveal the private banking affairs of clients unless to show something irregular or corrupt, and he was sure there was nothing of that kind in the Quebec & St. John Construction Co.

COMMENT

chances by such actions as those adopted yesterday.

The Petes pulled another questionable play when Byrne threw to Fox on a slow bounder with a man almost at third when Joe got the ball. Joe's play to second may have been all right but Fox should have shot it home and if he had a run would have been cut off as there was no chance to complete a double at first as it was a slow hit ball to Joe. Such is baseball.

The St. Thomas club looked as good as any that have performed here this season. The infield gives evidence of steadiness on yesterday's form while Kepp back in left the outer garden looms up like a real classy trio. True none of the infield can be placed in the extraordinary speed class but the necessary experience which teaches a man to be in the right place and do the right thing is there. Gillespie who is probably the veteran of the inner guard shaped up nicely on third and had a nice day with the bat. Backed up by good pitching the Saints will be serious contenders from now on as the club possesses some timely as well as healthy swatters as the pokes of Kading will show. Curly Blount pulled down two off the first sacker's bat after a run to very deep center. On the Saints' team is Chief Nevitt a full blooded Indian. Some of the fans persisted in calling him "nigger" but in justice to the Saint backstop let it be known that he is not an Ethiopian, but a darn good Indian catcher.

Rumors of trades and sales all over the circuit are circulating day by day and some new faces may be looked for on any of the clubs from now on. Ottawa attempted to trade Dolan for Kirley of Toronto, but McCaffery stated that he did not want any more veterans and decided to keep Kirley, as he is young and promising. London will get Joe Dunn from Erie and will most likely send Long to Hamilton. Gilhooley is said to have a chance to be shipped to Peterboro. Ottawa has signed a pitcher named Robinson from Omaha and have let Tom Kane out. Hamilton has released Sheckard and signed Clements, a hurler from the Montreal City League, on whom the Royals have a string. Danford has been let out by London.

There seems to be some dissatisfaction among fight followers over the decision to allow Georges Carpentier to referee the Moran-Johnson mill in Gay Paree tomorrow night. Carpentier who is the heavyweight champ of France is only 20 years of age, lacks experience in the arbiter's game and it is surprising that Johnson will stake his title in a ring with such an official. Johnson agreed though which makes it look as though he is dead sure he can win under any conditions. Both men are in great shape according to dispatches. Seats have been provided for 20,000 spectators as compared to 30,000 at Reno.

The fight will start at 10.30 Paris time which will be about 5.30 o'clock Peterboro time. The weight and measurement of the two men follow:

MORAN.		JOHNSON.
6 ft. 1 in.	height	6 ft. 3 in.
20¾ in.	reach	28¾ in.
15 in.	biceps normal	16 in.
16½ in.	expanded	18 in.
13 in.	forearm	15 in.
42 in.	chest normal	43 in.
46 in.	chest expanded	46 in.
19 in.	neck	18 in.
35 in.	waist	35½ in.
23 in.	thigh	24 in.
15½ in.	calf	18 in.
203	weight	215

The first division clubs all won their games yesterday widening the narrow breach which separates them from the second division clubs. The struggle is still as keen as ever and owing to the bolstering up the clubs are undergoing it is anybody's race and it would not be surprising if three or four of the clubs fought it out down the home stretch. Although the Petes played very ragged ball yesterday they are by no means the weakest club in the league and in their last ten or twelve games excluding yesterday they showed just as much in all departments as any other club in the league and can be counted on to get back to form quickly.

THE TRAPSTERS.

Some good shooting was witnessed at the weekly shoot of the local gun club last evening despite the tricky wind which blew across the traps. The following were the scores turned in.

G. Dinsdale	50	15

A league shoot of the Trent Valley Trap Shooting Association will be held here on Thursday, July 14th.

GOLF

A contingent of Oshawa golfers invaded Peterboro yesterday and played a very interesting match with members of the local club. Eighteen figured on each side, but as Oshawa was shy, a couple of local men played with the visitors. The match resulted in a tie, 9-9. The scores follow.

WHAT IS A REBUS?

Very Old in Origin but Very New in Its Modern Development

Like most other items of modern knowledge, the rebus has been duly classified and a whole literature evolved concerning it.

A rebus is the representation of a name or thing by means of figures or pictures, instead of words or parts or words.

A good illustration of this type in the long ago is the ancient tale concerning a gallant who had expressed his tender passion for a lady named Rose Hill by painting in the border of his gown a rose, a hill, an eye, a loaf and a well. This is the style of the rebus would be deciphered as, "Rose Hill I love well." But nowadays we are more exact and "loaf" would scarcely be considered a fair equivalent.

In heraldry, the word "rebus" is used to describe a coat of arms which bears an allusion to the name of the person—as three castles for Castleton.

Man's first known literary efforts, in the form of picture writings, are readily classified in the rebus division, as they endeavor to express their meaning by pictorial representation. In fact, all alphabets have been evolved in much the same fashion and many o frrepouSH RDL ion and many of our perfected letters still bear some resemblance to the rude drawings from which they originated. The ancients were past masters in the use of the rebus, as many Egyptian and Chaldiac tablets attest, and even among the Greeks it was much in vogue. But the latter dealt more in word combinations than the pictured form.

In modern days the rebus form is widely used, as in the abbreviations of business, advertising and social presentations. Even the tramps utilize it, and the old chalk designs we often see on the city sidewalks and on the gateposts of country homes, tell a significant story of the reception likely to be accorded to the itinerants applying within.

A good illustration of the word form in the rebus is found in that old one so many of us have encountered in our school days, usually written in exercise books or upon slate, when teacher's back was turned:

stand take to takings
I you throw all my which of course reads: "I understand you undertake to overthrow all my undertakings.

Nowadays we have the rebus very much perfected and far more attractive as in the Summer Pastime at present running in this paper. This is a pictorial and accurate type, with valuable educational and pleasurable features.

Our Summer Pastime is making a great hit and in many homes there are several members of the household each engaged in working out his or her list of answers. It is a really fascinating form of employing spare time. Moreover, all participants have the added incentive of valuable prizes to spur them on towards accuracy and industry in their solving.

From his point of view, no man ever marries a woman smarter than himself.

LLOYD GEORGE FINANCE BILL IS DISPLEASING

Momentous Vote in the British Commons is Passed by 98 Votes—Radical Millionaires Resent Income Tax and Laborites Abstain From Voting.

LONDON, June 26.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—The division on the finance bill, which was awaited with much interest, owing to the attitude of certain Liberal members and the abstention of the Labor Party was taken last night, and resulted as follows:

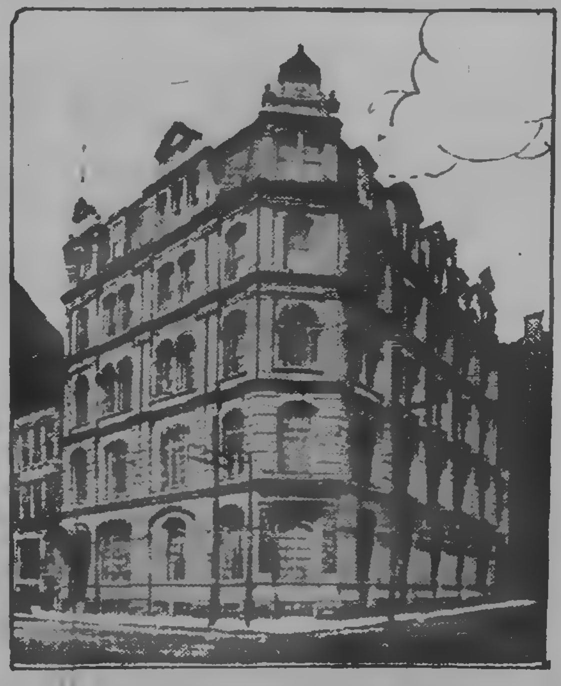
For the bill 303, against 265, majority for 38.

The large reduction in the Government majority is due to a combination of causes; dissatisfaction of Labor members, not to speak of the independent attitude of the O'Brienites.

The Labor party to the number of 34 abstained from voting for the amendment in accordance with their previously expressed conviction that the Chancellor of the Exchequer should have given some poor relief from taxation instead of reducing the income tax.

Sir Luke White (Liberal) voted with the Opposition as a protest against the postponement of the local agents. Joseph Martin, Mr. Hinds, and several other Liberals abstained. The O'Brienites in a body voted with the Opposition.

When the figures were announced the younger members of the Unionist party called out tauntingly, "Lloyd Georgian finance," "Send for Masterman," and "Saved by the Irish."



THE ONTARIO LIBERAL CLUB

This is the Ontario Liberal Club Official headquarters of the Liberal Party in Ontario. The wine list placed before every member at his meals contains over 175 varieties of intoxicating liquor. Mr. N. W. Rowell is a devoted member; Mr. Chas. M. Bowman, his Chief Whip, is President and nearly all the Liberal members of the Legislature attend regularly. It is in this magnificent building with a staff of waiters constantly distributing expensive beverages that the Abolish-The-Bar Policy was born and in such surroundings it takes its nourishment. Here it was that the convivial members worked out the slogan "The Bar or The Boy." For their own part they preferred the Bar. About two years ago the Ontario Club petitioned the Government and received a liquor license and they have refused to part with it.

It is a fascinating sight to find day after day to find a dozen Liberal-Temperance candidates assemble about one of the case tables to discuss and applaud Mr. Rowell's "Great Moral Issue" while one of the candidates presses the button and orders gin rickeys and highballs for the crowd.

BOY SCOUTS' CAMP.

An advance guard was to leave today to prepare camp near T. A. S. Park for the Boy Scouts, who will spend four days under canvas, returning next Wednesday night. Between forty and fifty Scouts will enjoy the outing.

The local lacrosse club left this afternoon in autos for Norwood where they play this evening. They are tied with Hastings for the leadership of the district and if they win today will go to the front.

Chinese Garrison Mutiny.

LONDON, June 26.—A despatch from Shanghai to the Exchange Telegraph Co., says the Chinese garrison from Kalgan, composed of 6,000 soldiers, mutinied and then looted and burned the city, killing all who resisted them. The women among the inhabitants were attacked, and many of them carried off.

The orgie of the mutinous troops lasted until daybreak, when they evacuated the city and fled toward the Mongolian border.

WEST SHORE FOR SALE

Representatives of Municipalities Meet

GODERICH, June 26.—At a meeting yesterday at Kintail of representatives of the municipalities involved, it was decided to advertise the sale by tender. The Attorney-General is also to be asked speedily to endeavor to apprehend J. W. Moyes, the promoter of the defunct road, and to take steps to extradite him if necessary. The solicitors were authorized to proceed against the Toronto General Trusts Co. and the brokerage firm of A. E. Osler & Co., Toronto, to recover moneys alleged to have been paid out by them illegally. These claims amount to $32,000.

There was some suggestion of the municipalities completing the road and linking it up with the prospective hydro-radial system, which is by no means an improbable outcome. The proposal at present is to sell the road by tender as at present laid and the charter, which includes a right-of-way to Owen Sound. The condition is that the purchaser must finance the line.

NORWOOD PEOPLE SORRY TO LOSE REV. FR. KELLY

Expressing the regret of the residents of Norwood at the removal of Rev. Father Kelly the Register says: During his pastorate here Rev. Father Kelly has greatly endeared himself to the members of his congregation and has also won the highest respect and friendship of those of other denominations. For his congregation he has always been on the alert to promote their social, moral and spiritual welfare, and has brought about many pleasing improvements in the church property. Father Kelly has also been an admirable citizen, always ready to assist financially and otherwise in any good civic improvement. He is an honorary director and active member of the East Peterboro Agricultural Society. He has also taken much interest in all kinds of athletics, being greatly esteemed by the young men of the town.

Every inch of old tablecloth should be saved. When the tablecloth is past mending, it can be cut into tray cloths, bread cloths, kitchen tablecloths, and it will make very good kitchen towels for wiping glassware.

G. A. GILLESPIE,
Liberal Candidate in West Peterborough.

On Saturday, June 6, I gave the Temperance Association a signed statement that if elected I would vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the 1300 bar, 215 shop and 58 club licenses in Ontario. I repeated this statement in my Opera House address, June 18. Furthermore, if I ever get the opportunity I will vote to prevent the manufacture of liquor. I ask for your support and influence.

NEGLIGENT WHILE DRIVING HIS CAR

Lakefield Man Found Guilty and is Fined

John Allen of Lakefield, found guilty of negligence in driving his motor vehicle, was assessed $16.10 by Magistrate Dumble this morning. C. R. Widdifield acted for the defendant. Allen while driving his motor car on Hunter Street last Thursday, ran down Frank O'Connor of this city, injuring him considerably.

Mr. Widdifield contended that the charge was laid under the Motor Vehicles Act of Ontario, thereby giving a speed of fifteen miles per hour instead of the ten as prescribed for by the city by-law.

Magistrate Dumble stated that Allen had been intoxicated and had driven his motor vehicle at a high rate of speed and also in a reckless manner. He had, he said, three other convictions for similar offences, against him.

The annual inspection of the 57th will be held tonight with Col. Ogilvie the inspecting officer.

HE USED HIS FISTS INSTEAD OF TALKING

Alcane Hull Said to Have Assaulted Archie Myles

Jealousy which is said by the evidence to have arose over the dreamy dreamy sweetheart days, resulted in Alcane Hull being charged in the county police court this morning, with assaulting Archibald Myles. Magistrate Edmison presided over the case which was not concluded at the luncheon hour. G. N. Gordon acted for the private prosecutor, Acting Crown Attorney Wearing for the crown and Daniel O'Connell for the defendant. Both parties reside near Clarina Post Office. Myles alleged that while he was driving along the road with his wife on June 8 Hull approached him and passed an ugly remark. He then invited Myles out of the rig and Myles accepted the invitation. The complainant stated that he did not think Hull was looking for fight but merely thought he wanted to settle an old score by argument as he did once before. Instead of talking Hull slugged. They clinched and both fell to the ground with Myles on top. Hull then bit his thumb and finger to such an extent that a doctor's services were required. The witness claimed that Hull had circulated some nasty stories about him once before but all that was forgotten. He admitted that he breezed around a few times with Hull's wife before she was married.

The defense is that Myles passed a remark about Hull's father and that he left the rig of his own accord and started the fight himself. Mr. O'Connell laid stress on the point as to why Myles should have got out of the rig if he merely wished to argue.

Magistrate Edmison reserved judgment this afternoon for one week in order to consult some recent judgments in cases of a similar nature.

When Mrs. Myles was giving her evidence she fainted and had to be carried from the court room. She was in a very nervous state.

The defense showed that Myles had been expelled from the Orange Lodge and refused admission which it is claimed caused some of the hard feeling among the complainant and defendant.

DANGER POINT BEING REMOVED

G.T.R. Making Change at Siding

The G.T.R. siding on the east side of Bethune Street between Simcoe and Charlotte which has been a menace to public safety and was to some extent the cause of one man losing a leg, is being moved out a few feet from the street line, thus lessening the danger. The City Dads have been urging a step along that line for some time but the G.T.R. although they acknowledged their willingness were a trifle slow to act. The moving of the siding and the installing of the new diamonds at the street railway and G.T.R. crossing on Charlotte street makes the corner a rather busy one.

The best foods to choose for cooking in the fireless cooker are those which take a long while to prepare—soups, pot-roasts, beans, etc.

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

DUNKIN ACT.

Editor, Review:

Sir,—

The letter of Mr. J. D. Flavelle has struck a responsive note everywhere. Mr. Flavelles reputation is built upon the sure foundation of patriotism and a sincere desire to do and say what is in the best interests, in his opinion, of the great body of the people. The artful dodging of the mere cunning politician has no place in his anatomy. He leaves that to the dodgers. One point he touched upon is so true to Peterborough, that I feel bound to speak of it. I refer to the history of temperance in Peterborough. When I was a lad I listened with intense interest to the temperance orators who suported the Dunkin Act. Even then I supposed that all human weakness and wickedness, whether it arose from liquor or not, were being attributed to it. It seemed to me that the source of original sin had been discovered, and that when the wave of emotion passed by, whiskey in Peterborough would be no more. The Dunkin Act carried by some twelve hundred and was never in force for one minute. It was forgotten at once. The bars remained open or free to sell all night for three days. When this state of affairs could be tolerated no longer, a committee went to Toronto to secure the enactment of the Crooks License Act for Peterborough. After that, slowly but surely, licenses were cut down, beginning with saloons. Then another fit of hysteria seized the people and away we went. As before, the orators said and did everything but reproach the Creator for not prohibiting original sin. Adam and Eve were handled without gloves and pronounced a complete failure. Though not so young as before, I wondered how the Almighty could keep on permitting what the temperance people denounced. If He would only neutralize alcohol a vast lazar-house would be removed. But He would not. So on we went with the Scott Act, and a more rotten vile town than this under the Scott Act, morally, socially, and politically, I never saw. It was soon repealed by a majority of thousands. But the original policy of wearing down the licenses proceeded. Then under Whitney the liquor business was made, it is claimed, to toe the mark. This fact is, I believe, largely conceded. Sir James has declared himself always as utterly opposed to the liquor traffic. The Globe reports him last Wednesday as follows at Massey Hall: "For himself, he was opposed to the whole liquor traffic and believed in steady and consistent progress towards its elimination. And that has been the only true history of the temperance cause in Peterborough. In view of these facts is it wise to change the policy? Mr. Soden believes in urging on the charioteer. I have heard him cursed for this stand. I have heard him declared to be worse by far than Gillespie. But Mr. Soden's temperance history proves that he is sincere. Since he is sincere I respect him. Now one word more. Laws depend, not on themselves, but upon the people behind them. It is the true heart and clear head of strong men and women upon which laws and all else of a moral character in this world rest. How are these people made? By laws? No, but by the firm hold which they keep on themselves,— in a word, by the sheer strength of their manhood and womanhood. No law can reform. It can only restrain. What is it, then, we are striving for? Is it not both reform and restraint? Is it not the further development of the strong and the further restraint of the weak? The second is useless without the first, and it is this that Sir James banks upon. When he came in, he found corruption, and made it incorruption. He found dishonor and made it honor. He found lying, and made it truthfulness. He is without a stain, and in spite of all that he is and has done, there are some who would hurry him to his defeat. The people, however, will stand by him. They need him. And being more grateful than furious, they will work hard to keep him. He is pre-eminently the people's man. It is inconceivable that any such man should be turned down by a sane electorate. But if it should be so, then Ross and his ilk may come again, and who would lift a finger to drive them out?

J. H. BURNHAM.

TRY "JACK ASS."

Editor Review,—

Dear Sir,—The man who signed himself "Billy Goat" to a letter in Thursday night's Examiner ought to know best what name suits his personality, but I would suggest that owing to the assinine qualities of his production the name of "Jack Ass" would be even more appropriate.

He assumes the role of a temperance man in order to boost his hide bound Gritism. However, he betrays his true role when he assumes with characteristic impudence after the most approved fashion a la Rowell that all the temperance people are a solid phalanx on the side of his party and an open liquor shop as opposed to Mr. Soden's total prohibition.

He asks how can it be wrong to remove the present legislation which has been adjudged by the best authorities to be the best temperance legislation the world has even seen, and substitute therefore the thin veiled promises of Mr. Rowell for open shops, when we consider the terrible conditions that prevailed under the previous Grit rule for a third of a century with Mr. Rowell as one of the chief supporters under that regime of unbridled liquor drinking. The answer is easy.

He tries to protect his pet scheme of an open liquor shop by attempting to throw the odium on the respectable hotels which afford the only accommodation we have for the travelling public, thinking that it will catch votes for his rejected party. He mistakes the case when he says that ministers were taking part in an election three years ago on behalf of the Conservatives, which is utterly untrue. He attributes the statement to a local minister but gives no name that he espoused the right of the church to take part in politics if they took their Christianity with them, which I must say was very good advice. Had this advice been observed by the two ministers in the present election there would have been no heckling of the speakers to break up the public meeting at the opera house and creating a row which was kept within certain bounds by the indulgence and good will of the speakers and the Conservative gathering. You did not find the good ministers on the side of true temperance and clean government making such an exhibition of themselves at the Rowel meeting after the fashion of his two clerical friends.

He is already looking forward to a further onslaught by the same two ministers when the Dominion election comes on. He is, indeed, an ardent but foolish Grit, and is calculated to sink his party still lower if possible. He whines that the labor party is voting Whitney in appreciation of his wise legislation in their favor.

After the manner of the three tailors of Tooley Street who proclaimed themselves "We, the people of England," etc., so calls himself "We temperance people" alias "Billy Goat" but more properly "Jack Ass."

Yours truly,

CITIZEN.

DELEGATES TO AD. CLUB CONVENTION HAVE RETURNED

Truth as the cornerstone of good business and efficient advertising was the keynote struck yesterday afternoon at the adjournment of the tenth annual convention of the Associated Ad Clubs of the world. The local delegates, comprising Messrs. Hall, McNabb, Allison, Hamilton, John, and others, returned last night well satisfied that they had advertised the city of Peterborough as never before. The delegates were imbued with the feeling that the convention was the most successful ever held and the features introduced the very best possible. On every hand comment was heard that Canada had lifted the truth movement through its handling of the convention to a higher standard than before. Closer co-operation was urged by the foreign speakers and home speakers also.

The local club advertised Peterborough in the best possible manner at their booth, which was praised as one of the best at the convention. The booth was a veritable attraction for the visitors, who were all anxious to hear more about Peterborough and its advantageous facilities. The Lift Lock was also an interesting topic among the visitors to the local booth. Facts of advantage and other important items were distributed throughout the grounds and were grabbed by eager delegates anxious to learn of places where excellent water power could be obtained for factory sites. The work of the delegates who spent their time at Toronto is to be highly commended, and they deserve credit for advertising the city of Peterboro as it never was before.

WAS HUGE SUCCESS

Rev. Father Fergus O'Brien of Lakefield was in the city yesterday and in speaking to a Review reporter stated that his picnic of recent date was a huge success. Father O'Brien wished to thank all local people who assisted him in any way, especially the ball team.

WHITE WOLF EXECUTED

LONDON, June 26. — The Daily Telegraph's correspondent in Pekin telegraphs that Standard Oil surveying party is held up on the River Shens; owing to lack of transportation facilities, due to terrorising by the "white wolves."

Mr. Morrison says that the depredations by the "white wolves" have never affected the stability of the Government, though they have caused a loss of military prestige. "White Wolf" himself was executed at Honan three months ago, and his followers are merely brigands who are continually harrassing the Government.

OTTAWA EXHIBITION

Every year the Central Canada Exhibition grows larger and larger—newer and greater exhibits—increased accommodation and the gradual addition of new buildings of a better class have all tended toward the uplifting of each department until now for 1914 the management can well and truthfully say, "One of the most colossal of its kind."

This year $50,000.00 is being spent upon a New Agriculture and Horticulture Hall in which Flower lovers and vegetable growers will delight to display their many different prize winning beautys—born of Nature.

The dates decided for the Great Show this year are September 11th to 19th., and although exhibitors must have their every exhibit in place by the eleventh of the month as a surety to the general public the gates for the admittance will not be open to them until Monday, September 14th.

Of special interest for the Exhibition this year will be the greatly increased and extended Prize List—several very attractive and much sought after classes having been added with prizes corresponding accordingly.

It has been decided to pay all freight upon Live Stock and Cattle from the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec—the same as last year, a feature that resulted in an enormous increase in exhibits in these departments and one that was most gratifying to the management.

For those who look for entertainment of a lighter nature The Midway and its many thousands of splendors—thrilling and unusual spectacles for 1914 promise to greatly surpass anything ever previously offered.

In front of the Grand Stand the big sensational effort will be "NERO, AND THE BURNING OF ROME," a classical spectacular performance completely staged and vividly illustrated by thousand of participants and a greatly increased and extended illumination of Fireworks, second to none, and provided by the world's celebrated T. W. Hand Fireworks Co., of Hamilton, Canada. As aditional features to add to the splendor and glory of the occasion Two Wild West Shows—Cheyenne Days and Frontier Life—have been contracted for at enormous cost, to give special performances daily as will also a most extended list of extra vaudeville features which are rapidly being arranged for and of which one very special item is the world renowned Prof. Hutchison in his sensational Balloon Ascension with ten distinct and separate Parachute drops at each performance. This latter is an extra daily feature of this year's Fair.

From every day on, now, the management will be on the lookout for new features to add to the already large list of thrilling and sensational wonders as well as the securing of entires for each and every department of the Big Exhibition. It is not a bit too early to make up your mind and to commence to look forward to attending the Big Fair this year so as not to miss one of the greatest attractions ever occurring in Canada.

For Prize Lists, Entry Blanks and more full and complete information, apply to E. McMahon, Manager and Secretary, Central Canada Fair Office, 27 Sparks St., Ottawa, Can.

Tapestry-covered chairs can be cleaned by means of a mixture of dry bran and calcined magnesia. It should be rubbed in and left some time before being brushed away.

THE SPORTING WORLD

PETES WOBBLES HELPED SAINTS

Bob Sterling is one of those good-natured fellows who take things as they come, but his good nature was sorely imposed upon yesterday when his team mates did everything but toss the pill into the river, allowing the Saints to win 7-0, by their erratic and indifferent play. Lack of co-operation was very noticeable at all times, and had any other pitcher than hard-working Bob been in there, the tale would have been even more gruesome. On several occasions, the Petes had chances to buck the whitewashers union, but on each occasion something happened in favor of the kalsomining Saints. Regardless of what style of battle the Petes put up, it must be said that Midge Craven has a classy bunch of ball tossers with him. In fact, the club looks exceptionally good. They will be hard to beat.

There is little use in yelping over spilled milk, but it is to be hoped that the Petes spilled all the bad milk they are going to tip over this week. The team played with uncertainty at all times and lacked that spirit of fight which has been noticeable for several weeks. It is better to have unloaded the peak load of errors in one game than to scatter them over several games, and as the team has been showing class for three weeks, the fans should forget yesterday's encounter and get out there and root.

Sterling heaved ball good enough to win the every-day Canadian League game. At no time did the Saints have a picnic at his expense, and only the errors which broke just right for the visitors permitted them rolling up the score they did. The Saints grabbed only six hits off Sterling and not more than two were made in one innings.

On the other hand, Hughey, who claims he will win twenty games this year, had better stake his claim in the city league of some village, if yesterday was his best brand. Hughey at no time pitched better than Sterling, and only the errors on the part of the locals and good work by his own team held him up. He looks like an average hurler on yesterday's work.

Off his delivery the booting Petes grabbed seven hits, while they had nine left on the pillows. Lack of fight robbed the locals of some good chances, as did also some very bad baseball.

There was nothing particularly sensational or great pulled during the fray. The work of the Saints infield was steady at all times, and the inner men displayed a whole lot of that old steadiness which wins games. There was nothing flashy, but the right thing was never lacking, and three smart double plays were pulled without the sign of a slip. On the other hand, the work of the local infield was a striking contrast. The Petes were also guilty of some solid ivory plays.

It is usual to tell how the home club grabbed their tallies before referrring to the invading crew, but as no counts could be recorded in the centre of a round doughnut, what's the use?

Sad Words, Bill, Sad Words.

The Saints started in the second to sew it up, or, rather, the Petes started in the second to present the game to the Saints on a large-sized platter. Kustus was safe on King's error. Kading flied out to Rooney, and then McNeillis got a life on Fox' error. Gillespie and Nevitt then singled and Hughey drew a pass. On Thrailkill's slow hit ball to Byrne, Joe threw to second in an effort to get a double, and while Fox was throwing to first Nevitt tangoed home, making the total figure, four. A double of the flukey variety checked a rally in the third. Craven singled and went to second when Hadley grounded out. Kustus laid one down to Rooney, and the latter forced him at first. Craven rounded third on the play, and Rooney threw badly to Byrne, who recoverd in time to get Craven by inches at the plate. In the sixth Hadley was an easy out. Kustus was safe on a rank error by Welsh, and Kading doubled. Gillespie then singled, scoring Kading, for two runs in that innings. In the seventh, Sterling passed Nevitt, who was sacrificed along, to score on Thrailkill's two-bagger which Welsh loafed on.

Nothing Minus Nit—

There was nothing to the Petes at all in the scoring line. They had a chance in the first when Blount walked, was sacrificed along, but the rest of the gang were not there. In the third Blount and Byrne singled with two down, but Welsh popped a feeble one to Kading. In the fourth Stewart drew a pass and Rooney singled, but King hit into a double. Miller got on in the fifth, but Sterling hit into a double also. With one down Welsh forced Byrne at second in the sixth. Stewart hoisted a foul to Kading, and Welsh foolishly stood a mile off the bag and was doubled out. With two down in the seventh, Fox and Miller singled, but Sterling fanned.

STAGE SET JACK JOHNSON MORAN MILL

Fight Will Start at 5.30 Peterboro Time

Paris, June 26.—Jack Johnson and Frank Moran, the heavyweights who are to fight for the championship here on Saturday appear to be equally confident of victory as their training draws to a close. Johnson is so satisfied he will win that he has $5000 to place on his chances, but so far has found no takers. Moran, at his training quarters at Meriel-Sur-Oise, a few miles outside of Paris, asserted that he was sure he would defeat Johnson.

Both men went through the customary exercises today, covering several miles on the road and engaging in bouts with their training partners.

Moran had bouts with Tom Kennedy and Willie Lewis, in addition ceived few visitors, while Johnson, who has been doing a large part of his training in public, is an object of interest to considerable crowds daily.

Starts 5.30, Toronto Time

So far there has been little betting on the result. The men will enter the ring at 10.30 p.m. Paris time, on Saturday evening, which is 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon, Toronto time.

Managers of the fight have decided to issue no passes, not even to newspaper men. Seats have been provided for twenty thousand persons, as against thirty thousand at Reno, and the prices anywhere near the ring range from $50 to $60.

Johnson, 216 pounds in weight, today started to dry-out. He will take practically no liquids until the fight, when, he says, he will be down to about 210. Moran weighs 192.

Rumors That Fight Is Fixed.

While no one can trace them to their source, rumors are going through the sporting world here that the fight is fixed. Of course, such rumors always come before any really big fight. Usually they are baseless. But they have affected the betting. Ten to four is about the price at which small wagers are being made. Many French fans seem to like Moran for the short end, but they are holding off with their money, apparently hoping to get a still larger price. Philip Sims, the American correspondent, says:

"I am free to confess that I doubt the rumors of Moran being fixed. I am pretty sure that if he is fixed he won't stay that way if he sees a chance to win. If, when he has gone a couple of rounds, the white man gets the idea into his head he can put Johnson away, I would stake my life he'll sail in and try to put it over. Johnson swears he has entered into no ageement with Moran. Moran is equally positive in his statements. It would not surprise me if, after all, there will be a real fight."

SATURDAY GAME AT THREE O'CLOCK

Schettler Will Likely Pitch the Week-End Battle

The Petes and Saints will hook up again this afternoon and Manager Blount may send Tracey in against them, although it is not his turn. Ken is going nicely, however, and will likely be the choice. Miller will most likely catch as the veteran is showing grand form both in his fielding and with the willow. Wilkinson will serve them up for the visitors.

To-morrow's game will be called at 3 o'clock and Louie Schettler will likely do the heaving.

COMPETITION OF THE PETERBORO TENNIS CLUB

In order to determine the relative standing of the different members of the club and to provide a competition, the players have been arranged as below. Any player has the right to challenge the one immediately above him and this man must accept the challenge and play at once or default his place. The winner is to enter up his name on the sheet left blank and numbered, for instance if No. 10 challenges No. 9, the winner enters his name opposite No. 9. He then has a right to challenge No. 8. The loser must play the man below, in this instance No. 11, etc.

This order does not represent the relative standing, the names having been entered more or less at random, as the playing ability of a number of the members is unknown.

The members :—

1—F. C. Webber ; 2—Dr. McPherson ; 3—B. H. Meyers ; 4—F. Cressman ; 5—M. Weller ; 6—G. R. Hall; 7—G. V. Boone; 8—C. Devey; 9—P. C. Downs ; 10—Dr. Sutton , 11—F. Roberts ; 12—H. Cressman; 13—H. COMMENT

As You Like It

What a contrast in the play of the last three weeks and that of yesterday on the part of the Petes. They lacked fight, steadiness, noodle and everything else but slippery gloves. There is some excuse because every ball club runs into a bad day. But there is one player on the club who lacked even the slightest attempt to fight when behind. Welsh in left field who was idolized on Wednesday for his brilliant catch of Forgue's drive acted childish in yesterday's game and grouched all the time. The ball player that fights and who is disappointed when he blows in a pinch and sore at himself when he pulls a bone is the right class of man to have on the team. The man who throws his bat to the ground in anger when he fans shows by his actions that he is fighting all the time. In Welsh's case it was different. In the sixth he was on first with one down. Stewart hoisted a foul to Kading. Welsh loafed a block off first and was doubled easily. Manager Blount called him and Welsh's reply was something like this, "Ah what are you talking about, there were two out." For the benefit of Mr. Welsh it may be recited that there was only one out and even if there had been two out what sense was there running on a foul ball. Welsh contented himself during the afternoon by sitting under a tree in left field while his club was at bat and furthermore it looked as though he loafed on Thrailkill's poke in the seventh. Welsh is a good ball player and has shown the fans that he can deliver and he is only spoiling his own

Mr. Clothing Buyer

Dear Sir:—You would read every word of a letter from a friend, wouldn't you?

We don't believe even your best friend could write you a more important letter than this one.

Several of your hard earned dollars will go for Clothes and Furnishings this season. Oftentimes there's a big difference in the value you get for the dollars you spend, and it's better to find out before you buy where your dollars will go farthest, than to wish you had.

Drop in here, tell us what you would like to see, and we will consider it a privilege to show the goods to you. If it's a suit, you may try them on, stand before the glass and see for yourself how particular we are about every little feature that makes for perfect fitting garments.

You are going to discover that our determination to outdo other stores in point of extreme value-giving this season is going to mean considerable money saved, or increased satisfaction to you. Take our $15 and $18 suits for instance. If you buy one, you'll get more style-value, fit-value and wear-value for the price than you ever did before. And we are selling corresponding values at all prices from $5.90 to $25.00.

But a personal visit to the store is the only way for you to satisfactorily understand what this value-betterment means to you.

HOW THEY SPOT THE NEWLY WEDS

It's Quite Easy the Hotel Clerks Say

If you want to learn to spot newly-weds, just go talk to those wise owls — the hotel clerks. They should know, for since the first of the month—a local hotel clerk is the authority for the statement — over one hundred newly-married couples have registered at hotels in this city. A very large number have affixed the Mr. and Mrs. signature for the first time.

"How do you spot the newly-weds?"

"We can tell them every time," answered the clerk to a scribe today. "Often they try to pull a don't-give-a hoot every-day bluff, and we never let on. We do all we can for them, and in after years they remember our house and attentions paid to them.

"We pretend we are not wise, give them tables for two in the dining-room, and so forth. Sometimes, but not very often, the man in the case comes and 'fesses up."

Employees at various hotels have many a smile over the funny ones pulled off by the newly-weds. A local clerk relates that only a few days ago, a man come in to the hotel. His clothes looked uncomfortable and his boots squeaked. "Say," he said, "I want to register. I never registered in a hotel before. How do you do it?" And he confided, "There are two of us." He had a wife.

"Write 'and wife'," said the clerk, and the man drew up and sprawl "and wife" toward the top of the page. The climax was reached when he shied at the stairway. The bell-hop had to lead him upward.

At the same hotel a young man and wife registered. One hour afterward the taxi driver ambled up to the desk and inquired for the couple. The excited bridegroom had told him to wait, and then had forgotten about the matter. Of course, the taxi meter ran merrily onward.

TO WRITE NOVEL ON WESTERN CANADA

Winnipeg, June 26. — Western Canada is to be made the scene of a novel by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. The great author stated to a reporter that he had gathered considerable "local color," setting material and descriptive matter for a new book. He is enthused with the new country.

"I intend to write something about this country if I can get a good idea. I have gathered plenty of descriptive material and I have an idea for the characters I want, but I have not formulated the plot yet," he said. "No, it will not be a Sherlock Holmes story, and I hardly think it will be about the Royal North-West Mounted Police. I am greatly interested in the study of nature in this country, and it is probable that my theme will touch largely on your great forests and undeveloped territory. However, my plans are still unfinished, and I cannot tell what I will evolve finally."

DEPOSITORS OF FARMERS' BANK

Victims Organize to Press Their Case.

TORONTO, June 26.—Determined to leave no stone unturned in their efforts to have the Farmers' Bank Bill again passed by the House of Commons, more than a hundred depositors of the defunct bank met in Toronto yesterday and made plans to continue their fight. Speeches were made by many of those present dealing with the work done to date, and condemning the Senate for throwing out the bill after it had been passed by the House of Commons. Representatives were present from each of the places where the Farmers' Bank had branches, and it was felt by all present that strong and complete organization of the depositors should be used to the utmost in pressing their claims before the Government.

FRENCH INDIGNANT AT REFUSAL OF REGULATION GUARD

A member of the 57th Peterborough Rangers who lately returned from Camp Petawawa, says he met a number of volnteers from St. John's, Que., who told him the French were very indignant with the Minister of Militia for refusing to allow them the regulation guard of honor for the Host on Corpus Christi Day. A substitute had to be provided and while it might look like the real thing, was not the real thing, and therefore could not be satisfactory. It was contrary to military regulations for troops fully armed to take part in religious or other however to attend services in the usual way and if they carry arms they must do so according to Police regulations and not according to government regulations.

DIVING PREVENTED

Large Number of Men to Make Final Search

RIMOUSKI, June 26.—With steam up and all ready to resume their search for the 800 dead, and incidentally the two million dollars in silver and copper encased in the sunken Empress, the divers were deterred from starting out by the strong wind, which made it useless for the Marie Josephine to start out from Rimouski wharf. Her convoy, the Strathcona, had just returned from Quebec after a foggy run with Captain Staunton, commodore of the C. P. R. fleet, and Captain Haakon Kjerlande, of the Quebec Salvage Co., on board.

The new diving apparatus has not yet arrived, said Captain Staunton, but it is on the way from England and should be here soon.

The inquest into Diver Cosseboon's death terminated last night. The jury recommended that in future the divers should always be sent down in couples.

ROWELL'S RECORD AN UNHAPPY ONE

Fought the Anti-Temperance Battle Thirty Years—In Desperation, Switches Over.

ASK THE ROWELL CANDIDATE TO EXPLAIN AWAY THESE FACTS

The people of Ontario in 1904 swept Rowell's political friends from power because of gross corruption, vicious administration of the liquor license laws and repeated flouting of the Temperance cause. Rowell never once opened his lips to criticise that Government for its temperance frauds, but on the contrary applauded them on scores of platforms.

After thirty years of political partnership with his anti-temperance friends, what made Rowell think of "Abolish the Bar" in 1914? What made him forget it in 1911 when he tried out other catch-cries on the people and was beaten 84 to 22.

"Principle Above Party"

"Put principle above party," pleads N. W. Rowell, but not on a single occasion did his party permit a Temperance candidate to be nominated where there was a Liberal with a ghost of a chance of winning. "Liberals!" says Rowell, "stick to your party. Temperance Conservatives, put principle above party. In other words lend me your vote; it is my only hope of reaching office." The "principle" in this election, according to the Liberal leader, is altogether on the one side.

Rowell said in a public speech that the Liberals of Ontario did right to hurl Ross from office, and wants them to give Whitney the same medicine. Mr. Rowell did not mention that he was one of the bulwarks of the corrupt Ross Government right to its dying day. Mr. Rowell would have continued Ross indefinitely, despite his more conscientious fellow partisans.

The Ghost of the Ontario Club

Rowell is a member, and most of his fellow Liberal legislators are members of the Ontario Liberal Club, which asked the Ontario Government for a liquor license about two years ago. Over 170 different kinds of drinks are dispensed daily at the party's headquarters to the chief movers in the Abolish-the-Bar policy.

Rowell employs as his campaign manager W. F. Summerhayes, recently the paid agent of the brewers and distillers association. Summerhayes, fresh from his triumphs for the liquor interests, was taken by Mr. Rowell to help him Abolish-the-bar.

Typical of some of the "sincerity" that stands behind Mr. Rowell is the promise of C. A. Moss, Liberal-Temperance candidate in North East Toronto that he will quit drinking at his favorite bar in a downtown hotel if Abolish-the-Bar carries. Mr. Rowell has asked the electors to send him Mr. Moss to boost the Temperance cause in the Legislature.

Bismarck's Appetite.

Bismarck, the Iron Chancellor, had an enormous capacity for eating and drinking. He once told a friend that the largest number of oysters he ever ate was 175. He first ordered twenty-five; then, as they were very good, fifty more, and, consuming these, determined to eat nothing else and ordered another hundred, to the great amusement of those present. Bismarck was then twenty-six and had just returned from England.

A Vote for Soden is a Vote for Whitney—For Hydro Electric, for Radial Railways, for Honest, Clean, Progressive Legislation. If You Want These, Vote for Soden.

TO TEMPERANCE CONSERVATIVES

"Temperance Conservatives," as the Liberal press styles you in their most unctuous style, before you think of throwing over the Whitney Government, consider the man and the party that you would get in its place. When a man asks you to believe in him; to substitute him for someone else in whom you have placed confidence for the past nine years, he should have some grounds to back up his verbal assurances. What has N. W. Rowell—"this sincere temperance man"—ever done to merit the confidenc of the temperance Conservatives of Ontario? Did he ever speak for temperance, or vote for temperance, "boom" temperance when there was dangr that it would injure his party?

You all know his record under the Ross Government, when he smoothly ignored the betrayal of the most solemn pledges to the temperance people of Ontario. Here and there these days we are told of Liberals who resented the Great Betrayal and left their party ranks and voted the Ross Government out of power in 1905. Was N. W. Rowell among the number? We all know he stumped for Ross in 1905, even against pronounced—and announced—temperance candidates. We all know by his silence that he voted to retain the anti-temperance government in office.

But perhaps this "sincere temperance man" experienced a change of heart. One might imagine so, at the fulsome eulogies in the Liberal press to-day and on the platform. N. W. Rowell was chosen Liberal leader in 1911, long before the election. Here was his chance to proclaim a temperance platform. Did he do so? Not what you might notice. Rowell sided with the most bigoted of his fellow-partisans in treating this as a political issue. It was felt if it was made the prominent cry in 1911 it might injure the party's chances. Of what? Of ousting Whitney. Of getting into office.

So Rowell fought the 1911 election out on other issues, and the Toronto Star comes to his defence for this Betrayal in an artful apology.

What did that 1911 election show? At dissolution the Rowell party had 18 seats; after the re-election 22 seats, and of these two were gains in French-Canadian constituencies in Eastern and Northern Ontario. Whitney still had 83 seats.

At this rate of gain it would have taken the Liberal party half a century to win out. Some different policy, all agreed, must be picked up to beat Whitney, and Rowell—with only 19 seats out of 106 at dissolution—proclaimed a new policy, the "Abolish-the-Bar."

Anything political in this? Has Rowell shown himself particularly sincere in this cause? Look into it, temperance Conservatives, and consider whether the Rowell record holds forth any guarantee on which to rest your faith; any real, valid reason for thrusting out of power the rugged, honest Premier who makes no pretences, but carries out his promises and under whom Ontario in nine years has advanced ten times further along permanent temperance lines, than in its whole history before, and in spite of Rowell.

Why should you desert Whitney for Rowell, temperance Conservatives?

Adhesive Stamps.

The adhesive postage stamp has been in existence scarcely 75 years, yet the world could now ill afford to dispense with it. It is the direct outcome of the postal reforms introduced by Sir Rowland Hill in England. At the time of the passing of the uniform penny postage act in 1839 all postal charges were paid in cash (usually on delivery), involving an enormous amount of bookkeeping on the part of the postoffice, which would have been increased a hundred-fold when the reduced rates of postage came into force but for the suggestion of the great postal reformer, for "a bit of paper, just large enough to bear the stamp, and coated at the back with a glutinous wash," being subsequently embodied in the famous one penny black postage label and its consort, the twopence blue, which made their debut in May, 1840, and were the progenitors of all adhesive postage stamps.

For three short years Great Britain enjoyed a monopoly of this novel and handy method of collecting postages, until, in July, 1843, the enlightened empire of Brazil followed suit with a series of unprepossessing adhesive labels of native manufacture, adorned with large numerals of value in place of a design, and soon the other nations followed.

He is Chairman of the Organization Committee of the Tariff Reform League and also Chairman of the Industrial Mission and United Empire Club. THE CAMPAIGN IN PARAGRAPHS Principal Gordon of Queen's University, and Bishop Bidwell of the Anglican Diocese of Kingston placed their names on the nomination papers of Dr. A. E. Ross, Conservative candidate for Kingston, and have committed themselves to his support.

"Temperance Conservatives are standing solid for Whitney" is the text of numerous messages reaching the Conservative Headquarters in Toronto from ridings far and near. A general survey of the campaign tendencies so far shows very little deviation from the line-up of the two political parties in 1911. Wagers registered in Toronto are mostly based on a Whitney majority of from fifty to sixty seats.

Remember Le Temps' tribute to Rowell as the standard-bearer of French-Canadians: "The Chief of the Liberal party has recognized with pride in his program the necessity for bi-lingual schools."

At Massey Hall on Tuesday night Sir James Whitney committed his Government to stand or fall by Regulation Seventeen, and that Regulation already on the Statutes of the province declares English the Master Language in all schools. Whitney refused to budge an inch to coax along the French vote.

Rev. Ben H. Spence, Secretary of the Ontario Alliance, the man who is under contract to deliver the Temperance vote to the group of politicians sheltering at the Ontario Club declared a year ago that "shops are a worse menace than the open bars." Rowell refuses to turn out the liquor shops. Whitney's laws sweep away bars clubs and shops.

FIGHTING WITH BACK TO WALL

If N. W. Rowell Fails to Win Coming Election He Will Meet Short Shift From Followers.

Toronto, June 26.—A new development of the campaign this morning was the admission of Liberal workers that N. W. Rowell is practically certain to retire from the party leadership should his slogan "Abolish the Bar" fail to stampede the majority of the electors.

Mr. Rowell was selected in the first place as a possible office-winner on the strength of his promise to "beat Whitney to it" on the Temperance cry. In 1911 he attempted to reach the premier's chair without any Temperance plank whatever. The result was a Whitney majority of 70 in the Legislature. Beaten badly on his first campaign the Liberal leader faced the recriminations of his party throughout the Province but managed to withstand their criticisms by a promise of playing a winning card in 1914. If Mr. Rowell suffers defeat at the coming elections it is openly stated that the old agitation to supplant him by a leader of more constructive and popular talents will prove too strong to be resisted.

A Toronto paper once sent out two reporters to investigate whether local option was a success. To-day such an inquiry would be called ridiculous. There are no two sides to the question. The Whitney-Hanna policy has made local option one of the great moral successes of a generation.

NO SHOPS LEFT BY WHITNEY LAW

Local Option and Canada Temperance Act Have Swept Out 1,215 Liquor Licenses.

N. W. Rowell has had more than thirty years of public life to place "principle above party." The phrase never occurred to him until 1914. Rowell apologized on a hundred platforms for the corrupt Ross Government which an indignant electorate sent to oblivion.

Rowell never on any occasion uttered one syllable against the vicious administration of liquor laws during the Ross regime, but tried to shield that record from public sight.

So helpless has Mr. Rowell been to injure the present Government on their general administration of affairs that he snatches the solitary chance of working up an adverse public feeling.

"Abolish the Bar" is the last straw of an unsuccessful politician facing permanent retirement as a party leader.

For nine years, Sir James Whitney has fought the battle of temperance reform, gaining the earnest congratulations of thousands of clergymen, such as General Booth, Rev. Ben H. Spence, President Gibson of the Ontario Alliance and others.

Under Whitney's rule the licenses have been cut from 2,815 to 1,600. Four-fifths of Ontario is to-day free from licenses. That means all licenses, open bar, club and shop, for when Whitney's laws sweep a municipality they sweep it clean of shops as well as bars and clubs. "Shops," says Ben H. Spence, "are a greater menace than the bars."

Whitney took an obsolete Local Option law and made it workable. He took the ineffective Canada Temperance Act and made it binding on Ontario. These two are the real and permanent weapons of the Temperance cause. They will clean every bar, club and shop from the province.

WHITNEY'S LAWS HAVE ABOLISHED THE BARS FROM FOUR-FIFTHS OF ONTARIO AND WILL ABOLISH THEM FROM THE REMAINING FIFTH. THESE LAWS MAY BE INVOKED BY ANY COMMUNITY AT ANY TIME. THEY LEAVE NO SHOPS.

ROWELL'S PROPOSED LEGISLATION LEAVES THE SHOPS TO REAP THE HARVEST AND ACCENTUATE THE DRINK EVIL.

REV. BEN SPENCE CONDEMNS THE ROWELL PLAN

Secretary of Dominion Alliance Branch Declares Liquor Shops the Greatest Menace

"The abolition of the bars would not be a solution of the question but would merely have an ameliorative effect. The bars ARE NOT SO MUCH A MENACE AS THE SHOPS WHICH FORM A DEPOT OF SUPPLY FOR LOCAL OPTION TERRITORY AND BLIND PIGS."

The above is a verbatim statement made by Rev. Ben H. Spence, Secretary of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, the man on whom N. W. Rowell is relying to deliver him the Ontario temperance vote. The statement was made on February 26th, 1913, in a speech before the committee on political action of the Dominion Alliance.

"THE BARS ARE NOT SO MUCH A MENACE AS THE SHOPS."

Mr. Rowell intends to retain all the shops.

The laws of Sir James Whitney have abolished and will continue to abolish open bar, club license, and liquor shop in any community where the people so decide.

BARS ABOLISEHD FOREVER.

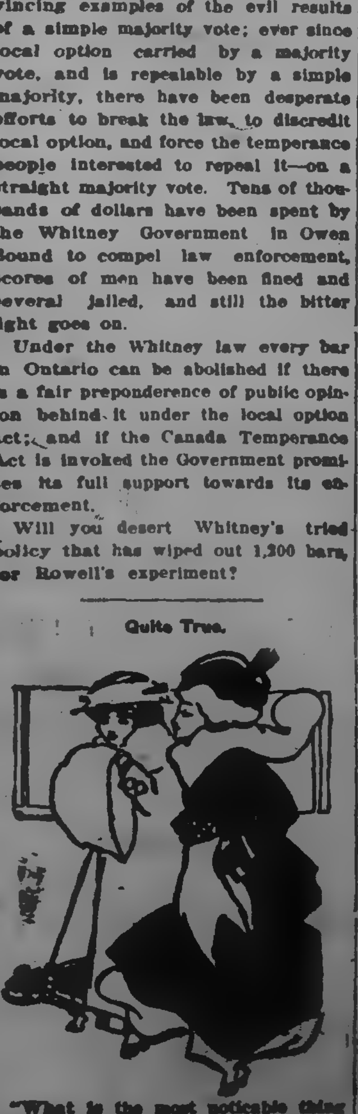
Is Rowell's "Abolish the Bar" policy the best method in the interests of temperance? The methods of the Liberal campaigners is to take this for granted and denounce all opponents as "non-Christians," "liquor sympathisers," "party men." "Abolish the Bar" was tried out in the Scott Act; and there were no shop licenses left in that legislation. Yet, district after district, discarded this prohibitory measure, and ardent temperance people helped to discard it. Yet, only two places that carried local option have discarded it, two out of hundreds. The two elements that have made possible these permanent temperance victories that have nearly revolutionized conditions in Ontario are: (1) the substantial vote required to pass local option, and (2) the strict, honest enforcement of the law. Where local option is not well enforced, most temperance people prefer, after a few years, to wipe it out, and one of the elements that discourages violation of the law is the provision that compels the liquor forces to secure 60 per cent. of the vote before it can be repealed.

Owen Sound is one of the most convincing examples of the evil results of a simple majority vote; ever since local option carried by a majority vote, and is repealable by a simple majority, there have been desperate efforts to break the law, to discredit local option, and force the temperance people interested to repeal it—on a straight majority vote. Tens of thousands of dollars have been spent by the Whitney Government in Owen Sound to compel law enforcement, scores of men have been fined and several jailed, and still the bitter fight goes on.

Under the Whitney law every bar in Ontario can be abolished if there is a fair preponderance of public opinion behind it under the local option act; and if the Canada Temperance Act is invoked the Government promises its full support towards its enforcement.

Will you desert Whitney's tried policy that has wiped out 1,200 bars, for Rowell's experiment?

Quite True.



"What is the most noticable thing about jokes?"

"Their age as a general thing."

AGENT EXPOSED ROWELL SILENT

Summerhayes, Liberal Leader's Campaign Manager and Former Liquor Agent Still at Helm.

Toronto, June 26.—The publication of the disturbing facts regarding the identity of W. F. Summerhayes, campaign manager for N. W. Rowell and acting genera secretary of the Ontario Reform Association, has brought scores of incredulous inquiries from distant points which have embarrassed the Liberal leader sorely. The proved charges that W. F. Summerhayes had gained his living for years as the paid agent of the brewers and distillers in fighting local option in Peterboro and other centres and in conducting a battle against the Canada Temperance Act in Quebec Province as well as working for the saloon cause in Manitoba, has thrown more light on the Liberal leader's fraudulent bid for public sympathy than even the unhappy story of the Ontario Club and its magnificent wine list.

Mr. Rowell persists in keeping the Summerhayes incident out of the limelight, and has declined to mention it since the story appeared in the daily press. No denial has been even attempted from Liberal headquarters, so unflinching are the facts as given. Mr. Summerhayes was found at his desk this morning as usual, continuing to spread the Rowell bait of "Abolish the Bar."

Vice-Admiral H. S. H. Prince Louis of Battenberg recently put a damper on those who claim that a large professional army is not a necessity by saying that neither service could dispense with the other; that there could be no more foolish or mischievous statement than that of people who went about saying, "If war comes the fleet alone is quite enough to keep anybody from coming anywhere near the shores of this Island Kingdom"; and that the fleet alone could not do it. . . . A sufficiently trained professional army in Great Britain at all times was quite as necessary as the other arm of the service. Prince Louis, who became First Sea Lord in 1912, is a son of Prince Alexander of Hesse. He was naturalized, and entered the navy in 1868.

OLD PAP PINKHAM

Makes a Strong Plea for the Dignity of Jericho

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.]

TO the President:

Dear Sir—You naturally want a second term.

I naturally want to hang on to a good thing.

Naturally, I lay the matter before Mrs. Pinkham for her diagnosis—and after a little thought she says:

"Pap, it's easier than climbing a basswood tree."

Belly.

Give the people of Jericho something to think about.

But what? A new postoffice. We want one of Scotch granite standing in a block by itself. We want congress to make an appropriation of at least $500,000. We want a gold leafed cupola on top.

Get us an appropriation of $500,000 and the cheers of our people will resound the length and breadth of the land.

I would modestly suggest to you, Mr. President, that in recommending this appropriation to congress you specify a building at least thirteen stories high.

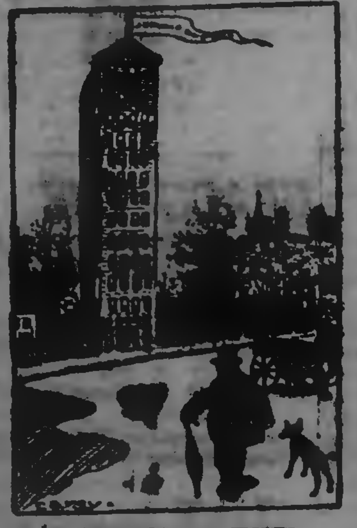
The basement of such a building can be rented out for a cooper shop and all the stories not needed by the postoffice to lawyers, doctors, insurance men, clubs, agents of oil wells and silver mines and so on.

One entire story can be rented to the Jericho Poker club, of which I am the honored president. As it is now, the rooms occupied will accommodate only about one-quarter of the men that want to play. It is honest poker, Mr. President.

The Jericho Suffragette club would take another story, if it was finished off in pink and had a sounding board to enable every woman to hear herself talk and no other speaker.

Mrs. Pinkham has figured out that at least seven of the stories would be occupied by correspondence schools, and if there was a floor remaining it could be rented to such real estate agents as wish to be out of their city offices when a buyer calls to denounce them for selling real estate under water.

Mr. President, will you pause a moment and reflect what a dignity it would give me to be a postmaster in a thirteen story building! And you must realize that a share of the luster of that dignity would reflect on you.



AT LEAST THIRTEEN STORIES.

As it is now, the postoffice is hardly larger than a chicken coop. I slouch around in my old duds, and when commanded to lick on the stamps for patrons out comes my tongue to meekly obey. Every one can be as familiar as he wishes, and any attempt on my part to freeze him out is met with:

"Oh, cut that out, Pap! You are not knee high to the constable!"

Two or three Sundays ago I went to church with a bad cough on me. Deacon Watkins came up the aisle and whispered:

"Pap, you will have to cut that barking out or leave the church!"

If I was running a postoffice in a skyscraper would Deacon Watkins or any other man have dared to talk to me like that? You know they wouldn't.

I represent the government here in Jericho. If I represent it from a chicken coop then the dignity of the government must suffer.

Let it be known that Jericho is to have a $500,000 federal building and what happens?

Jericho will take a boom and Elder Jackson can sell his sheep pasture for town lots and quit gambling.

My grocery will be situated in the new building and I positively guarantee to sell dill pickles 20 per cent lower than any other grocer in the state.

The new building can contain a sanatorium where members of congress can come from time to time and play poker and rest from their arduous labors.

Give us that federal building and you are booked for a second term, sure.

Withhold it, and I will not be answerable. OLD PAP PINKHAM.

Postmaster Without Dignity.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

YOU never can tell what people mean by what they say. It is only by knowing what they need that you can get a clew.

Being generous is easy enough if kind providence or sly opportunity provides the wherewithal.

Some men think that sharing one another's burdens is truly beautiful when the burden happens to be a jag.

As a general thing, being fat is tantamount to being happy, so there are compensations.

Knowing when you are about to be skinned is a sign that you aren't.

Modest Joys.

True happiness does not consist
In tearing up the town,
In daubing war paint on your face
And racing up and down.
In quieter pursuits you may
Grab off of joy your share
And get some very fine results
Without the wear and tear.

This going in the market place
And standing on your ear
And trying, like one shy of sense,
In public to appear
May bring perhaps a passing thrill
As thus the hours you waste,
But in the mouth it later leaves
A most unpleasant taste.

You need not sit around the house
And mope or study Greek
If some amusement, quiet, chaste
And quite refined, you seek.
You needn't read the almanac
For jokes of ancient date
Or even go and rake the yard
And teeter on the gate.

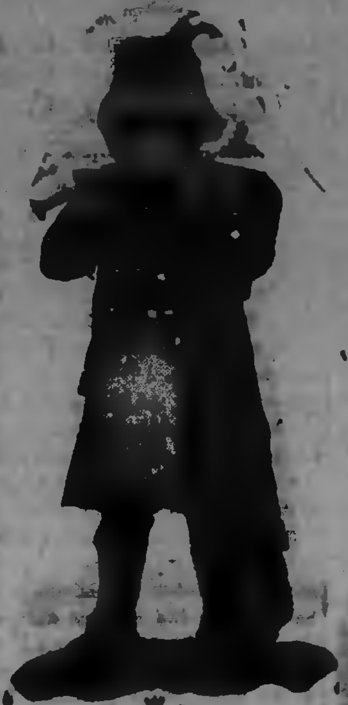
No; there's a happy medium,
A program large and sane,
That you may follow out without
A thought of raising Cain.
Put on your cap and kiss your wife—
It may the lady shock—
And in the quiet gloaming take
A walk around the block.

Prince Led Blind.

Apropos of the recent anecdote of one of the Cabinet Ministers leading a blind man across a crowded street, it may be recalled that the late King, when Prince of Wales, once performed the like charitable action for a blind fiddler in Pall Mall. Perceiving that the man was desirous of getting to the other side, the Prince, who was about to cross from the Marlboro Club to his own residence, quietly took him by the arm and conveyed him safely to the pavement opposite, bestowing a coin before parting with him.

For the Children

A Wee Scotch Laddie With Pipes and Kilts.



Surely a smart and handsome boy this in the Scotch kilts and with the pipes to his lips. Whether he is evolving music or not, the picture does not tell. Pictures do not give forth sound or we should know for sure. At any rate, he is making a brave show, this little Scotch laddie. Born in this country, he is of pure Scotch descent, although he never saw the rugged hills and clear lakes of the land of his father's birth. Proud he is of his ancestry and still more proud to be a citizen of the land of the free and perhaps a future president. Who knows? We have had several presidents of Scotch parentage, and we doubtless may have more. It is fine to be proud of your descent, but it is also a much grander thing to be in line for the presidency of the greatest of all nations—the United States of America.

Children's Songs In Scotland.

The kiddies of the land of heather like verse as well as the children of other countries, and they have many nice little rimes which correspond to those used in our own land. In fact, it is quite clear that some we use as our own are plagiarized straight from Scotland—such as:

Rain, rain, go away.
Come again some other day.
When I brew and when I bake
I'll gie you a little cake.

The rain has a reputation for being somewhat of a spoil sport in bonny Scotland, and many of the rimes, such as the above, hold a very clear wish on the part of the children that the rain man keep his distance. Coming down as they have through the centuries, it is scarce to be wondered at that many of the verses have become simply doggerel without a vestige of meaning to our modern ears—for instance, the following:

Rain, rain, rattle stanes,
Dinna rain on me.
But rain on John O'Groat's house,
Far across the sea.

When the snow flies the children use this little rime:

The men o' the east
Are pyking their geese
And sending their feathers here away.

When a high wind sweeps over the heather they sing:

Arthur O'Bower has broken his bands,
And he's come roaring ower the lands.
The king of Scots wi' a' his power

The Bazaar on Wheels.

A pushcart fair is an amusing outdoor entertainment that will be novel to most. You can hire the carts for a small sum, and you get rid of the work of trimming booths. Those who have charge of the carts should wear the costumes of different peoples—Italians, Germans, negroes, Greeks or any others that fancy may select.

Articles for sale are arranged on the carts and sold from them as from ordinary booths. There are pushcarts for fancy articles, others for household things, still others for candy, for toys and for lemonade and cake, ice cream or tea. If you can get a band and have pretzels and "sausages" sold from the German cart so much the better. The "sausages" are for the grab bag—small articles rolled in long folds of brown crape paper tied with fine string at each end.

A pushcart supper will furnish much amusement. Cups and saucers, plates, and so on, are bargained for at the first cart, and the supper itself is gathered piecemeal from the display on the various carts.—Youth's Companion.

Buried Treasure.

In each sentence is concealed something of value.

1. Whenever there is a wind I am on deck all night. 2. When we come to the tub race let every one be careful not to tip over. 3. If you burned up the doll house and the doll, arson is your crime.

Answers: 1, diamond; 2, bracelet; 3, dollars.

Sore Truth.

What is that which no one wishes to have, yet no one wishes to lose?

A bald head.

A controversy with an undertaker isn't always a stiff argument.

HINTS FOR HOME GARDENERS.

Never plant a seed deeper than four times its size. Always look carefully at the seed.

Pulverize the soil. Try using an old kitchen strainer or buy a small sieve.

Press the soil firmly with a thin board.

Water lightly with the finest of sprinkling cans. Don't use the hose.

Don't sow if a rain is coming up, but if one does come cover seeds with newspapers.

Should the sun be very hot cover seeds and baby plants with newspapers, but be sure to remove them before sundown.

In case of a cold snap cover overnight with papers. Twigs or small stones will hold papers down.

Sow seed evenly, and don't be afraid to thin out when the young plants are about two inches high.

PRACTICAL ACCESSORIES.

Trifles That Add to the Convenience of the Summer Table.

Convenient table accessories for the summer season are illustrated here. The asparagus dish of fancy china has a stand which renders it easy to handle. These asparagus tongs make it really possible to serve the vegetable without breaking.

The lemonade set illustrated has a pitcher supplied with a nickel cover so that exploring insects may be kept out when the beverage is served on the lawn or porch. It may be added that the lemonade retains its coolness longer in these covered vessels than in open ones. The heavy glass tray with handles may be easily kept clean and is not affected by acid should the lemonade be spilled upon it.

ASPARAGUS DISH AND LEMONADE SET.

Very practical and dainty are the newest designs in summer luncheon sets. Of heavy linen or crash in putty or natural shades, the edges of the various pieces are finished with small scallops in chinese blue, nile green, old rose or vandyke brown, the four shades that best accord with the usual dining room decorations and with almost any of the oriental potteries.

These new sets consist of a center mat of twenty-four inch circumference and a dozen each of plate and tumbler mats, while in extra pieces in matching colors and designs come long scarfs for the sideboard.

The value of the luncheon set is obvious. It is an immense saving of laundry, since when an accident happens to one mat another may be substituted and the table drapery kept looking fresh for several days in succession.

LAUNDRY CABINET.

It Should Contain Stain Removers and Other Helps For Wash Day.

The careful and economical housewife who watches all the small outlays will have a small shelf or even a cabinet, no matter how roughly put together, in her laundry, where many helps may always be found. Oxalic acid to take out stains, a bottle of javelle water, a box of fine starch and one of cornstarch, some gum arabic, a bottle of vinegar and one of ammonia, besides the bluing, the wax and salsoda, should be there.

For ink stains and iron rust the oxalic acid crystals are dissolved and the spots moistened, left until the spot shows that it is fading and then well rinsed in several waters, as this, like javelle water, will eat holes in the fabric if left on too long.

When silk ribbons are to be laundered a little gum arabic dissolved to a thin mucilage will give them the stiffness and luster of new. Where colors are to be "set" in uncertain goods, vinegar and salt should be used in the water, and for stains from varnish or the usual furniture staining fluids the javelle water is invaluable.

The laundress must be taught how to use these things; otherwise economy will prove extravagance. She should be instructed that any white goods will stand the application of oxalic acid and the lime and salsoda of javelle water, but that either will surely take out the color from a printed fabric. Silks and satins will not stand these strong mediums.

STRAWBERRY WHIP.

To make a delicious light dessert use the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Add one-half cupful of powdered sugar and one and one-quarter cupfuls of crushed strawberries. Beat again till stiff enough to hold its shape. The riper the strawberries the better will be the result. Serve soon after making.

No, Adolphus, not all gushing letters are written with a fountain pen.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

A MAN really admires beautiful clothes, but his admiration is seldom sufficiently strong to make him want to pay the bills that his wife incurs for them.

Laziness may be a cross to some people, but never to the owner of the quality.

One woman says being a chaperon consists mostly in knowing how wisely not to see.

Nothing could be more fatiguing to a lazy man than to have to hear people constantly wondering how his folks can stand to have him around.

Love in a cottage is certainly all right if the rent is paid and the coal bin full.

It is a good thing to begin now to practice resolutions so that when you have to use them daily they will come easy.

It seems queer that the expansion of a man's head should result in the pinching and shriveling of his brain.

Chance For a Poet.

Oh, who will sing a ditty
Of the city, of the city,
One pertinent and witty
That seems to fit the case?
The country has been getting
From poets lovely petting,
And they have been forgetting
The big and busy place.

He sings of birds and grasses
And useful garden sasses
And in his measure passes
The compliment along,
But no one sings or flatters
Nor tears the rag to tatters
About their humble matters
In verses grand and strong.

Of cows and colts and porkers
We've had some corking corkers,
But how about New Yorkers?
Do they deserve the slight?
And other urbane dwellers?
For us no poetic yellers
In garrets or in cellars
Sing up and treat them right.

Yes, really, it's a pity
That no one sings the city.
We'll get some poet gritty
To tune up and give it voice?
Its buildings tall and spacious,
Men braver than Horatius—
The topic's there, good gracious!
The first come has his choice.

More Up to Date.

"So they are going to sail the sea of matrimony together."

"Sea of matrimony nothing."

"Why, I heard they were to be married."

"Oh, I guess they are going to be married all right, but it is aviating the empire of ether that they are going to do."

The Difference.

"What is the difference between an actress and a chorus girl?"

"If she is an actress she generally has a large wardrobe."

"Yes?"

"And if she is a chorus girl her wardrobe is small, but swell."

Queer.

"You are such a slow walker."

"Yes; I always did walk slowly."

"I have noticed that, and I have often wondered"—

"Yes? What?"

"How you ever managed to run in debt so fast."

Not Utilitarian.

"I would have you know, sir, that I am proud."

"Well, what of it?"

"What of it?"

"Yes. It doesn't pay the rent, does it, or fry the bacon for breakfast?"

To Keep Him Guessing.

"What are you so nervous about?"

"I am to learn my fate tonight. Ethel has promised to give me her answer."

"Calm your fears. Her girl friends all know that she is engaged."

Saw an Opening.

"Have you been over Banker Orr's new house?"

"Well, partly."

"Personally conducted by him?"

"Well, he showed me the door."

Essential.

"What is the first thing to be done in order to learn to save money?"

"The very first thing?"

"Yes."

"Earn it."

Himself, of Course.

"He is the most conceited thing."

"Is he?"

"Yes, and he talks all the time."

"About what?"

"Nothing."

Marvelous.

"He can turn out more work than two men."

"What two?"

"Any two who are not working."

The Question.

Well, how about the pole by now?
Does anybody care?
And was the doctor's tale cooked up
Or was he really there?

A dead letter may be one she gave to her husband to mail.

Probably.

"You never can tell what a woman will say."

"That may be, but there is another kick."

"What is it?"

"You never can tell what she won't say."

DELMORE'S BUBBLE

"All's Well That Ends Well"

By CLARISSA MACKIE

"I don't believe in bubbles!" cried Pauline Fane pettishly.

"You would believe in this one if you had heard Jim Hard tell the story," protested Delmore earnestly. "Of course I don't want to undertake such an expedition without your approval, but, dear, it would make our future very happy and care free if I could discover that great diamond called 'the Bubble.'"

Pauline laughed at her lover's earnestness.

"Nonsense, Dick," she replied scornfully. "If you must go you must. But you will take with you my utter disbelief in the project and my disapproval of your risking what little money you have in such a hazardous undertaking. So there!"

Dick flushed painfully. He was looking thin and careworn as the result of a long illness, from which he had recovered to find that he had lost his position as sales manager for a man with some influence and considerable money with which to invest in the company's stock.

"The voyage down there will brace me up again," argued Dick for the twentieth time.

"Oh, you can take the voyage just the same, only don't risk your money on that insane venture," said Pauline.

"And if I decide to do that?" asked Dick quietly.

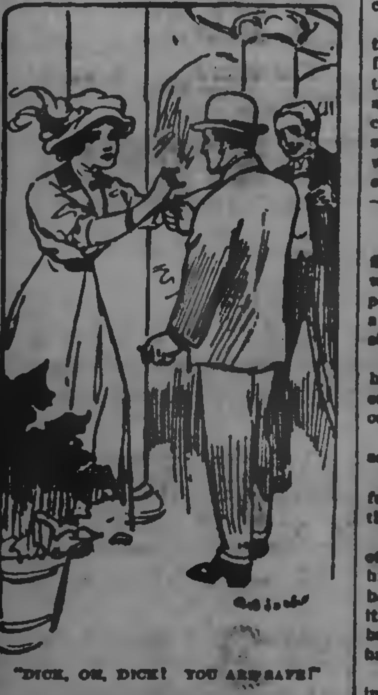
Pauline slowly drew Dick's ring from her finger.

"You will have this for a reminder of me," she said cruelly.

Dick slipped the ring into his pocket and turned away.

"And if I really discover the Bubble?" he asked dryly.

"Then I'll believe your story," smiled Pauline, rather uneasily. "If you bring the Bubble—and I really believe the story to be a bubble of imagination on the part of a dying sailor—then you can replace the ring on my finger."



"DICK, OH, DICK! YOU ARE SAFE!"

"In the meantime our engagement is broken because you do not approve of my going?" asked Dick wonderingly.

"Yes," she replied in a bored manner.

Dick bade her a very formal farewell and went away. He did not offer to replace the ring on her finger, and after he had departed Pauline cried a little in her lace handkerchief, and then, because she was rather a spoiled child, she decided to forget about Dick.

Dick felt a strange sense of freedom as he sailed toward the southland where Jim Hard had told him the diamond was buried.

"You go to Porto Rico, sir," the man had whispered feebly. "In the city of San Juan you will hunt up a black named Maturin. Give him this bit of paper and he will take you in his boat to one of the outlying islands of the Virgin group. There you will land in a tiny cove. The island is only a few hundred feet in extent and is almost entirely covered at high tide, when nothing save a group of coconut palms is visible. You must land at high tide. Wait among the trees until the tide falls and the cove is only a bed of mud.

"Then you will follow directions on this little chart. A hundred and fifty feet due south from the big palm tree will take you to the middle of the cove. Dig there until you uncover a bit of rusty chain. Attached to the chain is a small iron box. If you can get it up you will find inside of it the diamond. It is yours. I hoped to get it, but I couldn't make out. If you find it send something to my old mother in Kansas. Thank you, sir. There is nothing else."

So Jim Hard passed away with his horny hand in Dick's, and it was characteristic of Dick Delmore that he wrote a sympathetic letter to Hard's mother and shipped the body to his western home and sent money to give the man decent burial and leave a sum over for the lonely old woman. Of course this dipped into his meager savings, but Pauline never knew of that.

One May morning Dick found himself in San Juan, Porto Rico, conferring with the black man named Maturin. He did not tell Maturin about the diamond. He merely told him that he was going to the coconut island to search for "hidden treasure" and Maturin had laughed good naturedly and told him that "plenty white mans like fun that a-way, suh!"

But Maturin was ready to set out in his sturdy little boat, and, with a plentiful supply of provisions and water, they sailed among the green islands, set like jewels in the deep blue waters, until on the second morning after their departure they came upon the group of coconut palms, apparently rising out of the sea.

There was no other island in sight. On every side stretched the limitless ocean.

"This must be the island, boss," said Maturin as he beached the boat upon the scrap of sand under the trees of the island.

"We can soon find out, Maturin," said Dick as he threw himself down under the shade of the palms and waited while the man prepared an appetizing meal.

By the time they had concluded their dinner the tide had begun to fall. Little by little a shelving, pebbly beach was uncovered until at last the receding waters bared the sandy bottom of the cove. Finally the tide went out beyond the entrance and at ebb lapped the teeth of the coral reef.

"Now!" exclaimed Dick, who had been impatiently waiting for this moment to arrive.

He drew on a pair of hip boots of rubber, provided himself with pick and shovel, and, under the wondering, half amused gaze of the black, Dick Delmore went to seek the Bubble of which he had come in search.

He carefully made the required measurements, and when he believed he had located the exact spot indicated on the little map which Jim Hard had placed in his hand at the last moment Dick thrust his shovel in the wet sand and worked steadily.

Suddenly the blade of the shovel clinked against metal.

In a few seconds he had uncovered the rusty link of a ship's anchor chain. It gave him a clew, and he changed the direction of his delving. In half an hour he had exposed three feet of chain, the shank and one fluke of a small anchor. In the mass of links where the chain caught the shank was embedded a large quantity of shellfish—that was all.

Or was it all?

Dick tore at the incrusted mass and finally dislodged a small iron box, which he promptly dropped into his pocket. Then he flung aside the chain and anchor, picked up his pick and shovel and left the cove.

Maturin was nodding drowsily, and he smiled commiseratingly upon his employer as he threw himself down on the island to rest.

"Massa Boss no find treasure?" he asked pityingly.

"Go and see!" replied Dick tersely, for he wanted a moment alone with the iron box.

Dick Delmore returned to the shade of the palms, pulled the iron box from his pocket, broke its rusty lock with a blow from his shovel and found within it a smaller box of coral. This coral box when opened disclosed something hard and round wrapped in oiled silk.

For a long time Dick sat there gazing at the treasure which lay in his palm.

The Bubble was indeed a fact. It was his! Jim Hard had spoken truly—and Jim's mother would live in luxury the rest of her days. Dick hid the great round diamond, which gave back a myriad colored lights, and fell to thinking of Pauline. When she had so distrusted him how could he go back and offer her his riches? If she had only proved herself to be the pure gold he had believed her to be, for he still loved her!

So Dick Delmore was not entirely happy as Maturin sailed him back to Porto Rico and the city of San Juan. When they reached the city he dismissed Maturin with a substantial sum of money and went to the best hotel.

He was passing through the lobby, which was quite deserted at this hour of the day, when he heard a sudden rush of light feet and the sound of a sweet voice calling his name.

"Dick, oh, Dick! You are safe!"

It was Pauline, and behind came her father, looking anxious and then relieved as he caught Dick's hand in his own and wrung it.

"My dear boy," said Mr. Fane hastily, "this girl fell to worrying about you and your harebrained expedition, and she gave me no peace until I brought her down here to try to dissuade you from carrying it out. I—I believe she has something to say to you. I'll wait outside here for you!" So he pushed them into a deserted little parlor.

Inside the room Dick faced his sweetheart. Tears were in Pauline's lovely eyes.

"Oh, Dick, can you forgive me?" she whispered. "I don't care now poor you are so long as you are safe. And I want my ring back!"

Dick smiled happily and took her into his arms. When the ring was on her finger once more he asked her amusedly:

"You haven't inquired concerning the success of my expedition, sweetheart."

"But you haven't been!" she cried in amazement.

For answer he brought out the Bubble and put it in her pink palm.

But Dick was happier in the knowledge that his love was true, after all, than he possibly could have been merely as the owner of the great Bubble diamond.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THE woman who has a capable dressmaker and an artistic milliner may not be beautiful, but nobody knows it.

Having a good conscience is in itself often a great tribute to one's ability to manage things and keep them from bothering.

Some people think that they are right and then go ahead, while others just think that they are tight.

Women can't help being fussy. They know that it is up to them to please the men.

A beautiful blond has her own troubles staying blond once she has attained to that condition.

Proportion.

Size does not always stand for poise,
  Nor can a giant hold
His temper and his tongue and watch
  Events as they unfold.
A large and well developed man,
  The prey of circumstance,
May fuss about a little thing
  Not worth a second glance.

A statesman who can sway a crowd
  Or hold a mob in awe
And make the court sit up and look
  When he expounds the law
Will raise the roof and forty kinds
  Of trouble like as not
If when he takes his morning meal
  The coffee isn't hot.

It is a sight worth looking at
  And going miles to see,
A picture from a funny page,
  As you will all agree,
When Mr. Worth-a-Million-Bones,
  Whose wealth is as the dirt,
Can't make his collar button fit
  The collar on his shirt.

The little worries that annoy
  And almost drive to drink
Are worth wasting words and time,
  Much less a drop of ink.
A man may calmly see destroyed
  The products of his skill
And make the biggest kind of fuss
  If some one calls him "Bill."

Quite Right.

"What is meant by being an egotist?"

"Being an egotist?"

"Yes."

"Oh, it means being just yourself, old man."

Paradoxical.

"You brute!"

"What! Me?"

"Yes, you! What made you act that way?"

"Just human nature, I suppose."

Reason Enough.

"Is he superstitious?"

"How can he help it?"

"Why?"

"He has been fired three times on a Friday."

Quite Safe.

A little learning is a dangerous thing.
  But don't you ever fret.
Keep up your studies. We have never heard
  Of one it hurt as yet.

A Hard Case.

"His wife earns her own money."

"Indeed! I did not know she was employed."

"Oh, yes; hard at it all the time."

"What does she do?"

"Works him to give up."—New York Journal.

Wait is a hard word to the hungry.—German Proverb.

Well Acquainted.

An American girl was taking a Liverpool girl home to the States with her and toward the end of the journey remarked: "It is delightful to feel that one is so near home. We ought to sight Sandy Hook this afternoon."

"Shall we?" exclaimed her friend. "That will be nice. Don't tell me which one he is. I can always pick a Scotsman out of a crowd."—Chief Steward.

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

OFFERING HER SYMPATHY.

It is Easy to Imagine How Much it Helped the Distracted Young Wife.

"YOU look as if you were in trouble, Mrs. Morewood. I hope it is nothing serious."

"Oh, no, it's nothing—really."

"My dear, I don't wish to meddle in your affairs, but I have been worried about you for several weeks. Won't you confide in me and let me help you if I can? If your mother lived here or if you had a sister here you could go to her for sympathy and advice, and I shouldn't think of asking you to tell your troubles to me. But you are here far away from your own people, and you ought to have some one to lean on—some one to trust with your secrets. I am older than you are. Can't you take me into your confidence as you would an elder sister?"

The pretty little woman began to sob, and in a moment they had their arms around each other.

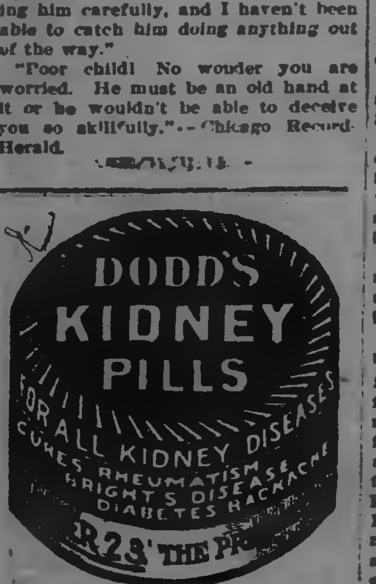
"Now tell me all about it," the older one said.

"I got an anonymous letter six weeks ago. It advised me to watch my husband."

"Mercy! I never would have thought he was that kind of a man. What has he been doing?"

"I don't know. I have been watching him carefully, and I haven't been able to catch him doing anything out of the way."

"Poor child! No wonder you are worried. He must be an old hand at it or he wouldn't be able to deceive you so skillfully."—Chicago Record-Herald.



ANANIAS ELOPES

His Tale of Woe

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Ananias Sline had at last made up his mind. Of all the desirable widows and spinsters in Quince Harbor none seemed so attractive as Mrs. Em Bevis, who was the proprietor of the Quince Harbor dry goods store. If any one had remotely suggested to Ananias that the profitable little business had enhanced the charms of the Widow Bevis in his middle aged eyes he would have laughed one to scorn. Still, being half proprietor of a dry goods business was infinitely better than being porter in a village bank. Any one would admit that!

When he put the question to Mrs. Bevis it was noontime and her two rosy cheeked clerks had gone home to dinner. Ananias had assured himself that they two were alone, and he had promptly possessed himself of the widow's generous hand and told her the story of his lonely life and his longing for a home, provided she would preside over it.

"Oh, Ananias," she simpered. "I never dreamed—I never thought—oh!" she shrieked as Ananias imprinted a kiss on her work worn hand.

That evening Ananias called upon her and discussed their early marriage.

"There's only one obstacle to a fancy wedding," said Ananias when Em Bevis had outlined a plan for the ceremony to take place in the Baptist church, with her little niece as flower girl and white satin ribbons festooned from the tops of the pews.

"And that is?" asked Em in a disappointed tone.

"My landlady."

"Hetty Rowell? My land, you ain't engaged to her, be you?" inquired the widow sharply.

"Not if I know it," said Ananias cautiously, "but somehow I never know where I stand with Widow Rowell, Em! I swan I never proposed marriage to her in my life, but half the time she talks like she was engaged to me! I wish we could be married in a few days," added Ananias.

"But what's your hurry?" protested Em. "I'd like a chance to make some wedding clothes and get ready!"

"I know it, my love," cooed Ananias in her ear, "but I am afraid of the Widow Rowell. Great blizzards, I am! I talk in my sleep, you know. What if she should hear me saying something about you! It would be all up in the air!"

By the time Ananias went home he had persuaded his fiancee that she could select a very presentable trousseau from the stock of her own department store; so, relieved of this momentous question, Em agreed to elope with Ananias on the following Thursday, and Ananias wrote a note to the Rev. Josiah Twigg apprising him of the coming event and asking him to consider the matter as entirely confidential.

That night Ananias let himself into his boarding place and tiptoed up to his room with unusual caution. One never knew when the Widow Rowell would pounce out. And one never knew in what part of the house she was seeking a night's repose. She had a pleasantly careless custom of taking prospective guests through her spacious old house and permitting them to choose whatever room suited the moment's fancy, provided it was disengaged. As for herself, she slept around as fancy dictated—one night the west front chamber appealed to her, for she loved to hear the roar of the waves on the beach; the next night it might be a small hall room for the moment unoccupied that would tickle her restless impulse.

What Ananias did not know was that on this particular evening the widow had been approached by the proprietor of the Quince Harbor hotel and asked to accommodate a half dozen guests for whom he could find no room until the following day. Mrs. Rowell sweetly assented and gathered up her own belongings and carried them into a tiny room next to the room of Ananias Sline. Here she dropped her weary limbs upon a most uncomfortable cot and slept.

The sound of the softly closed front door aroused her. If that was Ananias Sline tiptoeing in at such a late hour she would have a serious talk with him in the morning. Either he had been courting—and that was not to be allowed, for Hetty Rowell felt that she had a prior right to the affections of Mr. Sline—or he had been to lodge meeting, and as it wasn't lodge night—why, he must have been courting! So there the widow's logical mind calculated the matter, as we know, quite correctly.

She dozed off to sleep again and awoke to the resounding snores of Mr. Sline in the next room.

"Drat him!" she muttered, turning over. But she could not sleep again. She got to thinking about Ananias and where he had spent the evening, and she decided that it was Em Bevis who had captured him.

She was convinced of it when Ananias ceased snoring and fell to talking, as was his habit when the day had been an exciting one.

"Ahem!" babbled Ananias. "Ahem, next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock! My dear Mr. Twigg, would you perform a most interesting service for me? Of course I shall wear a white flower in my coat—ahem! I'm not afraid—no, siree! I, Ananias, take thee, Em Bevis—no; that's not right. Em—Em—Emma—or Emmaline—ah!" Mr. Sline resorted to snoring once more, and the widow, now thoroughly awake to the perfidy of her star boarder, sat up in bed and fell to planning.

When the Widow Rowell fell to planning—well, things usually happened.

For an entire week she watched and waited and listened and peeked and pried, and when Thursday evening drew around she was possessed in some mysterious manner of most of the details of the approaching elopement. She knew that Hep Riddle's buggy had been engaged and that Hep was to harness the sorrel horse, although Hep Riddle himself didn't know what Ananias Sline wanted to do with a buggy.

By Thursday evening Ananias Sline was shivering with nervous dread. He had a feeling that in some way or other his elopement would be frustrated. Time and again he had found the Widow Rowell's wits could outmatch his own, but so far as he knew not a soul was aware of the approaching marriage save the prospective bride, the minister and himself.

Ananias ate scarcely any supper, although Mrs. Rowell had prepared his favorite dish of oyster stew. She sat opposite him and blinked her eyes at him until he gulped down a huge cup of scalding hot tea and bolted away from the table.

"Little dear!" murmured the widow with a strange smile on her face.

Ananias locked himself into his room and made an elaborate if hasty toilet. After many maneuvers he let himself out and managed to escape by the back hall door. There was no sign of the widow, and he hoped she had gone to call upon one of her cronies. It would be ill luck indeed if she had taken it into her head to call upon Em Bevis, though the two rivals were not the best of friends since Ananias came between them.

Still, the Widow Rowell was apt to do the most baffling things.

Ananias hurried to Riddle's stables and climbed into the buggy which a grinning negro had prepared for him. He drove rapidly out of the yard, nearly losing a wheel in the turn, for he was not a skillful driver.

Quince Harbor folks are inquisitive and prone to mind each other's business to a most annoying degree; therefore it had been decided that Em Bevis was to wait for Ananias in Whippoorwill lane by the brook. He would catch her up into the vehicle, and away they would go to Big Harbor.

Whippoorwill lane was there, and so was Em Bevis, for Ananias recognized the white veil she was to wear about her uncovered head.

He pressed her hand and received a tender pressure in return. After that they rode in silence through the woods toward Big Harbor.

At last they reached the main street of Big Harbor, and the sorrel horse chose to gallop madly until Ananias, sawing at the reins, managed to bring him to a stop before the gate of the parsonage.

"Belay there!" yelled the little ex-sailor angrily just as the minister opened the front door and stepped into the porch to meet them.

The prospective bride got out unaided while Ananias was tying the sorrel horse and she was inside the house by the time Ananias had reached the gate.

When Ananias Sline reached the parlor, where stood the beaming clergyman and his smiling wife and a couple of servants for witnesses, he stood in the doorway aghast at the sight that met his amazed eyes. The bride was there—a bride was there, indeed, but not the one he had so carefully chosen! Standing there in the modest splendor of a gray satin dress hurriedly garnished with white lace and bunches of artificial orange blossoms was the Widow—Rowell!

Em Bevis was nowhere to be seen.

Somehow he had been tricked by the artful widow whom he had at first courted, only to leave when a better chance presented itself. Surely retribution was close upon the heels of Ananias Sline!

"We are waiting, Mr. Sline," reminded Mr. Twigg, smiling benevolently.

"Dear Ananias!" cooed Hetty Rowell, fixing her agate colored eyes upon him.

Ananias moved forward mechanically. There seemed nothing else to do. Things were hideously mixed and a bitter fate seemed to have driven him straight into the arms of the Widow Rowell. He felt that she had outwitted him again—never more would he try to get the best of her. He would admit defeat. As for Em Bevis, what could he do about it now without creating a scandal that would shake the three villages to the core?

Nothing!

So Ananias went forward and was joined in the bonds of holy matrimony to Hetty Rowell. When the ceremony was over Mrs. Twigg congratulated them warmly.

"It's the oddest thing," she babbled, "but Josiah and I really thought the bride—we understood it was to be—another. We are quite surprised!"

"So are we!" smiled Mrs. Ananias Sline as she took her husband's arm and went down to the waiting buggy and the impatient sorrel horse.

Somebody tossed an old shoe after them for luck and it struck Ananias right in the back of the neck, so that he uttered an explosive blast of profanity that caused the minister and his wife to close their front door hurriedly.

But the Widow Rowell—I mean Mrs. Ananias Sline—merely smiled compassionately, as if she knew that her husband had just cause for exasperation.

No one looks so ridiculous as the fellow who puts on a martyr's crown that does not fit.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson XIII.—Second Quarter, For June 28, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Heb. iv, 14 to v, 10. Quarterly Review—Golden Text, Luke xix, 10—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Lesson I.—Christ's Table Talk, Luke xiv, 7-24. Golden Text, Luke xiv, 11, "Every one that exalteth himself shall be humbled, and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted"—a threefold message in the house of one of the chief Pharisees who had invited Him to eat bread on the Sabbath day; a message on humility for the guests, on recompense at the resurrection for the host and man's indifference to God's provision and invitation for one of the guests who spoke of the kingdom.

Lesson II.—The Journey to Emmaus, Luke xxiv, 13-35. Golden Text, Rom. viii, 34, "It is Christ Jesus that died—yea, rather, that was raised from the dead." Here we see the reality of Christ's resurrection body having the nail wounds in hands and feet, a tangible body of flesh and bones, that could be handled, that could walk and eat and also pass through unopened doors and vanish at pleasure.

Lesson III.—The Cost of Discipleship, Luke xiv, 25-35. Golden Text, Matt. xvi, 25, "Whosoever would save his life shall lose it, and whosoever shall lose his life for my sake shall find it." The difference between being a Christian and a disciple is very marked, the cost of our salvation falling wholly on Christ, but the cost of discipleship on the believer, salvation being a gift, but reward in proportion to service.

Lesson IV.—The Lost Sheep and the Lost Coin, Luke xv, 1-10. Golden Text, Luke xv, 10, "There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth"—a threefold parable concerning the love of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. This lesson concerns the Son and the Spirit. The sinner's helplessness and proneness to stray is seen in the sheep, and his deadness in the piece of money.

Lesson V.—The Lost Son, Luke xv, 11-24. Golden Text, Luke xv, 18, "I will arise and go to my father and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight." That was not all he intended to say (verses 18, 19), but it was nearly all that he did say (verse 21). The father's welcome cut it short. The whole parable teaches us what God thinks of lost ones and how unwilling He is that any should perish.

Lesson VI.—The Unjust Steward, Luke xvi, 1-13. Golden Text, Luke xvi, 10, "He that is faithful in a very little is faithful also in much, and he that is unrighteous in a very little is unrighteous also in much." We are stewards of all that with which the Lord has intrusted us, whether it be the gospel or talents or time or money, and we are using it either for ourselves or for Him, for time or eternity.

Lesson VII.—The Rich Man and Lazarus, Luke xvi, 19-31. Golden Text, Prov. xxi, 13, "Whoso stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he shall also cry, but shall not be heard." This is a story of the rich poor and the poor rich. The rich man lived only for himself and had no use for God or His word and no belief in a future till he found himself in torment.

Lesson VIII.—Unprofitable Servants, Luke xvii, 1-10. Golden Text, I Cor. i, 31, "He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord." If we do only what seems to be our duty, what we think we ought to do, we are unprofitable, but when the love of Christ constraineth us and we are so occupied with Him and His kingdom and glory as to be above being offended with people or even with Himself, whatever He may do, we shall better glorify Him.

Lesson IX.—The Grateful Samaritan, xvii, 11-19. Golden Text, Luke xvii, 18, "Were there none found that returned to give glory to God save this stranger." We wrote on the Holy Spirit lesson in I Cor. ii, as well as on the leper lesson, and saw that all unbelievers as well as Israel are spiritually lepers and unclean, but when the Holy Spirit, who alone can convince of sin, shines in us by His word, then come cleansing and real gratitude.

Lesson X.—The Coming of the Kingdom, Luke xvii, 20-37. Golden Text, Luke xvii, 21, "Lo, the kingdom of God is within you"—more correctly, as in the margin, "among you." The kingdom which was at hand did not come as He said in Luke xix, 11, 12. The kingdom is postponed and will not come till He shall return in glory with His church, now being gathered.

Lesson XI.—The Friend of Sinners, Luke xviii, 9-14; xix, 1-10. Golden Text, Mark ii, 17, "I came not to call the righteous, but sinners." There is no Saviour nor salvation for such as think that they are good enough, but for such as the publican in the temple or Zaccheus, for poor or rich, there is abundant mercy and a welcome from Him who came to seek and to save the lost.

Lesson XII.—The Great Refusal, Mark x, 17-31. Golden Text, Luke xvi, 13, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." The great contrast is between the empty helpless little children who came to His arms and were blessed and the rich young ruler, full of his riches and his own righteousness, who went away empty because he was not willing to be emptied.

I wish to appeal to your sense of right and duty.

I am, as I have said, in favor of the immediate abolition of all forms of the liquor traffic.

Mr. Gillespie said in the Opera House, on the night of Thursday, June 18th, at the Rowell meeting, word for word taken from The Globe, as follows:

"If either political party after consideration deems it wise to abolish the shop, I have promised to the temperance people of the West riding I will vote with that party."

Can any fair-minded temperance man (or woman) honestly range himself against me in the face of these two statements?

KILLED IN MINE.

Fenelon Falls, July 27.—Rev. Jno. Bedford, pastor of the Methodist church here, has received a telegram containing the sad and startling information that his only son, Mr. F. Bedford, had been accidentally killed by an explosion in a mine at Copper Cliff. No further particulars are to hand at present.

Under Liberal administration the enforcement of the liquor law was a farce. Any offence could be treated as a first offence. This was a serious evil. The license inspectors are now required to prosecute for a second or third offence according to the facts, even if for a third offence a man must lose his license.

BILINGUAL TEACHERS CANNOT BE PAID JUST NOW JUDGE'S RULING

"We went to work on this question and instead of 2,800 liquor licenses when we came in there are now but 1,600. More than that, we have made between 30 and 40 improvements in the law. We have kept our faith, and I promise now for the fourth or fifth time that this question will never be let out of our sight, that from time to time, as opportunity may arise, we will be watchful to seize these opportunities and to go forward in the direction of minimizing these evils." (Cheers.) — Extract from Sir James Whitney's speech at Toronto.

Mr. Justice Lennox, in Adjourning Hearing Until Fall, Rules That Instructors who Mutinied are Ineligible for Salaries Until Case is Settled.

OTTAWA, June 27.—The bilingual case before Justice Lennox was adjourned yesterday afternoon until such time as the statistics and information being prepared by the Provincial Department of Education is ready. Accordingly no definite date could be fixed for the case to be resumed and argued.

Before the adjournment, A. C. MacMaster, acting for the defence, asked that an order be made allowing the schoolboard to pay the teachers for their services up to date. Of the bilingual teachers, 20 were not qualified, since their permits had not been renewed. In addition, the plaintiffs claim that the other teachers in the bilingual schools are not qualified, because they have not complied with the regulation to teach only English in the higher forms. Accordingly, all the teachers in the bilingual schools, it is the contention of the plaintiffs, are disqualified, except those in the first forms.

The judge held that he would not interfere with the injunction at this time and consequently these teachers could not be paid. He said he understood that some good friends had advanced them loans and they were in no real hardship.

"It is manifest," the judge said, "that to some extent at least some of the teachers have taken sides." He pointed out that Mrs. Dumas, principal of Garneau School, had said that she used French in the higher classes, thereby not complying with the law, but whether it was a wise course and whether the regulation was ultra vires or not was something to be argued later."

Consequently the teachers in the bilingual schools covered by the injunction cannot be paid. If the judgment is given before September and the case finally disposed of the teachers will be in a difficult position. If they teach they are liable not to get their salaries if the defence side of the case fails.

CONTRACT FOR COAL SUPPLY

R. Hicks' Tender Accepted by Board of Education

Robert Hicks has been awarded the contract to supply coal for the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools. The Property Committee of the Board of Education reported to this effect at the meeting last evening. The report:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen:

As authorized, your committee advertised for tenders for the fuel required for the ensuing year and recommend that the tender of Robert Hicks to supply ¾ lump Youghiogheny coal at $4.90 per ton and Smokeless Coal at $4.93 per ton (railroad weight) and delivered to the various schools as required, be accepted.

Your committee ask that they be given authority to make the necessary repairs at the various schools during the summer vacation.

B. F. ACKERMAN,
Chairman.

POLITICS BEFORE ANYTHING ELSE

Preacher Would not Stand for Dominion Member as Chairman

That at least one of the "Political Parsons" is a politician before anything else—and a real Liberal at that—is borne out by an incident which took place last winter. When one of the ladies' church organizations was about holding a meeting to which they had invited an outside speaker on matters relating to missionary work, and asked the preacher for the use of a room in connection with the church which was granted, but which was afterwards withdrawn unless the chairman was changed as the preacher would not stand for the Dominion Member as chairman. The ladies were told they would have to get another chairman or the preacher's naming, but the ladies refused. This same expounder of the Gospel takes the public platform in behalf of the Liberals and endeavors to make the people believe that he is a Conservative, but his actions belie his statements. Such actions are on a par with Sunday night political meetings. Is it any wonder if people question the honesty of much of the preaching.

"FAT LADIES" DONATED PRIZE TO THE CHURCH

Mark Street Sunday School Trip Was Enjoyed

It was the consensus of all aboard the "Stoney Lake" yesterday that the courtesy of the steamer's crew, the ideal weather, and the program, combined to make the annual excursion of the Mark Street Church Sunday school one of the most enjoyable in the history of the Sunday school.

Dinner was served at Jubilee Point, where the sports were also carried out. The fat ladies' race caused great merriment, and on the unanimous decision of the winners, the prize of $2.25 was donated to the Ladies' Aid for the sinking fund of the new church.

The afternoon sail on the lake to Hiawatha and Harwood was much enjoyed. The balance on hand is about $100.

DRAGOONS FIGURE IN RUNAWAY

Three Men Thrown out of Rig

Three members of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons had a rather narrow escape from serious injury last evening about 11 o'clock when their horse which they were driving eastward took fright and bolted. The horse in its mad rush swerved the rig against the Hunter Street Bridge with the result that the men were thrown out, but in some fortunate manner, escaped injury. The horse continued on its way for a couple of blocks when it slowed up and was stopped by several men who were standing on the corner.

WHITNEY'S MESSAGE

The great majority of the clergymen of Ontario are entitled to and have the confidence of the people. But a small minority among them, anxious above everything else to turn my Government out of office, are not ashamed to come out openly and denounce from [illegible] pulpits, in violent and unbecoming language all who dare to support the Government, as bad citizens and bad men. In a British and a Christian country such conduct is intolerable, and I respectfully call upon all self-respecting men in their congregations to resent this conduct in a way that these men will never forget.

J. P. WHITNEY.

POSTAL RATES TO BE INCREASED

Tariff on Papers to go up Says P.M.G.

OTTAWA, June 27—The Postoffice Department announced yesterday that, to meet the cost of the increased subsidy to railways for carrying the mails, the postage on newspapers and periodicals will be increased. The present charge is one-quarter of a cent per pound. It is proposed in the future to charge one cent per copy for papers delivered by letter carriers. Where there is no letter carrier system the charge will be one-quarter of a cent per copy.

In the recent session of Parliament, the Postmaster-General, while not admitting that he did not already have the power, sought the right to fix certain rates. After prolonged discussion the bill was so amended in the Senate as to be unacceptable to the Department.

According to the postal authorities there is now nothing to do but to enforce the law as it stands under section 71 of the act.

A circular to the publishers issued by the Department points out that the law as it stands requires one-quarter cent for each pound weight, or fraction of a pound, and as "the law does not establish a bulk rate of postage, this question of one-quarter cent for each copy must now be met.

Sir James Whitney's Government has no favorites. It hits the shop as hard as the bar.

REGIMENT INSPECTED BY COLONEL HEMMING

The Peterboro Rangers Are Praised for Their Good Showing

The annual inspection of the 57th Regiment Peterborough Rangers took place last evening in front of the Armouries and was one of the best in the history of the regiment. The men looked exceedingly trim with their accoutrements, clean and bright. Lieut.-Col. Clegg was in command and Col. Hemming of Divisional Headquarters inspecting officer. The band over fifty strong turned out under the charge of Lt. Rupert Gliddon. Col. Hemming was met with the usual salute. The regiment was then put through their various manoeuvres, and company manoeuvring was also indulged in. Both were well carried out and received well merited praise from Col. Hemming.

Col. Hemming in a few words congratulated each company upon their appearance, and inspection was generally satisfactory. The future of the 57th was bound to show improvement. Their past few days' training at Petawawa had been very instructive to them.

The staff:

Officer Commanding — Lt.-Col. Clegg.

Majors—Bennett, Mills and Walker.

Adjutant—Major Walker.

Quarter-Master—Eastwood.

Medical Officer—Eastwood.

Chaplain—Rev. Canon Davidson.

Paymaster—Hayes.

Captains—Watt, Hounsell, Cluxton, Langford, MacLean, Higgins, MacPherson, Carruthers and Walker.

Lieutenants—Comstock, Gemmel, Leck, Hall, Ackerman, Cameron, Hagerman, Brightman, Meyers, Lech, Glover, Tomlins, Turner, Campbell, Worth, Worth, Shook.

Instructor — Sergt. Dunkerly of Kingston.

DRAGOONS HOME.

The 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons dusty and tired, but happy arrived home last evening from Petawawa where they had been under canvas for the past two weeks.

The men report an excellent trip except for a few hardships which will be taken in good spirit. The Battery arrive sometime tonight.

C.P.R. OPERATOR SERIOUSLY HURT

Auto Turned Turtle Near Myrtle

Whitby, June 27.—Happy Heele, night operator at the Canadian Pacific Railway station at Myrtle, ten miles north of here, was seriously injured in an automobile accident, when his car skidded in the road and threw him out, pinning him beneath the top. Heele and a young lady were returning from Uxbridge, and Heele, desirous of reaching Myrtle station in time to report for duty, speeded up his car. His headlights would not burn, and he was forced to run in the dark. When near Manchester, a few miles north of Myrtle, the car skidded in some newly-gravelled rod, swung completely round and turned over on its side. Heele was pinned underneath the cover, but the young lady was thrown clear. In the darkness the girl extricated the man, and called for help at a nearby house, that of Mr. Ernest Holtby. Physicians were summoned, and the young man was found to have sustained concussion of the brain, besides a badly-cut head. No bones were broken. The young lady was uninjured. Heele is resting at Holtby's home, and, though he has regained consciousness, he is still in a serious condition.

COUNSEL BLAMES THE STORSTAD FOR CRASH

Sir James Whitney has been in office nine years. During that time he has kept pace absolutely with the wishes of the majority of the people in curbing the evils of the liquor traffic. So exemplary has been the enforcement of existing laws, so impartial and exacting has been the control of license holders as to win General Booth's compliment: "In this respect Ontario leads the world."

VICTORY FOR HART IN EAST SIMCOE

A correspondent in Orillia, writes that the prospects for J. I. Hart, the Conservative candidate in East Simcoe, are a victory with a majority of from three to four hundred. He adds: On Sunday, June 14th, the preacher in the Methodist Church prayed openly for Rowell and his policy and the collections for the general fund of the church dropped from $104 to $68.18.

TOO MUCH FOR LIBERALS IN MEAFORD

"Is That You Daddy" Posters Were Covered

Meaford, Ont., June 26.—Condemned as a disgrace to the Liberal party, N. W. Rowell's "Is That You, Daddy?" posters, depicting a drunken man reeling outside a bar-room with his little boy standing wistfully by, have been covered up in Meaford. This action was taken on instructions from Mr. Rowell after local Liberals had vented their indignation. From the office of a Toronto publishing firm, under instructions from Mr. Rowell, these posters have been circulated all over the province.

Meaford was no exception. Some days ago W. J. Robinson, who acted as organiser for the liquor interests here in two local option fights, and is now siding with Mr. Alberry, the Liberal candidate, made a request for billboard space to the Meaford Billposting Company. Matters were arranged and the posters were put up. But the posters were a boomerang. Decent Liberals expressed themselves in strong language about them, and there was something approaching a row in the Liberal organization. The result was that Mr. Alberry made a demand two days ago that they be covered. He was told that instructions from Toronto were necessary. The long-distance 'phone was hurriedly pressed into service, and two hours later came the following telegram to the bill poster: "Cover 'Abolish-the-Bar' posters at once. Whiting." This was followed by the following letter: "We have today received instructions from Mr. Rowell's office that he wishes the posters in Meaford to be covered at once. The posters were covered.

DEATH OF E. W. COX

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 27.—A cable from Folkestone, England, this morning to the head office of the Canada Life, announces the death from hemorrhage of the throat, of E. W. Cox, president of that company, and eldest son of the late Senator Cox. He had undergone an operation and was thought to be recovering.

Putting Wheel Hard Aport Caused the Wreck, Says Butler Aspinall.

QUEBEC, June 27.—Because her wheel was first put to port and then, without the authority of the officer in charge, put hard aport when she had steerage way, Butler Aspinall, K.C., in the course of his address to the Empress of Ireland Wreck Commission yesterday afternoon, contended that the Storstad was responsible for the disaster on May 29, in which 1,014 people lost their lives. Mr. Aspinall asked the commission to find that the crew of the Storstad were inaccurate when they claimed the collier did not answer her helm and reasoned that the change in the course of the vessel on the port helm took her into the side of the stationary liner at right angles and at sufficient speed to cause the wound from which the Empress capsized. If no such change had taken place, he said, the two ships would have passed safely.

Mr. Aspinall further declared that to find that the Empress starboarded her helm, as assumed by the Storstad legal battery, would be to charge perjury to Captain Kendall, who claimed no alteration took place in the heading of his ship, and that she was stopped like a log in the water, as indicated by the signals heard on the collier.

In his a[illegible], which occupied three hours, only while scoffing at the idea of Captain Kendall telling a deliberate lie when he only recently faced death, did Mr. Aspinall become at all dramatic. For the rest he was calmly and coldly argumental, relieving the tedium of such an extended effort on the court-room by touches of humorous or cutting sarcasm. The crowd broke into a laugh when he described the unanimity with which the Storstad's officers recalled that they had ascertained that the vessel's heading was not altered by the porting or the hard aporting of the helm as "a remarkable affection for the compass under most unusual circumstances."

The first definite suggestion of personal responsibility for the disaster during the hearing of the commission was made by Mr. Aspinall when he held that Third Officer Saxe, who had taken the collier's wheel from the helmsman and put it hard aport, was "the culprit in the case." Saxe's argument that his action did not affect the ship, he said, "was an attempt to clear himself with his Norwegian clientele."

Mr. Aspinall [illegible] that no passengers had come [illegible]ward to suggest that any of the[illegible]cers or crew of the Empress h[illegible]een derelict in their duties, wh[illegible]any had praised them for what t[illegible]had done. There was no suggesti[illegible]ther that the officers and crew of[illegible]torstad had failed to render all [illegible]sistance within their power. He was not arguing that there was not confusion after the collision, but he claimed there was no panic. The evidence showed how many of the Empress had stuck to their posts.

Chief Justice McLeod, who has been acting on the commission with Lord Mersey and Sir Adolphe Routhier, will leave with the Canadian and British assessors on Sunday for Montreal, and will on Monday make an examination of the damaged bow of the Storstad.

Consul to Make Inquiry.

MONTREAL, June 27.—It is stated that an inquiry into the collision by which the Norwegian collier Storstad sank the C. P. R. liner, Empress of Ireland on May 29, will begin in Montreal to-day by the Norwegian consul in this city, W. N. Johannesson, with a view to obtaining an account of the accident to be submitted to the Government of Norway. It is not proposed to place the blame but merely to get the information. Only the Storstad's crew will be witnesses.

THE EVE OF THE BATTLE.

BY THE TIME the next issue of The Review appears, the fate of the electoral battle will have been all but decided. The campaign, which at first opened rather dully, has suddenly taken on an interest that has made it important among the political contests that have taken place in Ontario. If we judge from the complexion of this riding, and from the newspapers dealing with other constituencies, the contest has been one of the cleanest that has ever been waged. The discussion has been pretty well confined to the issues before the people. On these issues we desire to say a final word to the electors of West Peterborough.

WHITNEY'S GOOD RECORD

In the first place, the record of the Whitney Government has been subjected to as keen a criticism as the ingenuity of Liberal critics were capable of doing. It has been fire-tested, and through all the ordeal there was a note of weakness that an impartial observer could not help detecting. On two main points there was practically no adverse criticism, for Mr. Rowell said himself he supported the Government on the Hydro-Electric policy and on the Workmen's Compensation Act. It should be remembered, however, that this support was not forthcoming until after the Liberals had done everything possible to entangle the Government and to prejudice the people against these measures. But, so far as discussion of the issues was concerned, the Liberals have devoted the bulk of it, not to criticism of the Whitney record so much as to emphasising their temperance platform. These facts indicate clearly that the claims of the Conservative party to an honest, efficient administration of Ontario's political affairs, comes out of its severest trial to the credit of the Tory party. The Grits have attacked the Whitney record in every way possible, yet that record remains to all intents and purposes as the Conservatives originally made it.

THE GOOD ROADS POLICY

A remarkable feature of the campaign has been the altered standing of some questions. The Good Roads policy, one of the main planks in the Conservative platform, has not received the discussion it was expected to receive at the opening of the battle. Nevertheless, the importance of this proposal is none the less great. The expenditure of $30,000,000 for the construction of great permanent roads throughout the Province, will be a tremendous factor for increasing the industrial and agricultural efficiency of this Province, yet Liberal speakers and the Liberal press have hardly mentioned this great question. Why have Liberals ignored so important an issue? In the first place, they could say nothing adverse about the proposal, and in the second place they wished the public to forget it in order to ride into power on another question which appealed to sentiment, namely, the temperance issue.

BILINGUAL SCHOOLS

But the temperance issue has itself subsided before that of bilingual schools — a question which was somewhat in the background a few weeks ago. The English-speaking people of Ontario should not forget that one of the ideals of nationalist Quebec is to change Ontario into a French province. They point with pride to the progress the French race has made in various parts of it, how it has driven out the Scotch from Glengarry, how it has advanced in Essex and along Lake Erie, and how it has advanced in some northern districts. Bilingual schools is one method of extending the domination of the French language and ideals. They have already proved a decided failure as to imparting a good education. But that does not matter, so long as they extend French influence. Sir James Whitney has already given his answer to this problem. He has declared that a good education is the first requisite of any school. Mr. Rowell has allied himself with this insidious French influence in order to get supporters in the Legislature. He has not hesitated to prostitute the educational standards of Ontario for party purposes. He has declared for inefficiency and ignorance in some thirty-four constituencies in order to gain them for his party. Sir James Whitney has said, in effect, I will lose thirty-four ridings in this campaign rather than lower the standard of Ontario's schools. I will lose thirty-four seats rather than stand up for ignorance, and prejudice, and inefficiency. I will have Ontario a progressive English province rather than a decadent patois camp, or go out of office. That surely is a policy worthy of support.

THE TEMPERANCE ISSUE

Now, to come to the temperance issue. The Liberal press has been very assiduous in trying to fasten the liquor interest on the Conservatives, but the temperance record of the Government is alone sufficient to nullify that despicable charge. The issue is between two temperance policies, and, however much the temperance electors would desire to see liquor wiped out, they must consider the feasibility of the two plans and not blind themselves by high-flown, sentimental appeals that are not practical. The process of reclaiming men is slow, and legislation that aims to facilitate that object must be, above all legislation, efficient and permanent. In the nature of things, the Rowell party is not strong enough nor has it any prospect of being strong enough, to carry into effect the machinery necessary to fulfil its temperance policy. Even if it were, the wisdom of its proposal is seriously doubted. Clergymen are as much against Rowell's temperance policy as for it. Temperance people of both parties admit that Whitney has done much for their cause. Better a slow, sure progress for temperance than a quick stride that stumbles. Moreover, in this riding, the Conservative candidate is a temperance man, and in view of all the facts, the candidature of R. J. Soden is the safer and the more reliable to support.

A WORD OF CONCLUSION

Electors of West Peterborough! The record of the Whitney Party is one of tried efficiency. The Hydro-Electric policy, the social legislation of the Whitney Government has been among the most advanced and efficient of the present age. Leader Rowell has nothing solid to say against it.

Electors of West Peterborough! The Good Roads Policy of the Conservatives means a new era of progress and development for this locality.

Electors of West Peterborough! The policy of the Conservative party is to keep this Province a progressive, English province. Rowell's policy is to deliver it helpless into the hands of the French, to increase the difficulty of the problem, to degrade the schools in thirty-four constituencies. To this question he offers no substantial answer that is worthy the leader of a great party, nor has Mr. Gillespie declared any opinion on this problem, concerning as it does the future of Ontario to so great a degree. Mr. Gillespie stands for a continuance of these schools in which the pupils were the most ignorant and most badly instructed of all the schools in the Province. Mr. Soden stands for giving these children a good English education that will fit them for their work.

Electors of West Peterborough! The temperance policy of the Whitney party is to be preferred to the chimerical expectations of a divided Grit party. Rather let us have the triumph of sound laws than the failure of gold-plated policies.

Electors of West Peterborough! Into your hands is committed the cause of the Tory party, its record and its policy, for support or censure. We believe it is your duty to support that policy which has meant so much for Ontario, and in full confidence of an impartial judgment we await the result of the polls.

THE GREAT DEMORALIZER.

BILINGUAL SCHOOLS means that both French and English, but really only French, will be taught, or rather that the instruction will be given in French. Reports of these schools showed that they were a disgrace to Ontario, and that the children were little better than illiterates. So great was the ignorance of the pupils that the Whitney Government decided to do away with them and have the children given a good English education and taught in English. This Mr. Rowell would undo. He would restore the old system that was distinctly bad, in order to gain the French ridings.

But note that if concessions are granted the French in this particular, Germans and Italians, for example, have just as good a right to demand the same concessions, and such a condition would totally demoralize this Province educationally, spiritually, and every other way. A paragraph in the Hamilton Herald is worth noting:

> "The most significant thing said by Sir Adam Beck at the Conservative mass meeting in Toronto last night was his statement that there are more German-Canadians than French-Canadians in Ontario, and that the people of like ancestry with his are content with the English language, the language of the Province. And he might have added that the French-Canadians in Ontario have no more right than have the German-Canadians to special privileges in the matter of the use of their language in the public schools."

CHATHAM MINISTER FOR WHITNEY.

WE RECORD another case where a minister has announced himself as a supporter of Premier Whitney, as it appeared in the Toronto Mail and Empire:

> "Rev. Evan Newton, of Chatham, who says he will vote for the Conservative candidate, declares: 'I have no faith in the temperance policy of N. W. Rowell. I do not favor a policy that abolishes the bar and leaves the shops.'"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE SENTIMENT in regard to the holding of a political meeting on Sunday was forcibly shown by the more prominent business men, in that it was with extreme difficulty that the bill posters were able to find places in which to display the bills for Sunday night's political meeting, as most of the merchants did not care to disfigure their windows with bills for such a purpose. The window of an unconverted Chinaman was commandiered for the purpose, being one of the few public places in which they were displayed.

THE ADVANTAGES to be derived from a Fraternal Day are worthy of support. While tomorrow is the first one, it is hoped that all fraternal societies, Catholic and Protestant will be included in the program. At present each of many societies holds celebration days, and the union of all ought to result in many savings and improvements.

Keep at the Weeds.

Farmers' Advocate.

Keep right after the weeds in the corn field. If there are no weeds, cultivate anyway, and watch the corn respond. A few showers, hot weather, and frequent cultivation make the crop. The grower has complete control of the last-named, and by it he may control to a considerable extent the moisture from the showers.

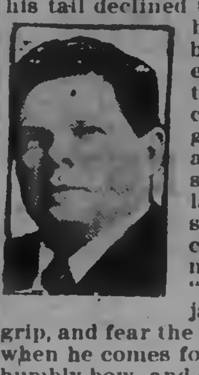
Don't Be Despondent.

La Patrie.

Our American confreres are very optimistic. They see very favorable days in sight for their country. Industry and agriculture will be more prosperous than ever. We may not be able to see the future as rosily as our neighbors, because the crisis seems to be lasting longer and to be more emphatic with us. But in a young country like ours, the resources of which are enormous, progress cannot be delayed and the return must come soon.

THE BULLDOG

By Walt Mason



The bulldog is an ugly bird; his bandy legs are most absurd, his tail declined to grow; his insolent and wrinkled face would be accounted a disgrace to any beauty show. The bulldog's not a playful purp; he doesn't stand on end and chirp, nor gambol foolishly; he seems to take a sombre view of mundane things—including you; that's why you climb a tree. He guards his master's household goods, and would, against the greatest odds that might be marshaled there; and when he casts his bloodshot lamp upon an agent or a tramp, that tourist says a prayer. He's not a pet for bloodless chaps; he has no place on ladies' laps, no ornamental use; he seems to say, with lip uprolled, "Don't bother me—if I take hold, you'll never jar me loose!" Because we know that deadly grip, and fear the jaws that never slip, we give him right-of-way; when he comes forth and says, "Bow wow," we lift our hats and humbly bow, and swat three quarts of whey. Oh, when the bulldog growls or barks, we don't dispute his chaste remarks, or try to set him right; we hit the pike and think of death, and do not draw a normal breath until he's out of sight.

OVERSHOOTING

"AIM High" is a good old motto. Tilt yer gun at an angle thet allows sumthin' fer gravitation, but don't tilt her so high thet you're liable to overshoot the target altogether. A lot of people go through life bangin' away at haphazard and not scorin' anythin' wuth while. I've heered a preacher preach a very bent of a sermon but what he was sayin' I'm blessed if I know 'cause the whole thing went above my head. Now, I can't have a good sermon go above my head without wantin' to know what's in it, eny more than I kin have an air-ship go over my head without wantin', plum well, to take a ride in the thing. I can't see why people want to overshoot fer, enyway.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

"You know it's the truth, Gloria. Let us go together."

"Don't make it so hard for me, Joe dear," she begged. "When you kissed me I thought I knew my heart, but now nothing in the whole world will ever be the same again. You mustn't blame me; I still like you, more than ever, but in a different way. Can't you understand? You have told me I'm more than a shallow, frivolous girl. I honor you for the offer, Joe, but I wouldn't be true to that better self you talk about if I accepted."

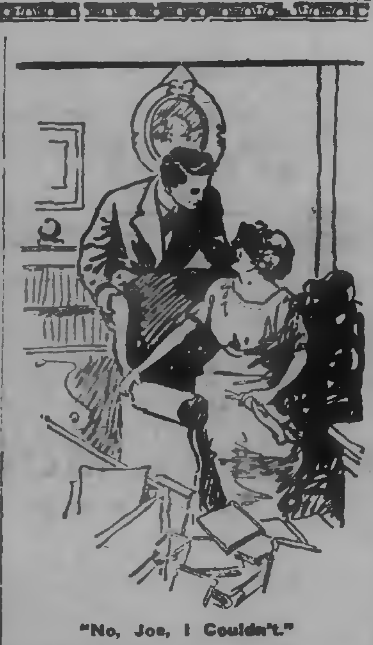
"I make no offer, Gloria," he pleaded. "I'm begging you to love me, to become my wife."

She trembled visibly at his words. Yet her resolution was such that she was not shaken from her purpose. She did not dare look at him, however, as she answered:

"I'm afraid the love one must beg for wouldn't be worth having, Joe. You wouldn't be happy with me. No matter where we went you couldn't forget what happened here. Then consider me—if you'd ever be absent-minded for a minute, gazing into space, I'd know you were thinking of Belmont and the opportunities you'd thrown away because of me. I couldn't stand it. I'd always feel that you were recalling the past and regretting the present. It would kill me. No, Joe, I couldn't."

Wright's proposal had been totally unexpected by Gloria. Up to the time he had begun to plead with her to go away with him, she had maintained fair control of herself. His generous offer, as she termed it, had pierced her armor of reserve and laid bare her warm, quivering heart.

"Pride, Gloria, pride," the man whispered. "It's pride that's keeping you from being true to yourself and true to me."



"No, Joe, I Couldn't."

"Don't speak to me, Joe," she sobbed; "I can't stand it."

In his heart he yearned with all the ardor of youth and love to gather her in his arms and comfort her. Yet he knew her well enough to know that it could not be. Her humiliation had rendered impregnable the barrier she had erected between them. There was naught he could do but suffer in silence while she wept.

CHAPTER XXIII

Gloria hated herself for the paroxysm of emotion to which she had given way in the presence of the man whose love she had rejected. There was no interpretation to be put upon it save that her nerves were over-wrought, yet she did not know how he would construe her tears. She did not wish him to think her weak. Suddenly the girl remembered that tears were a woman's weapon. The thought so enraged her that in her anger at being so much a mere woman she forgot to weep. She had in her the spirit of her father. Drying her eyes hastily, she turned to say good-by.

Wright saw her turn and hold out her hand. Could she have changed her mind? His heart prompted this thought, but one glance at her face told him she was still determined to go her own way alone.

"Good-by," she said.

"Is it to be good-by, Gloria?"

"That, and nothing more."

The man looked at her in a dazed manner. Now that the time of parting had come she had far more self-possession than he. He groped about in his mind for something to say, but words were inadequate. There is no telling how his feelings might have betrayed him had there not come a knock at the door to interrupt their parting.

At the sound Gloria exclaimed with a start, "Who's that?"

Wright walked to the door, saw who asked for entrance, and opened it wide for Patty to enter.

"Mr. Joey, there's a man says he must see you at once."

"Did you tell him I was busy, and to wait?"

"Oh, yes, just like you told me, but he said to tell you he was David Kerr!"

"My father!" Gloria took a step forward. Her exclamation told what a surprise this news was to her.

"What does this mean?" he asked.

"You know as much as I. I've told you I've not seen my father since that day in Judge Gilbert's office. He's been busy with politics, but, more than that, I've—well, I've preferred staying with Mrs. [illegible]."

Patty, tired of listening to a conversation she could not understand, and, remembering the visitor, asked: "What shall I tell him?"

"Wait a minute, Patty." Wright motioned the child to the door. Then he turned to Gloria. "You can leave by this side entrance. No one will be the wiser for this visit. The minute the door closes behind you, Patty—and I—will have forgotten that you called. But I will not have forgotten your kindness and consideration. Before you leave I want you to know that I can't value too highly the motive that prompted your call. To the end I'll treasure it as a memory hallowed by the parting from the only woman I—Good-by."

He felt he could not complete what he wished to say without a show of emotion to which it would not do to give way. The only thing he could do was to hold out his hand and say, "Good-by."

Gloria put both her hands behind her back, and shook her head.

"No, I refuse to go."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean just what I say. I intend to stay here and meet my father and hear what he has to say to you."

Wright gazed at her intently, but she did not quiver under his scrutiny.

"It shall be as you say," he assented. "Go, Patty, tell him to come in." After Patty closed the door there was an awkward silence which he broke by saying, "I must say that this meeting is ill-advised."

She sighed and shook her head.

"Oh, ill-advised or not, my mind is made up. Things cannot go on as they are. If henceforth I am to direct my own affairs, why shouldn't I begin now?"

GLORIOUS HAIR

Always Attracts—Use Parisian Sage. Thin or Faded Hair Becomes Abundant and Radiant With Life.

Girls and women of all ages want to be charming, beautiful and attractive—it's their birthright—but unsightly, thin and characterless hair destroys half the beauty of a pretty face.

If your hair is not attractive, is falling out, streaky, full of dandruff, too dry, or if the scalp itches and burns, don't delay — use Parisian Sage. Apply with a sponge or cloth, taking a small strand of hair at a time. Rub it well into the scalp. It will go right to the hair roots, nourish them, and stimulate the hair to grow strong and luxuriant. Parisian Sage removes dandruff with one application and cleanses the hair of dirt, dust and excessive oil. It will cool and invigorate the scalp and make the hair doubly beautiful.

Parisian Sage is a scientifically made preparation that gives the hair just what is needed to make it soft, fluffy, thick and gloriously radiant. It is delicately perfumed—not sticky or greasy. Sold in fifty cent bottles only at all drug and toilet counters. Look for the trade mark—"The Girl with the Auburn Hair." Accept no substitute.

Delighted users pronounce Parisian Sage the best hair tonic. Get a bottle from The Warne Drug Co. — to-day — they will return the money if you are not satisfied.

NO STATESMANSHIP.

Drift Is Asquith's Policy Declares Sir Edward Carson.

LONDON, June 27.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Sir Edward Carson has issued the following statement regarding the Home Rule amending bill:

"It is the old offer, which is described as hypocritical sham, and which was only allowed and offered us because it was known we could not possibly accept it. Moreover, the bill demonstrates during all these months that no progress has been made by the Government in framing details for the separate Government of Ulster. It is somewhat ludicrous to provide that Ulster is to accept any administration that the Lord Lieutenant, who will be subject to the advice of Dublin Ministers, desires to set up. The whole thing shows in every line a policy of drift. It looks to me as if there was to be no effort at statesmanship to solve the present situation."

Identified by Artificial Limb.

LONDON, Ont., June 27.—A body taken from the Detroit River Sunday afternoon has been identified as that of Herbert C. Green, coal and wood merchant of London. Green's identity was established through an artificial limb he wore, the manufacturers in Chicago being able to furnish the owner's name.

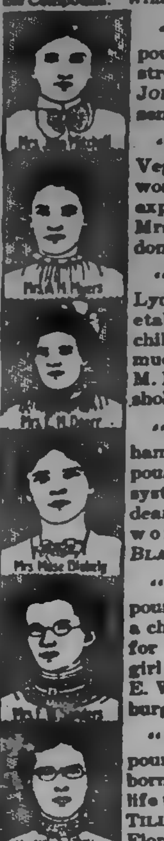
Art Experts Find Treasures.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 27.—Dutch art experts have discovered in the National Museum Gallery here two Rembrandt — "A Portrait of a Woman," and "Abraham's Sacrifice." Both pictures are said to belong to the master's early period.

HAVE YOU A CHILD?

Many women long for children, but because of some curable physical derangement are deprived of this greatest of all happiness.

The women whose names follow were restored to normal health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Write and ask them about it.



"I took your Compound and have a fine, strong baby." — Mrs. JOHN MITCHELL, Massena, N. Y.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a wonderful medicine for expectant mothers." — Mrs. A. M. MYERS, Gordonville, Mo.

"I highly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before child-birth, it has done so much for me."—Mrs. E. M. DOERR, R. R. 1, Conshohocken, Pa.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system and have the dearest baby girl in the world."—Mrs. MOSE BLAKELEY, Imperial, Pa.

"I praise the Compound whenever I have a chance. It did so much for me before my little girl was born." — Mrs. E. W. SANDERS, Rowlesburg, W. Va.

"I took your Compound before baby was born and feel I owe my life to it."—Mrs. WINNIE TILLIS, Winter Haven, Florida.

Milady's Mirror

Care of the Nails.

No woman can be considered really beautiful who has not well kept nails. The condition of one's hands is an index to refinement, and the woman who pays a good deal of attention to her complexion and hair and neglects her hands is making a big mistake. It takes very little time each day to keep the nails in good condition once a thorough manicure is given them.

The toilet table should contain a complete manicure set, and it should be given constant use. A nail file, a curved pair of scissors, an orange stick, bleach and polish are all necessary articles, and if these things are used every day the nails and hands will always be in the pink of condition.

Hints For Travelers.

When the smoke and dust settles into the pores of the face and is difficult to dislodge by ordinary cleansing methods diluted alcohol can be used with good effect or a lotion containing alcohol. Try this recipe, which you can easily prepare at home: One dram boracic acid, one ounce best alcohol and two ounces rosewater. Apply with a piece of absorbent cotton and rub gently for several minutes. You will be surprised at the amount of dirt that can be removed from the skin by this method immediately following a seemingly thorough cleansing with soap and water.

Scanty Eye Brows.

If your brows are thin and scanty and so fair as to be unnoticeable a little vaseline rubbed on every evening will make a tremendous difference. The rubbing should be done gently in an outward direction, from the nose toward the temples. The hairs should never be rubbed in the opposite direction. The eyebrows require more care than is often bestowed on them. They should be brushed regularly with a soft, clean brush in an outward direction.

Beauty Don'ts.

Don't use soda in washing your hair. It dries up the natural oil, making it harsh and brittle. The use of soda tends to make the hair prematurely gray also.

Don't eat rich and indigestible foods if you suffer from a red nose.

Don't forget that massage is the best means of preventing wrinkles.

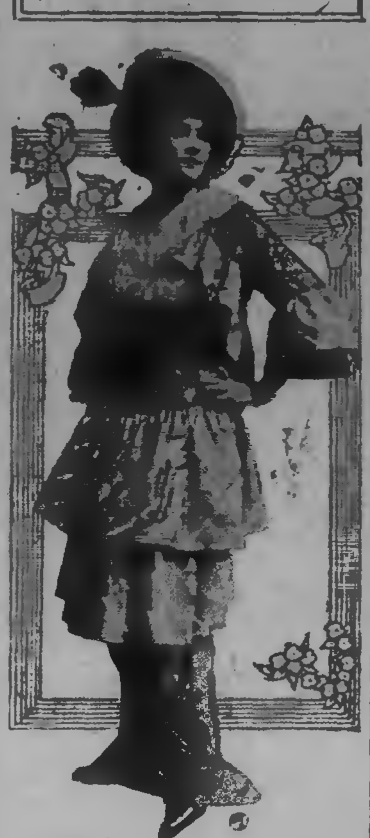
Don't wash the face in hard water. Soften it with oatmeal, lemon juice or borax if rainwater cannot be procured.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to little ones. The complaints of that season which are cholera infantum, diarrhoea and dysentry come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is really ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is of such aid to the mother during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. William Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STRIPES AND PLAIDS.

Strikingly Combined With Many Plain Fabrics.



HANDSOME AFTERNOON GOWN.

The wearing of roman stripes pleases the smart women. The demand for something different inspires the designers to combine materials of every variety.

Several seasons have passed since striped silks have occupied a prominent position among the fashions, but this year finds them reinstated.

The new weaves show a wonderful blending of colors, some designs emphasizing the brilliant reds, blues, yellows and greens, while others combine the softer, darker tones.

The stripes vary in width from narrow pin stripes to those measuring two inches in diameter.

These handsome silks are allied with plain colors, and costumes of exceptional smartness are evolved from this combination.

The gown pictured here was of plain and striped silk in an effective and modish combination.

Pointers About Veils.

Many of the new veils are plain or have small designs over the face only. For a veil which may be thrown back the border effects are good. Some veils have a border and a small set motif over the surface.

Shadow and dotted effects are once more being worn. Silk thread designs appear in graceful figures—butterflies, orchids and simpler motifs—on a fine mesh.

Fashion demands that the veil must harmonize with the hat, as does the hat with the costume, not only in color, but in its effect. Thus not one but many veils are necessary, so that one may be smartly and properly veiled for all daytime occasions in the open.

Make your Razor behave

Honing as well as stropping is necessary to keep a razor at its best. But the secret of good honing is to hone a little every day—just as the barber does. Honing is made easy for every man who uses a

PIKE STROP-HONE

For Safety or Ordinary Razors

Three strokes on this hone are enough, and because it needs no wetting with oil or water, these take hardly a second. Then too, this little honing makes less stropping necessary. You have the best hone and the best strop in one, and both at the cost of one, when you buy a Pike Strop-Hone. This combination makes shaving a pleasure because it "makes your razor behave." Ask to see one at the store—it's GUARANTEED.

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

ON THE BILLBOARD.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir:—The crude, obscene picture exhibited on the bill boards out of which "Rustle" in yesterday's Examiner takes so much unction, portrays vividly what would be the case did he have his way in retaining the shops and abolishing the respectable hotels with their accommodation for the travelling public.

Yours, etc.,

SUNDAY POLITICAL MEETINGS

Editor of The Review,

Dear Sir:—The Ministerial Association of Peterborough has set the pace for the future regarding political meetings on Sunday. It is only necessary to pretend that it is for the discussion of a high moral issue and the party is absolved from any impropriety. Hereafter, the most rousing political meetings will be held on the Sunday evening preceding polling day and we can thank the ministers of Peterborough for providing additional opportunity for discussion.

Yours truly,
SABBATH OBSERVER.

THE PULPIT.

Editor Review,

Dear Sir:—It is a curious fact that the ministers who have made themselves obnoxious at this election belong to that class who were the most pronounced in their views against the Roman Catholic clergy for taking part in past elections as they alleged. Indeed, they go further and try to intimidate and coerce those of their flock who may perchance oppose their views or politics. Some of them go so far as to say that their opponents are allies of his Satanic majesty. They do not abandon the right of citizenship when they become ministers, nor do they acquire any exceptional political wisdom. It does not give them the right to turn their pulpits into political stumps or to desecrate the Sabbath with political speeches. Any of their flocks who will submit to such tyranny in this liberty loving twentieth century is not a free man whom the truth makes free, but a [illegible] of the lowest order and does not live up to the privileges of a free born Canadian citizen. Fortunately, for our fair city there are only two others besides the two in question who would enact the same role if they were not held in check by the wisdom of their congregations. There are only just four of them; Thank God, there are no more of them.

Yours truly,
FREEDOM.

LETTERS FROM READER.

Editor Review,

Sir,—Last spring the Secretary of the Conservative Association of West Peterborough was served by Messrs. Cowan and Cunningham President and Secretary of the Peterborough County Temperance Association with a plain statement of the Association's programme and endorsing that of the Dominion Alliance. This statement sets out, 1st.—That it believes in the total suppression of the liquor traffic; 2nd.—That this can only be attained by loyally standing by candidates who are known to be avowed and trustworthy supporters of the Alliance party. The statement then goes on to say that it expresses the hope that both parties will place in the field candidates who will undertake if elected to vote for the abolition of the bar, the shop and the cancellation of club licenses and who will also support all advanced temperance legislation by which ever party it is introduced. This last statement depends for its effectiveness upon what is considered "advance legislation" and upon the supposition that parties will introduce it. As a consequence it is of no value whatever in binding anybody and looks like an attempt to modify the preceding reference to a desire for the abolition of the bar, the shop and the club license. It is this fact that made many people view it not so much with suspicion as with indifference. The statement then goes on to say that if there is only the temperance candidate in the field he shall be supported if his record is acceptable. How would this apply to the members of the Ontario Liberal Club of Toronto who profess to be advanced temperance leaders and yet are directors and governors of a club that dispenses every kind of alcoholic drink? The truth is that that circular issued by these gentlemen is intended to appeal to genuine and consistent temperance men. Temperance people who are sincere are in honour bound to avoid those people who profess one thing and do another. They are in honour bound also to support the man who avoids all modifications and entaglements and who states over his own signature what he will do the moment he enters the legislature. Without casting any slur upon Mr. Gillespie the fact remains that he has left himself open to be the victim of political humbugging by his own party and he can come back, if elected, to his constituents with the statement, "I said I would do what the political parties wanted. They have wanted nothing and therefore I have not had an opportunity to vote for anything." It is more important to be candid, firm and fair than to be correct even in matters of food and drink.

Yours,
READER.

POWERS MUST MAKE MOVE

In Regard to Albanian Affair

ATHENS, June 27.—George F. Williams, American Minister to Greece, yesterday sent to the newspapers a report of his investigations in Albania, which he visited recently by the authority of the Washington Government. In his report, Mr. Williams adds that he saw the Epirote insurgent leader, Zographos, and placed himself at the disposal of the international commission of control, which, however, gave him no reply.

Mr. Williams says he considers the conditions in Albania anarchical, and declares the present regime impracticable owing to antagonistic rivalry. He appeals to the Powers to create a neutral state with an essentially local government.

Situation at Durazzo Grave.

LONDON, June 27—There are conflicting reports concerning the situation at Durazzo. A belated despatch from that city says that insurgent leaders have arrived there to negotiate terms. Other despatches represent the situation as extremely grave. The Prince of Weid, who occupies the throne of Albania, has, it is said, appealed to the Powers to send international troops to restore order in Albania.

Austrian Volunteers.

VIENNA, June 27. — A volunteer force of retired officers and men is being formed here to go to Durazzo to protect the Prince of Weid. Already 1,600 men have been enrolled for this purpose.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE WEST AND EAST RIDINGS OF PETERBOROUGH.

Why is it that, all during the present contest, not one single, solitary Liberal speaker has criticised the work done by Sir James Whitney and his ministers (except not banishing the bar fast enough to suit a certain clique)?

The simple answer is "THEY CANNOT.'

Overcooking always injures the color of greens; they should never be cooked until they become yellow.

DIVISION COURT AT LAKEFIELD

An interesting sitting of the Division Court was held in the town hall on Tuesday afternoon, before Judge Huycke. Several cases were adjourned and almost the whole time of the Court was devoted to the case of Dunn vs. Matthews. John Dunn sued Jas. Matthews for wages, alleging that he was hired at $5.00 a month for the winter months and $8.00 a month for the summer. Mr. Matthews claimed that he was dealing with the Barnardo Home and not with the boy. He also claimed to have supplied many goods to the plaintiff and counterclaimed for damages for various things, including damages for kicking a cow and burning a heifer by spraying, and for foul smell of skunks and other things. The cross-examination of Mr. Matthews on his counterclaim was well conducted by Mr. Langley, and besides resulting in the disallowance of much of the counterclaim afforded considerable amusement to those in the court room. A number of other witnesses were examined and judgment was awarded plaintiff $50.59 and costs, and the judge directed the defendant to return all goods to the plaintiff in his possession. Mr. O. A. Langley acted for plaintiff and Mr. Matthews conducted his own case.—Lakefield News.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING WIFE

A fairly well dressed, elderly resident of George Street South stood in the dock at Police Court this morning, on the charge of assaulting his wife. He was remanded till next Thursday owing to the condition of the wife. The prisoner is alleged to have tried to choke his wife and abused her in such a manner as to require medical attendance.

HOW TO OBTAIN GOOD DIGESTION

The Stomach Must be Toned and Strengthened Through the Blood

The victim of indigestion who wants to eat a good meal, but who knows that suffering will follow, finds but poor consolation in picking and choosing a diet. As a matter of fact you cannot get relief by cutting down your food to a starvation basis. The stomach must be strengthened until you can eat good, nourishing food. The only way to strengthen the stomach is to enrich the blood, tone up the nerves and give strength to the stomach that will enable it to digest any kind of food, is through a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The one mission of these pills is to make rich, red blood that reaches every organ and every nerve in the body, bringing renewed health and activity. The following case illustrates the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in curing indigestion. Mrs. T. Reid, Orangeville, Ont., says: "I have much pleasure in testifying to the reliability of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For several years I had suffered greatly from stomach trouble. Several doctors prescribed for me but their medicine did not help me. After every meal I would suffer great pain, and would often be attacked with nausea. I grew weak and had almost lost all hope of recovery. At this juncture I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which were recommended to me. In these pills I at last found the right medicine, and I am once more in good health. I have much pleasure in sending you my testimonial in the hope that it will encourage some suffering persons to try this sure remedy."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MR. GILLESPIE'S CLOSING WORDS

The fight in the election campaign is now over; I have had much to encourage me and nothing to regret. I have conducted the fight fairly and have done my part to make it a clean, manly fight, to keep it on the high plane the importance and character of the supreme issue demanded.

In all this contest I have never changed or varied my position on the temperance question—which is abolition of bar, club and shop licenses. That is the real issue.

Within the past few days my opponents, it seems, in order to cloud the real issue, have put forward an issue which even Sir James Whitney never mentioned in his manifesto, namely, the bilingual school question. If my opponents are satisfied with the Government's position on that, which has been condemned by one of the staunchest supporters of its general policy. I have no reason to complain.

My position on the bilingual question is naturally the position of my leader, whose policy is the making of ample provision in the way of teachers, etc., so that every child in the Province shall be given an English education—and, who says: "Ontario is an English-speaking Province and English speaking it must remain. I would not deprive any child of foreign parents learning its own tongue but it must also be taught English."

I have, in this contest, stated my position, followed a straight course, and feel that the policy I advocate on the main, and other, questions entitles me to the support of the honest and progressive elector, who wishes to help the success of the principles he believes in.

Yours faithfully,
G. A. GILLESPIE.

A LESSON FOR WASHINGTON

Elbert Hubbard says in the New York American:

"That country is governed best that is governed least," said Thomas Jefferson.

"The teacher who maintains the best discipline is the one who keeps his discipline out of sight," said Horace Mann.

"There is a time to act and there is a time to refrain from action," says the Bible.

I remember a certain ball game, wherein one of the captains was continually rushing over to the umpire making protests.

Finally the umpire took off his mask, tossed it on the ground, threw his chest protector after it, and in a voice needlessly calm, said to the obstreperous captain: "Say, Bill, I want to ask a favor of you. I wish you would go over to that bucket, take a drink of water, then take a chew of tobacco, and then sit on that bench until I send for you. Just make yourself look like a piece of landscape."

And there was something in Silk O'Loughlin's attitude and voice that made the captain follow the advice.

The game proceeded—and the obstreperous, fearing, meddlesome captain's side won.

There is a pestiferous activity of the little men elected to high places to make the world over.

A big business man in Chicago said to me the other day: "When I hire a man as general manager of a department and he starts in the first week to turn the whole thing upside down, I know that I have made a mistake and got the wrong man."

It is a great thing to go a little slow and at times take a drink of water, sit on the bench and make yourself look like a piece of the landscape.

Some men in Washington who are endeavoring to make the world over would do well to sit at the feet of Silk O'Loughlin.

Things are all right in this country if it were not for the firm faith in their own infallibility of our political peewees.

The whole business fabric has learned the lesson that truth is an asset and a lie is a liability. We are all trying to be good—for the full and sufficient reason that it pays. Leave us alone.

WOMAN PASTOR FOR ONTARIO

Rev. Alberta S. Phillips for Blenheim Pulpit

MONTPELIER, Vermont, June 27.—Rev. Alberta S. Phillips, who has been pastor of the Universalist parishes at East and North Montpelier for three years, has accepted a call to the parishes of Olinda and Blenheim, Ont. Miss Phillips is said by friends to be the first woman to occupy a Universalist pulpit in Ontario, and the second to be called to a pastorate in Canada.

Fears For Delayed Steamer.

BATAVIA, June 27.—The British steamer Kintuck of the China Mutual Steam Navigation Co., crowded with emigrants, was reported ten hours overdue and it was feared she had met with an accident in connection with the earthquake.

If shy of wisdom, profit by that of others.

Liberal Candidate in West Peterborough.

On Saturday, June 6, I gave the Temperance Association a signed statement that if elected I would vote with either political party on every possible occasion for the abolition of the 1300 bar, 215 shop and 58 club licenses in Ontario. I repeated this statement in my Opera House address, June 18. Furthermore, if I ever get the opportunity I will vote to prevent the manufacture of liquor. I ask for your support and influence.

FIRST IMPRESSIONS OF HERBERT JOHNSTON

Peterboro Boy in Ecuador Writes Interestingly of His New Surroundings

The following letter entitled "First Impressions" was written for "The Alliance Weekly" by Mr. W. H. Johnston, a Peterboro boy who is now in Ecuador, South America:

Four and a half months in the province of Manavi, Ecuador, already. How rapidly the time has flown for one missionary recruit, desirous of settling down calmly, amidst curious and foreign surroundings in a land shadowed darkly by clouds of revolution, for the purpose of language study. And although these two northern coast provinces of the republic, namely, Esmeraldas and Manavi, for the past three months have been the battling grounds of our latest internal war, I am happy in the certainty that the Lord our God in His own good time has sent me here.

Having been asked to give a statement of "first impressions" since arrival, my mind has been reviewing events of the past quarter year for this purpose. But really you can hardly imagine how difficult the proposition is. No sooner is the reflection of my experiences focused in a way satisfactory to imprint upon paper, but some new startling revolutionary movement, or an earthquake, or the news of another plague, or some other staggering native custom not previously met with looms up disconcertingly, enshrouding my previously prepared "first impression" in a blank fog of bewilderment.

However one "F. I." smiles cheerfully through the surrounding murkiness refusing to topple over into the general mental chaos. This is the happy welcome received from every side. Rev. Mr. Polk came aboard ship at Bahia and gave me a hearty Christian handclasp with a few words of hospitable greeting, making me feel at home before my feet had yet touched the soil. The necessity of the small boat's leaving for shore cut this happy meeting short. A few hours of further steaming and Manta, the destination of my voyage, was in sight. It sits well out on a peninsula of a few miles' length, as though beckoning ships to halt and cast anchor in its roads. Situated on a bare sandy hillside, a town of iron-sheeted walls and iron-sheeted roofs, devoid of shade trees, it reflects back the rays of an equatorial sun. Yet the uniqueness of the moments while I stood upon the ship's deck and was drawn silently closer and closer to it; the thoughts sacred, sweet, and secret between the Lord and me, with perhaps a little romantic consciousness of this crisis event occuring at that milestone in my humble career, together made that strange looking town seem pretty.

In a Strange Land.

Rev. Mr. Crisman had overcome difficulties to arrive at port in time to meet the new arrival, and engineer the feat of getting a green traveller and his 1,350 pounds of outfit through the customs. He so cheerfully and deftly succeeded as to leave me impressed with the thought that he also was glad to welcome more "harvest trip." A few minutes of rather dream-like wonder as I took in some of the strange surroundings, and then we were off for Montecristi, journeying by horses. It was the first time in a saddle for me, but the Lord propped me up and made the new experience a pleasant event. I was able to observe the character of the surrounding country as we moved along; rather flat in the immediate coast vicinity, but quickly giving place to hill and valley formation. Strange was the knowledge to an easterner that the coast region has the least rainfall. In fact for nine months of the year in this section there is none at all, and as a result the land presents a withered, dried-up appearance accentuated by the tangle of low, naked trees and bushes grimly holding on to life until the cycling of the year presents them with another short rainy season.

Soon we were at our "desired haven," and I had met the delightful family of Brother Crisman. After a night's rest we started for a sixty-mile trip to Junin, a town in the interior of the province where a neat, commodious chapel (a credit to our Alliance) has been erected. I had arrived in Ecuador in time to be at its dedication. The first half of the journey was accomplished by train, and the remainder on horseback.

No Hydro Electric.

Shortly after dusk the street lights of Junin (kerosene lights on poles) told us that we were almost at laSenora de Mendoa's home. Other Christians were there also. I soon learned these people could sing, testify, enjoy the reading of God's Word, and pray as heartily unto the Lord as those left behind. The new "misionero" was cordially recieved. The joy felt in my heart on first contact with these dear Ecuadorian brothers and sisters in Christ Jesus cannot be expressed.

Brother and Sister Polk arrived the next day from Bahia, thus giving me the privilege incidentally of meeting all our small force in Ecuador during my first three days here.

The first chapel service was held Saturday night. This was a memorable event, as our Junin edifice is the first place in Ecuador dedicated solely for Divine worship in the form of public services. The tidings of the wonderful event had spread all over the countryside. So it was not surprising to find the place packed full of precious souls. The audience was well mixed, men perhaps being a little more in the majority. Rapt attention was given to the two addresses delivered through Brothers Polk and Crisman. Certainly a profound impression was made upon many hearts by the Holy Spirit. On Sunday three most wonderful services were held. How vivid an impression these made upon me. The morning and afternoon were given over to the native Christians. The memorial of the Lord's Supper at this time, when I was favored with the unique privilege of communing with those whose earthly language I was not yet familiar with, will always live in my memory. The evening service was a glorious repetition of Saturday night. It was a most blessed way of being introduced to my missionary life. On Monday morning we exchanged farewells and separated for our various centres. A young woman, la Snta. Pastora, is in charge of the Junin work for the present. Her ministry is being blessed with continued good attendance. Pray for our only native helper.

Ticks and Fleas.

I must not forget to mention that while in Junin, other happy Ecuadorians welcomed me also. The ticks, who are dwellers in the low bushes and long grass, jubilantly introduced themselves. We became blood relations in one sense of the term. Since then other good friends have presented themselves, the fleas, who have noticeably improved my habits through their fellowship, making me much more active and alert than I was on first entering the country. Five visitors called upon me one pleasant afternoon about a month and a half ago. Fortunately it was only a passing call, and I was luckily out for a walk at the time. They were revolutionary bullets which passed in one wall and out the other of my combination drawing room, study and bedroom. One of them shed his steel jacket in the wall, which he left by. In lieu of calling cards they left ragged tears in the plaster and paper. Do you think they are all glad I am here?

This last incident took place at a time when a small party of revolutionists unsuccessfully attempted to capture the town from the loyalist garrison, which has been stationed here during the entire trouble. Only two deaths and several wounded were the casualties in this melee of small guns. However the town, which for the first part of the upheaval showed marked sympathy towards the rebel party, has been under strict military rule; and the storming party discovered their secret friends of Montecristi unable to assist them in their attack. The manifest unrest here, together with certain military restrictions have markedly influenced the attendances at our services in Montecristi. But things are again indicating a change for the better.

The revolution is happily abating. The bubonic plague has been swept clean from this vicinity. We have not experienced an earthquake shock for over a month, and I am falling into line with native ways. First impressions are over, and ever increasing lasting impressions are affecting me. But this is exceeding my subject. Oh! the miseries, the thick, spiritual darkness, the deadness of national and individual conscience, and the mighty sway of immoral sin which prevents their seeing, and hearing, and being saved. Yet, thank God, for the bright proofs over this province of Manavi that He is able to do exceeding abundantly amongst those who will open their hearts, and let the Prince of Life come in and sup with them. Pray with us for the burden which is too heavy for five missionaries to bear alone.

A good many people think they have principles when they merely possess habits.

TEACHERS SEND IN THEIR RESIGNATION

The Board of Education met last evening in special session with Chairman Dr. Morrison presiding. Leave of absence was granted to Miss M. F. Erskine during the month of September. The resignation of D. A. MacKay of the Collegiate Institute Staff was received, also the resignations of Mrs. Brown, Miss Florence Jackson and Miss Thompson of the Public School staff.

Dr. Morrison reported on the fire drill inspection conducted recently by the Fire Chief and spoke of the good time made by the various schools. The precision of the children was wonderful. Every school was in excellent condition with the exception of one school, which since had been rearragned and was now entirely satisfactory.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION DEAL WITH ROUTINE MATTERS

At the meeting of the Public Utilities Commission, held last evening, with Chairman T. F. Matthews presiding, the Superintendent was instructed to lay a service and put in a hydrant on the property of the Vermont Marble Company.

Wm. Saxby was heard asking for a service for a house on Downie Street at the north east corner. The Superintendent was instructed to lay the service.

The matter of G. W. Hatton, regarding a water rate for his residence was laid over until the next meeting.

The matter of laying a service on Mark Street for the Roman Catholic School was left with the Chairman.

The rate for the freight elevator at G. A. Gillespie's factory on Aylmer Street will be $75.00 per year gross. Mr. Gillespie will pay for the laying of the service.

The Secretary was instructed to write W. G. Morrow that his petition for water main on Hunter Street from Belmont to Walton was not in complete form.

An account was read from Wm. Kennedy, Jr., for $387.22, including $365.10 for the engineer's fee on account of the McDougall pump. The secretary was instructed to write him that the commission on the pump could not be paid now, as the pump was only provisionally accepted.

ALL READY FOR FRATERNAL DAY

All is in readiness for Fraternal Sunday which will be observed tomorrow and if the weather man does his part the day will undoubtedly go down among the important days in the history of Peterboro. As has been stated before every member of fraternal organizations in this city is requested to meet in his lodge room at six o'clock sharp. The lodge marshals will conduct the societies to the market square and there Mr. Ernie Reid, Colonel Miller and Fire Chief Howard, who have been appointed marshals by the committee, will take charge of all the divisions.

Divisions of the parade will be sent to attend divine service at St. John's, George Street Methodist, Murray Street Baptist, St. Andrews, the Army Citadel, and St. Pauls. In event of the number so tremendously large and these churches cannot give accommodation a contingent will be sent to one of the East City churches.

The pastors of the various churches will give sermons appropriate for the occasion. Half of the collections to be taken up in the churches will be turned over to the Health Society to assist that body in their commendable work of providing a two months' outing for the consumptive patients of the city. This is a very worthy act and it is to be hoped that the societies will be well represented and the contributions liberal.

A RUSSIAN MARRIAGE

Involving a Local Custom of Proposal

By F. A. MITCHEL

Alexis Plekanoff, a young Russian of intellectual tastes, gave himself up so completely to study that his health was impaired. His physician advised him to live in the country for awhile, and the young man, not willing to be idle, bought a farm, intending to till the soil.

Alexis' farm had on it a dwelling house and other necessary buildings. He hired servants besides farm hands, for he was well to do and was soon devoting himself to raising produce with as much interest as he had previously shown in books. Nor did he, because he was city bred, keep aloof from his neighbors, but joined in their amusements, received them at his home and visited them familiarly.

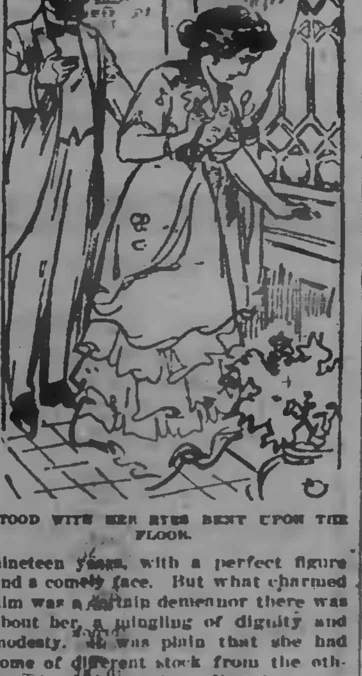
Soon after he was settled in his new home the people of the place where he had located assembled for a festival, which he attended. The exercises consisted principally of athletic sports—running, jumping and especially riding. The Russians are fine horsemen, and some of the feats performed at this festival were worthy of an American circus. There was also a dance in a barn.

Alexis was recognized among the country people for something better than themselves and was treated with great deference. One of the men approached him at the dance and said:

"If your excellency would like to dance I will introduce you to a girl whose parents, like yourself, came long ago from the city, though the young lady herself was born in her present home."

"I would be glad to be introduced to any of your girls," replied Alexis, "and do not doubt that any would make a partner not only worthy of me, but would honor me by dancing with me."

So the young man was introduced to Vera Troleusko. She was a girl of nineteen years, with a perfect figure and a comely face. But what charmed him was a certain demeanor there was about her, a mingling of dignity and modesty. It was plain that she had come of different stock from the other girls of that region. Yet there was nothing haughty about her. She seemed to be friendly and companionable with them, though they appeared to recognize her superiority.



STOOD WITH HER EYES BENT UPON THE FLOOR.

Alexis asked Vera to dance, and she graciously accepted the invitation. She danced with a grace that made Alexis think her ancestors for generations had danced at the court balls at the imperial palace. Though she did not seem out of place here, she would not have been out of place there. Alexis danced with her several times during the evening. He would have danced with the other girls, but, whether or not the managers of the affair did not consider any of the others worthy to be his partners, they did not introduce him.

While Vera Trolensko showed that breeding she could not conceal even if she would, she was a part of the community in which she lived. Her parents were past middle life when she was born. No one knew why they had come to that country, for they never gave any reason for leaving the city. That there was some misfortune attached to their coming was evident from the fact that they were very despondent. They had never mingled with their neighbors, but their little girl, who had no previous life behind her, fell in naturally with those about her.

One day when Alexis went to his house for his noon meal he met with a great surprise. Who should be there but Vera Trolensko! She came forward to meet him with blushes and downcast eyes, the very picture of maidenly modesty. Alexis looked about, expecting to see her father or mother or some one else without whom he considered it improper for her to be there. Alexis' housekeeper, Maria Sasulitch, was looking on, vainly trying to attract his attention. Finally he turned toward her for an explanation of this singular proceeding, and she beckoned him to follow her. Alexis, after asking Vera to excuse him, did so. As soon as he was alone with the housekeeper she said to him:

"There is a custom of this country of which you are not aware, your excellency. Here it is the woman who proposes marriage to the man, not the man to the woman. When a woman wishes to marry a man she goes to his house and remains there till he marries her. If he refuses he insults her family, and if she has male protectors they punish the insult she and they are deemed to have received. In any event, the man who refuses the woman is scorned by the community."

"Vera has paid you the compliment of proposing marriage to you. If you refuse her she cannot be avenged by her father, for he is too old, and she has no brothers. But her father would not resent the insult even if he were young and strong enough to do so. He has never adopted our customs and is doubtless much displeased that his daughter should have adopted this one, so foreign to what he was formerly accustomed. But Vera is very dear to us, and should you refuse her all who knew her would turn away from you, treating you as one who had insulted a woman they love and revere. It seems to me, your excellency, that you have a choice between two actions—either to accept the offer made you or go away from here."

It was some time before Alexis made any reply to this explanation. He was suddenly thrown under the influence of conflicting emotions. Following a custom which had been practiced by all her associates, there was certainly nothing immodest in Vera's action. She was a beautiful girl and beloved by all. Nothing would be more pleasing to him than to make her his wife. But, on the other hand, he had come to her country to remain only a few years, when he had expected to return to St. Petersburg. His father had brought him up with the understanding that he (the father) would select a wife for him, and Alexis believed that should he marry a woman who had been brought up among peasants and without his father's consent he would be disinherited.

What should he do? The girl who had proposed to him was waiting for his reception of her proposal. It seemed to him that since she had come there in accordance with the custom of the country he must either accept her proposition or turn her out. Of all considerations bearing on the case this ejection was the hardest for him to think of.

Alexis spent an hour alone turning the matter over in his mind. Then he resolved that he would go to Vera and explain to her that he had been brought up to understand that his father was to select his wife for him and he considered it his duty as a good son to abide by his father's decision. He went to the room where Vera was waiting for him. As soon as he entered she turned from him and stood with her eyes bent upon the floor.

"Vera," he commenced, "Maria has informed me of what I was ignorant, the meaning of your coming here. Your customs of this country are not our customs in the city. I have been brought up to recognize my father's right to select a wife for me, and I consider it my duty as a good son to abide by it, but"—

She bent lower and lower as he drew nearer what she knew was coming till now she was like a plant bent by the wind. Approaching her, putting an arm about her and taking her hand in his, he finished:

"Vera, I love you."

The nuptials were celebrated the same evening, all the people turning out to do the bride honor.

Alexis wrote his father, a prominent statesman, that he had married the daughter of one Trolensko, who had come from Moscow and had lived for twenty years apart from the world of which he had formerly been a part. No reply came for some time; then one morning a sleigh drove up to Alexis' house, and his father alighted. Alexis was reassured when his father took him in his arms and kissed him. He also embraced Vera and said to her. "Come; let us go to your good father who was my intimate associate in former years when we were both young."

Vera, delighted at the turn the matter had taken, put on her furs and, with her husband, got into the sleigh. Her eyes were moist when the two friends met. But she was to meet a much greater surprise.

"Count," said the visitor, "on hearing of my son's marriage with your daughter I made another and a much more important effort to induce the czar to grant you a pardon and permit you to return to that life in which you were once a shining light."

Drawing a parchment, he handed it to Trolensko.

"What does this mean?" asked Alexis eagerly.

"It means," said his father, "that my old friend Count Nicholas Trolensko became unwittingly involved in a political conspiracy against the present czar's father. Had the charge been proved against him he would have been sent to Siberia. As it was merely a case of suspicion, he was banished to this place. He is now restored to his title and estates."

The Plekanoffs and the Trolenskos after that lived in the winter in St. Petersburg, where the young countess was much admired in the social life of the capital. In summer they returned to the country, where Vera renewed her life with the people whom she loved and who loved her.

TOWN TO BE DESERTED

Coal Mines Are Shut Down Forever

CALGARY, Alta., June 27.—Twelve hundred miners have been thrown out of work, and the town of Hosmer, not far from Fernie, B.C., is about to be abandoned by its population owing to the fact that the coal mines at that point, owned and operated by the C. P. R., have been shut down forever. The work of dismantling the machinery is well under way. The merchants and property owners are panic-stricken because the property is worthless without the mining industry, which alone supported the town. The unmarried men are already leaving. The Hosmer mines have been a big disappointment from the start.

Steamer Is Wrecked.

MONTREAL, June 27.—Through her rudder becoming fouled while crossing Lake St. Louise Thursday night from Cedars to Lachine, the steamer Lucia, belonging to the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co., ran on a shoal in the lake and stove a hole in her bow. The steamer settled rapidly, but before the water reached the boiler and put out the fire Captain Theophile Proulx, who had charge of the boat, was able to sound signals of distress. Help came and the crew of eight escaped.

VILLAGE A LAKE

Cloudburst Floods the Entire Community

LA CROSSE, Wis., June 27.—A cloudburst at Lanesboro, Minn., during the night made the village, which has a population of 1,000 persons, a lake six feet deep. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway tracks are under three feet of water for 3,000 feet, according to announcement at the division offices here. Railway service is abandoned.

Lanesboro cannot be reached by telephone, and rescuers are obliged to go in boats. No reports of loss of life have thus far been reported.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson Better.

MONCTON, N.B., June 27.—Hon. H. R. Emmerson, whose serious illness at his home in Dorchester has been noted, had a bad turn yesterday, but last night was reported to be brighter and resting easily. The members of the family have been summoned and all are now in Dorchester except his sister, Mrs. Atkinson, and his daughter, Mrs. Bowes, who are expected from Ottawa to-day.

SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

Carranza and Huerta May Solve Problem Themselves.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 27.—A realization of the serious problems that will confront the delegates of Gen. Huerta and Gen. Carranza when they undertake to negotiate a settlement of Mexico's internal differences has not lessened the optimism of those best informed on the subject. There is no overlooking the danger that the new phase of the peace parleys may be futile, but the situation is such that indications of an amicable agreement outbalance the belief among some of those here that the settlement will come only with the capture of Mexico City by the Constitutionalists.

That the Carranza delegates will be here to negotiate with the representatives of Gen. Huerta is regarded as certain by those within the circle officially concerned in the mediation movement. Assurances on this point have been received, and, while direct word from Carranza himself is lacking, there is reason to believe that he will accept the invitation of the mediators to participate in separate conferences with the Huerta commissioners.

One of the things that have given encouragement to the optimists is the attitude of Gen. Villa. His disposition has been to be friendly to the efforts to settle Mexico's troubles by amicable means, and it was declared yesterday that Villa's course went to prove that he would agree to abide by any arrangement made by the two sets of Mexican delegates at this place.

It is realized, however, that with Zacatecas and San Luis Potosi added to the list of revolutionary victories the Constitutionalists may be disposed to drive a hard bargain with their fellow-countrymen.

Monterey Acclaims Carranza.

MONTEREY, Mex., June 27.—Gen. Carranza, Constitutionalist chief, arrived here with his staff and was welcomed by Gen. Villareal and a committee representing the city. A triumphial arch bearing the word "Welcome" was erected across the track near the railway station, and the city made a holiday of the reception. Enthusiastic cheers for Carranza continued yesterday wherever he appeared.

Up to 1905, when the Conservatives came into power, the Liberal Government had done absolutely nothing in the way of legislation or administration that would tend to minimize the evils of the drink habit. Scarcely a year has passed since the first year of administration by the present Government when progressive legislation was not put on the statute books of the Province calculated to check and curb the evils of the liquor traffic and to strengthen the Government in the administration of the law.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

REFORMED.

In years that have flitted
 I've tried to reform
And good resolutions,
 Both earnest and warm,
Have patiently written,
 Believe me; but, say,
They seldom have lasted
 To see the next day.

When I was a junior
 A notion I had
That I could put failings
 That way to the bad;
But, trying it often
 As New Year's came round,
It wrought me no wonders,
 I speedily found.

It's not in the thinking
 Of what you will do
Nor yet in the writing
 That pulls the thing through.
Not backed up by action
 Nor won in a fight,
The good resolutions
 Won't last overnight.

So when this year started
 I thought I would try
Without resolutions
 My faults to put by,
And I marked down in writing
 The same as before
But one—"I resolve I'll Resolve never more!"

More Than Their Share.

"It is said that every one has a streak of insanity."

"What's that? An insane streak for every one?"

"Yes."

"I think there must be some people who have none."

"Why?"

"Because I know several people who have at least forty streaks apiece."

Soon Be Due.

"Why, what's the matter? You look as if an accident had happened to you."

"That's right."

"Serious?"

"Not so very—only uncomfortable."

"What was it?"

"Stumbled over a broken resolution, took a header and had a bad fall."

Wrong End.

"Did I hear you say you were dealing in coal?"

"Yes."

"Well, I will have to take off my hat to you. I didn't know you were in the coal business."

"I suppose you might call it that. I buy a load once a week now."

Hope.

Welcome, little new year!
 We in you believe.
Still we can but wonder
 What is up your sleeve.
If you're like the old one,
 We will call it white.
If you treat us better,
 That will be all right.

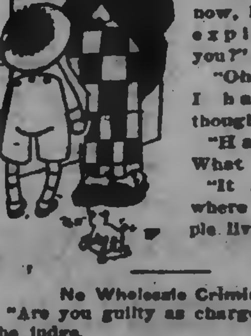
Nothing to Lose.

"Did you count the cost before going into this venture?"

"I can't say that I did."

"Would you call that good business?"

"What is the difference? I didn't have any money to pay them with anyway."



Explained.

"What is a graveyard, pa?"

"A graveyard?"

"Yes."

"Well it is—now, how shall I explain it to you?"

"Oh, I know; I have just thought."

"Have you? What is it?"

"It is a place where dead people live."

No Wholesale Criminal.

"Are you guilty as charged?" asked the judge.

"As charged?"

"Yes; in the indictment."

"Well, judge, I stole the ham all right, but I never did commit them other big words in that there paper."

Why They Scared Him.

"I never see him out with anybody."

"He fights shy of the girls."

"A woman hater?"

"Just a tight wad."

Natural Mode of Complaint.

"What is Jones barking about?"

"Says his wife treats him like a dog."

Wants Confirmation.

Though signs directing him about
 Are clearly on display,
It's just exactly like a man
 To stop and ask the way.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is hard to convince a man he is a fool and entirely unnecessary. You can fool him without convincing him.

We are apt to think that the man is a beautiful writer who gladly signs a check for us whenever we desire one.

Occasionally a girl marries a millionaire because she wants him and every time because she wants the bank roll.

In arguing with a woman—or anybody else—the best way is to preserve a large and impressive silence on your end of the line.

ROWELL PLANS NEW CABINET

Would Supplant Sir Adam Beck With Party Follower.

Toronto, Ont., June 27.—Exactly what Mr. Rowell would do to form a Cabinet were he placed in the premier's chair on Monday is a matter of amused speculation in the political camps here. It is understood that Mr. Rowell regards C. A. Moss who is running in a Toronto riding as one of his right-hand men. But Mr. Moss has been convicted in public and on his own admissions, as the solicitor for Seagram's Distillery, and a patron of the open bar, as well as being periodically in the employ of Mackenzie and Mann. However Mr. Rowell hopes to have Mr. Moss help him in Abolish-the-Bar legislation, also in advancing public ownership.

Mr. Rowell is building high expectations on his promises to the French-Canadians, and would find at least one cabinet position for a member of the bi-lingual school faction. Mr. Sam Clarke, "the humorist of the Liberal party" and a retail merchant of Cobourg until recently, is understood to be slated as Minister of Public Works or of Agriculture, with Wm. Proudfoot as Attorney-General. Sir Adam Beck would be immediately supplanted by a Liberal, said to be C. M. Bowman of West Bruce, and the Hydro-Electric project would be trusted to his or similarly expert custody. Mr. Rowell's proposed Minister of Education is believed to be allocated already to a military officer, Col. Mayberry, and the portfolio of Finance is intended for J. C. Elliott of West Middlesex. Hon. W. J. Hanna's great prison reform undertaking which has won Ontario international commendation would be handed over to Dr. McQueen, so the story goes, and the projects for the re-making of Northern Ontario now in the direction of Hon. W. H. Hearst would probably be given to Z. Mageau of Sturgeon Falls or W. E. Raney a Toronto lawyer. Mr. Rowell would have in addition between six and eight Liberal members who have sworn publicly not to support him in his temperance scheme. J. L. Englehart, the genius of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway is also slated for dismissal, a party follower taking his place.

Care of Milk and Cream

The souring of milk and cream is caused by a form of bacteria that get into milk and cream from the air and that multiply and grow very fast when the temperature of the milk or cream is above 65 degrees Fahrenheit. The most favorable temperature for the growth of this bacteria is between 90 and 95 degrees or the temperature milk is just after it is drawn.

The first thing to do to keep milk and cream in good condition in warm weather is to cool the milk or cream as soon as possible. If the milk is to be disposed of as milk, it should be cooled immediately after milking. Get the milk into cold water within half an hour from the time the cow is milked. Immediately is better. If the milk is to be separated, separate as soon as possible after milking and then cool the cream. In the sale of milk or sweet cream, this is important.

Ordinary well water will do for cooling, if drawn fresh from the well and frequently changed. Ice, of course, is of great advantage, but in the absence of ice, well water will do. For a single can nothing is more practical than a half-barrel for a water tank. A few wet sacks or a wet canvas thrown over this will answer for a cover.

When milk or cream has to be shipped any distance, it will pay to have a cooler over which the milk or cream may to run to cool more quickly. In the absence of this, it should be stirred frequently.

Cool and cool quickly and keep cool is the first principle in keeping milk or cream sweet in summer.

Use scalding water as a second precaution. Wash all milk utensils thoroughly and then use boiling water. Strainer cloths and cans need special attention. When a strainer cloth does not smell as sweet as a piece of new cheese cloth, it is not in fit condition to strain milk. When a can does not smell fresh it is in no condition to receive milk. Use a brush in washing and some good washing powder. Set all the milk utensils out in the sun during the day.

Wash the separator every time it is used. Whatever dirt there may be in milk remains in the separator (though the effect goes on with the cream, and when the separator is allowed to stand without washing till the next separation, it is in very bad condition for the fresh milk to go through.

Wash the cows' udders when they need it, and that will be quite often when there are low places in the pasture through which the cows wallow. Farmers who make a study of producing high-grade milk and cream make a practice of washing the udders every milking.

Have a wet canvas to throw over the cans on the way to the creamery or shipping station.

EXCURSIONISTS SCARED.

Panic Breaks Out on Steamer When Fire Is Discovered.

BARRIE, June 27.—Crowded with passengers, chiefly women and children, the Lake Simcoe Navigation Co.'s steamer Otonabee caught fire while out on the lake, bound for Barrie, late Thursday. Prompt work with axes and hose saved the boat, which had been turned head on to the shore at full speed.

The fire started in the woodwork at the top deck around the big smoke stack and finally a woman noticed smoke. It was the signal for a rush to the lifebelts, and women became hysterical and vainly tried to fasten on the belts. The Otonabee had on board two hundred members of the Northern Baptist convention.

Fire at Duart.

HIGHGATE, Ont., June 27.—Fire which started about midnight in the village of Duart, three miles east of here, destroyed the old hostelry known as the Koehler House, Ganges' cabinet shop, Lawrence Bros.' general store, a vacant store, several barns, and other smaller frame buildings. A bucket brigade was the only means of fighting the fire, which consumed everything within reach.

Montreal Boy Found Dead.

MONTREAL, June 27.—With his feet embedded in the mud and lying on his back, the dead body of three-year-old Arthur Duhaime, who had been missing from his home, 399 Monk Boulevard, Villa Emard, since nine o'clock Thursday morning, was found at noon yesterday in a mud hole, amongst the brush, in a field at the extreme end of Halton street.

Lady Girouard Divorced.

LONDON, July 27.—Lady Mary Girouard was yesterday granted divorce from Sir Edouard Percy Girouard of Montreal. The suit was undefended. Sir Percy secured fame through his engineering operations on the railways in South Africa during the war. He is a French-Canadian.

Hydro at St. Catharines.

ST. CATHARINES, June 27.—Hydro lights were unofficially tried on three streets of St. Catharines last night, and to-night the mayor will officially turn on the current.

Justice of Peace Dies.

OWEN SOUND, June 27.—A tragedy is reported from Flesherton, where Justice of the Peace McGill expired yesterday morning while sitting on a case with Magistrate McMullen. After hearing the evidence, Mr. McGill was just remarking that the case should never have been brought to trial, when he collapsed. He was dead when those about him raised him up.

Mr. McGill was a leading resident and former township auditor. He was station agent for the C. P. R. for many years and was unmarried.

Siegel and Vogel To Be Tried.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Henry Siegel and Frank N. Vogel, prime movers in a chain of department stores which failed some time ago, and under indictment for grand larceny and violation of the state banking laws, will be tried in Geneseo, Livingstone County, in October. This has been decided by Supreme Court Justice Blanchard here. Recently the defendants were granted a change of venue on the ground that the public was influenced against them in New York City. Thousands of poor depositors had their funds tied up in the failure of the Siegel private bank.

THE SPORTING WORLD

PETES HAD TWO RUN VICTORY

Some four hundred fans withstood the pangs of hunger till six-thirty last evening and then took a lot of abuse at home for being late, in order to witness Curley Blount's men take the second game of the series from the aggregation bearing the trade mark of St. Thomas. It was one of those listless games where both teams tried to boot the game every time they took the field. The pleasing feature was that the Petes solved the little puzzle Ray Clements had up his sleeve last year, falling on him for hits almost at leisure. Midge Craven sent Wilkinson on the mound, but he lasted just one innings and the duties were taken up by the above mentioned Mr. Clements. The last named gentleman made the Petes stand on their ear every time he opposed them last season, but he could not do it yesterday. Joe Byrne was the leading swat fiend, getting three bingles and two charities out of five trips to the plate.

Ken Tracey posed on the rubber in the start for the locals, but gave way to Knute Belting, who got by and that was all. Neither he nor Clements showed real goods, it being anybody's game till the last bat was in the bag. The first circuit wallop on local grounds was also ushered in to make the p.m. bill more complete. The winner of the box of Perfections was Kustus, the middle gardener for the visitors. There was no one on in the fifth, and one man down when he clouted the pill along the first base line and into the drink. The ball looked to be foul, and the fans raised a big howl, but Freeman thought different, and as usual in such cases, the players went by his decision.

Mr. Rowell does not tell the people that they can abolish the bars now if they want to, under existing laws. This is pretty good evidence that his policy is power at any price.

BUSY BEES WON

A very snappy game of baseball was played yesterday afternoon at the Queen Mary School diamond, between the Busy Bees and the Western Warriors. The Busy Bees won of course by a score of 35-12. There was some good plays made by the winners and four double plays were worked. Fuller was pitcher for the winners while Schweier did the receiving. Blondon and Webb had a three bagger for the winners while Greene had one for the losers. Schweier, Sharpe, Graham, Killingbeck and Blondon all had two base hits.

LACROSSE TEAM LOST AT NORWOOD IN HARD GAME

The local lacross club journeyed to Norwood yesterday and dropped a hard fought game 5-4. The homesters scored three right off the reel before the Petes found their bearing, but the locals soon had their lead cut down to one. Norwood added another, making it 4-2 before half time, but Dillon's crew came strong after the resting period and tied it up. The game was almost over when the villagers secured another counter and it won the game for them.

The Peterboro lineup was as follows:—Fleming, goal; Dillon, point; Mein, cover; Kennalley, 1st defence; Crough, 2nd defence; Dunford, centre; Halpin, 1st home; McCoy, 2nd home; Robertson, inside home; Manlon, outside home.

Rev. Father Kelly refereed the game to the satisfaction of all.

COMMENT
As You Like It

Jim Duffy, of the Ramblers' Club, of Hamilton, Canada's premier long-distance runner, is no longer an amateur. At a special meeting of the Registration Committee of the Ontario Amateur Union, Duffy's card was cancelled, and he was disqualified from taking part in amateur sports for the rest of his career.

Accepting money for a foot race at Kingston, a month ago, was the cause of Duffy's expulsion. From the evidence gathered, Duffy took a small sum of money, and the evidence was so strong against him that he hadn't a leg to stand on.

Duffy was matched against Edward Fabre, the Montreal runner who finished second to Duffy in the Boston Marathon. Fabre at the time was under suspension by the Quebec Union for competing under two clubs. In spite of this thirty-day suspension, Fabre came up and ran against Duffy. The Kingston promoters were told by Walter Trivett, of the Amateur Union, that the race must not take place. Both the promoters and the runners took a chance, with the Kingston people handing out the money. For this defiance Fabre was suspended for a year. Duffy was also suspended, and when Trivett investigated, the Kingston people told all, turned King's evidence, and showed both men up.

With the passing of Duffy out of the amateur ranks Canada loses the greatest distance runner since the days of Longboat. Duffy was the hope of the Canucks for the German Olympiad in 1916. Barring Jim Corkery, Duffy was the best runner at the long distance game, and his record since coming to Canada, three years ago, entitled him to the championship. His victory in the Boston Marathon, when he defeated the man that ultimately brought about his downfall, was the crowning point of his career.

Duffy's entrance into Canadian sports was unheralded. Fred Smith, physical director of the Central Y.M.C.A., entered Duffy in the Ward Marathon in 1911. After a terrific battle with Bob O'Brien, Duffy finished second. The next year he won the race. In the fall of 1912, after his return from the Swedish Olympiad, where he finished fifth in the Marathon against 200 runners, the pick of the world (Duffy being the first Canuck to finish), he won the Hamilton Herald race, and broke Mellors' old mark. He won a number of other races besides, finishing in a score of others. With the exception of three races, Duffy never finished outside the money.

Many a man performs his work as though he thought he was doing his employer a favor.

Port Hope Guide.

On Wednesday, June 24th, at 12 o'clock the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Mattries, on John Street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding when their younger daughter, Ethel Mildred, was united in marriage to Mr. James Greenly, of Campbellford, Ontario.

The bride, who was given away by her father wore an ivory satin gown and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mildred Micks, of Peterboro, was bridesmaid and wore maize silk crepe with bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Harold Nancarrow of Campbellford was best man and Mrs. A. E. Micks, of Peterboro, played the wedding music.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. S. LaFlair under an arch of orange blossoms and ferns. The house was tastefully decorated throughout with palms, ferns and roses.

After the ceremony about thirty guests enjoyed an elaborate luncheon prepared by Hughes of Port Hope. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl and gold necklace, to the bridesmaid a gold bracelet, to the best man gold cuff links. The happy couple left for a western trip and on their return will reside in Campbellford. The guests from out of town were from Niagara Falls, Toronto, Peterboro, Colbone, Trenton and Campbellford.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. James' Methodist Church, Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Eliza Semper of this city was united in marriage to Mr. Isaac Hammond of Chamberlain Street, by Rev. J. N. Clarry.

After the ceremony, a sumptuous repast was served at the home of Mr. James McMillian, Monaghan Road. A very pleasant evening was spent after which the happy couple left for their home at 605 Chamberlain Street, City.

PUPILS OF MISS MARY LONERGAN GIVE RECITAL

The first recital given by the pupils of Miss Mary Lonergan, A.T.C.M., in the Recital Hall at the J. M. Greene Music Co., last night, testified very favorably for the ability of the pupils and the efficiency of Miss Lonergan as a teacher. The large number present were greatly impressed with the program, more particularly the part rendered by the small children. The arduous task of preparing these small children was undoubtedly well performed, as their work was exceptionally good.

Little Helen Warmington's solos brought forth considerable applause, as did the piano duets by Mildred Green and Mireatta Grisdale and Muriel Goslin and Margery Cox. Muriel Goslin's rendition of Krogmann's "In Slumberland" was also very well executed. Miss K. Masterson sang "When You Are Near" in good voice and the solos of Miss Ella Lynch likewise found favor. The piano solo of Miss Genevieve Garvey and the duet rendered by her and Miss Boyle were exceptionally well played.

This was the first recital, and, as would be expected, the participants were more or less nervous, but their ability gives promise that their appearance on the program of future musical entertainments will add materially for their success.

The following was the program:

Duet, "Little Fairy March," Mildred Greene and Mireatta Grisdale.

Piano Solo, "Carnation," Margery Cox.

Piano Solo, "Reflections," Miss Ella Lynch.

Duet, "Fan Dance," Misses Boyle and Garvey.

Piano Solo, "Nightingale," Miss Lulu McGill.

Vocal Solo, "Forgotten," Miss Ella Lynch.

Duet, "Sweet Remembrance," Misses Mable and Grace Whitby.

TESTIMONY OF THE ALLIANCE ORGAN AND ROWELL POLICY

(Pioneer, June 14, 1912)

The Ontario local option law, as approved and administered under the guidance of the present Ontario Government, is a remarkbly successful piece of legislative work.

Since Sir James Whitney took office it has been very much improved, and its adoption and enforcement have been greatly facilitated. There is no movement or desire to have even the present improved Canada Temperance Act substituted for it as a weapn against the liqour evil.

The Canada Temperance Act, having been passed for the whole Dominion, could not be expected to be quite as well adapted to the necessities of Ontario as would be a law with a similar object passed by the Legislature of Ontario fully familiar with Ontario conditions and requirements.

The Ontario Government and Legislature have developed law-enforcing machinery fitted to the details of their own legislation, and the working of that law is now so well understood that it goes on with comparatively little difficulty, and with an immense amount of success. Outside the fact that it is applicable to places that have no municipal organization there is probably one good feature of the Canada Temperance Act that is not to be found—and often in more effective form—in the local option legislation, that is the fact that it my be adopted by a majority of the electors voting upon it. As matters now stand, local option by-laws are the best legislative weapons with which to fight the liquor traffic.

COUNTRY LIFE

Hardly any crop is free from wire worm ravages. Corn, roots, and vegetables of all kinds suffer in turn; and hop and strawberry plants and tomatoes often receive serious injuries from these insects.

If the chickens appear drousy, hang their wings and stagger when they walk, lok for the big head lice which borne into the skull and affect the brain.

Sometimes the wing feathers of little chicks grow so fast that they become too heavy for the chick to carry and in that case they should be clipped off close to the wing with a pair of shears.

There are several good remedies for the deadly head lice on chicks, but if they cannot be obtained it is well to use lard, plain vaseline, or carbolated vaseline, being careful to thoroughly grease the head and upper part of the neck of each chick.

Little ducklings which have not sufficient shade are likely to suffer from sunstroke during hot weather. They will stiffen on the ground and apparently be dead, but will sometimes recover if placed in the shade and their heads bathed in cool water.

Common baking powder is one of the best remedies for the removal of warts and corns. Bind on wet, and moisten the soda several times a day. The warts and corns will quickly disappear.

If your oven will not brown your pastry as well as you would like, put the cakes or tarts on the upper tray, and throw a little sugar on the floor of the oven.

Always put a cauliflower in plain water so as to draw out any insects. If salt is placed in the water it kills the insects, and they are left in the vegetable.

Evangelists to Speak.

Tonight at the corner of George and Brock Streets Evangelists Irving and Benner will speak at an open-air service and will also speak at the Gospel Hall on Sunday. They will give addresses Sunday evening at the services in Central Park. Mr. G. W. Mulligan will sing My Saviour's Love.

LAST MESSAGES ARE ISSUED

Canon Walsh Condemns Ministers' Action

TORONTO, June 27.—Final messages to the electors of Ontario, were issued yesterday by the opposing leaders in the provincial general election.

Premier Sir James P. Whitney says:

"The great majority of the clergymen of Ontario are entitled to and have the confidence of the people. But a small minority among them, anxious above everything else to turn my Government out of office, are not ashamed to come out openly and denounce from their pulpits, in violent and unbecoming language, all who dare to support the Government, as bad citizens and bad men. In a British and a Christian country such conduct is intolerable, and I respectfully call upon all self-respecting men in their congregations to resent this conduct in a way that these men will never forget.

(Signed) "J. P. Whitney."

Liberal Leader N. W. Rowell says:

"Ontario is against the Bar. The people will have the opportunity of wiping it out on Monday. I believe the men of Ontario will rise above party ties and affiliations and take advantage of the opportunity. I appeal to the young men of Ontario. I appeal to the women of Ontario, who have suffered from the curse of the open bar. We promise to pass legislation completely wiping out Club and Hotel Licenses; to amend the Local Option law; to make Local Option county wide; to impose further restrictions as may be necessary to limit operations of the traffic; to put into effect our tax reform proposals.

(Signed) "N. W. Rowell."

Canon Walsh on Hustings.

ST. CATHARINES, June 27.—Rev. Canon Walsh of Brampton made his appearance on a political platform here last night in support of Dr. Jessop and Sir James Whitney and against what he termed the hypocrisy of N. W. Rowell. He said he had no hesitancy in declaring his confidence in the Government, and his belief in its honesty, and expressed regret that so many ministers of the gospel were introducing politics into the pulpit in support of the "banish the bar policy."

Mr. Rowell at Thamesville.

THAMESVILLE, Ont., June 27.—With the electoral battle drawing towards a close, Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., speaking to a largely attended meeting here yesterday afternoon in the open air, made a statement, in which he said:

"This campaign has witnessed a spirit of courage, devotion and self-sacrifice, in the face of a great issue, unequalled in our history. Men have felt that the place of honor was in the front line of the battle and in the thickest of the fight. They have fought like heroes, for they have been fighting for their homes, for their wives and for their children against the curse of the open bar."

WELL KNOWN PRIEST IS EXCOMMUNICATED

SARNIA, June 27.—The Catholic Register of Toronto announces that Father Gnam, the well-known Petrolea and Wyoming priest, has been excommunicated. The excommunication follows trouble between Father Gnam and Bishop Fallon of London, arising over the dismissal of an organist in Father Gnam's church some two or three years ago. The matter has been in the courts ever since.

The well-known Wyoming priest paid a visit to a local newspaper office yesterday, and, discussing the affair, he stated that he intends to publish a history of the whole affair from its beginning. Letters from a brother of the woman organist to Father McKeon will be published. Father Gnam states that he does not understand why Bishop Fallon does not receive the same censure of excommunication as himself.

TEN THOUSAND OUT OF WORK

MONTREAL, June 27.—Ten thousand able-bodied men are walking the streets in Montreal, unable to obtain employment. The vast majority of them are Bulgarians, Russians and Austrians, recenty arrivals, and there are many from England and Scotland also. These immigrants are being brought in by the boatload, and the congestion is becoming worse from week to week. The situation is regarded as serious, considerating that it is not midsummer yet.

PROTESTANT FEDERATION.

Every member of the Protestant Benevolent Federation is requested to meet in the S.O.E. Hall Sunday at 6 p.m. to join in the church parade. Percival G. S. Webb, secretary.

When the present Government came into power a liquor dealer could supply any child with liquor on the order of the child's parent. In 1905, under that government, an amendment was passed forbidding this, and since then no liquor dealer can legally supply a child with liquor, with or without an order. Further, by an act passed in 1909, any person under 21 years of age supplied with liquor can be compelled to state under oath from whom he obtained such liquor.

A NEW CURE

In these days of Christian Science, serums, anti-toxins and New Thought it takes a bold man to announce an entirely different yet very successful cure for suffering humanity. Not a cure-all, however, be it understood, any more than the above-named. For instance, the new remedy is of no avail for broken bones, smallpox, rheumatism or even toothache; not to mention a few hundred other disagreeable items.

But it is a fact that if only the mind can be agreeably diverted, many a suffering man or woman can be relieved and Nature allowed to do the work of rehabilitation without the disadvantage of worry and mental anxiety. And doctors and scientists both agree that in many cases, even of apparently serious disease, if only the mind can be so diverted, even temporarily, that cures will naturally result.

At any rate, our cure can do you no harm, so if you are nervous or worried about anything, no matter how blue the prospects, just join our happy family of contestants in the Summer Pastime, do not break away and the sun of peace and contentment will shine forth for you once more. It is open to all, young and old, rich and poor, male and female; and the daily results are fine with the possible outcome of prize-winning—a glorious future prospect. Come on in and be happy!

PETERBOROUGH, ONT., SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1914

PRICE 2 CENTS

THE GERMAN MENACE

The "National Review" for June contains an article entitled "Germany and Ourselves," from the pen of Capt. Bertrand Stewart, who was for two years the inmate of a German prison, and writes from personal experience.

His trial and conviction, which raised a storm at the time, will be remembered by many.

"Let us," he writes, "understand Germany's position.

"She has learnt that the policy of open hostility to England at all times does not pay, because it keeps us too much on the qu ivive, and because it strengthens the hands of those who urge that full preparations should be made to meet any German act of aggression. Hence a show of friendliness has been assumed in the hope that she may obtain concessions from us, and that the British nation, with its proverbially short memory, will be lulled into a feeling of false security. But what is really her present position as regards ourselves? There have been pleasant speeches by the German Ambassador. But has there been a reduction of one soldier or one sailor as a proof of this friendliness? On the contrary?

"If the change of attitude indicated a real change of feeling towards England, it should have been accompanied by at least a decrease in the German navy."

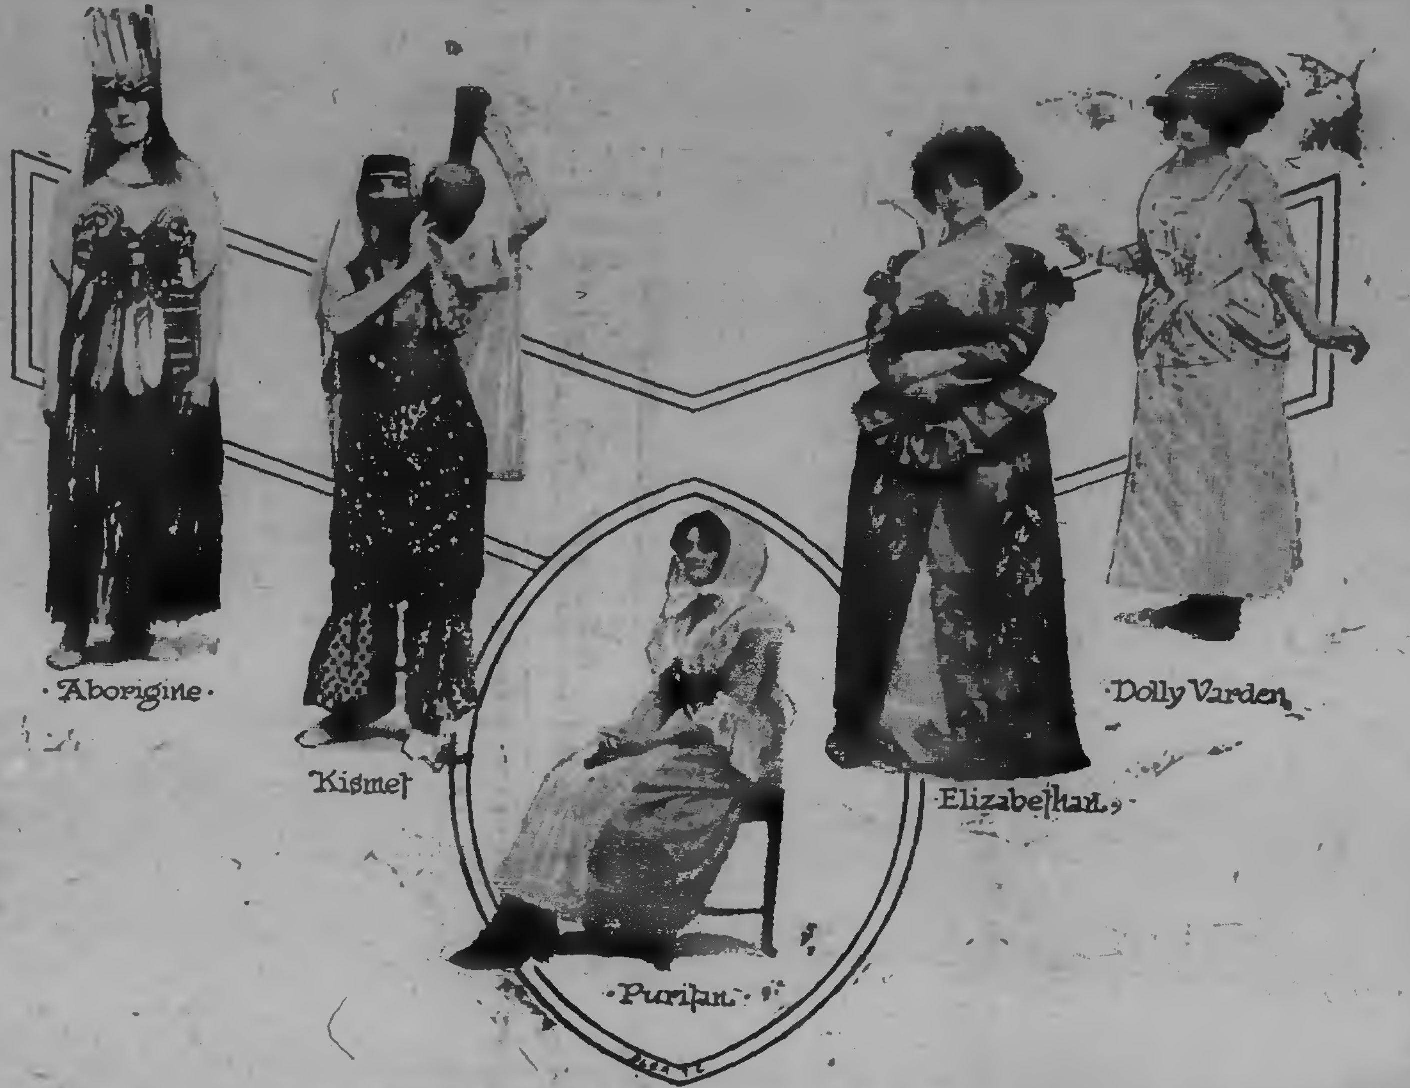
After dealing with the hunger for more land which the German Government do their utmost to foster amongst their people, and with the teaching of some of their leading writers that this land can be most easily obtained from us by war or threats of war, he adds: "But besides land and money there are things of at least equal value to our people which we should sacrifice were we to give Germany her longed-for opportunity. Those are freedom and the right to justice on all occasions." He them compares our system of justice with the German. Among many extraordinary details he tells us that a prisoner may be kept six months in a cell waiting for a "trial timed to suit the political exigencies of the moment. A penniless agent provocateur, the creature of the Government—and already convicted of every sort of crime—may try, but fail, to provoke the commission of some act against the law and yet be the only witness against the prisoner. The man's perjury, admitted in the secrecy of the Magistrate's room—as the Prosecution is careful to arrange—counts for nothing. Then, worst of all, a prisoner may be tried behind closed doors despite all his protests; lying statements, which the prisoner is given no chance to deny in public, may be published for political purposes; and a judgment given absolutely contrary to the evidence and the admissions of the prosecution because it may be politically useful, or an agitation may be in progress for more ships."

"All this, according to their standard, is justice, and according to their view is right. Is this, and the Sabre Law exemplified at Zabern, and the treatment of their conquered provinces, a system which the most callout amongst us would wish to see imposed on any of our people, whatever their race?

We must realise that the preservation of the priceless blessings of freedom and justice depends on our keeping ourselves strong enough to prevent Germany defeating us and forcing her system and her 'justice' on our people.

"When Germany increases her armaments, we must do likewise. When Germany reduces her armaments, we can think of doing likewise, but not till then.

"Never must we by any show of friendliness or by any soft words, whoever may be the spokesman, be lulled into a feeling of security. The methods of the ruling class in Germany change, but behind it all, with their ever-increasing naval and military forces, they always pursue their unaltered aim. Co-operation throughout the Empire, real efficiency in all branches of our defensive Services, and the readiness of everyone to take his share in the defence of the Mother Country and the great Dominions can alone bring us security."



COSTUMES WORN AT THE ANGLO-AMERICAN PEACE CENTENARY BALL.

Two processions of fantastically gowned guests were the chief features of the Anglo-American Peace Cetenary Ball held recently in Albert Hall, London. In one there was represented the aboriginal inhabitants of North America, the Elizabethan settlers, the Pilgrim Fathers, the Dutch, the French and the Quakers. In another procession Britannia was followed by representatives of all the British possessions. Some of the costumes worn are shown in the accompanying picture. They are especially designed for the occasion and were worn by prominent social leaders.

IS UNFOUNDED

Hindu Entry Story is Squelched

OTTAWA, June 26.—"Absolutely unfounded and wholly contrary to the facts," was the declaration of Sir Robert Borden yesterday, respecting the story that the load of Hindus at Vancouver are to be admitted to Canada as a result of representations by the British Government.

"The provisions of the law," added the Premier, "will be strictly enforced."

The report that the whole case is to be submitted to the courts is not confirmed here. It is anticipated that the inquiry board will soon deliver its judgment in the pending cases, and that there will be little further delay in the sailing home of the Komagata Maru.

Town Sold For $1.

DENVER, June 26.—The town of Bulger, Col., has been sold for the cash consideration of $1. H. M. Aylesworth, the purchaser, will plant oats on the main street and will build a corral on the site of the Bulger Hotel. The ornamental street lighting system of the town will be left intact.

Bulger was founded three years ago by Col. James Bulger, soldier of fortune, now awaiting trial charged with murder.

Told To Tolerate Them.

EDMONTON, Alta., June 26.—A. C. Lancey, recently dismissed from his position as chief of police, testifying before the police investigating tribunal, declared that when he was appointed Mayor McNamara advised him to let houses of ill-fame run so long as there were no complaints from the neighbors. Several aldermen concurred, also a police commissioner, the latter stipulating that there should be a few raids to "make a splash."

THE RIDEAU CANAL

Early Highway Into Upper Canada Was a Remarkable Job.

To the Duke of Wellington, "The Iron Duke," Canada owes the building of the Rideau Canal, that historic military waterway that connects the Ottawa River with Lake Ontario at Kingston, and which was the great highway over which most of the early pioneers had to find their way into what was then called Upper Canada.

In 1812, the British Government, whose attention had been called to the importance of this route, sent out engineers to look over the country for the purpose of reporting upon the advisability of improving and deepening the connections between the lakes and building locks to make navigation possible for transport craft and the larger boats operating upon the Ottawa River at that time; the engineers in their report discouraged the idea. Some years aafterwards, the Duke of Wellington, being impressed by the importance of the project, both from a strategic, as well as a transportation point of view, brought pressure to bear on the British Parliament to authorize the undertaking. In 1828 a corps of Royal Engineers, with sappers and miners, was sent out to Canada to build the canal. The excavation and rock work, which was of a very heavy nature was done by the soldiers and the masonry work by the Canadian contractors under the supervision of the Royal Engineers. The massiveness and solidity of the work are a tribute to the great thoroughness with which such construction was performed under military supervision. The material used for the locks and dams were huge blocks of granite, many tons in weight; they have been in place nearly one hundred years, yet the work looks as if it had but recently been completed.

There are forty-six locks, some of them involving large diversions of water courses, and the building of enormous embankments. Perhaps the best example of the work is the large dam at Jones' Falls, an immense structure of horse-shoe form holding back the waters of Sand Lake. This was considered one of the most remarkable pieces of engineering of its day, four hundred feet long, ninety feet high and three hundred feet wide at the base. It stands to-day without a flaw and hardly a sign of leakage. The work on the canal was completed in 1832. It cost about five millions, a comparatively small sum; it is estimated that if the work had to be done today it would cost close on a hundred million dollars.

It is said that when the Government wanted to purchase the land for Davis Lock, the settler who lived there stipulated that he should receive as much silver as he could carry away upon his back as the price of the land; all payments at that time being made in silver dollars, his offer was accepted, and he was allowed to load in a sack all the silver he thought he could lift. This he carried up the hill after much labor and deposited it in a hole in the rocks; next day the old man died of strain as the result of his cupidity, and to this day no one has ever found out where he put the money.

HUGE FIRM ASSIGNS.

H. B. Claflin Co. Has Liabilities of $34,000,000.

NEW YORK, June 26.—Failure to secure financial aid from J. P. Morgan & Co. and other Wall street banking interests was followed by the failure of the big drygoods firm of E. B. Claflin & Co., announcement of which was made yesterday.

These bankers, it was learned, advanced the company several million dollars about two weeks ago, but the hundreds of note-holding banks throughout the country continued to press their claims until it became evident that practically the whole $30,000,000 would have to be raised to save the company from failure.

The bankers believed that a receivership and a reorganization of the E. B. Claflin Co., which would include it's separation from the United Dry Goods Co. and the Associated Merchants Co., was the wisest course to pursue. At this meeting Mr. Claflin is said to have announced his intention to resign from the two latter concerns.

From 3,000 to 5,000 banks in all parts of the United States compose the bulk of the Claflin creditors.

The Claflin collapse is regarded as the biggest mercantile failure in the history of the United States.

Hamilton Firm Not Affected.

HAMILTON, June 26.—The management of Thomas C. Watkins, Limited, yesterday gave out a statement regarding the failure of the Claflin firm in New York, to the effect that, though it was connected with that concern, the business here has been exceedingly successful, has no overdue liabilities, and is amply able to meet all obligations. It will carry on its business as usual.

The Popping Stone.

"The popping stone" marks the spot where Sir Walter Scott asked Miss Carpenter to marry him. It is situated in the beautiful valley of the Irthing, at Gilsland, an inland watering place near Carlisle. The popping stone is visited by many thousands during the summer months, and it is said many a laggard lover has had his courage screwed up to popping point at this romantic spot. In the immediate neighborhood may also be seen "Mumps Ha," which Scott immortalized in "Guy Mannering," while a little farther afield the Roman wall and Lanercost priory prove attractions to visitors to Gilsland.—London Chronicle.

Business Is Business.

Judge Lumley Smith tells a story of two eminent K.C.'s who happened one day to see a serious street accident. One of them seized the other by the arm and hurried him away.

"Come away quick!" he exclaimed. "We mustn't stop, or they'll make us witnesses in the case instead of sending us briefs to conduct the action for damages." — Pearson's Weekly.

Method.

Every great man exhibits the talent of organization or construction, whether it be in a poem, a philosophical system, a policy or a strategy. And without method there is no organization or construction.—Bulwer.

HINTS AND TIPS FOR MOTORISTS

Don't waste perfectly good time on air valves for tire. Buy a card of a dozen at the beginning of the season, carry them on the car in a sealed envelope, and use them freely. Just as soon as you suspect one of leaking, screw it out and put a new one in its place. The old one may be all right, dipping in kerosene and then in gasoline will clean it off, so that it can be examined thoroughly. If good, it may be kept, but the cost of the new ones is so little, by the dozen, as to make bothering with a poor valve a waste of time.

If you have no dimmer on the headlights, nor any means of reducing their glare, make a circle out of a fairly heavy bond paper to fit the inside fo the lamps. Cut a hole not over 1-inch in diameter in the exact center of this. Make about two sets of these and carry them on the car in a handy place. Then when entering a city, it takes but a minute to open the headlight, slip one in and close it again. The semi-transparent paper will allow enough light to pass for all practical purposes, and there will be no glare.

Occasionally a valve cap will stick, and defy all ordinary efforts to loosen it. When this occurs, run your engine for a little while, until the cap is heated, then pour a small amount of water in the recess of the cap, this causes a sudden cooling, which makes a contraction, thereby allowing the cap to be easily unscrewed.

Small sheet metal wind deflectors so arranged that the air from the fan shall be thrown more directly upon the cylinders, will remedy overheating.

In replacing a piston in a cylinder it is best to first catch the connecting rod to the crank shaft, and then slip the cylinder over the piston. Otherwise the piston may slip so far into the firing chamber that one ring will catch and be difficult to withdraw.

An Old Paper Reports Burial of Gen. Brock

An interesting old paper, yellow with age, has recently come into the possession of the Niagara Historical Society. "The York Gazette, volume 22, Saturday, Oct. 24th, 1812, No. 9, $4.00 per annum, York, Upper Canada—Printer to the King's most Excellent Majesty."

Such is the heading. The paper measures 10x12 inches, and the four sides contain proclamations of which there are four, besides the news from London, Boston, Savannah, Gottonburg, Kingston, etc. One page is devoted to an account of General Brock's burial, and an address to Major General Sheaffe, and the next page has a copy of a letter found on an American officer taken at the battle of Queenston on October 13th, evidently written the night before, and refers to the intended crossing of the river.

The account of the burial of Brock gives the order of procession and the names of the mourners and officials. On the last page is the ad. headed "Education of John Strachan, who has been nominated teacher, and gives the price per annum at his seminary: Common education, five pounds per annum, while classical education is £8, classical currency.

The paper is in a good state of preservation, and its contents most interesting to those interested in the early history of our country.

QUALITY IN EGGS

"The Payment for Eggs According to Quality" is the subject of pamphlet No. 6 of the Poultry Division of the Live Stock Branch, prepared by W. A. Brown, J. H. Hare and W. H. Ault. This pamphlet points out that as a result of the "flat rate" or "case count" system of purchasing, Canadian farmers, during the past ten years, have lost annually large sums of money through marketing many bad and inferior eggs. Investigation into this phase of the poultry industry evinced the fact that while the wholesalers were not themselves directly responsible for the losses and shrinkage, they had at their disposal the most effective means for improvement, viz: The making of a difference, not only between the prices paid for good and bad eggs, but also between the prices paid for the various grades of good eggs. The objects of this pamphlet are to encourage the grading of eggs, which can only be done by the use of an egg tester; the payment of eggs according to quality, thus placing a premium on first class eggs, and the adoption of a uniform system of marketing, which would protect not only the producer and the consumer but also the merchant. Copies of this pamphlet may be obtained free upon application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

G. T. P. To Raise $10,000,000.

LONDON, June 26.—(C. A. P. Cable.)—Ten million dollars' worth of one-year bills were placed yesterday by the Grand Trunk Railway on the basis of 4 3-4 per cent. These are secured on Grand Trunk 4 per cent. debenture stock, taken at the value of 70, which is considerably below the market price, and are repayable on July 15, 1918.

The money, it is explained, is required for the financing of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and various branch lines. It is intended during the coming years to dispose of bonds guaranteed by Dominion and Provincial Governments, the proceeds of which will be used to reimburse the Grand Trunk Railway Co. for amounts advanced.

Man must have some fears, hopes and cares for the coming morrow.—Schiller.

PRISON REFORM IS UNDERWAY

Visiting Physician to Supplement Attention

OTTAWA, June 26.—Reforms in the administration of the Kingston Penitentiary suggested by the royal commission, are being put into effect by the Department of Justice, and will, of course, be applied to the other penal institutions.

Convicts at Kingston who used to have on Sundays their last meal of the day in the early afternoon, are to have an evening meal. While knives are not to be allowed, a new kind of spoon and forks are to be furnished. The system of tubbing and hazing is to be abolished, or very sparingly resorted to, and in addition to the resident physician, a visiting physician is likely to be engaged. There have also been changes in the staff at Kingston.

The broader question of prison reform will be considered during the recess.

LONDON CLUBS ON DECLINE

Hotels Become More Popular —Are Cheaper and More Gay.

Inquiry by a London Standard representative at a number of the leading clubs in London has elicited the information that the enterprise of the hotel proprietors and restaurateurs is causing havoc among the clubs, especially the older ones, that exist merely for social intercourse.

"The reason," said a member of the House Committee of a famous Piccadilly club, "is that the clubs are behind the times. Their buildings are not kept up-to-date, their furnishings are dowdy, their members lack that sense of sociability that goes such a long way to make a popular club, and they have not the means to smarten up their club premises owing to the rapid decrease in membership and the thinning of the waiting lists. There was a time when every young aristocrat was put on the waiting list of his father's club, just as he was entered for his public school, while he was in his cradle. It was an essential thing in the life of a young man, especially if he lived in the country, that his club should be one of good standing, for the reason that to all intents and purposes his club was his London address. And for that privilege he was willing to pay a large entrance fee of from $50 to $100 and an annual subscription of 20 guineas.

"Of late years, however, the young man has become more business-like and has asked himself whether, all things considered, residence at an hotel is not a better investment. A club is not a cheerful abode for a young man, as the older members resent noises and conversation, and he will go where things are more cheerful. There is no need, however, to anticipate that the London club is doomed; a relaxation of the strenuous conditions of membership of the best clubs would soon see them filled up. The club must become more democratic, and in that it must follow the trend of the life of the aristocracy in London."

"I regard the members of some of the clubs as 'sphinxes behind newspapers,'" said a young member of Brooks' Club. "Silence is enjoined as rigorously as in the reading-room of the British Museum, and when one begins to tell a friend the latest funny story there is a chorus of dissent from the readers. I rarely go into the club nowadays, although I have paid my subscription for years, and I am thinking of sending in my resignation."

Meals are cheaper and gayer in hotels and restaurants than in the clubs. In an hotel one may speak to another man without the formality of an introduction, but in some clubs such an action would be regarded as improper, and resentment of it would be manifested by a cold stare or a snub.

Didn't Know "Shorts."

The British House of Commons (always ready for the lighter mood) has been giggling over the question of "shorts." It hardly recognized the name of the garment demanded by members of our defensive forces, who prefer these to trousers. But every rowing man knows the rowing "shorts" which are only a precarious loin-cloth during his strenuous race from start to finish.—London Chronicle.

FACTS THAT ROWELL WOULD LIKE TO HIDE

Whitney's advanced laws have banished 1,000 bars from Ontario in less than ten years.

Rowell's whole political career has been occupied with apologizing for Liberal Governments that flouted temperance.

Whitney's laws abolish the bar whenever a community says it is ready.

Helpless to get into power on his record or his constructive ideals, Rowell stakes all on a stampede of "moral passion." "Abolish the Bar" never occurred to him until all other tricks were played.

The temperance sentiment of Ontario cannot be made the stake for a dice-pot.

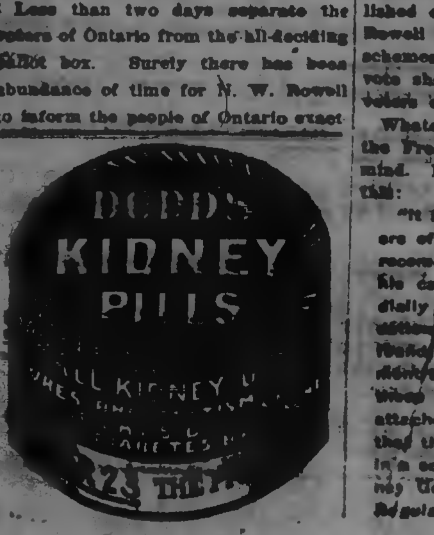
French Papers All For Rowell

"Vote Against the Whitney Government" Orders Le Canada—Rowell Plays For French Seats

Less than two days separate the voters of Ontario from the all-deciding ballot box. Surely there has been abundance of time for N. W. Rowell to inform the people of Ontario exactly what he intends to do with the English language in the public schools of Ontario should he, by any chance, be placed in power. Challenged and dared on a hundred platforms the Liberal leader sticks to his pro-French formula: "I would be glad to see our French-Canadian fellow-citizens receive an education in their mother tongue as well." He has refused day after day to clear away the doubt that naturally settles upon the minds of English-speaking people. Only half a day left for public speech or published confession and yet Leader Rowell insists that his pandering schemes to "land" the French-Canadian vote shall be swallowed by English voters as "satisfactory."

Whatever English voters may think the French newspapers are of one mind. Le Canada for instance, says this:

"It is not surprising that the leaders of the school movement should recommend voting for Rowell and his candidates. We can only cordially approve of this recommendation, hoping that there will be found such patriotism and attachment to their mother tongue amongst those of our compatriots who are attached to the Conservative party that the French-Canadians will vote in a solid phalanx against the Whitney Government, its inspectors and Regulation Seventeen."



BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 30 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

Teaching Him a Lesson.

"Is it true that you stopped your son's allowance when he married that pretty chorus girl?"

"Yes. I told him he needn't expect to get another dollar from me."

"How does he manage to live?"

"I have increased his mother's allowance about $10,000 a year."—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Awakening Industry.

In the window of a small general shop not far from New Cross Station in London may be observed a card bearing this inscription, "Workmen called early in the morning. Terms moderate." Such a notice is rarely to be seen in London nowadays, though the custom is an old one, and was much in vogue previous to the invention of the cheap alarm clock. The individual engaged in the "calling" is known as a "knocker-up," and a favorite method of awaking the would-be early-riser is by rapping on the bedroom window-pane with a stick or by throwing up small stones. In the North of England the "knocker-up" is still a familiar figure.

Why Not?

Mrs. Flatte—I see that twenty-one women are employed as railway brakemen and ten as baggagemen in the United States.

Mr. Flatte—Well, I see no reason why women shouldn't brake and smash things as well as men.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Difference.

"In these days, when a man thinks he has won his ladylove it is a case of hit or miss."

"In the primitive times when a man knocked down the girl he fancied it was a case of hit and miss."—Baltimore American.

How to Win a Prize

In The Review, there will be published each day, a rebus picture similar in size and idea to that shown below. There will be 75 pictures in all. Each represents the name of a well-known player of baseball, football, hockey or lacrosse. There are no dummies or false names—each and every rebus picture can be solved.

The rules printed in the adjoining columns will govern The Review Summer Pastime. One person, if industrious, may win as many as four prizes. Read what is printed here daily until you are familiar with the general conditions of the whole Pastime. The time spent is likely to be very profitable to you!

Open to Women, Men, Boys and Girls

Every reader of The Review has the right to enter this Pastime by using the Answer Forms. The arrangements and conditions are such that no knowledge of baseball, lacrosse, hockey or football is necessary. All can study with equal advantage. Start to-day and try it. Remember, there are eleven prizes!

Answer Form 1. Review's Summer Pastime

The Name Represented By the Picture Is

Aids to Winning

Study the picture carefully and consider how you may apply it to a person's name. The bust on the pedestal is that of a famous musical composer and the two musicians are his admirers. The conversation may give a clue to part of the name and the bust (or statue) may give the clue to another part of the name, although the last or surname will suffice.

The name of the player represented in the picture above is one of the following: Purtell, Pick, Oldham, Madden, Howley, Smith, Cunningham, Keller, Dooin, Couchman, Killifer, Shafer, Merkle, Wiltse, Otto Knabe, Tom Seaton, Archer, Hans Wagner, Whaling, Devlin, Dickson, Hyland, Rube Marquard, Bender, Gross, Rondeau, Doyle, Sandgrass, or Stock. WHICH? Study it out! Later on, we shall give no such clues, but we wish now to show you the way to proceed.

Keep your Answer Form in a safe place and await the picture in Tuesday's issue, which we intimate in advance will be that of a well-known Montreal player.

No knowledge of baseball, lacrosse, hockey or football is necessary. There is only one fully and logically correct answer to a picture. The Rules in adjoining columns state the simple conditions of the pleasurable Summer Pastime. Make a good start; and "keep at it."

RULES OF THE REVIEW'S SUMMER PASTIME

Read These and Keep Them Handy for References

A PLEASING GAME. The competition known as The Review Summer Pastime will be held through the columns of this newspaper beginning Monday, June 15th, and continuing for 75 days. In each issue of The Review there will be printed a rebus picture out of which the name of a baseball, hockey or football player can be made. The names are generally known throughout Canada, being published in newspapers frequently. A part of the names are Canadian and a part are from the important leagues of the United States.

HOW TO STUDY. See how a rebus picture will apply to any name you know. For example: MASON might be represented by a mason at work and WAGNER by a picture or statute of the famous musician. Only one name will logically fit any rebus picture when carefully analyzed. Although initials, first names or nicknames may be worked into rebus pictures as a guide to correct solving, it will suffice if surnames are written in Answer Form.

USE THE ANSWER FORM. Under each picture will be printed a numbered Summer Pastime Answer Form. On this the name of the player is to be written and when the series of Answer Form Coupons is completed, there will be 75 names. Only one name may be written on one Form. The contestant is to keep his or her Forms until the end of the series, then send to this office, the series of 75 with a separate list of the names written additionally on a form that will be printed in The Review after the last picture has appeared.

WINNERS. The person who sends in the set of 75 Answer Forms with largest number of correct names will be entitled to the first prize. If there should be a tie, then the prize will be evenly divided, unless there should be more than three participants tied for a prize, in which case those who have sent in sets of equal merit will be given a further opportunity to determine which shall win by solving a supplementary competition test. This rule will also apply to the lesser prizes. There will be no lottery or chance selection; all winners will be rewarded according to merit.

COMMITTEE. A Summer Pastime Committee of fair-minded persons of high standing, who have no personal interest in this establishment or in the Pastime, will be selected to ascertain the winners. The decision of the Committee shall be final and all who enter do so distinctly upon this understanding.

OPEN TO ALL. The Review's Summer Pastime is open to everybody—excepting employes of this newspaper establishment and their families—regardless of sex or age; and it makes no difference where a competitor lives, provided the package of Answer Forms is returned within the time allowed. There can be no favoritism of any kind.

HELP TO CONTESTANTS. As an aid to competitors who may not be familiar with the names of those who are associated with the games of baseball, lacrosse, hockey and football this year, a book has been published entitled "Summer Pastime Handbook" containing a selected list of about 2,500 players and including every one of the 75 names used in our Pastime. The book is so arranged as to present the easiest possible method of finding the desired names. The price of the handbook is 25 cents and is obtainable at the office of The Daily Review, 166-168 Hunter St., Peterborough, between 8 and 6 daily, or will be mailed on receipt of 26 cents in postage stamps. Additional to the information given in this book the purchaser will receive free, an extra supply of 75 Answer Forms which will have the same standing as those published in he Review. Any competitor who obtains this book is guaranteed that all the names illustrated by the rebus pictures can be found therein. Therefore it is possible to a mathematical certainty for a competitor to compile a correct list by due study.

COMBINATION. The Review's Summer Pastime, with its $150.00 in cash rewards, is being operated by The Peterborough Daily Review and in The Peterborough Weekly Review. Readers of The Daily Review who may wish to give distant friends the pleasure of participating in the Summer Pastime, as well as enjoying a wholesome weekly periodical of unusual interest, should call their attention to this opportunity, or better still, subscribe to the Weekly Review for a friend at $1.00 for a full year or 50 cents for six months.

GENERAL RULES. Answer Forms may be filled in with pencil, ink, or typewriter. Poor handwriting or trifling errors will not count against a participant. No sets of Answer Forms are to be sent in until called for in The Daily Review after the last rebus picture has appeared. The management reserves the right to make any modification in the rules that may be found necessary during the progress of the Summer Pastime, or until the Committee takes charge. One participant may send in as many separate sets of Answer Forms as desired but he or she will be allowed to win not over four prizes. All persons are treated as independent individuals; therefore two or more members of a family or household have the same rights as if they were strangers to each other.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED. Those who feel it necessary to ask any questions may write to Summer Pastime Department, The Review, Peterborough, and the letter will be placed with others to be answered in the columns of The Review from time to time.

STANDING FIRM FOR SIR JAMES

Early Desertions to the Rowoll Banner Have Petered Out.

CONS. PARTY UNBROKEN

Toronto, June 27.—A carefully prepared review of conditions throughout the Ontario ridings shows some interesting happenings upon which neither party counted a few weeks ago. During the first week or ten days of the Rowell campaign based on the single cry of "Abolish the Bar," the excitement of his appeal coupled with his cunning attempt to split the voters into "Christians" and "Pagans," the latter of course being the Conservative loyalists, drove a number of Whitney supporters to declare themselves under the Rowell banner.

The Fraud Uncovered

As the campaign wore on and Conservative speakers and newspapers uncovered the fraud through which Rowell was seeking to win office the party ranks which once seemed to split resumed their normal solidity. Unthinking followers of Sir James Whitney who were excited into a pledge for Rowell's support quickly learned that the Liberal leader, being at the bottom of the ladder politically and having tried out every other issue on the electorate with dismal results, struck up the tune of "Abolish the Bar" hoping to drown out the general feeling of admiration for and confidence in Sir James' clean administration. They saw, too, how excellent had been Whitney's service in the cause of temperance, how he had changed the unworkable Ross' laws on Local Option and set them to work how those Whitney laws had cleared the licenses from four-fifths of Ontario and were sweeping away the balance quickly, how no less than thirty-six important pieces of temperance legislation had been passed by Whitney, how the Canada Temperance Act which passes on a simple majority was made applicable to Ontario and is clearing up whole counties at a time, how Whitney struck at shops as well as bars, sparing no branch of the traffic.

Disgusted With Shop Clause

Perhaps more damaging to the Rowell cause than any other single factor has been the Liberal leader's championship of the liquor shops. He has never given the slightest reason for such a thing, although the shop in the opinion of Rev. Ben H. Spence, Mr. J. W. Flavelle of Lindsay and other temperance leaders are a "worse menace than the open bars." One liquor shop in Toronto sells over 80,000 bottles a year.

Two interesting developments took place during the past ten days. The excitement and noise of Rowell's "Moral issue" while still clinging hard to the regular line Liberals petered out as far as deserting Conservatives were concerned. All over Ontario campaign workers have been receiving wholesale assurances of men whom they looked on as Whitney deserters that they had decided to stand by the party. In some ridings which at first looked in peril for the Government, this "stand-fast" attitude has assumed striking proportions and guarantees the seat safe for the Whitney candidate.

Rowell Sure of French Gains

Few Whitney champions are exuberant enough to claim as large a majority as in the last Legislature for it is openly admitted that Rowell's promises to the French-Canadians to retain their language in the public schools, coupled with Whitney's firm stand for English as the master language of Ontario, will lose several of the French seats to the Liberal support.

The strongest temperance men admit—many proudly—that the strict administration of the local option law has been the strongest argument—the most compelling force—in carrying new local option fights. And yet, these dyed-in-the-wool party men strive with all their political cunning, to lure away "temperance Conservatives; by declaring that 1,200 licenses have been cut off "in spite of Whitney."

Mere Man Necessary.

"Don't you like this place, Miss Ethel?"

"No, not a bit."

"But see what beautiful views are all around."

"They are utterly valueless."

"How can you say so?"

"Because there are no nice young men here to help a girl look at them."

Government Redeems Bills.

Marshall Sedore of Kingston, who found a large roll of bills behind the walls of his house, has received $300 as value of the money. Sedore while tearing a board from the side of one of the rooms was astonished to see a large roll of bills fall out of the partition. On looking them over he found that they were so old and discolored that they had to be sent to Ottawa. He received a letter from the department of finance with three hundred dollars in new bills as the full value of the wad.

Prince Led Blind.

Apropos of the recent anecdote of one of the Cabinet Ministers leading a blind man across a crowded street, it may be recalled that the late King, when Prince of Wales, once performed the like charitable action for a blind fiddler in Pall Mall. Perceiving that the man was desirous of getting to the other side, the Prince, who was about to cross from the Marlboro Club to his own residence, quietly took him by the arm and conveyed him safely to the pavement opposite, bestowing a coin before parting with him.

SHREWD SAMMIS

The Elevator Boy Lets Nothing Get Away From Him

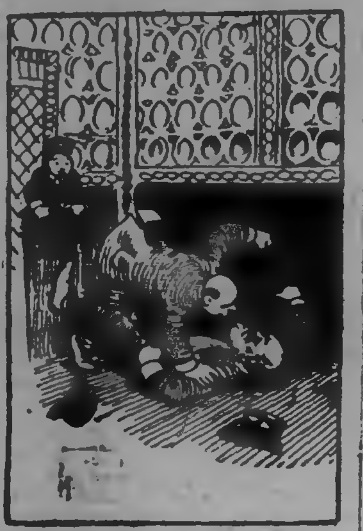
By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literar. Press.]

WHEN old Mr. Wasson, the patent padlock agent, took rooms in this building, he was very kind. Hearing I was fatherless, he said he'd be a father to me, and learning that I was struggling to pay off a mortgage on the family home he chipped in $1. For two or three weeks he was fatherly enough, but then he began to cool off. One day, after I spoke of the mortgage, he said:

"Sammis, I have gone out of the fatherly business and the mortgage business. I don't want to be bothered."

I didn't let on that my feelings was hurt, but went into ambush. I was taking Mr. Wasson down when Mr. Parker jingled the bell. He had to wait three or four minutes, and when I got up to his floor he yelled at me:



THE FIGHT LASTED TEN MINUTES.

"Boy, are you hired to run the elevator or walk around the streets?"

"I was taking Mr. Wasson down."

"And who is Mr. Wasson?"

"He's the padlock man, and he said if you was in a hurry you could walk. Mr. Wasson is down on old mashers!"

"What! What!" shouted Mr. Parker. "Wasson calls me an old masher!"

An hour later Mr. Wasson went up with me. I felt it my duty to say:

"If I was you I wouldn't have no row with Mr. Parker. He says you are an old sneak."

"What! Parker calls me names! I ver spoke to him, but I hated him at first sight."

"But I wouldn't have no row, sir."

"Oh, there won't be any row, Sammis. I'll just punch him dizzy."

It was the next afternoon when the tragedy took place. I was taking Mr. Parker down alone when Mr. Wasson got on. Both men gave a snort as they glared at each other. Between the sixth and seventh floors I stopped the car and let it hang.

It is the duty of an elevator boy to act as mediator between tenants. I offered my services, but too late. They threw themselves on each other, and I climbed on the seat to give 'em room. In a minute or two the bells were ringing on every floor, but as the car was "stuck" I let 'em ring. The fight lasted ten minutes.

When I ran the car up and let them out they were threatening all sorts of lawsuits. But Mr. Rasher, the agent, got them together, and they shook hands. Next day Mr. Wasson called me up to his door to say:

"Sammis, have you any objections to resuming our fraternal relations?"

"No, sir."

"Then I think we had better resume, and here's a dollar on that mortgage. However, let us have a clearer understanding than before. I will be your father for three months from date. We may renew or we may not. It will be as we can agree. As to that little affair of yesterday"—

"We'll forget it, sir."

"We'll hope it won't happen again."

An hour later Mr. Parker sent for me. He says:

"Sammis, you remember how I used to slip you dimes and quarters?"

"Yes, sir."

"But after awhile you noticed a change in me. The change occurred because I feared I was spoiling you. I was wrong, Sammis, wrong.

"And now, as to the future. You want a father. We'll be a syndicate—adopted father and adopted son. You work in harmony with me—I work in harmony with you."

I gave him my hand, and he left three quarters in it for the mortgage.

Then Mr. Rasher called me.

"Sammis," says he, "how many adopted fathers have you in the building?"

"Twenty-nine, sir."

"Sammis," he says, "I don't like to see a boy making a hog of himself."

I don't look for any more trouble around here on account of the fatherly business, but if it comes I shall try to maintain my rights and dignity as

SAMMIS,
The Elevator Boy.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

BEING entirely satisfied with oneself is one of the very first essentials of being disagreeable.

If we could get out an injunction against ourselves restraining us from giving the things we so much want ourselves to some one else, perhaps we would be happier.

Sometimes men are disappointed because so many girls refuse to take an engagement seriously.

The best part of a woman's letter is apt to be on edge.

Mean.

"I always try to do good."

"Do you really?"

"Indeed I do."

"Too bad, isn't it?"

"Too bad? What do you mean by that?"

"That such a laudable ambition should have such a dismal end."

Her Evidence.

He—I was reading an article about women having smaller brains than men.

She—But women haven't any brains at all.

He—But why do you think so?

She—See whom they marry.

Generally.

"Pa?"

"Yes, my son."

"What are woman's rights?"

"Woman's rights?"

"Yep."

"Anything that she gets her eye on that she thinks she wants."

Quite Frank.

"You mustn't let little things trouble you, Miss Ethel."

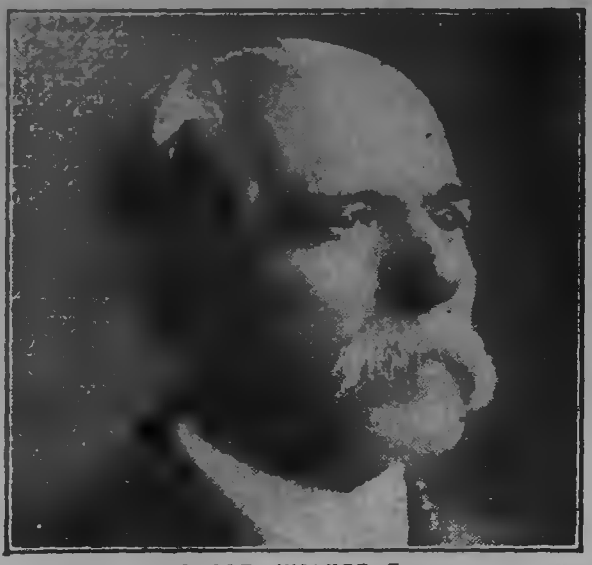
"Me?"

"Yes."

"Dear me! Mr. Slowon, don't mention it. I hadn't noticed you were here."

FOUGHT WITH LORD ROBERTS

Veteran of Crimean War and Indian Mutiny Suffered Horribly With Rheumatism, Until "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Welcome Relief.



GEORGE WALKER, Esq.

Chatham, Ont., April 3rd., 1913

"I am a veteran of the Crimean War and the Indian Mutiny, volunteering from the Royal Artillery into the Royal Engineers, and served under Lord Roberts during the Indian Mutiny, and am a pensioner of the British Government. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure, left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so that my legs swelled up making it impossible for me to walk. My bowels were so constipated that I only had one passage a week until I got to using "Fruit-a-tives." They cured me of both the Constipation and Rheumatism. To-day, my bowels move immediately after breakfast, and in my regular employment, I walk thirty miles a day and enjoy perfect health. No more Rheumatism or Constipation.

You are at perfect liberty to publish this letter and my photo if it will be advantageous to "Fruit-a-tives." GEO. WALKER

This letter of Mr. Walker tells how to cure Rheumatism, but does not tell WHY "Fruit-a-tives" cures this trouble. Rheumatism is the result of poisoned blood, due to weakness or faulty action of the bowels, kidneys or skin. In Mr Walker's case, Rheumatism was the result of excessive Constipation. Waste matter remained too long in the system, was absorbed by the blood and inflammed the nerves and membranes in his legs. When he started to take "Fruit-a-tives," these tablets immediately acted on the liver. More bile was given up to move the bowels. As the bowels were cleaned, the poisonous waste matter was removed, the blood became clear and the nerves were no longer irritated. To-day, Mr. Walker is enjoying vigorous health that was his when he fought with Lord Roberts and helped to plant the British Flag firmly in our Over-Seas Possessions. He is as active as a man of forty and cannot praise "Fruit-a-tives" too highly. Try them yourself, 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c., at all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

are not a new and untried remedy—our grandfathers used them. Half a century ago, before Confederation, they were on sale in nearly every drug or general store in the Canada of that day, and were the recognized cure in thousands of homes for Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness, Rheumatism and Kidney and Liver Troubles. Today they are just as effective, just as reliable as ever, and nothing better has yet been devised to

Cure Common Ills

Moving Along.

How the years slip away,
Like the swift river's flow,
As softly they come
And as softly they go!
Our hand is extended
A new one to greet,
And, lo, ere we reckon
Its days are complete.

A stately procession,
They go as they came,
No slower, no swifter,
But always the same,
In joy or in sorrow,
In pleasure or pain,
Proceeding unheeding
Through sunshine and rain.

They wait not for orders,
They halt not for kings,
They laugh at injunctions
And such puny things.
Strong chains cannot bind them
Nor slacken their pace.
No congress can cause them
Their steps to retrace.

They go, and in going
They leave not behind
A mark save on memory,
That book of the mind.
On down with the others
A well beaten track,
And never—no, never—
Comes one of them back.

BOTH SIDES WORKING HARD; BIG VOTE BEING POLLED

Balloting Was Brisk During the Noon Hour and in Early Afternoon

A noticeable feature of the election in the west riding is the large registered vote that is being polled. In all the divisions near the center of the city the registered vote was pretty near all in at 2 o'clock or shortly afterwards. Indicawons point to the struggle being swung by the registered vote many of whom are new comers and of the younger set. Both parties are strongly organized and nearly every rig and auto in the city was pressed into service at 9 o'clock when the polls were declared open. Both sides are working hard to get out the vote as both realize that the point of getting the men to the polls willd ecide the election either of R. J. Soden or G. A. Gillespie.

The drizzling rain which has fallen all day has had a tendency to keep back many of the persons entitled to vote. However early this afternoon those who were holding back in the hope of the weather clearing up commenced to swarm to the polls and between 12 and 2 o'clock the balloting was brisk.

At Geo. Hutchison's shop on Water Street almost every vote was in by 2.30 the scrutineers reporting that 110 had cast their ballots. There were about 100 out of a list of 160 that cast their ballot in the council chamber and the tax collector's office. At Waterman's shop on Hunter Street where there are 110 votes only 35 had voted up until 2.30. At Fontaine's livery where the list calls for 41 voters only 16 had voted.

DIED SUDDENLY AT ARMY SERVICE

Call Came as Salvationist Was Singing

Toronto, June 29.—Death came with startling suddenness to James Weller, 66 Manning Avenue, a member of the Salvation Army, who, while addressing the gathering in the Salvation Army Citadel, Tecumseh street, yesterday afternoon, was stricken with heart failure and died before assistance could be procured.

Mr. Weller was giving his testimony in song, and after he had finished a verse of the hymn, he raised his hand, saying, "Those who believe what I am singing raise their hand, and I'll sing it again." He had scarcely finished the last note of the hymn when he swayed forward and fell face downwards on the platform. A hurry-up call was sent for a physician, but on arrival the doctor declared that death had been practically instantaneous.

The late Mr. Weller was 67 years of age and is survived by a widow, two daughters and one son. He was a native of Surrey, England, and for over 30 years has been an active member of the Salvation Army. He conducted a business of bathing contractor at 66 Manning Avenue.

TWO TELEGRAMS TOLD OF DEATH

On Saturday, Mr. J. W. Hickey, Engleburne Ave., received news of the death of his cousin in Toronto and shortly after the receipt of the telegram. Mrs. Hickey was notified of the death of her mother who resided near Kemptville.

Mrs. Hickey's mother had not been enjoying the best of health for some time. She was nearly ninety years of age. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hickey have gone to attend the funerals.

RICH WIDOW WEDS INDIAN CHAUFFEUR

Boston, June 29.—The elopement by automobile of a wealthy widow with her chauffeur, an Indian, was revealed in news of the marriage of Mrs. W. Bowman Cutter to Robert Herman. She is seventy and he is twenty-one. They left her home in Dorchester three weeks ago for an automobile tour of Vermont and Maine. On the trip they were married.

The bride has two married daughters, one forty-one years of age and the other thirty-two. George O. Cutter, her son, who runs his father's business, said he had not been informed of the marriage by his mother. "I did not think my mother would be so silly as to fall for such a match at her time of life," he said.

Mrs. Cutter has considerable real estate in Dorchester and Roxbury in her own name, besides a large interest in her husband's hardware business.

CONFIRMATION AT ENNISMORE

Ninety-two Were Confirmed by Bishop O'Brien

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, D.D., celebrated nine o'clock mass in St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, to-day and administered the sacrament of Confirmation to ninety-two candidates of which six were converts. The candidates also took the pledge of total abstinence for life. After the ceremony, Bishop O'Brien preached an eloquent sermon on temperance, education and other subjects of interest to a thriving farming community such as is St. Martin's parish. At the mass and administration of the sacrament, the Bishop was assisted by Rev. Father McGinity of St. Peter's Cathedral and Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

The church was well filled and the work of the choir was very commendable, bespeaking the good results of the work of the organist and choir leader, Miss M. A. Crough.

STRONG FINISH FOR MR. SODEN

Enthusiastic Reception at the Grand Opera House

A large audience at the Grand Opera House, Saturday night, gave a very enthusiastic reception, to R. J. Soden, the Conservative candidate. He was assisted at the meeting by J. H. Burnham, M.P., Major Sam Sharpe, M.P., and Mayor Buller, who was chairman.

There were two interruptions. A stranger, was looking for Ald. Duncan, with a query that had nothing to do with the meeting and Geo. Leader took exception to statements made by the candidate, and Major Sharpe.

Major Sharpe had stated that the greatest asset to the Province was Niagara Falls from which was derived the power that has been such a blessing to the householder.

Mr. Leader was requested by the chairman to take the platform and he differed with this statement, his opinion being that the men were the greatest asset.

Mr. Leader also asked the candidate if he had not made the statement after a local option campaign that he would not vote again for the Conservatives so long as the three-fifths clause remained. Mr. Soden gave an affirmative answer and explained that he had at that time along with others after the heat of battle, expressed himself as against the three-fifths clause but since as he had watched the progress of local option and the great work that had been done, he was willing to admit that the men who had made the law were wiser men than he.

The replies of the speakers to Mr. Leader met with the unstinted approval of the audience.

SECTIONMAN SHOT IN FACE

May Lose the Sight of Both Eyes

Shooting from the car by the members of the 45th Regiment of Lindsay on Friday when they were returning from Petawawa camp, resulted in Richard Jones, a C.P.R. sectionman, being shot in the face, which may result in the loss of his eyesight and serious injury to his brain. Several other men along the track were shot at by the men returning from camp. The cartridges were blanks, but Jones was working about fifteen feet from the tracks and received the charge in the face. He was treated by Dr. Buchanan of this city. Jones was able to return home yesterday.

STORSTAD LAWYER SAYS KENDALL LOST HIS HEAD

Enquiry Into Fmpress of Ireland Disaster Adjourns With Summing up of Counsel—Mr. Haight Declares That Empress' Steering Gear Broke Down and Kendall Got Flustered.

QUEBEC, June 29.—The Empress of Ireland wreck enquiry was Saturday afternoon adjourned sine die, to allow of the commission considering its finding. The last day was marked by an able address to the commission by C. S. Haight, who has conducted the case from the point of view of the owners of the Storstad, the collier which rammed the Empress, a reply by Butler Aspinall, K.C., who has acted for the C. P. R., and a general review of the evidence by Edmund L. Newcombe, K.C., who has represented the Dominion Government.

Mr. Haight sought to lay the blame for the tragedy at the door of the Empress of Ireland, claiming that the vessel's steering gear broke down and that after this had happened and Captain Kendall had been forced to stop his ship, he lost his head when he found that he had done so right in the path of the Storstad. Mr. Haight said it was not to be expected that Captain Kendall would acknowledge this in face of the world. Mr. Haight also emphasized the fact that the present heading of the hull of the vessel is northeast. Whereas the Storstad's officers had all along given the direction of the liner as her hull had been found. Evidence for his contention that the steering gear of the Empress had been broken down, he claimed, was to be had in the testimony of Gallaway, the quartermaster, who had withstood the unsparing use of the lash fairly well, and the stories of the crew of the Aiden, who contended the ship had swerved, the quartermaster swearing the helm had jammed on the night of the disaster. He contended the Empress' witnesses had told a story that was false.

Mr. Aspinall said that he could not understand why Mr. Haight had indicted Captain Kendall, when, if it was true that the steering gear had broken down, he could not be blamed for the collision and would have absolutely no reason to commit perjury. He invited the court to find against one or the other, and not to blame both, and he thought the Storstad was at fault.

Mr. Newcombe said that probably neither the officers of the Storstad nor the Empress had intentionally lied. He thought, however, that both were to blame, the Storstad for having ported her helm in a fog and the Empress for stopping when the navigation regulation only called for her to slow up. He suggested that the rapid foundering of the Empress was due to the watertight doors not being closed, in a large measure, and he thought if it was found that portholes had enabled water to reach the interior of the ship, never again should is be possible for them to be a contributory cause to a disaster. They should be closed on a signal from the bridge the moment a fog appeared. The same applied to watertight doors.

After thanking counsel for their close application to their several tasks Lord Mersey adjourned the sittings of the commission.

WALL OF BUILDING COLLAPSED

No Person Was Injured but Damage is $10,000

ST. CATHARINES, June 29.—A 60-foot side wall along the rear half of the newly-changed and enlarged semi-ready store on St. Paul street, four storeys in height, fell to the bank of the hydraulic raceway Saturday night while the place was open for business, causing a section of the floors about twenty feet wide to go down along with several tables of men's clothing. At that particular moment no customers or salesmen were upon the part of the floor which collapsed, no person was injured, but a loss that will reach at least $10,000 was caused to the building and contents, rain falling shortly afterwards.

Sliding of the bank on which the building was constructed thirty-eight years ago is believed to have been the cause of the collapse. Recently the two stores were made into one, although the dividing brick wall from the three storeys below was allowed to remain, and this prevented a more serious disaster. Building Inspector Barley states that he notified the owner some time ago that the building was not safe. The property is owned by Thomas Niham.

BIG MEETING AT OPERA HOUSE

Toronto Speakers Were Given Good Hearing

As a finale to the election campaign, a big meeting was held in the Opera House last night and although, it was announced as a non-political meeting, the principal speakers failed to stay with the subject of temperance and they expressed their opinions as to the two leaders and their policies.

Geo. Leader was chairman, J. M. Greene leader in the singing of two hymns after which Rev. [illegible] Peever led in a very earnest prayer for the success of the righteous. The two speakers were Dr. Doughty and ex-Ald. Hales of Toronto, both good speakers.

Mr. Chas. Thornton and Miss Josie Callander contributed a duet and Master George Branton, of Toronto sang solos.

Rev. H. J. Keith gave the benediction.

GOOD CROPS EXPECTED

Winnipeg, Junes 29. — George Bury, vice-president in charge of the western lines of the C.P.R., has returned from an extended trip through the west. Asked about the crops, he said: "It must be remembered that this year there will be one and three-quarter million acres more sown in grain in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta than last year, making a total of almost twenty-one million acres. The country's agents and many farmers have no hesitation in saying that the crop is making excellent progress, and, with average weather conditions, the largest amount of grain ever harvested is in sight."

YOUNG PRINCE WINS GLORY

Distinguishes Himself in Sham Battle

LONDON, June 29.—The Prince of Wales won a slice of glory Saturday in the annual sham fight between the infantry troops of Oxford and Cambridge. The duel took place near Aldershot where, with the advantages of entrenchments added to a naturally strong defensive position, the Cantabs should have held the Oxford warriors at bay. This they would probably have done but for the activity of the prince and the scouts under him. The prince received orders in the scout district between the Oxford concentrations and the light blue trenches. He and his man kept up a consistent trot for miles, and were able to bring their advance guard to a position so advantageous that had the fight continued Oxford could have followed the Napoleonic dictum of destroying its opponent in detail.

He discovered a cycle patrol from Cambridge, sent him back with information to his captain, and then sprinted ahead again with such rapidity that in half an hour he knew as much about the Cambridge defences as he would have done if he had observed them from an aeroplane.

The army training manual lays it down that a scout's first duty is to obtain all the information he can from the people of the country, and this regulation the prince carried out to the letter. Cabmen, cyclists, railway porters and pedestrians were all interrogated. One native in an endeavor to make the directions as explicit as possible, seized the prince by the collar of his tunic and twisted him around as he pointed out the way.

HEIR TO AUSTRIAN THRONE AND WIFE ARE MURDERED

Eighteen-Year-Old Youth Sends Fusillade of Bullets Into Auto and Kills Archduke Ferdinand and His Morganatic Wife, the Princess of Hohenburg, in Streets of Bosnian Capital.

SARAYEVO, Bosnia, June 29.—Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian-Hungarian throne and the Princess of Hohenburg, his morganatic wife, were shot dead in the main street of the Bosnian capital by a student yesterday, while they were making an apparently triumphant progress through the city on their annual visit to the annexed provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The archduke was hit full in the face, and the princess was shot through the abdomen and throat. Their wounds proved fatal within a few minutes after reaching the palace, to which they were hurried with all speed.

Those responsible for the assassination took care that it should prove effective, as there were two assailants, the first armed with a bomb and the latter with a revolver. The bomb was thrown at the royal automobile as it was proceeding to the town hall, where a reception was to be held, but the archduke saw the deadly missile coming and warded it off with his arm. It fell outside the car and exploded, slightly wounding two aide-de-camps in a second car, and half a dozen spectators.

It was on the return of the procession that the tragedy was added to the long list of those that have darkened the pages of the recent history of the Hapsburgs. As the royal automobile reached a prominent point in the route to the palace, an eighth grade student, Gavrio Prinsip, sprang out of the crowd and poured a fusillade of bullets from an automatic pistol at the archduke and the princess. Both fell mortally wounded.

Prinsip and a fellow conspirator, a compositor from Trebinje, named Gabrinovics, barely escaped lynching by the infuriated spectators and were finally seized by the police who afforded them protection. Both men are natives of the annexed province of Herzegovina.

The first attempt against the archduke occurred just outside the girls' high school. The archduke's car had restarted after a brief pause for an inspection of the building when Gabrinovics hurled the bomb. This was so successfully warded off by the archduke that it fell directly beneath the following car, the occupants of which, Count von Boos-Waldeck and Col. Merizzo, were struck by slivers of iron.

Archduke Francis Ferdinand stopped his car and after making enquiries as to their injuries and lending what aid he could, continued his journey to the town hall. There the burgomaster began his customary address, but the archduke sharply interrupted and snapped out: "Herr Burgomaster, we have come here to pay you a visit, and bombs have been thrown at us. This is altogether an amazing indignity."

After a pause, the archduke said: "Now you may speak."

On leaving the hall the archduke and his wife announced their intention of visiting the wounded members of their suite at the hospital on their way back to the palace. They were actually bound on their mission of mercy when, at the corner of Ruldolf strasse and Franz Josef strasse, Prinzip opened his deadly fusillade.

A bullet struck the archduke in the face. The princess was wounded in the abdomen, and another bullet struck her in the throat, severing an artery. She fell unconscious across her husband's knees. At the same moment the archduke sank to the floor of the car.

The assassins were interrogated by the police during the course of the afternoon and both seemed to glory in their exploit. Prinzip said he had studied for a time at Belgrade. He declared he had long intended to kill some eminent person from nationalist motives.

Prinzip is 18 years of age. Nedeljo Gabrinovics is 21 years of age. He told the police that he had obtained the bomb from an anarchist at Belgrade, whose name he did not know. He similarly denied that he had accomplices, and treated the whole tragedy with [illegible] indifference.

International Trouble Feared.

VIENNA, June 29.—It is feared that the Sarayevo tragedy will still further embitter the none too friendly relations existing between Austria and Servia. Both youth who fired the fatal shots and the bomb are Servians with close associations with Belgrade. The bombs also came from Belgrade.

It is likewise remarkable that the first news of the assassination received at Belgrade came from the Servian capital.

CALIFORNIA ON THE ROCKS OF IRISH COAST

Her Bows Are Badly Damaged and She is Taking Water Through Two Holes Say Despatches—Gunboats Harried to Scene—Passengers Transferred.

LONDONDERRY, June 29. — The Anchor Line steamer California is on the rocks off Tory Island and calling for assistance. Gunboats have left Londonderry to assist the steamer.

LONDON, June 29.—The California's bows are badly damaged, and she is taking in water through two holes.

It is reported that the passengers destined for points in Ireland already have been transferred from the vessel and are expected to reach Londonderry at noon to-day.

The Anchor Line steamer California sailed from New York June 20 for Moville and Glasgow. On board the vessel were 121 cabin and over 300 second-class passengers.

Tory Island lies off the northwestern coast of the County Donegal, Ireland. It is a rocky reef two miles long and half a mile wide. On the northern end of the island is a lighthouse.

Found Steamer on Shore.

BATAVIA, Java, June 29. — The British steamer Kintuck of the China Mutual Steam Navigation Co., reported overdue Friday after a violent earthquake in Sumatra, was found Saturday by the steamer sent out to search for her. She had been driven ashore in the Straits of Sunda between Java and Sumatra by heavy seas caused by a submarine disturbance. The Kintuck was crowded with native emigrants.

Gothland Off the Rocks.

MONTREAL, June 29. — James Thom of the Canada Line received a cablegram from Antwerp Saturday that the company's steamer Gothland, which ran on the rocks off the Scilly Island a few days ago, had been floated and was proceeding to St. Mary's, Scilly Islands, in tow of tugs.

Lake Steamers All Safe.

DETROIT, June 29.—Reports from the important great lakes stations last night are to the effect that although Lakes Superior and Michigan were swept Saturday and Saturday night by a gale which in some localities reached a velocity of 90 miles an hour, all boats known to be out are reported safe in port or in sheltered harbors.

The general [illegible] of storm signals al along [illegible] chain of lakes at noon Saturday gave mariners ample time to prepare for the blow, and those boats too far out to obtain the port signals were notified by wireless what weather they might expect.

On Lake Superior the force of the gale was most severely felt. At Superior the steamer Mataafa, of Buffalo, went hard aground on Superior Reef, and only after some hazardous work by harbor tugs was she released and towed into the Great Northern ore dock.

AWAITING THE VERDICT.

THE FATE of the splendid Government of Sir James Whitney is by this time decided. What the result will be cannot be accurately stated now, but we feel confident it will be a substantial endorsation of the Whitney candidates. We trust that every voter capable of getting to the polls has exercised his franchise as he thinks the public interest demanded. He would be a poor specimen of a citizen and a man who failed to cast his ballot when it was possible for him to do so. A gallant fight has been carried on; press and speakers and candidates have done their work in the battle of ballots. The people of a widely-extended electorate have written their verdict. In the meantime we await the declaration of the polls.

WORK GOING FORWARD.

PREPARATIONS for the commencement of the inquiry into the commercial feasibility of the Georgian Bay Canal are being made by Mr. W. Sanford Evans, chairman of the Georgian Bay Canal Commission. Mr. Evans is now in the capital for the purpose. Information of a statistical character in regard to a variety of subjects which come within the scope of the commission's investigation is now being collected, and compiled by the staff employed by the commission. It includes much information as to the existing railway freight rates along the route, with which the canal will supply competition. Evidence will be shortly taken, and altogether a complete and authoritative decision as to the feasibility of the project will likely be presented.

HYDRO IS AN ISSUE.

BEFORE saying that temperance is the only important issue in this election, voters should ponder the following:

> "There are other issues besides the temperance one, for Whitney to stand on, and they are strong ones, too. If you were asked to say whether you would like the Hydro policy placed in the hands of men who gave away rights by the scratch of the pen and in their dying days gave away 125,000 horse power, what would you think? There wouldn't be a man in the Province who would think of putting that policy, built by Adam Beck, in their hands (applause). They gave away 430,000 horse power, and on the eve of the election, in their dying days, they were being pushed and pushed hard and had to get some ready cash I guess; they gave away 125,000 horse power of your heritage. The Whitney Government took this back to the people of Ontario (applause). Last year there was a saving of $1,500,000 on our light and power bills, and if this goes on there is no reason why in the next few years the saving shouldn't be $5,000,000 a year, and perhaps up to $10,000,000. That is something to be proud of."—W. H. Price, Conservative candidate for Parkdale.

THE OIL AGE.

ENGLAND is reported to be greatly agitated over the realization of the fact that the age of coal is gone and that it has succeeded the age of oil.

Mr. Alfred Stead contends that the oil age has come, not because the oil producers want it or because the coal producers do not want it, but simply because it has to come. "The age demands progress, and there can be no question that oil spells progress over coal."

Vessels equipped with oil engines and oil-burning steam engines have a great advantage over vessels using coal. This being true, it follows that a naval power should possess a supply of petroleum. If the oil age has come, where is the oil? That is the question John Bull is asking.

Great Britain has the biggest navy and the greatest commerce of any of the nations, but is short on oil. The sun never sets on her oil fields, for there are none to set on—at least none worth while. "The English have been searching the world over for attainable territory," says a well-known English writer. While the oil wells in Ontario and Alberta are new and not extensive, they exist, and doubtless are not known to English writers. Canada may in time solve the difficulty.

As everybody knows, the Mexican oil wells are largely controlled by English capital, but the continuous warfare in Mexico has interfered with the operation of these sources of oil supply. If Uncle Sam would only march his troops down there and put in about five years' time "fixing" the Greasers for good and all, it would simplify matters for the British oil interests!

In the meantime the Standard Oil Company has obtained from Yuan Shi Kai the control of the oil regions of Northern China — much to the disappointment of Japan, which country is an ally of England.

The British Admiralty has now determined to obtain control of the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, at a cost of $110,000,000, if Parliament will consent. The company has a concession in Persia, that ancient country in Asia where England and Russia each has a "sphere of influence." The concession embraces a strip of territory 800 miles long and 40 miles wide — quite a slice. The company has the right for sixty years, from 1901, "to search for and deal in petroleum, natural gas and asphaltum" anywhere in Persia, the five northern provinces of which are within the Russian sphere of influence. From this source it is estimated that the navy can get a million and a half tons of oil a year. Speaking of the varied uses of oil, an English writer says:

> "Enormous though the consumption of oil in the navies of the world will be, it dwindles in comparative insignificance beside the demand in connection with the mercantile marine. Warships may have coal for fuel; cargo vessels must; that is the situation in a nutshell.
>
> "The navies first, and then the merchant marine, later factories, railroads, and nearly every branch of national industry. Oil has come and will remain until, possibly, gas or electricity supplant it. It has two leases of life, since, first, it is used indirectly to raise steam, then it will be used directly as in the internal combustion motor. The time is not far distant when there will be little — or little in comparison with today — haulage of coal over the railroads. Oil pipelines running along the permanent way will at the same time provide with a minimum of cost the needs of the system and carry fuel to thousands of industrial centres."

BIRTH OF THE SKYSCRAPER.

IF NORMAN B. REAM had not at one time been afflicted with a weak stomach, the modern skyscraper might have been another generation in arriving.

An eight-storey building was a wonderful structure when Mr. Ream's ill-health compelled him to go to Denver for a rest. The train on which he made the journey was crossing the Kankakee river when luncheon was announced. It stopped on the steel bridge over midstream. Mr. Ream took his seat in the dining-car, but was so upset by sight of the water rushing under his window that his stomach rebelled and he retired to the observation platform at the rear end. Sitting there alone, he figured it out, thus: "Here is this heavy train supported over a raging river by this structure laid on its side. Stood on end, the structure would be the safest kind for a building. The idea was so refreshing, he mulled it over all the way to Denver, and the first thing he did on arrival there was to write to a leading architect of Chicago, directing him to draw plans for such a building.

The Rookery was the result, and it made a profound change in the architecture of the great cities.

Even with Mr. Ream's backing, trouble was encountered getting people to occupy the higher floors. The first eight floors rented quickly, but for weeks nobody would venture above that. Mr. Ream took offices on the top floor, and everybody wanting to see him was compelled to go to the top. Finally the nervousness wore off and—well, there's the Woolworth building.

Woman's Dress.

London Express

Men are always rushing down modern dress and modern manners in women. eYt, they often find attractive in other women what they condemn in the women-folk of their own house. Women, of course, dress largely for the eyes of other women. But man is still the main object, and if he frowned upon woman she would change the guise in which she presents herself.

The Man Women's Vengeance.

Harper's Weekly

An English lady, Mrs. MacKirdy, who lives at Parley, has been unfortunate enough to believe in woman suffrage, but not in militancy. The result of this doubtful policy has caused her to lose her house. The structure was burned by some of her militant sisters who felt that she had no right to entertain a belief that did not coincide with their own. Not only was her house burned, but, according to reports, she was abused in what is stated as being "unprintable language."

Golf Presents a Problem.

Westminster Gazette.

Lord Robert Cecil reminded us recently that golf is producing a serious social problem. It has created a fresh blind-alley occupation. Hundreds of lads are taken as caddies, and in a few years are wasters. The problem is worthy of much more serious attention than it has yet received. We are aware that the Caddies' Aid Committee is doing what is can to save the lads and to put them on the path of a career, but its efforts are thwarted by the fact that as fast as one lad is turned into useful occupation two are tempted by the golfers to take up the business of carrying. This is a process to which there is no end. We should like to see the golfing community deal with the matter itself. Carrying clubs is no occupation for lads who ought to be turning their thoughts to work. If it is done at all it ought to be done by the old men who have fallen out of the industrial race and whose lives cannot be spoiled.

Editorial Amenities Down by the Sea.

Halifax Herald.

Here's to the kid-glove kickshaw who broods over the "editorial" department of the Chronic-ill in this year of grace! It inherited Joseph Howe's paste-pot and goose-quill, but not his brains, and with a desire, but lacking the ability, to write sarcasm, it strains the ridiculous to the snapping point.

A day or so ago it turned its puny pen against one of its betters. It exuded a half column of cheap chatter, fondly hoping to thereby discredit Mr. Tanner, the able leader of the opposition in the Nova Scotia legislature. A peashooter in the hands of a journalistic schoolboy, making a target of an adamantine record of twenty noble, clean and useful years in the public service! An ink-slinging pigmy, snarling and snapping at the heels of a grown man, with more gray matter under one hair of his head than is contained in its whole dandified cranium!

This lady-fingered parody on an editor scratching out a mass of despicable drivel anent the ability, record and mien of a gentleman! This bandbox bombast, self-avowedly fearful of soiling its "ice-cream" clothes in contact with dinner-pails and overalls on the streets of the south end, prating powder-puff, peanut palaver touching the question of the appearance of a whole man, "the latchet of whose shoes it is not worthy to unloose!"

HOT WEATHER

By Walt Mason

The weather's hot and sizzling, and most obnoxious, now; the moisture keeps a-drizzling adown my bulging brow; it filters through my galways, in manner most absurd, yet I am cheerful always, and chipper as a bird. To snowy wastes unending I've trained myself to look, all day I am pretending that I am Dr. Cook. Attired in linen, thinly, I make myself believe that up old Mount McKinley I'm climbing, by your leave. My Thomas cat is dozing upon the easy chair, and I keep on supposing that it's a polar bear. "The Igloo" I have christened the house wherein I dwell, and often there I've listened to arctic tempests yell, when other men were sweating, and groaning in their woe, and wringing hands, forgetting that there's such a thing as snow. The days will seem less dreary, if you, by hook or crook, can play that you are Peary, or, failing Peary, Cook. Imagine you're exploring in snow up to your neck, and soon you will be roaring, "We need a fire, by heck!"

SCHOOL'S OVER

IT'S the kids' innings now, and they be goin' to have all the glorious fun thet youth kin grab from blue skies and warm breeze and sunshine. School's over. The rusty padlock is on the ante door. The old red school looks lop-sided and deserted and there's a ghostly quiet in the hard-packed yard. The boys and gals have gone, have rushed away with shouts and glad cries, happy that school is over, happy in the anticipation of long weeks of freedom.

Well, it's all good. They're young enough to realize what freedom means, and you and me, we're old enough to realize what their happiness means to 'em. The man er woman who can't remember what the closin' and lockin' of thet old ante door meant to 'em once, air too old, too old. The best way to stay young is to keep rememberin' and one of the best things to remember is the old joys we uster feel, and of them old joys I reckon the realization that school was over for was jest about the best.

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete sets of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

Better Protection for Royalty.

LONDON, June 29. — When the King leaves London, the whole system of protection at Buckingham Palace, will be overhauled. There is, of course, no need for panic, but recent events have shown that the palace is by no means as secure as it ought to be. Not only has a man got inside, but the militants have smashed a window, and others got across the court yard before they were captured.

The household, and Scotland Yard as well, hails the removal of the court with profound relief.

Death May Follow Quarrel.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 29.— H. Heikina, Finlander, is in a serious condition in the hospital here as a result of a shooting sixteen miles out, on the Dawson road. Eye-witnesses say that the man was shot by a farmer named Matt Suvi, after a quarrel at the famer's homestead. Suvi was driving Heikina to a neighbor's farm to work, and a quarrel is alleged to have stated on the road. Both men were drinking. Heikina is in a critical condition, and it is feared that death will ensue.

Fifty Thousand on Parade.

CHICAGO, June 29. — Fifty thousand men and boys assembled here Saturday to march in the parade of the International Sunday School Association in convention here. Fifty altars were prepared to be carried on the shoulders of the marching men, one at the head of each division. Behind each of the altars was borne an open Bible. A squad of mounted police and an escort of the National Guard was detailed to head the parade.

The DAUGHTER of DAVID KERR

"But how explain your being here?"

"If he can't believe what I have to say he isn't worth the slight esteem with which I still regard him."

"Here he comes."

"Let him see you first." She retreated to a corner of the room where her father's first glance as he entered would not discover her. Patty opened the door and David Kerr walked into the room.

The two men looked at each other without any attempt at a feigned cordiality.

"Mr. Wright," began the boss, and at mention of his name the newspaper man bowed slightly in recognition of the greeting, "I met Dr. Hayes this afternoon. He spoke of you, and what he told me has led me to break a custom of years; I've come to see you. In this town it's always been the other way." He spoke with all his accustomed force, and seemed even more confident than usual as he added, "The old way will continue, sir, but owing to what you might call the relationship that once—"

"Sir!" thundered Wright in astonishment. Covertly he looked at Gloria, to find his own amazement mirrored on her face.

"Bound us, I thought I'd come to see you," the boss continued, not heeding Wright's exclamation.

"One minute, sir." Wright was not willing for him to proceed without his knowing that his daughter was in the room with them. "Before you speak further you must know that we're not alone in this room."

"We're not?" He looked about him, and at the sound of a familiar voice turned sharply to confront his daughter.

"No, father; I'm here." She advanced coolly to the center of the room, and waited for him to speak.

"Gloria! My daughter here!" He managed to gasp. Wright, determined not to have his hand forced, waited to see what card the daughter would play.

"Wait a minute, please," she remarked quietly, the most self-possessed of the three. "Are you so blind you can't see you find me here because I wish it so? My visit to Mr. Wright surprised him just as much as did yours. When you were announced, I told him I would stay."

"So that's it, is it?" her father raged. "Have you turned against me, too? Why didn't I raise you like you ought to 'a' been!" It was with an evident effort that he was restraining himself even as much as he was.

"Would to heaven you had!" Gloria exclaimed in a low tone. "You gave me only the roses of life, and now the thorns—all that life offers me—seem sharper than I can bear."

Wright had thought his heart had been so wrung that nothing could hurt him worse, but this confession of unhappiness to her father made his own unhappiness greater than he had believed it could be.

"Gloria, this is distressingly painful. Please don't," he begged. Then he turned to her father. "Why have you come here?"

"Why is she here?"

"Father," now she spoke timidly, a maiden telling of a dear, dead love, "for a little while Mr. Wright and I—were engaged—to be married. I don't think you know what that means to a girl, what it meant to me. But you do know how it ended. Yet we're still such good friends that I felt I could come this afternoon to—"

As she spoke, a great light began to dawn upon her father. At the words "good friends" he saw his whole plan successful, although worked out along lines a trifle different than what had been in his mind when he had determined to call upon the editor. Your successful general is a great opportunist, and David Kerr was quick to seize this opportunity.

"Good friends!" he echoed, interrupting her. "Then I'm glad I found you here. Just listen to me a minute. I ain't got much to say, Mr. Wright, but we understand each other pretty well. Now then—you gave us a pretty hard bump, an' I admire you fer it. Of course, you're new to Belmont an' it looks all right from yer p'int o' view." His tone was now suave and conciliatory. "But you're too good a man to be blockin' the wheels o' progress in this town."

"Things were running pretty smooth when I came here, weren't they?" Wright was willing to admit that much.

"Exactly, exactly." Kerr took a step forward and glanced at Gloria before he went on. "Now then, what do you say to this? You switch over an' join me. If it's too strong for you to go, I'll cut out that Maple avenue railway line, an' we'll go at it some other way."

Gloria looked at her father in astonishment. Wright did not interrupt him, wishing to hear all that he had to say. "This campaign's taught me I'm growin' old. Some day somebody's got to take my place. There ain't a man in the party with your sense. I need you, an'—what's more—you'll profit by bein' with me."

"Mr. Kerr, it won't take me many words to give you your answer."

Reading disapproval in the remark, David Kerr craftily replied with his kindest manner, "Take yer time, take yer time. The more you think it over, the more you'll like it. Besides, I'm thinkin' of Gloria. You two talk it over. She's—"

"Father!" The girl was perfectly horrified and her sense of the fitness of things outraged by having her name dragged into the discussion. "Would you dare connect my name with such an affair!"

To the coarse nature all things are coarse, and her father seemed surprised that she should resent the manner in which he had connected her with the offer. "An' why not?" he asked. "I've been thinkin' the matter over, an' you an' him would make a pretty good team."

"Oh!" Gloria's disgust was unspeakable. Mere rage was useless to express her feelings. She gave her father one withering look and turned away, walking up and down the room like a caged animal.

Kerr turned to Wright, since Gloria appeared to have no inclination to listen. "So I argues, why not fix it up between us." Then he spoke to his daughter in explanation, "Not knowin' you'd be here. But it's just as well. Now, Mr. Wright, what I say is this: This town wants somebody to run it. Belmont can't git along without somebody to keep the wheels greased. I'll put the paper on its feet fer you, an' gradually—as gradually as you like—you kin come over to my way of thinkin'. Then what'd be more natural than fer you to take over the runnin' o' things—especially as you'd be my son-in-law?"

Wright was about to make reply, but Gloria was too quick for him. Stamping her foot with rage, she paused before her father defiantly.

"Oh, this is more than I can bear! Am I a dog, a horse, a pig, that I can be traded in a dirty deal with not so much as 'by your leave?' I'll not stand it for another instant. One humiliation after another has been my lot, but this is the last. I'm through with you. What has passed has taught you nothing; you're the bargaining, trading, scheming politician still, so low that you'd make your own daughter, your own flesh and blood, the bait to lure a good man from his purpose. But you can't do it," she cried, a note of triumph creeping into her denunciation; "he's not your kind. And do you believe that I'd submit to such a thing? What can you think of me? You put me on a plane with those vile creatures who pay you for protection."

Double Chins.

To help reduce a double chin practice the following exercise: Stand erect in military position. Place the hands lightly on the hips, fingers forward. Drop the chin slowly on the collar bone. Then throw the head back with a quick, even movement that is not a jerk, but yet puts all the muscles into quick play. Repeat ten times. Turn the head quickly to the right till the chin is just over the right shoulder then back again. Repeat ten times. Then turn the head to the left in the same way. Repeat ten times. Do not tire the muscles of the neck, but gradually increase the number of exercises daily until you can practice each one about fifty times without after discomfort.

Reducing Thick Lips.

Thick lips are often caused by the owner's unconscious habit of biting them at intervals. Watch yourself to see if this is the case with you. An astringent pomade which can be rubbed on the lips to decrease their size is as follows:

Cold cream, one ounce; pulverized tannin, one gram; pulverized alkanet chips, one gram.

Melt the cold cream and then add to it the tannin and alkenet chips. Let stand for five hours and strain through cheesecloth. You will need to be patient with this treatment, as it takes time to produce an appreciable difference.

Guarding Against Freckles.

Summer's sun brings that menace to good looks, the unsightly freckle. An ointment that is good for freckles is very simply made as follows:

Sulphate of zinc, twenty grains; elder flower ointment, one ounce. Reduce these to a smooth paste.

This should be applied lightly night and morning after a hot soap and water face bath.

The wearing of a reddish brown chiffon veil when walking or motoring in the sun and wind will often prevent freckles and needless burning. A white veil, though pretty, is absolutely no protection.

Messaging the Scalp.

To massage the scalp place the finger tips on top of the head just above the forehead and work back to the crown with a rotary motion, moving the scalp with every rotation of the fingers. Then start a little farther down nearer the temples and work back to the center, next up and back of the head from the nape of the neck to the crown. Massage is given to keep the scalp loose and improve the circulation; therefore the scalp must be moved to loosen it. Simply rubbing the fingers over the hair will not have any good effect, but will rub off the little fine hairs. It is better to dress the hair in a warm room.

High Coiffure Combs.

The high hairdressing has not become very general yet, but in a few months every one will wear this dignified style. In the meantime every woman whose aim it is to keep in touch with the new fashions when they first appear should become possessed of as many of the high, old fashioned tortoiseshell combs as she can. These picturesque combs can often be picked up quite cheaply at old curiosity shops, but they must be bought quickly, for they will soon go up in price. All kinds will be worn, but the high Spanish comb is likely to be the greatest favorite.

A homely man is reported to have been made handsome by a collision with a steam roller. It probably flattered him.

The German tailor who has sent six of his thirty-five children to the army should be called the honorary father of his country.

One advantage of being a British officer is that one can resign when one pleases. Plain Thomas Atkins would have to desert.

Good Advice From a Neat Little Girl.

A LITTLE ADVISER.

Of course they're clean at breakfast,
But before the other meals
Your hands will both need washing,
And you'll like the way it feels.

So while I'm on this subject,
With a line or two to spare,
Perhaps it's well to mention
That you also brush your hair.
—St. Nicholas.

The Brown Thrasher.

The brown thrasher, or brown thrush, as he is commonly called, is not really a thrush at all, but a large wren. His head, back wings and tail are rich reddish brown, and the breast is white with brown streaks. The tail is noticeably long, and we may wonder how he manages to carry it about. From up in a treetop you will hear a beautiful song—warbling, whistling, trills and gurgles—a surprising medley of notes. It is the brown thrasher singing to his mate as she sits on her eggs near by. In looking for a nesting site the thrasher is one of the birds that choose a thorny hedge, into which few of their enemies dare to enter. It is a mystery how the owners of the nest go in and out without injury.

Origin of "Gringo."

When the American army marched into Mexico sixty-five years ago a song that continually sounded from camp began, "Green grow the rushes, O!"

The Mexicans heard this line repeated so often that finally they began to call the invaders by the first two words, which they pronounced "gringo;" hence "gringo," a Mexican name for Americans.

Saving Trouble.

When Bobbie went to see his grandmother he was much interested in whatever went on in the kitchen. One day she said to him: "I'm going to make you a nice little pie in a saucer, all for yourself. Don't you think I'm pretty good to take so much trouble?"

Bobbie pondered. "Grandma," he said at length, "mother told me not to be a bother, and if it's going to be any trouble you can just as well make my pie reg'lar size."—Exchange.

TUBERCULOSIS AS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION

By A. P. Reid, M.D.

Provincial Officer of Health, Province of Nova Scotia.

The medical or therapeutic treatment of the disease is settled and need not claim consideration here.

The sanatorium system of handling it was deemed the correct one, but experience and observation have taught me that it is not and cannot be a success (for details I would refer to the Public Health Journal of July, 1911).

As a hospital or for treatment of individual patients it fills the bill, but to handle tuberculosis, it must fail, as it cannot reach the roots of, and eradicate that plant of ill omen—the tubercle bacillus. As it is generally managed, a certain protection or immunity is given the tubercle bacillus by removing its victims, while allowing it to entangle new ones in its folds. Even of those relieved, too many fail after discharge from the sanatorium, because it was placed in a position it could not fill, and should be relegated to a substation; besides, it can only handle one case for a hundred that need help.

What Do We Want to Achieve?

1st — To prevent spread of tuberculosis—to exterminate it. 2nd—To secure its victims when all are curable—in fact, before they are aware of their condition—90 per cent. now (as discovered by post-mortem examinations) have had it, got well and died from other causes, without having been aware they had tuberculosis. 3rd — To care for advanced cases and derelicts. 4th—To enable the afflicted to aid in their own support, assisted, if need be.

This is what we are up against, and let us look at it from a business point of view. The cause of it all is a minute entity that harbors in our homes, houses, offices, workshops, schools, and where people congregate, while multiplying in the bodies of their victims, who are generally unaware of it until a later stage, that may be too late for relief.

Our business is to eliminate this entity while in the meantime caring for its victims.

We must attack the above citadels of its repose by rendering them sanitary on systematic, not desultory, lines. Curing the afflicted is a secondary and too often futile effort.

1st Proposition — Make the citadels sanitary—every house a sanatorium.

If we can catch them early enough, all can be cured, without much interfering with their usual avocations.

2nd Proposition — We must secure those who may lapse by anticipating its probability — and thus prevent their fall.

The advanced [illegible] and derelicts demand special care. Many can be cured and all more or less relieved and life prolonged — even the fatal cases relieved of much of their misery.

3rd Proposition — The majority can be cared for in their own homes, if under supervision and needed help, and but few should need the hospital or sanatorium.

Make every house and disease focus sanitary, and the question is solved. This will entail cost in money and brains, but is quite within our powers if we make proper use of our present knowledge and experience.

As it is now, patients returned relieved from the sanatorium too often relapse and die, who might continue relieved and be finally cured, if sanatorial cure could be furnished or afforded. Hence every house should be a sanatorium, and no other one be needed. The poorer the house it may the more easily be made sanitary — for the ideal is an open tent. The modern mansion is the most difficult problem to solve.

The above suggestions appear to be very trite and simple — platitudes — but in the concrete, what can be done with fair prospects of success?

Education

We must expend 90 per cent. of our efforts on these lines.

Every house, etc., should be sanitary, and that they are not so is due to ignorance — prejudice — hebetude, and sometimes poverty. Lectures, literature, etc., should suffice, but they have failed, and will fail, owing to that law of human nature, which looks on advice (if it be irksome) as good for the other fellow. We must directly and persistently (not forcibly) present the facts to the delinquent, and keep this up until faults are remedied, and if poverty intervenes, then furnish the needed aid in kind, or as may be deemed best.

This assumes that a public health official, nurse, or inspector have charge of a district under the medical health officer to which they devote all their time — in a tactful way, to keep on the track of delinquents, and follow them until they complied with regulations. In many cases I think a woman would be preferable to a man for this duty. All they need is a "common knowledge, common sense," and tact, to carry out the instructions of the medical health officer to whom they regularly report. This health officer is to be responsible for the correct performance of their duty, and to follow up their reports, to see that requirements are carried out.

In their visits the inspectors would note any indications of ill-health, or debility, though no complaint be made, report all such cases to health officer, and carry out his instructions. In this way we could secure the incipient cases of tuberculosis at the curable stage and (if excused) I would remark that in no other way can this be done. Diagnosis may be difficult, mayhaps impossible, but this is not a matter of moment, because at this stage what cures one will not cure another. In this way we could entrap not only tuberculosis, but any other infectious or serious malady when it could be most readily handled.

The inspectors would also see that the sick from any cause were properly cared for, as well as patients returned from a sanatorium. They could directly teach, explain and demonstrate, and ensure the sanitary state of the home and surroundings while teaching patients how they need not be a source of danger to others.

My sympathy goes out to the poor dying consumptive who, with all the care a hospital or sanatorium can give, still longs for the home and the company of family and friends—though a dangerous inmate of any house, yet by adopting simple necessary precautions this danger can be so minimized that there need not be objection to the stay at home. In this way we may have the solution of all the propositions above referred to.

In adopting this system, money is needed to pay officials and to supply the want due to poverty, as it may arise, but of even more moment, the control and responsibility should be under the Government. My experience of municipal control has been satisfactory from many causes, as well as the desire to curtail expense.

A sanatorium may be a convenience for the few it can accommodate, but is by no means a necessity — for without any reasonable doubt, people can get well at their own homes with intelligent supervision (that need not be so very costly), as well, if not better, than at the institution—with their friends around them, and if able to work, can in so far contribute to their own support.

As system is needed, I would suggest the working out of details be referred to a representative commission of business men and others, that would not exclude "the man in overalls" or the "man in the street"; all are equally interested. I have only very briefly sketched general outlines, and it may be noted that the cost may be limited, owing to the area that is taken in hand which could be a guide to extension.

Our watchword should be education, demonstration, and careful supervision of the homes, with needed aid to those in want. One dollar spent in this way would go farther and be more efficient than ten dollars in running large caravansaries that people for many and good reasons will only enter on compulsion in some form, and to the great mass of the afflicted are, and can, not be available for reasons I have not time and space here and now to specify.

Much money has been wasted by our inefficient system. We begin at the wrong end. Like the inexpert trying to stop the leak in the dam by working on the outside instead of the inside, with but very temporary benefit.

BOY SCOUTS FOR TURKEY

Organization to be Used for Rejuvenation Purposes

Constantinople, June 29.—The Boy Scout Movement has been initiated here with the swearing in of the troop leaders before Enver Pasha, , who, it is understood, is to be made the Bashbogh, or chief scout of Turkey.

The movement is part of a farseeing plan to rejuvenate Turkey. On the patriotic side, the members, with the support of the young Turks,, will try to purge the language of foreign words which have corrupted the Turkish of the border into one more or less of a jargon. On the military and civic side, the Government hopes not only to popularize army service among the educated classes but to develop initiative and flexibility among the people so as to compete more favorably with western peoples.

It is significant that in the oath taken by the boys, theArabic word for God, "Allah," has yielded to the Turkish, "Tengri." All names used in the organization, such as Izdjis for "scouts," and Oimak Begs for "leaders," are pure Turkish. The word for leader in official use has heretofore been "bey."

The young Turks, and many of the older men, believe that the country's decline has been largely due to Persian and Byzantine influences. They hope to teach the youth to remember the racial origin of the people, who once came near to subduing Europe.

SEND BODY HOME

Remains of E. W. Cox to be Shipped Home

LONDON, June 29.—The body of the late E. W. Cox, Toronto, who died at Hythe on Saturday, was conveyed to London the same night and will be taken to Toronto, probably by the Lusitania, this week. During the five weeks he was in England Mr. Cox sought the advice of several eminent specialists and also received the benefit of the most recent discoveries of radium. Improvement followed, but serious complications set in and proved rapidly fatal.

Edward William Cox was born at Peterboro 50 years ago. The boy showed a strong aptitude for mathematics, and a course of training at Peterboro High School and the University of Toronto left him an expert actuary. He went into his father's office, the George A. Cox Insurance Agency, in 1883, and when the business grew into the Canada Life Assurance Co. in 1887 he became manager of the eastern Ontario branch. He continued to show executive ability until he became general manager.

POPE IS WELL SAYS BRUCHESI

Is Stronger Than on Last Visit Says Archbishop

MONTREAL, June 29.—His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi returned to Montreal Friday night from a four months' trip to Europe.

"I had several audiences with his holiness and found him alert to the state of the church the world over," said his grace. "I found him more healthy and stronger than on my last visit. His mind is as keen and his interest as lively as if he were thirty years younger. I saw him several times and his appearance and vitality certainly contradict the sensational reports about his failing health. He is over 80 years of age, but strong and full of enthusiasm and zeal."

WELL KNOWN IN LONDON

Duchess Popular But Archduke Little Liked

LONDON, June 29. — News of the assassination of Franz Ferdinand and his wife reached London early yesterday. Special editions of the Sunday papers were published, creating a painful sensation. The archduke was personally known here, having visited London several times in the past few years. The last occasion was in the spring, when he was entertained, with his wife, by the Duchess of Portland, who gave a magnificent ball in their honor.

The Duchess Hohenburg by her beauty and gracious manner made herself popular wherever seen, but Franz, with his sullen, heavy aspect, created an unfavorable impression. He was devoid of animation or charm, his leading characteristics being intense pride and a highly jingoistic conception of Austria's mission to Europe.

The aged emperor is the special object of sympathy, who has thus bad the uniquely horrible experience of his wife and both heirs apparent dying tragic, untimely deaths.

It was always understood that he never care overmuch for Franz Ferdinand and of late years their estrangement was notorious.

In Austria-Hungary the critical time will be when the Emperor dies. The new heir to the throne, Archduke Karl Franz, enjoys great popularity both in Austria and Hungary and his accession is considered less likely to produce a disrupting effect on the dual monarchy than that of Franz Ferdinand.

PREACHERS OR POLITICIANS

In the last issue of "Beck's Weekly," a writer drew attention to the active part which ministers of the gospel are taking in the Ontario elections to be held next Monday. Mr. Willoughby gave it as his opinion that no matter which side is returned to power, there will be certain of these gentlemen occupying seats in the Legislature after the votes are counted.

We Canadians have never grown quite accustomed to the spectacle of a minister of the gospel on the political huskings. His presence there, even when he takes no active part in the proceedings, is usually enough to warrant special mention in the press. But up in Ontario at present a number of them are not only stumping vigorously for what they believe to be a moral cause, but they are actually imploring votes and making pre-election promises with all the vim of the political politician.

Of course the question of the efficiency of the preacher in politics is a vexed one. Personally, I have never been able to convince myself that a parson of average attainments, courage, zeal and sincerity, can do his best work for the community in active politics. Mr. Willoughby instanced the case of the Reverend John Coburn, whose misdirected energies overthrew the cause for which he was fighting. The reverend electioneer probably did vastly more harm than good, not by electing or defeating any particular man, but by stirring up active resentment against the church influence which he represented. Men are prone to generalize from a particular instance, and the church in that constituency was considerably weakened by this one example of zealous bigotry.

A clergyman seems out of place in active politics. By training, and what is more, by tradition, he is totally unfitted for the rough-and-tumble of political warfare. Save in those rare instances where he is pitted against an opponent of his own calibre, he must endure a criticism which inevitably lowers him in the estimation of the public. When the Rev. W. E. Wilson was called a sneak, a skunk and a liar by a notorious master of Billingsgate the other day, one of two courses was open to him, he might refuse to bandy epithets—as he naturally did—and thereby allowed his opponent to score with an audience which that sort of thing was shrewdly calculated to delight, or he might retort in kind—and forfeit his own self-respect.

Politics is a profession, as clearly defined as medicine, law, or any other. We have had successful politicians who have been doctors or lawyers, but seldom, if ever, successful doctors or lawyers who were at the same time leading politicians. If a minister of the gospel decides to go in for active politics, no matter how sincerely altruistic his motives, he must be prepared to abandon his best work in the ministerial field. The question is, which does Canada need most, good preachers, or indifferently good politicians?

FRATERNAL DAY WAS BIG SUCCESS

Very Large Turnout of Fraternal Societies

Although dark threatening clouds covered the canopy above, the first annual Fraternal Fraternal Sunday was a marked success, so much so, in fact, that it gives promise of being one of the most prominent days of future years. Not only were the members of the various fraternal societies interested but also numerous other citizens followed the march to the churches. It is generally recognized that the most imposing spectacle is a parade headed by a band, and as the parade last evening embraced upwards of a thousand men and was assisted by the 57th Regimental Band, the Maple Leaf Band and the Salvation Army Band it is needless to state that it left a good impression on the minds of all the onlookers.

The members of the societies met in their respective lodge rooms at six o'clock and the lodge marshals conducted them to the market square where they were formed into one large battalion by Chief Howard, Colonel Miller and Mr. Ernie Reid. The duties of these three marshals was exceptionally well done. The 57th Regimental Band lead the parade up George Street to McDonnel Street where it was sectioned off and divisions sent to the principal churches to attend divine service.

The societies represented were, Knights of Pythias, C.O.O.F., I.O.F., A.O.F., W.O.W., L.O.L., P.B.F., S. O.E., A.O.U.W., and one lodge of Oddfellows.

A NEW CURE

In these days of Christian Science, serums, anti-toxins and New Thought it takes a bold man to announce an entirely different yet very successful cure for suffering humanity. Not a cure-all, however, be it understood, any more than the above-named. For instance, the new remedy is of no avail for broken bones, smallpox, rheumatism or even toothache; not to mention a few hundred other disagreeable items.

But it is a fact that if only the mind can be agreeably diverted, many a suffering man or woman can be relieved and Nature allowed to do the work of rehabilitation without the disadvantage of worry and mental anxiety. And doctors and scientists both agree that in many cases, even of apparently serious disease, if only the mind can be so diverted, even temporarily, that cures will naturally result.

At any rate, our cure can do you no harm, so if you are nervous or worried about anything, no matter how blue the prospects, just join our happy family of contestants in the Summer Pastime, do not break away and the sun of peace and contentment will shine forth for you once more. It is open to all, young and old, rich and poor, male and female; and the daily results are fine with the possible outcome of prize-winning—a glorious future prospect. Come on in and be happy!

CHILD IS ADOPTED BY OWN FATHER

St. Louis, June 29. — Federal Judge Dyer has placed the seal of legality upon a father's atonement to his natural child, by awarding one-half of the $60,000 estate of the late Charles R. Roberts, former Mayor of Wellston, to his daughter born out of wedlock, Miss Myra Jane Roberts, now a clerk in a department store in New Orleans.

The story of Roberts' misstep of more than forty years ago and of his voluntary explanation was undreamed of by his neighbors, who held him in such esteem as to elect him mayor of the town in which he lived. The present generation in Wellston believed Miss Roberts to be his daughter by his first marriage. Only a few of the older residents remembered that she was a foster child.

Evidence of Good Heart.

"I speak nothing to the disparagement of Roberts in this case," said Judge Dyer in delivering his decision. "A man may sin and correct the wrong; it is the evidence of a good man that he tries to atone after he has sinned."

Roberts died two years ago and left no will. Claim to his entire estate was laid by his widow, Mrs. Ida R. Roberts, in behalf of her 18-year-old son, Charles Stanley Roberts, on the ground that Myra Roberts was not the former Mayor's daughter and had never been formally adopted.

Miss Roberts replied with a suit against her stepmother and her half-brother, demanding her share of the estate, and disclosing the secret of her birth, which she said her father revealed to her when she was twenty years old.

A witness in the case was Miss Anna M. Helbing, superintendent of the Home of the Friendless, who produced an old record book of the institution containing the following entries:

Nov. 16, 1872. Infant girl left on doorstep.

Nov. 21, 1872. To C. J. Roberts, Austin, Ill. Reference G. W. Barnett, commission merchant, West Lake Street, and the Rev. Alex. Blackburn, Austin, Ill.

Dec. 20, 1872. Infant indentured to C. J. Roberts.

This is the Child.

The clothing in which the child was dressed when found, forty-two years ago, was offered in evidence at the trial, as were photographs of her as a baby and as a young girl.

George H. Roberts, brother of Charles J. Roberts, testified that he saw the girl in 1881, and was impressed by her resemblance to the Roberts family. It was stated that her mother, a Chicago seamstress, died many years ago, and that Roberts had provided for her support.

"The fact that within a few days after this child was left at the asylum," said James Dyer, "Roberts' name appeared on the books of the institution, indicates, if there were no other facts in the case, that she was his child. When he went to the home he did not have to be directed to the couch on which the infant lay; he knew his own blood. He said: "This is the child I am going to adopt. It is a girl, although I had set my heart on adopting a boy."

HOME RULE

LONDON, June 29.—(C. A. P. Cable.) — "Home Rule is inevitable," declared Irish Secretary Birrell, speaking in Yorkshire Saturday.

If the present Government disappeared to-morrow the first thing the Unionist Government would have to do would be to promote the Home Rule bill. Whatever they might be pleased to call it and what it was called, Ulster knew the present bill was secure. He deeply deplored that any portion of Ireland should be separated, from another for six years, and did not believe any party in Ireland wanted it.

Any other proposals would be carefully considered by the present Government.

The history of humanity is an immense volume of mistakes.

Make your Razor behave

Honing as well as stropping is necessary to keep a razor at its best. But the secret of good honing is to hone a little every day—just as the barber does. Honing is made easy for every man who uses a

PIKE STROP-HONE

For Safety or Ordinary Razors

Three strokes on this hone are enough, and because it needs no wetting with oil or water, these take hardly a second. Then too, this little honing makes less stropping necessary. You have the best hone and the best strop in one, and both at the cost of one, when you buy a Pike Strop-Hone. This combination makes shaving a pleasure because it "makes your razor behave." Ask to see one at the store—it's GUARANTEED.

HISTORY OF PETERBORO HAMLET, TOWN AND CITY

Incidents and Facts of Interest and Value Compiled by Mr. F. H. Dobbin

IN BOOK FORM

In a very few years, possibly not more than four or five at the most we shall celebrate the 100 anniversary of the very beginning of things in connection with the settlement of what is now the city of Peterborough and district immediately surrounding. We shall mark the coming in of the first settler (1812), the erection of the first small dwelling house and mill. Then to note further accession to the group of settlers and putting up of more dwellings, opening out of stores, laying out and construction of the first rude roads, the first buildings used for public purposes such as hotels, churches and for the administration of affairs.

Of all of this we have only vague records and then not in entirety. Life was at first too streunous to give time for much relation for the benefit of the future. We have some notes of the early settlement and subsequent progress and the coming in of municipal institutions, but of the people themselves, who they were, where they came from and how under such and much difficulty they worked out their lives, nothing has been recorded, and little remains but what is enshrined in the memories of a few of the oldest inhabitants.

Naturally, one may ask, who is there now who was here at the birth and inception of the place. Not many, it is true, though there is verbal relation, only one or two generations removed from participation in the events. Such record is to some extent reliable, and may be taken for what it is worth and because it may not be successfully disputed, though often distorted by the personal point of view. Possibly the oldest inhabitant of the city is Mr. Frank Weir, of East City. On July 14th, 1913, two days after he had taken part in the procession of the 12th of July proceeding, he was standing at the corner of Hunter and Chambers streets, he said, pointing across the street, "I was taken by my mother to pick berries on the ground where the Oriental hotel stands, in the year 1826. We had come up from Cobourg, by wagon, and while waiting for friends to bring a vehicle to take us down into Otonabee, had our meal at a little shack that stood on the ground now covered by the post office. We afterwards strolled over the foot paths that wound through the woods where now the best business section of the city was located."

It is true that all history is comprised in a record of the movements of individuals. Stop that movement and history ceases. So to tell the history of Peterborough would be to recount the story of its activities as set in motion by the people who settled here to gain a living, to hew out a future among the forests that covered the lands of the town site and district. It is an interesting tale of pioneer privation and effort, of faith in the future by the men who built the town. At first of a small community, bound together by the knowledge that only by mutual as well as individual effort could the settlement hope to survive and make progress. For there were dark days in the past, when it seemed that isolation would never be broken. To even touch the past and its doings would fill pages of a newspaper.

Work is Completed.

During the last four months Mr. F. H. Dobbin has been engaged on a work which he has just completed, that of writing and having transcribed on the typewriter, a Historical Index of Peterborough. It is rather an unique conception most thoroughly carried out. It is not a history, but a copious compilation of facts from which history is written. History, in general, will deal with the larger things of municipal life and its environment while the Index recounts both the larger and those of less—say of personal significance. Many of the common things of life interest the common people, and these things are entitled to be of record. They fill in our municipal life as the mortar fills in between the bricks—Essential, but unobtrusive. The work is a minute detail of the locality, dating back to the beginning of things, and a perusal of its pages will place the reader in possession of and in fair touch with what has gone on in the past and of the parts played by those who have worked and helped in the progress that has been made. On the pages and in the paragraphs may be traced the longings and aspirations of the people for the betterment of means of communication, to find an outlet for the first manufactures. In an other line to bring together facilities for education, to improve conditions, to stir up the Provincial Assemblies to give adequate opportunity for development and to do away with certain wrongs and abuses that were holding back on the line of progress.

Mr. Dobbin had been collecting for the last twenty years, with the object of preparing the work, narrative, fact, and incident. Such have been sifted and so far as possible verified, and made use of. So soon as newspapers began to be published there was available fairly accurate memoranda of occurrences, though it may be said that the reporter of those days,—the forties—did not bestir himself to give elaborate reports. Still the facts are in print, and may be taken as true. Then from the date mentioned, on up to the present, there is a chain of relation of fact that only needed to be drawn out and selected, in part, to make the basis of the work. This Mr. Dobbin has done. He has gone through every page of the newspapers for the last seventy years, (1843-1914) and selected that which forms a minute and surprisingly complete record. It will be extremely useful as a book of reference, such being the intention of the compiler.

Thirteen Sections

It is divided into thirteen sections, for convenience of reefrence. These comprise the following:—Historial, Institutions and Societies, Religious, Biography, Events, Railway, Fires, Educational, Industrial, Political, Municipal, Military and Public Works. Each of the sections is provided with a copious index—in fact it is "cross indexed" most minutely, for purpose of reference. For instance; should the enquiry be made as to who was "Conger," the biography will afford a summary of his life, where he came from and the share he had in the actitivties of the town. It would be observed by the reader that he was concerned in the political matters of the day, and reference is made to the section "Political." Here is described his connection in such regard. Further reference will be noted to his part in public matters, and in "Municipal" will be found his connection with the council and municipal administration. Still further reference would give the part he took in the promotion of local enterprises and movements, such as that of the formation of the Little Lake Cemetery, the advocacy (one of the first) of the Trent Valley Canal. All this by way of illustration.

The "Historical" section deals with the very early history of the town, its settlement and growth. The story of the early pioneers. With this is the story of the Robinson emigration from Ireland to this district, a tale than of which there is none more pathetic in the annals of pioneer life in Canada. A complete list and almost the first time in print, of the immigrants, names, members of families, lands on which located in the surrounding townships. The names are those of people we all know and meet every day. An account of the appearance of the country and lands at and around Peterborough given by Champlain, the explorer, when he made haste to cross the height of land between Lake Huron and Lake Ontario on his way to take part in repelling the Indian tribes who were threatening destruction to the people along the northern shore of Lake Ontario. The description given is accurate and the locality can be easily recognized. There are copious extracts from the proceedings of the Counties Council, during the seven years that the town and county were joined for municipal purposes, lists of the council and offices of the local administration.

"Institutions and Societies" tells of the formation of the many such which have been organized, blossomed, bore fruit and died and of those that survive. Of the people who toiled and worked for these in the public service. Story of the inception and progress of our parks, hospitals, institutes, since the days of 1845, which began with the first Building and Loan Society. Public, secret, denominational, all are represented.

The "Religious" section deals with churches and church life. It represents a large share of effort and the expenditure of much energy. The history of each church is given and credit handed to those who accomplished so much in this field. In addition there are pages of notes detailing the movements of the clergy, the building and improvements, the gradual accesion of larger importance.

One of the most interesting sections is that of "Biography." Every man who came at all into our municipal or public life is entered. We may do that much, if no other, to preserve some reference of those who gave unselfishly of time and energy in the public service. Over four hundred separate biographies have been prepared, involving an immense amount of work and care in compilation.

The section of "events" comprises over sixty pages of incident and story. Things that while not of our municipal life are a part of it. Just the matters that men like to call to recollection and talk over, especially if they had a hand in the occurrence. Date, time and place are given. All can be nailed down to settled disputes as to the time of the "Boring for Coal Oil" fiasco, the "Big Snow," the "Big Flood," and a thousand others. None have been missed.

"Railway" gives a succient detail of the efforts of the town to bring in a railway. Of the meetings, deputations, bonuses, surveys, promotions and effort. It was the one vital thing longed and worked for in the early days.

"Fires" we have always with us, just like the poor. In a wooden day and wooden construction fires worked fearful havoc. Millions of dollars in value have gone up in smoke in Peterborough. The section gives an accurate record of all fires that destroyed business buildings, stores, shops, mills, since the early fifties. In this section can be traced the gradual evolution of the front street, as it now appears, and the several locations can be identified from the destruction of buildings that covered the sites in the early days.

"Educational" is the history of our schools. From the building of the first log school, in which was taught "Parson" Taylor, or affectionate memory, to the erection of the fine Collegiate Institute, all are described. Also the progress of the Separate Schools. Complete lists of the Boards of Education from the early fifties up to the present. Over 80 pages of detailed record of the proceedings of the Boards, the records of the schools, the financing, the regulating, and an earnest effort at all times to improve the facilities for teaching and to afford better education for the children of the people.

The Industries.

Continually we have reference to our industries. Who promoted this or that. What did such an industry cost the town or city in the way of bonus, inducement, or privilege. What is the exemption, if any. Who is concerned in the venture. Who arranged the terms? All these and hundreds of other questions are answered in the "Industrial" section. Beginning away back in the inception of the lumber industry, there is a correct record of all industries established. If municipal aid was afforded, the facts are at hand. If private enterprise impelled the establishment, credit is given. Large numbers have been started, progressed for a time, and passed away. It is interesting to read of these. Of the gradual removal of industries from along the river, once the use of electric power came in, not to mention the advent of steam. The history of the lumber business — the first source of wealth to the town — is a story in itself. A full list of all exemptions is supplied, up to date. If, for instance, one wishes to know what it cost the town to gain the Electric Works, there are the details. Of the Quaker Oats, the DeLaval, and all others.

Political History.

The political history of thet own and riding is ever a topic of conversation and argument. Many have general knowledge of the facts, few of the particulars. Not many may burden their memories with names of candidates, dates of elections, and results. All these are given. Elections and results since the time of the Newcastle District, returns for the Colborne District up to Confederation, and from that time on. Classified lists of all elections for the Dominion House, for the Provincial Legislature, with majorities and state of the poll. Pages of notes descriptive of salient features of the several campaigns and the issues involved. Biography supplies personal account of the candidates.

The direction of affairs as relating to the municipality is in the hands of the Council, where it is not otherwise taken up by the School Board and Utilities Commission. This last is of recent date. The "Municipal" section is a very minute record of all that has been done by the Councils of the town and city since incorporation in 1850. Correct lists of Mayors, Councillors, Aldermen, Clerks, Etc. At a glance it can be seen who have served the town. Men have come forward to serve one year in council. Others have served, like late James Stevenson (59 years on the school board unbroken) half of a lifetime. They should have credit. In this list are the names of men that the town used to conjure with, who stood as a tower of strength behind the municipality and put their own money into ventures, often with little hope of return. In the section is over one hundred pages of notes, many of surpassing interest. The whole gamut of municipal life and effort is covered. Census returns for seventy years. Municipal income and expenditure for the same period, showing an increase of from about $6,500 per annum to $165,000, as it now is. Assessment values year by year, the fighting of the drink evil is shown in the reduction of licenses; erection of bridges, improvement of streets, inception of local institutions and services, with all the debate and conference and discussion that came about. This section, alone, is a liberal education to any one who does not know of the history and progress of the municipality.

Then there is the "Military" section. We have had the Boys in Red with us from very early days, though in fact the first were in dark blue, or bottle green, the old and first Rifle Company organized in the early fifties. The military history, if it may be so termed, goes back to the time of the Mackenzie Rebellion, and the year 1837. The organization and turning out and the participation of the men from this district is described. Lists of the officers in command and of the mustered rank and file. Minute particulars of the organization of the several infantry companies (afterwards merged in the 57th Battalion and later into the 57th Regiment) are given. Of the long-maintained efforts to have built a drill-shed and the cost thereof. Of the magnificent Armouries. Of the men who picked up and held together the force, Scott, Smith, Poole Kennedy, Bell, Miller, Rogers, Burnham, and many others. Side by side with this is the story of the militia, or rural battalions, and the Dragoons and Artillery. The story of the Northwest Rebellion of 1866, and lists of the men who went to service. Of those who joined in the Nile expedition, of the part of the Midland Battalion that participated in the operations at the time of the Rell Rebellion; and of the force that went off to South Africa, the doings before and after, the going out and coming home, the receptions and the celebrations. All this is a matter of record and of large interest to military men.

The section "Public Works" deals with the construction of the Trent Canal, the Lift Lock, public buildings, and general improvements made throughout the district, beginning with the erection of the first lift lock (that below the Little Lake) under the direction of the Royal Engineers. Ample notes are made of the detail of the works.

The whole has been handsomely bound and makes an important-appearing volume, a heavy one, even if the contents are not necessarily so. Presently the work will be put in print and offered to the public. In the meantime it will be found at the Public Library, where it may be consulted, and the Librarian, Mr. Delafosse, will be pleased to afford inspection. Bets may now be settled with neatness and dispatch. Disputes adjusted. Dates verified. Incidents recalled. Old associations renewed, for, hardly any fact in the life of the town is left unrecorded.

WHALES OFF JERSEY COAST

SANDY HOOK, N.J., June 29.—Captain Thomas Keys, of the tug Lamont reported Saturday that a school of whales was in the vicinity of the Scotland lightship off the Hook. One whale he said was a hundred feet in length and came up spouting close alongside the Lamont, greatly exciting her crew.

Seldom are whales seen so close to New York harbor. A good chance for some of the old whalers of Southampton, Long Island, to increase their oil and whalebone awaits their coming off the Hook.

King and Queen Bombarded.

LONDON, June 29.—Militant suffragettes circumvented the police on Saturday and bombarded King George and Queen Mary with leaflets at the entrance to Hyde Park. A bundle of the papers struck the King's hat and knocked it sideways, while that Queen's parasol caught another shower of pamphlets.

Two women were seized by the police and carried away struggling violently.

CATHOLIC CONGRESS

MONTREAL, June 29. — A high water mark in regard to the number of eminent ecclesiastics present at any Eucharistic congress, will be reached at Lourdes next month, when over 170 cardinals, archbishops and bishops will support the papal legate, Granite De Belmonte, on the opening day, July 22.

Canadian Honored.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, June 29.—On the occasion of the celebration of the tercentenary of the foundation in 1614 of Greningen University, a large number of degrees were conferred Saturday. These included a doctorate of letters on Prof. William Peterson of McGill University, Montreal, Canada.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Moving Picture Hall, Scene of Electrical Display

CHATHAM, June 29. — During a heavy electric storm Saturday evening a moving-picture hall was struck by lightning while a performance was on, and for a time it seemed as if a panic would happen. The lightning struck the transformer just outside the building, and the electric light service in the theatre was immediately cut off. The lightning traveled along the wires leading into the building and filled the theatre with a dull blue light.

Several women screamed and fainted and a number of them jumped up and tried to scramble for the door. A man in the gallery raised the cry of fire and proceeded to climb down from the gallery to the floor of the house. It was with the greatest of difficulty that the attendants prevented a panic.

The rain fell in torrents and it is impossible at this time to estimate the damage which will be done to the crops. The rain was very hard on the young corn crops, for the plants are just coming to stand up in the fields.

KING ORDERS MOURNING.

British State Ball at Buckingham Has Been Postponed.

LONDON, June 29.—The news of the assassination caused a deep impression in London. When word came from the British embassy at Vienna the King despatched telegrams of sympathy and ordered all court affairs cancelled.

The King has ordered court mourning for a week. The state ball, which was to have taken place to-day, has been postponed.

The archduke's successor as heir to the throne, Archduke Charles Francis, is likewise a popular figure in England and other countries.

In unofficial London the opinion seems to prevail that the crime could not be attributed to any political intrigue, but rather to the inherent hatred of the Serbs for their Austrian neighbors, which has become more bitter since the recent events in the Balkans, in which the Serbs charge Austria with taking part against Servia.

BREAKS HELPED SAINTS TO WIN

A little hard luck, coming in the form of an injury to Louie Schettler and failure to hit when hits meant runs caused the Petes to drop the Saturday bill to St. Thomas by 3-2. It was the closing game of the series with the clan of Midge Craven and the fans were very desirous of seeing the Blountmen make it two out of three and four out of six for the week. But luck was against them. A little shower was deposited upon the field by J. Pluv, about two o'clock but it brushed by and left almost ideal baseball weather yet the crowd was slightly effected.

Manager Blount selected Schettlerr and Miller as the main works for the crucial encounter while Wilkinson, who was found an easy mark on Friday, was sent back in to redeem himself. Schettler was heaving nice ball up till the fourth when he was injured by a batted ball and had to be replaced by Ken Tracey. They hit Tracey rather hard in spots and only the good work of the team held the Saints in check. Wilkinson although a trifle wild held the Petes to six hits but at that he had no license to win. He almost gave the game away on several occasions and had the locals been there in a pinch they could have had the game annexed to their win column instead of the reverse.

Midge Craven secured three hits in three times up against Tracey and incidentally it might be noticed that the scrappy little manager scored their three runs. McNeills their second baseman also had three bingles to his credit. Welsh and Miller lead the local swatters with two each.

With two men on in the fourth, and the score 1-0 in favor of the Petes, McNeills drove a fast one at Schettler which travelled too fast for Louie to handle or even to dodge it. The pill struck him over the eye, causing him to reel and fall. Craven, who was on third, scored, and the umpire, Freeman, called time. The players assisted Schettler to the bench. Dr. McNulty was summoned from the stand, and after rendering first aid accompanied Schettler to his home.

Ken Tracey took up the burden, with Gillespie at bat, but had only delivered one ball when Hadley was caught on an attempt to come home on a throw to second. The Petes lost no time in getting the counter back. Rooney opened up with a scorching single, and was sent to third by King's sacrifice. Fox flied to Craven, sending Rooney to third, and then the Irishman scored on Miller's bingle.

In the first of the sixth Craven singled and scored on Hadley's long triple to right. Kustus drove one to King, but it was a "freak ball' and jumped high in the air, thus causing the second-sacker to lose it. Fox went to get it, but the pill took another bad hop, and he missed. Hadley had started for home when it got away from King, but turned back, and stood perched on third when the ball was finally pulled down. Both men died on the paths.

With the score 2-2, the teams played gilt-edged ball. In the first of the eighth, with one man down, Craven secured his third hit of the day, and when he started for second Mully Miller lined the ball dead on, but the diminutive leader's foot came in contact with it, and the pill bounded out to Welsh. Before it was returned, Midge had crossed the pan with the run that eventually won the game.

In their half of the same frame the Blountmen made a hard old fight to come through with the needy, but all to no avail. Curley got a walk and stole second and third. Byrne flied to Kopp, and Lefty Welsh popped an easy one to the firstbaseman. Wilkinson then hit Stewart and Rooney, but caused King to lift one out to Kopp. It looked as though the Petes were going to put the game on ice, but the hit didn't come in the right time. They attempted another rally in the ninth. With one man down Miller doubled, but Kelly, who was sent in to hit for Tracey, flied to Kopp, and Blount popped to the pitcher.

JOHNSON DEFENDED TITLE AGAINST MORAN

Bout Went Twenty Rounds and Moran Made a Game Showing.

Paris, June 29.—Jack Johnson, the world's heavyweight champion easily defended his title in the battle against Frank Moran, the Pittsburg heavy here Saturday evening. The big black was the cleverer of the two at all stages and deserved the verdict, which was given him at the end of the twentieth round by Georges Carpentier, who refereed. Moran proved to be one of the gamest men that ever stepped into a ring and took an awful beating. Towards the end of the battle Moran looked as though he would lose via the knockout route, but managed to weather the storm and finish on his feet. Moran was the aggressor throughout and did all the leading, but the famous ironlike defence of the big smoke withstood rush after rush and swing after swing, while Moran's eyes were badly swollen and his nose badly injured. The injury to Moran's nose was the result of rough tactis on the part of the negro, who used the heel of his mit and was warned by the referee. The injury affected Moran's breathing powers to a marked degree. Several hundred women viewed the battle, and the receipts amounted to $40,000.

PRACTICE GAME.

In preparation for the game at the T.A.S. picnic, between St. Peter's and Sacred Heart Societies, the following players are asked to be out to practice tomorrow night at the Sacred Heart field :— Kenuealley, Carson, W. O'Connell, Neary, Condon, L. Rose, Henry, McDonald, Gorman, Christopher, V. O'Connel R. Rose and Audette.

COMMENT
As You Like It

THE SERIES at home which ended on Saturday was a fifty-fifty. Two wins from Brantford and one from the Saints. Had Schettler been able to continue in Saturday's game the Petes would most likely have been returned winners as Louie was hurling in great style. Consequently the injury to Schettler's eye will keep him out of the game for a week at least and the pitching staff looks anything but great as Creswell is suffering from a sore arm. Tracey and Belting are going along in good style however and Bob Sterling pitched nice ball last Thursday so it will be up to the trio to do most of the pitching in the road series with Erie. Creswell may be used but it is doubtful.

TY COBB is out in front according to the American League batting figures. The "peach" is clouting the leather for an average of .349. Baseball experts such as Frank Chance say that the pitching in the American League is the best that circuit has been provided with for years. Evidently Cobb is able to whale any or every sort of pitching.

CHARLIE CARR a former Toronto Leaf is leading the Feds with an average of .459. Robertson, one of the Giant's new men is leading the Tener circuit with the nice average of .405. McAllister of Rochester is hitting .500 for ten games in the International while of the regulars Mays of Providence is hitting .394.

"That is the second time in my baseball career that I have seen a man score from second on a squeeze play," said Jim McGuire, the Detroit scout, yesterday afternoon at Tecumseh Park, when Eddie Lamy, the London centre fielder, scored on Whitcraft's bunt. Bierbauer was on third and Lamy on second when Whitty laid down a bunt to Taylor on the squeeze play. Louis was home almost before the ball hit the ground. Lamy kept right on running, and while Whitcroft was being thrown out at first he scored. It was a pretty piece of work.

The Detroit scout was in the stand and he expressed his approval of that kind of baseball by applauding with the rest of the fans. Since his sojourn in Canada he has been much impressed with the baseball played in the Canadian League, and says it is as fast a Class B league as there is anywhere. He will remain in London for the St. Thomas series also. —London Advertiser.

A study of the standing of the teams in all professional baseball leagues shows conclusively that the manager who is known to the players as a "good fellow" is not a successful leader.

Of fourteen teams managed by "good fellows," only two are in the first division of their leagues. In nine leagues managers who are known to be "cranks" on the drinking and late hour question are leading. In these same leagues there are a number of "good fellows." One is first, two are second, three are fourth, five are sixth, two are seventh, and three are eighth in the league standing.

One major league team, which should be near the top of the percentage column, is very near the bottom. It is led by a "good fellow."

Fox's heave to first from deep short in an attempt to catch Hadley off the bag after having caught a high fly from Kustus' bat in the eighth innings of Saturday's encounter was one of the finest features of the game. From the press box it looked as though Rooney had the little shortstop, but Umps Freeman held the palms of his hands down.

Umpire Freeman left yesterday for Ottawa to work with Umpire Miller in the Ottawa-Toronto series. Local fans are unanimous in hoping that he gets a few more local series.

The heavyweight battle staged in Paris on Saturday introduced to the ring one of the gamest men who ever donned a glove. According to reports Moran took an awful beating, but not once did he flinch and kept boring in and taking punishment of the severest kind in the hope of slipping over a haymaker. The fact that Moran stayed 20 rounds with the champion answers several questions. It shows that Moran did not fear the negro as Jeffries did; it also shows that Johnson is still capable of going the distance, a point which created a feeling of doubt. Again it shows that Johnson has either lost some of the kick to his punches or that Moran is the toughest man the black has been called upon to face, as Johnson certainly landed quick and often, but the sleep producer was not forthcoming.

LEGALIZE BOXING

Baton Rouge, La., June 29.—Twenty-round decision boxing bouts will be legalized in Louisiana under terms of a bill passed by the State Senate. The measure has already been passed by the House. Governor Hall has not indicated that he will veto the measure. Under present statutes only ten-round no decision bouts can be held. The new law, while authorizing championship matches, stipulates that they must be held only under the auspices of athletic clubs.

A revival of boxing is expected to follow the enactment of the law.

Louisiana will be the second state in the Union to legalize twenty-round championship fights, California now having a law similar to the one passed today.

Carnegie's Statue Unveiled.

DUNFERMLINE, Scotland, June 29.—Honor was paid to Andrew Carnegie here Saturday when a statue of the "Steel King" was unveiled in Pittencrieff Glen, one of the city parks, presented to the municipality in 1903 by Mr. Carnegie, together with an endowment of $2,500,000.

A notable feature of the exercises was the singing by a choir of 500 voices, accompanied by a band, of an anthem, "Let us Praise Famous Men."

Two years ago fame and a big sack of gold, at least $20,000, was lost because a racehorse threw a shoe.

Burt Shank, Randall horse trainer, will race her on the Grand Circuit, and says he hopes she won't throw any more shoes in a race. She has gone a mile in 2.06½, but they say she can go much faster. She is now being trained at the circuit meet the week of July 20.

FLOWER SUNDAY TRULY OBSERVED

Beautiful Service at George Street Methodist Church

George Street Methodist Church provided a beauty scene on the occasion of flower day yesterday morning which will long be remembered by those who attended and which surpassed anything along the lines of floral display attempted in many years. A huge arch was constructed over the pulpit, and it was a mass of beautiful flowers of all classes. Two huge Union Jacks added splendor to the occasion. The flowers were carried in by the various classes with the primary members first and the contributions were arranged at the floor of the pulpit and on the arch by the teachers. The Rev. R. G. Peever presided and an appropriate address to the children was delivered by R. F. Downey. Special music was provided by the orchestra under the direction of Mr. Cunningham and the choir under the leadership of Mr. Renwick.

WHAT WOULD HE HAVE US DO?

Rev. R. Pogue Leaves the Question With Congregation

Drawing a striking inference from the verse "Whatsoever he saith do it," taken from John 2-3 verse, Rev. Robert Pogue delivered a very impressive sermon at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church yesterday morning.

"What are the given principles of Christ's life? asked Mr. Pogue in his opening remarks. What would Christ have us do? There are several things we must believe about Christ. They concern the matter of daily living. The world's attention had become manifest in its attention of the Christian life. The principle which endowed the earthly life of Christ and controlled it must control yours. Unless so your character would become devoid of the love of Christ. The blessedness of Christion life is that it is not guarded by law of prohibition, but, by the person only. Surely that is an inference to do what Jesus tells you. Each life is distinct in its individuality as the trees in the forest. We must consult the divine master and not our friends no matter how good their advice and do His word. Through the Bible he speaks to us. We must read of His life to discover what a really Godlike life is. We must famaliarize ourselves with the teachings and various workings of God. God speaks to us in spirit and in heart. When duty has been performed and he says 'My good and faithful servant," behold the great joy. We must say "Speak Master and thy servant heareth."

Christ reveals his will in spirit and tells us the circumstance. We know it is His will to comfort the sick. It is the will of Christ to do this thing. It is His voice that speaks in the silent chambers of the soul. We are doing the things which please the Master. Whatsoever He saith do it. He has the claim of your obedience. He has the authority. You hear it in the opportunities of your life. Let the fact be emphasized. No matter what Christ saith do it. The word whatsoever takes in the whole Christian duty. It is everything that we are willing to undertake even the most obscure service. It is not debatable. God's will must be obeyed. The failure of most people to live a clean aggressive, active Christion life, is because not that they do not want to be Christians, but because they hesitate, wait and ask if they will defer it for a few days.

In closing Mr. Pogue strongly urged the members to obey the great principle of the text. Courage was also a great essential point in the love of Christ concluded Mr. Pogue.

In her usual talented manner, Miss Dorothy Allan rendered "Entreat me not to leave thee."

STARTED AN ACTIVE LIFE IN PETERBORO

The Late E. W. Cox Was Identified With Many Companies

The late E. W. Cox, who died at Folkestone, England, had undergone an operation for a serious throat affection, and it was thought that he was improving, but a hemorrnage set in and caused death very suddenly.

The late Edward William Cox was born at Peterboro, June 18, 1864, son of the late Senator George A. Cox. At the time of his death he was president and general manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company, having assumed the presidency a short time before his father's death which only occurred on January 16 of this year. In addition to his connection with the Canada Life, he was president of the Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company, President of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, President of the Provident Investment Company, director of the Central Canada Loan Company, Dominion Securities Corporation, National Trust Company, Canadian General Electric Company, British American Insurance Company, Western Insurance Company, Dunlop Tire and Rubber Company, Robert Simpson Company and the Canada Cement Company.

Deceased was one of the most popular of the younger school of Toronto financiers who have mounted to such a high place in the financial world. He was brought up in the Canada Life, having started with his father in the George A. Cox agency at Peterboro, in 1883, and ever since has been the right hand man of his father in the building up of that institution.

He was married to Hattie Brown, a daughter of Charles Brown, Toronto, October 24, 1888, but had no children.

The only survivors are two sisters, Mrs. A. L. Davis, and Mrs. A. E. Adams, Toronto, and one brother, H. C. Cox, president of the Imperial Life Assurance Company.

It is difficult to estimate his wealth but it is believed that his estate will reach possibly ten millions.

Just about a month ago he left for England to consult specialists on account of his throat trouble. It is understood it was of a cancerous nature and radium was being used in an effort to kill the disease.

His brother was with him at the time of his death and will bring the body home as soon as possible for interment in the family plot at Mount Pleasant.

BAD NEWS FOR JOE BYRNE

His Father is Seriously Ill at Philadelphia

The Petes are in a crippled condition for their road trip. Schettler was so badly injured about the eye on Saturday that he was left at home. To make matters worse, Joe Byrne, who has been putting up a stellar game on third was called to his home in Philadelphia, owing to the very serious illness of his father. In an effort to bolster up the gaps Manager Blount has signed Thrallkill, the St. Thomas utility man, and he will likely be placed at third base until Byrne returns. The telegram received by Byrne was to the effect that his afther was dying. Local fans will hope for the better and that that third baseman's parent will survive the crisis.

Local fans will learn with regret that Dave Hilliard, the former Pete fence buster, received a broken leg in Cleveland last week. Dave is a member of the American Association team of that city, and the Sporting Life states he will be out of the game for two months.

REPAIRING DAMS.

People on the river yesterday afternoon, could notice that the water rose considerably, so much so that all the rocks at Yankee Bonnett were covered. The cause of this was that some repairs were being executed at a couple of dams at the back lakes. Toward evening the river assumed its normal level again.

PETERBORO TEMPLE-BAND AT CONGRESS

Cordial Receptions at London and Other Points

A letter from Bandsman Richardson states that the Peterboro Temple Band expects to sail for home on the Calgarian, on Friday, July 3rd. All the members of the Peterboro contingent at the Salvation Army Congress are enjoying good health and the band has been royally received everywhere.

June 17th the band visited Tunbridge Wells, the native town of Bandsmen Jack Richardson, Boorman and Gadd, and all were given a fine reception. On the return to London on the 18th the band played at the Temple Gardens. This is a famous place and the local musicians had the honor of being the only corps band to play at this stand. The program attracted large crowds.

Band Secretary Hensley and a special train met the Temple Band on their arrival at Plymouth and on arrival in London the International and Trade Headquarters and many other sights were visited. Thousands lined the streets as the band played en route to a large open air service. The first inside concert was given at the Great Western Hall on Harrow Road and this hall was jammed to the doors by people eager to hear the Canadians.

Words of warm welcome and sincere sympathy were given the Canadians and special payers were offered for those left behind in the Dominion and those who had been bereaved by the sinking of the Empress. Adjutant McElhiney replied.

A Memorable Scene.

On Thursday, June 11th, a wonderful demonstration was held in Royal Albert Hall, when delegates from all parts of the world were welcomed. Each party marched in as their national anthem was played. As the Peterboro band, lead the rest of the Canadian contingent, great cheers went up from all parts of the building. It was a sight never to be forgotten. The huge gathering was addressed by Gen. Booth, Miss Eva Booth and prominent men of the Army from all parts of the world. The International staff band of London, supplied the music for singing. Friday afternoon, June 12th, another meeting of the same character was held in the new hall, erected for the Congress. This hall was packed. The General and Mrs. Booth were the chief speakers.

The Temple Band took a prominent part in the march from the Thames Embankment to Hyde Park on Saturday afternoon, June 13. The band was officially welcomed on June 15th by the General and Mrs. Booth, when each member was introduced by Adjutant McElhiney. Mrs. Booth extended sympathy to Bandmaster Peryer, for the loss of his mother.

On June 16th the band supplied the music for the South African contingent in Kingsway Hall. This party was conducted by Commissioner Eadie, who is the officer who opened the Peterboro Corps and also married a Peterboro girl.

SUSPICIOUS ACTIONS OF STRANGERS

An investigation is being carried on by the local detectives as to the conduct of two men from Toronto who tried to change a hundred dollar bill on Saturday morning at the C.P.R. station. This morning, Detective Newhall and Meagher visited several of the local hotels inquiring for the men. The men in question have in their possession, according to information received, a large number of five dollar bills of the Imperial Bank. The police are of the opinion that a robbery has been committed and the men are here trying to change the large bills. Both men were well dressed and they registered at one of the hotels.

Asked Congregation to Vote Against the Bar

Vote for the right party: Banish the bar and save the boy, constituted what was termed as a non-political sermon by the Rev. J. W. Cannon of Canton, at Mark Street Methodist Church last evening. In his opening remarks, Mr. Cannon, who is a former minister of Mark Street, remarked that he was delighted to be back amongst so many old friends again. In referring to his sermon, he stated he was not going to give a political address, but was going to give straight facts concerning the greatest question of the day, that of banish the bar and save the millions of our bright youth from going to the early drunkard's grave. He had voted on both sides of politics. It was now a matter of principle, not of partyism. No matter what party a man might represent if he was an honest man and going to be beneficial to his country vote for him. The party should matter nothing. The people should have enough of manliness and love of God to stand up and fight the right battle.

Voting against one's party should not be considered in any matter or form. Principle was the question of the day. Mr. Cannon here placed two questions before the congregation. "Who is on the Lord's side? and Choose ye this day who ye will serve."

Who is on the Lord's side? The hotel men and liquor people were not by any means. It was a case of two great armies both bidding for service of men. Did you ever know of liquor people to be on the Lord's side? Did you ever find them on the side to banish the bar? "No, you certainly did not."

There are over six thousand drunkards going to a drunkard's grave in this country each year. There are six thousand boys following their footsteps every year. People are your boys the next to follow down to the lowest depths of a drunkard's grave.

It may be your boy. The whole of Ontario is sending up an earnest prayer for this great issue to banish the bar and save the boy.

In closing, Mr. Cannon described in vivid manner the squalid conditions existing due to the greatest evil of all mankind, drink.

Special music was also rendered by the choir.

Do not wash colored clothes in very hot water or leave them wet very long.

PROVINCE GIVES THE GOVERNMENT A MAJORITY OF FIFTY-SEVEN SEATS

SODEN IN THE CITY GILLESPIE IN COUNTY LIBERAL MAJORITY OVER ONE HUNDRED

Candidates Ran Close Race in the City, Mr. Soden Having Majority of 94---Some Turnovers in the County.

The riding of West Peterboro deserted the best Government Ontario has ever had for the sake of Rowell's temperance cause, George Gillespie the Liberal nominee being returned over R. J. Soden after one of the most keenly contested fights in the city's history. East Peterboro remained loyal to Sir James and returned James Thompson by a large majority in preference to W. C. Anderson the Liberal standard bearer. The result in the city came as a surprise to many who looked for a large Soden vote within the city limits. Contrary to expectations the Conservative vote in the city fell almost 600, below the majority rolled up for Mr. Peck in the last provincial elections with the result that the country vote which is usually Liberal remained as such and therein lies Mr. Gillespie's success. The defeat in West Peterboro was somewhat forgotten when Mr. Soden took such a cheery and gentlemanly view of it and interested himself in cheering for each Conservative victory throughout the country as it was received at the Review office.

A Smaller Vote.

The vote polled was not near as large as that of December, 1911. The interest seemed to lag and the inclement weather had something to do with it also. As a political fight it was free from any corrupt practices so far as is known and was fought out on clean lines. Soden men within the Conservative ranks blame the split in the party for the defeat and condemned the non-assistance attitude assumed by some of the parties' best workers. On the other hand the actions of the ministers in turning their pulpits into political platforms also had something to do with it. The political meeting held in the Opera House on Sunday night under the guise of the temperance cloak also injured Mr. Soden's chances. No politician would have dared or even cared to conduct a political meeting on the Sabbath Day and the Lord's Day Alliance would have been the first to oppose such a move, but as it was a supposed temperance meeting pure and simple, it was endorsed by the temperance forces which in the case of the elections were nothing more than strong Liberal temperance agitators.

The doubt that existed over the final result in the west riding created wide interest and when it finally became known that Mr. Gillespie had been elected by a small majority the supporters of Whitney devoted their time to cheering the government victories in other places. Thousands of people lined Hunter Street and watched with interest the majority which the government was rolling up over the Rowell forces. The results were displayed on a canvas stretched over the front of the Oriental building.

Mr. Soden Made Speech.

Mr. Soden appeared on the scene and was given a rousing reception as he appeared in an upper window of the Review offices to address the gathering. He thanked all who had worked so faithfully for him and stated that if the party wanted him he would contest the riding again and would surely win. He also referred in a fitting manner to the way the country had stood behind Sir James Whitney. Throughout the evening the crowd in front of the Review office displayed wild enthusiasm.

Libs. Rejoice.

As soon as it became known that Mr. Gillespie had been elected the Liberal party engaged the band of the 57th regiment to head a procession in celebration of the victory. The parade took a route from the headquarters on Water Street, along Water to Charlotte to George to the Examiner office where it died a natural death as when it reached that place it was apparent that Rowell's temperance dodge had failed to fool all the people all the time or even a small number of the people. The band was asked to play the dead march by a bystander and it was then that the color of the Liberals changed from red jubilant to blue despair and all went home to hit the hay and mourn the defeat of the "Lloyd George of Ontario."

In the County.

So far as returns have come in, it is interesting to compare them, with the returns of 1911. Mr. Gillespie's total majority in the county is about 217. Last election, Mr. Hall's majority in the county was about the same.

The chief change was at May's School House. Ennismore was one vote more for Mr. Gillespie than for Mr. Peck but Mr. Peck did considerably better at Ventress than did Mr. Soden. Galway is about the same as last election and the same is expected when the returns from Cavendish are made.

There was a great difference in the city. Mr. Peck had a majority of over 700 in 1911 while Mr. Soden's majority is between 90 and 100. Mr. Peck's total majority was 618.

HUERTA LEAVING

OVERWHELMING SUPPORT OF WHITNEY ADMINISTRATION

Policies Are Approved by the People---Conservatives Have Eighty-Three Seats and Liberals Twenty-Six---Hon. Dr. Reaume Defeated.

TORONTO, June 30. — After a hard contest, in which the province evinced more enthusiasm on both sides than for many years, the voters of Ontario returned Sir James Whitney to power with a majority of fifty-seven seats. The latest returns indicate that the standing in the new House will be as follows:—

Conservatives	83
Liberals	26
Labor	1
Independent (Evanturel)	1
Total	111

The standing in the last Legislature was:—

Conservative	85
Liberal	19
Labor	1
Vacant (Prescott)	1
Total	106

One Minister of the Crown was defeated in the person of Hon. J. O. Reaume, Minister of Public Works, who lost the convention nomination in the new riding of Windsor and ran as an Independent Conservative. The straight line candidate, O. E. Fleming, was defeated and the seat went to Rev. J. C. Tolmie.

All the other Ministers were reelected with increased majorities.

The Liberal party shows a net gain of five seats in the old constituencies, and won three out of seven of the new constituencies.

The actual Conservative gains are: South Bruce, Haldimand, East Lambton, South Ontario, and North Wentworth—5.

The Liberal gains are: North Brant, South Brant, North Essex, South Essex, North Middlesex, East Ottawa, West Ottawa, West Peterboro, Prince Edward, and South Wellington—10.

The new constituencies which went Conservative are: Niagara Falls, Riverdale (Toronto), Parkdale (Toronto), and South Victoria.

The new constituencies which went Liberal are: Cochrane, Lincoln and Windsor.

One of the most surprising events of the election was the return by the electors of Prescott of Gustave Evanturel, the discredited Liberal who was read out of the party after the sensational episode of last session and who resigned his seat in the House.

For all the number of independent candidates, temperance, labor, socialist, and one anti-temperance, who appeared on nomination day ,only two outside of party lines were returned, Evanturel and Allan Studholme (Lab., E. Hamilton).

There will be few changes of importance in the personnel of the House. Four of Mr. Rowell's followers in the last Legislature were defeated at the polls, namely: Dr. McQueen (North Wentworth), Messrs. McCormick (East Lambton), Anderson (North Huron), Sinclair (South Ontario). Mr. C. Kohler (Haldimand) did not go up for re-election.

The changes on the Ministerial side were much more extensive. Not a few prominent Conservatives retired voluntarily, and members like Messrs. McNaught (North Toronto), Pock (West Peterboro), Norman (Prince Edward), Galna (Parry Sound), and Ebbs (South Lanark), were defeated by the nominating conventions. Among those rejected at the polls yesterday were: Hon. J. O. Reaume, Minister of Public Works; Messrs. Anderson, South Essex; Westbrook, North Brant; Brewster, South Brant; Champagne and Ellis, Ottawa; and Scholfield, South Wellington.

The elected candidates with their approximate majorities are as follows:—

ARRESTS FOLLOW SHOOTING CASE

Peterboro Man is Held at Toronto

Joseph Carbone, of Claremont, Ont., is in the Western Hospital, Toronto, with a bullet in his back, while Joseph and Raffilo Ferri, of Toronto, and Joseph Lovrett, of Peterboro, are in the cells on a nominal charge of vagrancy. The shooting occurred in a boarding car at Claremont early Sunday morning. Immediately after the affray the three men who are under arrest took a train for Toronto. A telegraph message was sent ahead, however, and the three were placed under arrest by P. C. Hunt as they stepped off the train at the Union Station. Carbone was brought in later and removed to the hospital. He will recover.

SIR JAMES WHITNEY.

THE VOTE IN 1911

Mr. Peck Had Big City Majority

In the elections of 1911, Mr. Peck had a majority of 618 over Mr. Hall. The vote was larger than that recorded yesterday. The city gave Mr. Peck a majority of over 700, but Mr. Hall had the better of the contest in the county. Ennismore gave the Liberal candidate a majority of 77, while North Monaghan gave 19 for Mr. Peck.

BOTH CLAIM NORTH BRUCE

Liberals Will Likely Ask for Recounts in Three Others

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, June 30.—Yesterday's election results are :

Conservatives 83.
Liberals 25.
Independent 1.
Labor 1.
In doubt 1.

North Bruce is claimed by both sides by 6 votes and an official announcement has not yet been received. Liberals will probably demand a recount in North Wentworth, where the government majority is three, in East Lambton where it is thirteen and in West Kent where it is fifteen.

SODEN VICTORIOUS IN GILLESPIE DIVISION; HAD MAJORITY OF 6

Polling division 21 at 123 Hunter Street east is the home of political candidates. Mr. E. A. Peck votes there and resides in the district, while Mr. Gillespie also votes there and resides in the district, and J. H. Burnham, M.P., also voted and resided in the district at one time. Mr. Peck received a majority of 51 in his own locality in the last provincial elections, and despite the fact that Mr. Gillespie was a "district son," the polling division went for Soden by a majority of six during yesterday's campaign.

SIR ADAM BECK
Re-elected for London by majority of 1500.

All Saints' S.S. Picnic.

All Saints' Sunday School picnic will be held to Jubilee Point, per steamer Stoney Lake, Friday, July 3. Boat leaves city wharf at 8 a.m. and railway wharf at 8.30.

CLEAN ELECTION GIVES CANDIDATES SATISFACTION

Some Interviews on the Result of the Voting—Mr. Gillespie Pleased

Mr. R. J. Soden the Conservative candidate is by no means discouraged over the result locally and is very jubilant to know that the government has been sustained. Speaking with a Review reporter this morning he extended his sincere thanks to all those who had worked and expressed the opinion that the campaign was a clean one.

"I accept the verdict of the people of West Peterborough and appreciate the manner in which the province has endorsed the manly stand of the government and disdainfully set aside the half measures of Rowell and his party. I regret that the temperance cause was made a football in the matter and I fear results will show that the cause has suffered and been put back much further than anybody at present realizes. For the general welfare of the city it is a consolation to know that the Hydro-Electric and radial projects, owing to the return of the government, will go on as though there had been no election. It is now the duty of every citizen to work for the completion of the projects and forgot political differences," said Mr. Soden.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P.

The Protestant clergy had a very powerful influence in the election in West Peterborough, said Mr. J. H. Burnham. I do not think the Catholic clergy exerted their influence. The election throughout the province would indicate a slump against temperance but possibly Sir James Whitney will not be deterred by Mr. Rowell's overwhelming defeat, from carrying on his own old policy. There it no use in trying to go ahead of popular sentiment. It can't be done successfully, at least in matters of general public concern. The election was clean, though strenuous and that in the face of many "offers." Both candidates expressem their extreme disgust with the "for sale" feature of it, but Mr. Soden is already slated I believe for the next nomination by his enthusiastic supporters. He has nothing to reproach himself with. Mr. Peck notified the executive committee at a meeting called for that purpose that he would not be a candidate. The little mixup afterwards cut no figure. It is merely an incident in party politics. It was a lively day and we all congratulate Mr. Gillespie, the victor, who is a good clean honourable gentleman. The much-needed rain made everybody feel good. "You can't beat Whitney."

Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

Interviewed by a Review man this morning Mr. Gillespie stated that the issue of Abolish the Bar was too much to expect it to carry but he would liked to have seen the opposition have at least 40 seats. The local campaign he thought was fought squarely and there was practically no mud throwing or "hitting below the belt." The fight grew hot at times but Mr. Soden and others of his party, brought forward no personalities or hard feelings.

In speaking of the press the successful candidate remarked the fight was carried on with due respect for the candidates and at no time did anything appear that could be taken as offensive. He thanked the Review for the manner in which its editorial page spoke of him and remarked that an opposition paper could not treat a candidate any better.

Mr. E. A. Peck.

Mr. E. A. Peck, former Conservative member for West Peterobro, expressed his satisfaction at the impressive manner in which the people of the province had endorsed the Whitney administration at the polls yesterday. It is Mr. Peck's opinion that the abolish the bar policy was not much of a vote gainer in any part of the province and that it was not responsible for the turnover here. "The defeat of Mr. Soden was due to some misunderstanding in the party and it is desirable that the Conservatives meet as soon as possible to discuss matters frankly and fully and find out where the misunderstanding is," he said.

Rev. R. G. Peever.

The Review endeavored to secure an opinion on the election result from the Rev. R. G. Peever but he declined to make any statement. The following was the conversation between the Rev. Peever and a Review reporter.

The reporter—We are securing some opinions on the election results from prominent men and would like to get your opinion.

Mr. Peever—I have not seen the results as yet and cannot say.

The Reporter—Well how about the city, you know the result here.

Mr. Peever—I have no report to make.

The Reporter—Then you decline to be interviewed further.

Mr. Peever—Yes.

AGED MAN FELL IN FAINT IN TRAIN'S PATH

John Arnold Was Walking to Toronto

Relief Officer Provided Railway Ticket

The section men and several employees of the Peterboro Fuel and Cartage Company were horrified this morning about nine-thirty, when an aged man was seen to totter and fall directly in front of an approaching freight. They rushed to the spot and found the man in an unconscious condition. He was removed to a near-by residence and attended. He was found to be suffering from weakness due to hunger. Food was given the man and he informed his astonished attendants that he had walked from Marmora and had been without food for three days during his walk. Employees of the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company phoned Immigration Agent Might, who in turn informed City Relief Officer Finch Miller. Mr. Miller accompanied by a Review scribe on investigation found the facts as reported true and in relating his story the man gave his name as John Arnold aged 77 of West Toronto, he stated he had been working near Marmora on construction work. He had become rather ill and had commenced to walk to West Toronto, his home. On Monday he had become considerably worse and today he fell by the tracks in a faint.

"I guess I am down and out. It isn't drink with me. I have never been sick before," cried the man who sat propped up against the verandah recovering from his attack of faintness.

Mr. Miller procured a ticket for the aged man and after he had sufficiently recovered he was taken to the station and sent to Toronto.

Toronto, Ont., June 29, 1914
Mr. Thomas W. Whalley,
The Review, Peterboro, Ont.

Dear Sir,—I have just finished reading the Industrial and Greater Peterboro edition of the Daily Review and it is certainly very interesting and splendidly gotten up. I congratulate you on your enterprise and on the steady improvement witnessed in both the news and advertising columns of the paper.

Sincerely yours,
G. B. VAN BLARICOM.

SETTLEMENT OF BUCKHORN BRIDGE TANGLE IS MADE

The Hon. G. P. Graham made a statement recently in the House of Commons at Ottawa, to the effect that he would have to accept responsibility for the Buckhorn Bridge agreement and on that basis the Minister has agreed to carry out the agreement. He throws the responsibility and criticism upon the ex-Minister of Railways and Canals.

The ex-Minister seems to have been deceived with the idea that something of a material nature was being given for the cancellation of the $2,000 debt and expenses of maintenance of the bridge.

When it transpired that this was not the case, the present minister insisted on the payment of the debt. This was likely to work a hardship on the county, and in view of the ex-minister taking full responsibility for it, the cancellation has been agreed to by the Hon. Mr. Cochrane and the famous case which was carried on for two years at Ottawa, has been settled.

WHITNEY SUSTAINED.

AS THE REVIEW has affirmed since the beginning of this contest that the Whitney Government would be sustained, so the result of the polls has been a substantial justification of our prediction and a splendid approval of Conservative rule. The efforts of the Liberals to play on the sentiment of the people and to blind them to important questions has failed decisively. Although many preachers asserted that a vote for Whitney would be a vote for the Devil, we believe the country will not go to the eternal bow-wows, but will continue to prosper. The Hydro Electric projects will be developed, the English language will be maintained, the plans for road building will be carried out and such temperance legislation as is in keeping with public sentiment will be passed. The verdict of the people supports the sound Conservative policy.

As was expected, the returns brought some changes. The defeat of the Hon. Dr. Reaume was not unexpected, but Sir James should have no difficulty in securing an able Minister of Public Works to take his place. Mr. Rowell, while elected, received but a narrow majority and will have practically no stronger a following than he did in the last Legislature. West Peterborough was lost, we are sorry to say, and while some may credit the loss to the temperance vote, the real cause was the lack of organization within the Conservative party. The Tories of this riding have got to stand together if they want to win, and that means a more thorough organization of the riding.

So far as the temperance people are concerned, their efforts have been of little avail. Mr. Rowell cannot abolish the bar, nor can Mr. Gillespie change the temperance laws one iota. Had Mr. Soden been elected, as the Review pointed out long before the election, he would have been on the Government side, where more was to be expected from a declared temperance man. Since the temperance organizations here are in most places definitely allied themselves with the Grit party, they have little ground to expect consideration from the Whitney Government. Fortunately for temperance, the majority of temperance men stood by the Whitney policy and if these desire changes in the law, they will no doubt receive a respectful hearing. If public opinion supports what they ask, Whitney has declared his willingness to grant it. Mr. Gillespie will have no easy task to acquit himself creditably, as the member for West Peterborough, as his hands are already tied on the questions he empahsized most. In the meantime, the country can resume its accustomed duties, satisfied that its political affairs will be ably and honestly conducted.

A TRAGEDY WITH A MORAL.

THE NEWS COLUMNS the other day contained the story of a young woman who, having been deserted by her husband, attempted to end her life and those of her two small children by leaping from a wharf into the Detroit River. The younger child, a babe, was drowned, and investigation proved that the woman's story was correct.

We do not know the man's side of this case. We do not know whether he had any reason to desert his wife, whether the unhappy home-life was caused by the husband or the wife. These facts, however, were established, that she was deserted, that she had two children to maintain, that she felt unable to keep up the struggle to live decently, and tried to die bravely.

Even if the home life were unhappy, and it may not have been due to the woman, no man worthy of the name of man would leave a woman who was unprepared and doubtless unable to support herself and two little children. Apparently a wife in such circumstances has no adequate redress against so cowardly a man. The news item says she will be cared for. That is poor redress for a home wrecked, for a life darkened and spoiled, for the lives of innocent children handicapped and made to bear suffering and hardship. The law should be made more onerous on the one who was responsible for this outrage. The responsibility falls primarily on the husband but if the wife was to blamé she should not escape punishment. Tragedies like these in which the guilty escape and the innocent suffer, are the cause of that woman problem which has led some of the sex to extreme measures in England. We do not think woman's disabilities will be ameliorated by militant methods, but they have cause for it. Such calamities as these are behind the woman suffrage movement, and, to a less extent, behind the temperance movement. If there exists a condition by which such tragedies can be caused and not remedied, it is the duty of legislators to provide a remedy, and if men cannot pass laws to protect children, wives and homes, the day for petticoat government has arrived.

PLURAL VOTING AND WEALTH.

NOBODY has so large a stake in his own country as a poor man and woman employed in it. Their all is staked in it. In that respect they are at the opposite pole to those eminent figures in the Upper House whose periodical purchases of estates in South Africa, in Australasia, or in France are trumpeted in the "society paragraphs" of the press. To Sir John Randles, who seconded the motion for rejecting the bill, these may seem ideal figures of patriotic virtue and wisdom in contrast with those of his own constituents for whom he expressed a thinly-disguised contempt on the ground that they do not even sleep in the suburbs. But, if you once clear your mind of the idea that money even if people's trouser-pockets are necessarily an object of reverence, it is quite possible to believe that one of the Manchester foremen or caretakers whom Sir John Randles despises, has just as much in the pool of British politics as a millionaire with houses or sources of income in half a dozen countries, British and foreign.

PRAISE FOR HON. SAM HUGHES.

FRANK CARVELL, who is ranked as one of the bitterest Liberals in the House of Commons, has been compelled to speak out in praise of the manner of administering the Fenian Raid Bounty by Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia and Defence. He used the following words in the House of Commons:

> "I want to compliment the Minister in that there has been no scandal in connection with this matter in any province. I think the Minister has tried to administer the law fairly in most cases. I have two or three complaints before me, which I shall call to his attention, later, but, generally speaking, I think the law has been fairly administered. I think the great majority of those entitled to the bounty have received it."

Colonel Hughes administers his department as a business man, and even Frank Carvell must acknowledge it.

Authority Carried to the Point of Vindictiveness.

Montreal Evening News.

The Hamilton Spectator approves of the Ottawa Citizen's support of Mr. Rowell's abolish the bar program, because Sir James Whitney will not conform to the Ottawa paper's demand for tax reform. The Spectator then says it is quite willing to trust Sir James to do the right thing in respect to taxation, and will support him in the hope that he will move in the matter. The point is that both papers are owned by the same company. The Graham idea of getting it "going and coming" is spreading.

What Some Ministers Assume.

Belleville Intelligencer.

Fancy a free man in this, the twentieth century, having to sit quietly in his pew on the Sabbath Day and be directed how he should vote at an election, and that if he did not vote as directed he was "no Christian," and that if he voted in a certain way it would be in favor of the "distiller and the devil." How the Roman Catholic priesthood, who have been vigorously attacked by Protestants for interfering in politics, must chuckle over the attitude of Methodist clergymen at the present time.

Authors' Long Lives.

Westminster Gazette.

Mr. Thomas Hardy today enters his seventy-fifth year, reminding us of the amazing longevity of authors. Amongst those who have died since 1900 Sir Theodore Martin and Samuel Smiles were over ninety; over eighty were Sir Edwin Arnold, Edward Everitt Hale, Professor Masson, Justin McCarthy, George Meredith, Herbert Spencer, Goldwin Smith, "Mark Rutherford" and Leo Tolstoy; while amongst those who passed their three-score-years-and-ten may be mentioned Alfred Austen, "Mark Twain," Sir Lewis Morris, Joaquin Miller and "Ouida." Happily we have still with us, though in their eighties, Mr. Baring-Gould, Mr. Theodore Watts-Dunton, Mr. Stopford Brooke, and Mrs. Frederic Harrison; Lord Morley is in his seventy-sixth year, Mr. William de Morgan in his seventy-fifth, while Mr. Henry James is seventy-one, and the Poet Laureate sixty-nine. "Far From the Madding Crowd" was the first of Mr. Hardy's books to win a wide popularity.

THE MORNING

By Walt Mason

When shades of night are falling I alw[illegible]it the hay; but from it I am crawling at early dawn of day. So help me, Alexander, I would not miss that treat; for there is nothing grander than morning cool and sweet. The little birds are singing as they go scooting by; the rising sun is stringing strange tints across the sky; the winds are softly sighing, the dew is on the grass, and butterflies are flying above the garden sass. Hushed is the workday clamor of busy mart and street, the sound of saw and hammer, the tread of weary feet, the voice of town lot booster, that stands in need of grease—the crow of wakeful rooster alone disturbs the peace. It is the sweetest portion of day, this hour of bliss; and sleep is an abortion at such a time as this. To see the bright sun breaking Night's chains, that had him bound; to see the old world waking, to try another round; to see the shadows creeping away, a routed flock—oh, who would lie a-sleeping till 9 or 10 o'clock?

AS IT WAS IN THE BEGINNING

YOU and me and the rest of the folks air eternally shieldin' ourselves behind somebody else's faults and mistakes. I reckon if it came to a showdown there air more rank cowards amongst us than there are heroes. We make a blunder and the fust thing we think of is to shoulder the blame on some other poor beggar. Adam blamed Eve fer his downfall and in this we all stand by Adam to the letter. We say if it wasn't fer that apple we'd all be havin' a regular high jinks of a time now instead of sweatin' and blisterin' our hands carvin' out a livin'. We fairly hate that apple fer the part it played in the shuttin' us out of Eden, but not to thet extent thet we'll let a good Spy er a juicy Pippin spile on our hands, not much. Let's all take a big think to ourselves, take the blame that is rightly ourn and stand fer our own mistakes; it's the only right thing to do.

"Gloria, please stop!" Wright pleaded. Her father could only look at her in wonder as she poured out the pent-up passion of her inmost soul.

"No, I'll not stop—there's more to say. Here, within this hour, Mr. Wright asked me again to be his wife, and I refused—refused because of you. I came here to warn him against you, to tell him the truth, because once we loved each other. No one can blame me for wishing him well. I came to tell him because I can't be here after this to save him as once I did. Over my body I dared your hirelings to take him, and not one moved. Now I'm going away forever and I want him to have what protection the truth will give. But my warning would be useless; what you offered to do just now is warning enough in itself. The man who would sell his own daughter is capable of anything!"

"You Kin Come Over to My Way of Thinkin'."

"Please, Gloria, stop," Wright entreated. "I'm not accustomed to have any one else fight my battles for me. I can take care of myself."

"May be you can," sneered the boss, "but ever since you've been here you've been hidin' behind my daughter. It's because o' her I didn't go after you hot an' heavy long ago. An' then when they did come near gittin' you the other day, she stopped 'em."

"You, Gloria!" Wright could not understand. She only bowed her head.

"But now, by God! that's all past." Kerr brought his fist down on the table with a bang. His breath came in apoplectic gasps and his face was livid with rage. "She's out of it as fer as I'm concerned. I did everything in the world fer her, an' it wasn't no use." He turned to his daughter as he hurled out his anger and disappointment between his gasps for breath. "I was ready to stan' by you to the end, and what do I git fer all my schemin' an' planning' fer you? Nothin' but glum looks an' harsh words. If yer goin' away, go. I disown you. I cast you off."

The girl did not quail beneath his bitter words. They only inflamed her to announce the decision she had already made. Her lip curled with scorn, her eyes snapped, as she looked at her father.

"You disown me! You cast me off!" All the contempt she could muster she threw into her voice. "What right have you, who would barter me away as you would a horse or dog? No, it's I disown you!"

Wright walked over to her and sought to take her hand gently in his, but she drew away. She would stand alone. Like a blind old bear David Kerr semed to grope his way to the door. There he turned to gaze once more upon the wreck of his latest schemes. His rage was still hot upon him.

"I found you in this—this adventurer's room. I leave you here. Look to yerself, you are no child o' mine."

The door banged behind him and Gloria Kerr knew that they had met for the last time. The girl, feeling so miserably alone in the world, turned to find bent upon her the tender gaze of the man whom she had once sworn to follow to the end of the world. For them love was dead, she knew, and now life would be for her only a succession of weary days.

"I thought all but my body died that day we spoke of love to find it but a dream," she acknowledged sadly, "yet there was one cup still more bitter I had to drain—and this was that cup's dregs."

"Oh, Gloria, believe me, out of unhappiness happiness comes. Your place is with me now. I hadn't told you, but I, too, am going away forever. And what is more, I'm going to take you with me."

She looked at him in wonder, then slowly shook her head.

"No, you can't leave Belmont, Joe. You're not a coward. I'm going, but your place is here."

"Do you think I shall let you go alone? Never. The one reason I am going east is to sell the Belmont News. I'm through with it. Then I shall follow you over the world until I make you mine—because I love you."

The girl looked at him with the faintest of smiles battling with her settled melancholy. He was bordering on melodrama, and she was regarding him with the same gentleness a loving mother exhibits toward an unreasoning little child.

"How selfish you are, Joe. All your fine sermons are going for naught. You've preached of your duty, and yet at the chance to show your devotion to that duty you're wanting to give up the fight. I'm not worth it, Joe, really I'm not. Think of Belmont. A general doesn't desert his soldiers after a victory, just because he knows the enemy has sent for reinforcements. That would be cowardly, and it isn't like you, Joe. The brave general doesn't give ground, he advances. Don't follow me; I would hate you. I know how Belmont needs you."

"But I need you, Gloria. And what is more, you need me and I can't let you go alone. There is a world elsewhere, even other Belmonts where we can live and labor and love. I didn't know till your father referred to it that you were at Noonan's that day. Can't you see how I need you for my guardian angel? How did you happen to be there?"

Briefly she detailed the visit, minimizing her part in saving him. None the less he was able to see that it was to her he owed perhaps life itself. He listened in silence, letting her tell her story in her own way.

"Gloria, I've come to a decision." She looked at him questioningly. "I'm going to do what you've ordered. I'm going to stay here and fight for Belmont."

"Joe, you mean—" Her face lit up with pleasure and she held out both her hands to him. He took them both, and to her surprise, and despite her resistance, drew her to him.

"But I'm not going to stay alone. If I'm to fight the good fight I'm not going to fight alone. You called me a coward for wanting to go; won't you reward me for deciding to stay? And out of unhappiness happiness will come. You must stay, Gloria; our place is here."

"Our place!" she echoed, and then was silent for a little time, her head upon his shoulder. He held her tightly, she could not escape. The feeble efforts she had made to break from him were now abandoned as she thought more and more upon his words. At last she looked up at him and smiled. "Yes, Joe, our place is here, and our happiness. Right in this room all my old pride died. But there has been born a new pride, a pride in you and in me, and in what it has been given us to do." The tears came into her eyes as she thought of what they were to each other. "You are all I have in the world, dear; you are my world. Make me always proud that I am your wife."

Wright drew her closer to his heart and kissed her. And there in the shelter of his arms she rested. Peace had come to her.

THE END.

Galt Boy Hurt.

GALT, June 29. — Cecil Chamberlain, the nine-year-old son of W. Chamberlain, Lansdowne avenue, on Saturday evening at the entrance to Dickinson Park was knocked off his bicycle by a baby buggy and run over by an automobile, owned by Hall Bros., Galt. The driver apparently did not know he had run over the lad, for he backed the machine over him a second time. The boy was picked up and hurried to Dr. Dakin's office in the car. Although the machine passed over the lad's abdomen no bones were broken, and so far as could be seen the boy was only badly shaken up and bruised.

Big Gift For Shackleton.

LONDON, June 29. — Sir James Key Caird, the millionaire jute manufacturer of Dundee, has donated $120,000 to Sir Ernest Shackleton for the forming of his Antarctic expedition. Caird made the gift after Shackleton had personally explained his program, which he hopes to carry out. Shackleton says the donation puts the expedition in a sound position. Now, there is no fear that it will not start well-equipped.

Boats Collide.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 29. — The passenger steamer Alexandria, on her way from Kingston to Charlotte, collided off the lake about two o'clock Saturday morning, with the steamer Querida loaded with pulpwood.

Neither boat suffered much damage, as both were able to proceed on their way. The Querida was on her way from Anticosti Island to Thorold.

He was one of Thamesville's most popular young men and was well known throughout the district. He has been assistant postmaster for a number of years. He leaves his parents and one sister, Miss Catherine, at home.

It was stated Saturday that the commission may not decide features of the advance rate case at this time, leaving them open for consideration next fall.

SCREAMED WITH THE TERRIBLE PAIN

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured Distressing Kidney Trouble.

ST. THOMAS, ONT., April 1st. 1913.

"In 1911, I was laid up with Kidney Trouble and not able to get out of my chair. I had tried many kidney remedies without satisfactory results. The pain was excruciating and my screams could be heard on the street. One day a friend from Ottawa came to see me, and when he found me in such poor health, said he would send me a sample of "Fruit-a-tives", which he did and I commenced taking them. The results were so apparent with the first few doses that I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and was completely restored to my normal state of health. I would strongly advise anyone suffering with Kidney Trouble to take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure themselves" CHARLES CALVEART.

WHITE CLOTHES IN TEXAS

San Antonio Light.

It has been for years a source of expressed curiosity on the part of northern visitors to San Antonio during the summer months that so few of our people, comparatively, dressed for semi-tropical weather. In the eastern part of the South, folk have worn white clothes in summer for generations. In Texas, the number to appear in cotton or linen or white serge during the daylight working hours has until this year been very small.

Where in past seasons one man in 50 or perhaps 100 was dressed for the climate, today one out of three —perhaps one out of two—is wearing sensible clothes. Where, in the past, the light stuff usually only blossomed out on the roof gardens and in places of entertainment in the evenings, after the greatest need for is had passed with the setting sun, today the thin suit is in evidence from dewy morn to balmy eve.

White clothes do not attract the sun's rays like colored clothes, and cotton or linen is not nearly so heavy as wool. In these two facts lie the explanation of why men should wear light clothes in warm weather. Why the practice hasn't been common in San Antonio heretofore might be explained a number of ways, none of which matter much now that the reform has been accomplished. The interesting thing is that suddenly it has become the general style for men to wear appropriate clothing.

The manufacturers, the tailors and the clothiers have done their share in making the reform possible by the prices that they charge as compared with former years, and the clothing cleaners come in for some of the credit by lowering their charges somewhat—an essential matter, as seasonable clothes mean frequent cleansing if appearances are to be kept up. The current styles in all men's apparel may have something to do with it, too. It seems about the thing to wear the thinnest possible stuff in a year when the styles decree that every well-dressed man shall try to look as lean as a suffragette on a hunger strike.

FILET EMBROIDERY.

Embroidered filet is having great vogue for summer work. The square motifs are embroidered with wide filet braid in delicate colors which is applied with a needle and covers the thread pattern of the motif. This braid is fifteen cents a skein. The filet net may be bought by the yard or by the motif and is used for scarfs, cushion tops, pin cushions and the like usually over a white satin foundation which shows off best the pale tones of the braid.

JAPANESE PRINTS.

Luncheon sets of Japanese prints in blue and white are cool looking and appropriate for the summer cottage. These cloths range from fifty cents upward, according to size, and the doilies from five to twenty-five cents. The smaller cloth serves for a centerpiece or will look inviting on the piazza or living room table, if not wanted in the dining room.

EVERYBODY'S LONESOME

There's a charming book, a sort of modern fairy tale, of the above title, that contains a very valuable secret formula for happiness and success. Mary Alice, a young small-town girl, has become tired of living almost before she has well started—worn out by the sameness and narrowness of her environments.

Then comes a fairy godmother, in the shape of a real godmother, who invites her to make a visit to New York and (most opportunely) sends a check to pay the railroad fare. This godmother is a wonderful lady, even if she does not have any actual wands or disappears from human sight at will. She has no great wealth of money, but is a veritable multi-millionaire as concerns friends and intimates among the best and brainiest. And, best of all, out of her long experience, she has evolved a Secret (with a capital S) which produces all kinds of good things for her. She imparts it to Mary Alice and from then onwards life takes on a new color and each succeeding day is better than its predecessor.

To show how this secret "works" (before actually imparting it to you) just take our Summer Pastime. Get into that in your idle moments and see what you find. One more joy at least, and as you come in contact with other "fans"—the priceless boon of brotherly (and sisterly, too) interest in the same thing. That's the secret! THE LEGAL LIGHTS HAD BUSY DAY

Canadian Cordage Affairs Before Judge Huycke Lawyer's Galore

About a hundred contributaries of the defunct Canadian Cordage Company swarmed Judge Huycke's chambers in the court house this morning. Every lawyer or law firm in the city had five or more of the alleged delinquents in tow. After much talk and a little argument dates were set for trials. Several of the persons who subscribed for stock but did not pay will combine and make a test case while others are prepared to fight the matter alone. The first bunch of cases will come up on July 13 in the court room. Mr. Medd is acting for Geo. Hatton, liquidator of the late lamented concern.

This afternoon the evidence of Thomas Poucher of Toronto was taken in order that he will not have to come back to Peterboro again unless the liquidator's solicitor wants him. Mr. Poucher stated he was called upon by J. F. Cummings on November, 19, 1901. He told Mr. Cummings that he would subscribe if given the option to cancel his subscription in ten days. The terms were acceptable to the agent. A letter was produced dated November 27, 1901, and signed by R. M. Glover. In it the witness was asked for payment as the company wanted to spend some money on its plant. Another letter was also produced from Mr. Cummings which was dated November 28, and which stated that the agent had held back the application until November 28, before sending it to the company. The letters clearly contradicted each other. Mr. Poucher's notification of cancellation was dated November 28, which was nine days after the application was signed on November 19.

SOUTH AFRICANS ARE COMING

Big Party of Farmers Will Tour Canada

LONDON, June 30.—An extensive tour of Canada and the United States has been arranged for the party of 53 South African farmers, under the leadership of Johannes Adriaan, a member of the Parliament of the Union of South Africa, which recently arrived here. After visiting all parts of the British Isles and Holland the farmers will sail from Liverpool for Quebec.

The members of the party are to be the guests of the Dominion of Canada, and will visit the eastern and western provinces and afterward go to Minneapolis to study grain handling and the elevator system. They will then proceed to Wisconsin to gather ideas on dairy farming, and later to Chicago to inspect the stock yards, ending their tour with a visit to the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Some of the farmers intend to remain in the United States for a time to study fruit farming in California

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION MEET

At a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission last evening it was resolved that without prejudice the water rates for bathroom fixtures in those houses on Princess Street and Prince Street and southern part of George Street in which no fixtures are used and sewers on streets be remitted, until further instructions are given.

G. A. Gillespie applied for a service at Aylmer Street on condition that he would not pay for water until he used it and that he would pay for the laying of the service. The Superintendent was instructed to proceed with the work at once.

The account of E. M. Cooke of the Water Works department for $48.00 for extra time on May 11 was laid over until the next meeting.

FEAR AUSTRIAN HEIR MAY RULE TOO SOON

Future of Austria-Hungary Depends on Health of Emperor Francis Joseph and Hope is Expressed That He May Govern Until Young Archduke Gains Experience

VIENNA, June 30.—Since the occurrence of Sunday's tragedy at Sarayevo the opinion has gained ground in authoritative circles here that the future of Austria-Hungary now more than ever depends upon the health of the venerable Emperor Francis Joseph. It was pointed out in high political circles that if the Emperor be permitted to reign only a few years more, everything may continue as usual and Archduke Francis Ferdinand's death will have little lasting material effect upon the foreign domestic affairs of the dual monarchy.

EMPEROR FRANCIS JOSEPH.

It was argued that should a youthful and inexperienced ruler like Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, son of the late Archduke Otto, suddenly be called on to take the reins of government a period of anxiety might supervene.

The young archduke, now heir apparent to the throne, and his wife, who was Princess Sita of Parma, are both extremely popular among all classes of society, and everybody from the Emperor down is said to be prepared to do his utmost to help them in every way to rise to the responsible position so suddenly thrust upon them.

The bodies of the murdered Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg are to reach the Austrian capital to-day, and will be buried in the middle of next week at Anstetten, upper Austria, in accordance with the wish of the late heir to the throne.

It has been decided that the bodies are not to lie in state in the court chapel here as the duchess was not regarded as a member of the imperial family. The lying in state therefore will take place either at St. Stephen's Cathedral or the Belvedere Chapel.

A Chance To Reform.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—The comments of the Russian press yesterday on the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his consort reflect the bitterness of the anti Austrian sentiment of the Russian nation. Some of the newpapers refer to the assassination as "an opportunity for Austria to change her course," and they declare that the murdered archduke "bore in himself the spark which was to kindle a European conflagration."

Times Foresees Explosion Later.

LONDON, June 30.—The London morning papers editorially express the strongest indignation and sorrow at the manner of Archduke Francis Ferdinand's death. The Telegraph says:

"His death is, we believe, a serious loss to Europe at large, as well as to Austria."

The Times fears that Sunday's events must assuredly add clouds to the political outlook in Austria-Hungary. It thinks that the dual system of Austria and Hungary will probably be strengthened for a time, but that the more the southern Slavs see their hopes recede the greater will be the danger of an ultimate explosion.

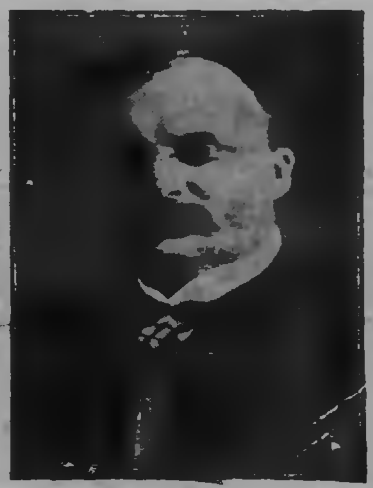
Would Not Celebrate Peace.

WASHINGTON, June 30. — A bill to create a commission and approriate $25,000 for the proposed celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the treaty of Ghent and 100 years of peace between English-speaking nations was brought up in the House yesterday under suspension of the rule and was defeated by a vote of 185 to 52.

The bill can be brought before the House again in regular order. Irish societies in the United States have protested against it.

Drowned From Canoe.

WINDERMERE, Ont., June 30.—W. J. Kennedy, milk dealer of 171 Simpson avenue, Toronto, was drowned in the lake here about eight o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Kennedy was only missed about three minutes before the alarm was given. Len Newton, manager of Johnston's boathouse, was the first to miss him, and went out and found his empty canoe with a paddle floating nearby.



HON. W. J. HANNA.
Re-elected in West Lambton by 1000.

A Good House.

Mrs. Allen was entertaining a caller one afternoon not long ago and was enthusiastically explaining the many advantages of concrete hollow block construction, of which the walls of her new home were built.

"The air spaces in the walls afford insulation against heat in summer and cold in winter," said Mrs. Allen. "And not only that, but such walls afford ventilation and insure a more healthful house."

The visitor nodded approval and paused reflectively for a moment, then replied:

"Well, our frame house must be quite as well built. Every night we lock the cat in the cellar and have to let her out of the attic in the morning."—Detroit Free Press.

MR. GILLESPIE SPEAKS TO HIS CONSTITUENTS

To the Electors of West Peterborough,

Gentlemen,

I would be insensible of my duty to the electors if I did not embrace the earliest opportunity of giving expression to my grateful thanks for the honour conferred upon me yesterday by electing me your representative for West Peterborough in the Ontario Legislature for the ensuing year.

If there is any one feature more than another in connection with the contest which affords me great satisfaction, it is the fact that the campaign in this Riding was conducted in such a good spirit. I owe much to my ardent workers for this better conduct of a political campaign, and trust that nothing has been said or done that would tend to estrange one citizen from another.

I have to congratulate my active friends and workers upon their good organization and enthusiastic efforts on my behalf. I thank the press, the pulpit, the ladies and my Conservative friends, and especially the young men of both parties, for their zealous stand and forceful work on behalf of my candidature.

If the result of the campaign to Abolish the Bar in Ontario has not borne the fruit so anxiously looked for, an impulse has been given to the Temperance cause, which cannot but leave its impress on future legislation.

I believe that in all respects the will of the people must be had before good Government can be enforced; and I desire no higher honour than that which you have given me, by placing me in a position where I will have an opportunity of giving a good account of my stewardship.

Sincerely yours,

GEO. A. GILLESPIE

BIGGEST FLOATING DOCK ON PACIFIC READY THIS YEAR

It is expected that the Grand Trunk Pacific authorities will have the big dry dock at Prince Rupert in operation before the end of the present year. The completion of this great work will mean much to Northern British Columbia and especially to Prince Rupert. That rapidly growing city will have a new industry this coming winter. Many of the big coast steamers that have hitherto been compelled to make their headquarters elsewhere will be overhauled in its harbor. It will be able to boast of the largest floating dock on the Pacific with an equipment including every up-to-date device for handling ships up to 20,000 tons. There are four large buildings to house the various sections of the ship building and repairing plant and practically all the machinery to equip the shops has been made in Canada.

The yard will have a 45 ton locomotive crane. Other machinery includes an 80 foot lathe, capable of turning a steel shaft 50 feet in length; a plate bending machine with a capacity of bending a sheet of steel twenty feet by three-quarters of an inch thick; a big steam hammer and four air compressors. The machine shop, boiler shop and blacksmith shop will have the most complete set of modern tools on the coast.

Adjoining the dock along the face of the harbor are the big new wharves and the railroad has large freight yards here.

For a city that dates back only to 1906, when the Grand Trunk Pacific's staff of engineers made a landing and clearing for the location of their camp preparatory to making the preliminary survey, this is a record of progress that it would be hard to equal.

Now that you have come into money Mr. Jones. I suppose you are going to live high. Yes now that we have things coming to us, we're bound to have everything going.

PROSPECTS FOR APPLE CROP REPORTED AS SATISFACTORY

Tent Carterpillars Have Damaged Yield in Some Parts of Ontario—Thorough Spraying Has Kept Down Pest Generally—Reports on Other Fruit

The season for apples, according to present indications will be a very satisfactory one. There are certain sections of course where on account of local conditions the crop has been reduced, but these are in the main very small in area. In Ontario there are certain areas where the tent caterpillar has caused enough damage to seriously affect the crop, but in all orchards where thorough spraying has been done and where the owners have given the orchard careful attention, the yield will be a very satisfactory one. The bloom was very heavy and the set has been a good one. There is a fairly general report that Spys will be short in Brant County and that winter apples in Middlesex have not set very well, otherwise prospects are good throughout the province.

Pears.

The pear crop in Ontario will be a light one. In the southern counties the crop is reported fair, with Kieffers particularly abundant, but in eastern Ontario trees were badly winter-killed and the crop, except in a few instances, will be an entire failure.

Plums.

Plum trees blossomed well in southern Ontario, but the set was a very light one, and the crop will be below average. In the county of Lincoln, Japanese varieties appear to be almost an entire failure, and even the European sorts are reported light. Further east in Ontario, the plum crop is a total failure on account of winter-killing of buds, and in many cases the trees themselves have been seriously injured. In the province of Quebec, the prospects for the native Americana varieties are good. Nova Scotia reports a very heavy blossom, but up to date no information has been received regarding the set. In British Columbia the conditions are generally favorable and a crop considerably greater than last year is expected.

Peaches

So far as Ontario is concerned the reports remain practically the same as those which were published a month ago. With the exception of the Essex Peninsula and a slight scattering in Lambton County, the peach crop in Ontario is a total failure.

In the Okanagan Valley of British Columbia, the latter estimates are not so favorable as those received earlier in the season. The reports on early varieties are still quite promising, and for the latter varieties the general report appears to be that slightly over half crop will be harvested. In the Kootenay Valley the peach crop is a failure.

Tomatoes

In Western Ontario, the acreage under tomatoes is unquestionably the largest for many years. As a direct consequence of the peach crop failure, a number of growers planted tomatoes, presuming that the profits to be derived from them would offset the loss sustained through the failure of the peach crop. There is consequently a grave danger that the supply of tomatoes this year will be much greater than the demand and that prices will be very low. The heaviest plantings appear to be in the counties of Lincoln and Wentworth. There has also been a heavy planting of tomatoes in the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia.

Cherries.

An abundant crop of all varieties of cherries is reported from the Niagara district and from the southern and western counties of Ontario. In the counties of Norfolk, Peel and Wentworth, the reports indicate that the sweet varieties will yield only a light crop, but the report is extremely good for all other varieties. The same injury which reduced the crop of pears and plums in eastern Ontario, has seriously affected the crop of cherries, and the result will be a very light yield and in many orchards a complete failure. Practically a full crop is reported from Nova Scotia. There have been some reports from British Columbia stating that in the Okanagan district the set was not a particularly good one; in the Kootenay Valley the prospects are excellent.

Grapes.

The grape crop is one upon which growers are generally safe in relying, for it is only in very unusual cases that there is any shortage in commercial orchards. This season is no exception, and reports from the Niagara District indicate a crop between medium and large, and in many cases fully 25 per cent. larger than was harvested last year. In other sections of Ontario where vineyards are few in number, there has been considerable injury by frost.

Strawberries

As a general rule the strawberry crop will below average, and price will run high. The case of this shortage varies with the particular district from which these reports originate. In Eastern Ontario there had been a great deal of winter injury to the plants, and in some cases the drought of 1913 so weakened the mother plants that the stand this year was not a good one. In other parts of Ontario the wet spring interfered very seriously with the proper fertilization of the blossoms.

Insect Pests

Undoubtedly the most serious insect pest this season is the tent caterpillar which is completely defoliating many orchards through Eastern Ontario and Quebec. In orchards which have not been thoroughly sprayed the trees have been completely over-run with the pest, and are now almost beyond control. It is unfortunate that such a state of affairs should exist for there is no reason why the tent caterpillar should not be controlled by efficient spraying. The bud moth has been reported from the counties of Lambton and Norfolk.

TRAGIC DEATH OF LEADER MILITANT SUFFRAGETTES

"Laura Gray," Who Received Suffragette Medal "for Valor," a Suicide

STORY OF HER CAREER

London, June 30.—Joan Lavender Guthrie, who, under the name of "Laura Gray," has led the militant suffragettes on several expeditions of havoc, will work for the "Wild Women" no more. She was recently found dying in a flat in Jermyn Street from an overdose of Veronal, to which she had become addicted on joining the militant forces. On her death the Westminster coroner, Ingle Oddie, assembled a jury, before whom was laid bare one of the most thrilling stories of the downfall of a gifted and brilliant young woman.

She was the daughter of persons of means and refinement, her father having been a Captain in the Middlesex Yeomanry, and her widowed mother, with whom she had lived until her twenty-first birthday in 1912, the owner of a handsome establishment in Kensington. According to the mother, who testified before the Coroner, the daughter had been educated far beyond her age and had absorbed much socialistic literature. She was also very generous and gave most of her savings to the poor. She had obeyed her mother until she was 21 and then went to live away from home. She had tried to earn her living on the stage, but had always received from her mother an allowance of $500 a year.

The Coroner asked her mother: "Was it in consequence of her militancy that she was charged four times and convicted between 1910 and 1912?"

The mother replied that it was and that she had paid her daughter's fines and had taken her home, and she added:

"She was sentenced in March, 1912, to six months for wilful damage, and adopted the hunger strike, and so was allowed to go after four months, when I came and took her home."

Miss Guthrie once received the Medal "for Valor" given by the W.S.P.U. to militants, and in her flat was found the following letter:

Dear Soldier in the Women's Army

No mere words can possibly express the feelings of the committee toward you and the other comrades who have so nobly and with utter disregard of self suffered the pain of the hunger strike and the horrors of forcible feeding in prison, at the prompting of duty and loyalty to the Cause you passionately love, and which is the dearest in life to us all I send you, therefore, in all honor and on behalf of the committee of the W.S.P.U., the medal for valor in action, and my personal wish that you have not suffered too seriously in health as the result of your heroic fight for principle. Yours, with all greetings,

MABEL TUKE.

The Coroner read a letter written by Miss Guthrie, dated June 5, 1914, as follows:

My dear Little Mother: I am hoping that you will get this foolish enough epistle for some time; at any rate, that it will not be a great shock to you. I have given you so many. I am inclosing a few things I do not know what to do with. But I do not think there is any need for you to come back here; at least, I have left nothing behind to connect your name with mine.

There are a few private letters I have not the heart to destroy—you have one or two such yourself—and a file of receipted bills. As far as I can remember I owe no money at other way, I have left directions with all; in fact, it is a good deal the other way, I have left directions with the charwoman what to do with my clothes. You must not think, dear mother, that I am at all unhappy.

Whatever wretchedness I have had has come to me through my own doing, and during this last year in particular I have met some very dear souls, both men and women. If you ever came across them and they speak to you of me given them a welcome for my sake, even though I may have met them in bad and immoral ways. Please don't imagine for a moment that what I have done was suggested by our last conversation. I have been taking veronal for the last six months practically every night.

I only lied to you about it, because I knew you would worry if I told you the truth. Of course, the kindly coroner will call it temporary insanity, but, as a matter of fact, I think this is about the sanest thing I have yet done. I am simply very tired of things in general. I cannot see that the world will progress any the worse for my being out of it. It seems cowardly, I know, but I should only go on causing you more unhappiness, dear soul, for there are certain ways of life which it is absolutely impossible to give up. In fact, one does not want to. You are so pure and good that it is hard to write this to you, but I feel it to be the absolute truth.

My love to Lillian, and hope she will be very happy and marry some decent man, whose children you could be proud of. I feel you have so far had a more or less rotten life, and that causes me to believe there must be a further sphere for people like you, where unhappiness and disappointment are smoothed away. No one in this world could have had a better or more sympathetic mother than I.

The market was fairly active and full loads of choice steers sold at $8.50 and picked small lots at $8.75, while full loads, medium to good cows brought from $6.50 to $7 per 100 pounds.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for hogs today, due to the smaller supplies coming forward lately and in sympathy with the rise in prices in the Toronto market at the latter end of last week, consequently prices here scored an advance of 25c to 40c per 100 pounds. Steamer Cassandra Takes People From California

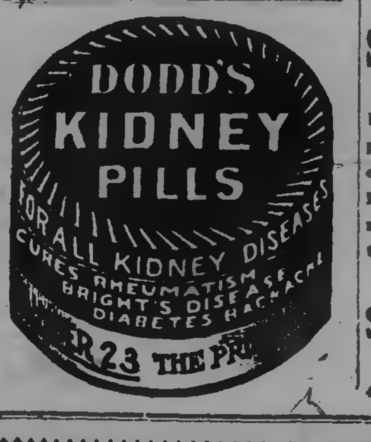
LONDON, June 30. — A wireless message to the Malin Head Station early yesterday from the Anchor Liner California, which is ashore on Tory Island, stated that the vessel struck at 9.20 o'clock Sunday night in a dense fog. In response to her distress calls the steamer Cassandra and three torpedo boat destroyers rushed to her aid.

The Cassandra and the destroyers, the message stated, experienced some difficulty in locating the California, owing to the fog and treacherous nature of the coast. The destroyer Lynx was the first to arrive at the scene of the accident, and by the aid of a searchlight from the Lynx the Cassandra was enabled to approach the California.

The 1,016 passenger on the California commenced disembarking at daybreak, being taken aboard the Cassandra.

CAR LEFT TRACKS.

To-day at 1.30 p.m. a Jackson Park car was coming along Charlotte Street from the west, and although the gates were down at Bethune, the motorman overestimated the ability of the brakes on the car with the result that the car ran off at the derail. The cars were held up quite a while before the car in question could be replaced on the steels.



An excellent grease eradicator can easily be made by mixing two ounces of ammonia, one ounce of castile soap shavings, one quart of soft water and one teaspoonful of saltpeter.

MANY RIDINGS GIVE REPORT OF THE HEAVIEST VOTE IN THEIR HISTORY

Sir Adam Beck Secures Biggest Majority in His Career as Does Col. Hendrie in Hamilton—Gustave Evanturel Surprises Province—Supporter of Carter in Guelph Drops Dead From Excitement

TORONTO, June 30. — The vigor with which the election was fought throughout Ontario yesterday is attested by the fact that the vote was perhaps the heaviest ever polled in the province. From fragmentary reports now at hand records for high percentage of votes cast were made in nearly every riding.

Gustav Evanturel, who appealed from the condemnation of the Legislature to his constituents, comes back. He headed the poll in Prescott, defeating both Liberal and Conservative candidates. Mr. Evanturel's re-election came as a big surprise. He returns to the Legislature as an Independent.

In Toronto the poll was exceptionally large and the Tory metropolis repeated what it has done for years—returned a complete Conservative slate. The new faces in the Legislature from Toronto will be Wm. H. Price (Parkdale), Joseph Russell (ex-M. P.) (Riverdale), Mark Irish (Toronto, N.E.), and Thomas Hook (Toronto, S.E.). All, both new and old members, had ample majorities.

Sir Adam Beck Breaks Record.

LONDON, Ont., June 30. — Sir Adam Beck was accorded a record majority by the electors of London yesterday, defeating Dr. W. J. Stevenson, Liberal, by 1,496 votes. Sir Adam received 4,353 votes, Dr. Stevenson 2,857, and John D. Jacobs, Labor candidate, the third man in the contest, 416. The Minister of Power was given an acclamation in 1911, while in 1908 his mapority over J. M. McEvey, K.C., Liberal, was 1,404. The total number of votes polled yesterday was 7,626. There were 12,050 names on the voters' lists.

Carter Supporter Drops Dead.

GUELPH, June 30. — The Liberal temperance workers of this city held a big celebration last night in honor of the election of Sam Carter. The majority was somewhere in the neighborhood of one hundred, probably a little less, which was somewhat of a surprise even to his most confident supporters.

John Black, an aged retired farmer, of Extra street, this city, could not stand the excitement consequent upon the result of the elections. He was in Samuel Carter's committee rooms when it was announced that Mr. Carter was elected, and without a moment's warning he fell over on the floor and died. Death was due to heart failure.

Kingston Swept By Ross.

KINGSTON, June 30. — Dr. A. E. Ross (Con.) defeated Ald. T. F. Harrison (Lib.) in yesterday's contest by a majority of 1,466. The majority was a great surprise to both sides. All day long it was believed Dr. Ross would have a majority of about 600, but not one of the supporters of Dr. Ross dreamed of such a majority. Ross polled a majority in every subdivision in the city and at the village of Portsmouth as well.

Hamilton Backs Favorites.

HAMILTON, June 30. — In the West riding, Col. Hendrie polled the biggest vote of his career, receiving a majority of 1,628 over Ald. Dr. Davey, the Independent Liberal and Temperance candidate, never seemed dangerous.

In East Hamilton the figures for Allan Studholme were 4,472 while 3,482 votes were polled for Controller Thomas W. Jutten, the Conservative candidate, which gives the Labor candidate a majority of 990, nearly 300 more than he had in the last election.

Close In North Oxford.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 30.—N. W. Rowell was yesterday reelected in North Oxford, but his majority of 560 received in 1911 was reduced to 115. While the city gave R. E. Butler (Con.) a majority, the country went strong for Rowell and the large city majority was overcome, giving the Liberal leader a lead in the riding.

Proudfoot Returned.

GODERICH, June 30.—Centre Huron yesterday returned Wm. Proudfoot with a majority of 316, an increase of 100 over his last election, and had it not been for very inclement weather, which retarded the country vote, it is estimated his majority would have been at least 400. The urban vote was the largest polled for many years.

Tuftness Had Previous Disaster.

MONTREAL, June 30.—The fact that Chief Officer Alfred Tuftness, who was on the bridge of the collier Storstad when she rammed and sank the Empress of Ireland on May 29, had had a previous and almost similar experience was acknowledged by him yesterday. Mr. Tuftness said he was on a Norwegian collier which rammed and sank an English collier in the North Sea seven years ago. Several lives were lost.

Mr. Tuftness, though reticent about the accident, said a court of inquiry held into the accident exonerated his ship from all blame.

Many Are Parentless.

OTTAWA, June 30.—According to an official report to the Labor Department from its special agent, J. D. McNiven, who investigated the Hillcrest disaster, 36 married men and four widowers, leaving children, lost their lives. The fatherless children number 155.

No New Features.

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 30.—The royal commission enquiring into the Dugal charges held their first session in Fredericton yesterday, sitting for about three and one-half hours. The session was productive of no interesting features, and many of the crowd of spectators who assembled, expecting some of the lively scenes such as ensued at St. John last week, left early, very much disappointed.

Dirigible Balloon Record.

TOUL, France, June 30. — The French military dirigible balloon Adjutant Vincenot, piloted by Georges Joux, and carrying eight passengers has established a new world's record for continuous navigation by dirigibles. It remained in the air for 35 hours and 20 minutes.

Charged With Shooting.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 30.—Shot through the lungs H. Heikkina, a Port Arthur Finlander, is in a serious condition. I. Matson is charged with the shooting.

An Aviation Record.

BERLIN, June 30. — Herr Landmann, an aviator, yesterday concluded a non-stop flight of 21 hours 49 minutes. It is claimed that this flight constitutes a world's record.

FINDING OUT THE TRUTH

An Engaged Couple Try To Impose On Each Other's Relatives

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

When Edith Lambert and I became engaged, on comparing notes we found that Edith had an uncle whose fortune she expected to inherit, while I had an aunt whose heir I was to be. Edith gave me the impression that her uncle was a very dignified old gentleman, whose ideas concerning the man she should marry were that he should walk a chalk line. This did not indicate that my chances for pleasing the old man were very good, for, if ever a youngster was full of Old Nick, I was that youngster.

Per contra, my aunt had been in her youth a society girl, a flirt, fond of horse racing, yachting, and had even been so vicious as to play cards for money. Edith was just the reverse of this; a young woman of reserve and dignity and, withal, very religious.

Naturally it was essential that I should be acceptable to Edith's uncle and that Edith should please my aunt, for neither Edith nor I had any fortune and had both been brought up in luxury. Edith's uncle was worth $500,000 in 6 per cent bonds, while my aunt had something more than this in well rented real estate. The problem before me and my fiancee was to make her uncle believe that I was a very steady and well behaved young man, and to make my aunt think that Edith was a woman of the world.

After a long conference in which various plans were discussed we decided that we would begin with my aunt. I was to introduce Edith to her, and Edith was to put on as much sportiness as she could, though I had misgivings as to her deceiving my aunt, for it was born in Edith to be dignified, and she had no sympathy whatever with that license which pertains to people of the gay world. However, it was arranged that my aunt was to call on my fiancee, after which we three were to pass an evening together at my aunt's house.

The evening after this call I went to see Edith and found her in a very distressed state of mind.

"Why did you tell me that Miss Martindale was a woman of the world?" she said. "I commenced soon after she appeared to talk freely and kept it up, while she listened to me without betraying any sympathy with the ideas I expressed, and she finally arose, evidently very much disgusted with me, and took her departure."

"What did you say?"

"Why, I began by cracking jokes about our forthcoming marriage, saying that I hoped when you were out late at poker parties your companions wouldn't have to set you up against the front door and ring the bell."

"What did she say to that?"

"Why, she scowled."

"What else did you say?"

"I said I had lost $300 on the last races and expected to make it up at the meet next week. Then I said I hoped you wouldn't feel that you must be tied down to me all the while. You were welcome to flirt with other women and get yourself talked about all you liked, provided there was nothing criminal in it. 'As for me, while I could get on with one husband, I must have attention from other men.' She looked at me as if she would bite my head off and whisked away without even saying goodby."

"Perhaps it was because you said it all instead of doing it. Aunt Kate was probably shocked at the bare statement, while she would not have minded the acts mentioned."

"I am afraid you don't understand your aunt. At any rate, I have antagonized her, and I think you'll find that if you marry me she will not leave you a cent of her money."

I went straight to my aunt to hear what she had to say about the matter, but she locked her tongue and would give me no satisfaction. I judged, however, that she had not been overpleased with my fiancee. Doubtless Edith had overdone the matter.

The next thing to be done was for me to make the acquaintance of Mr. Springer, Edith's wealthy uncle. He wrote Edith that I was to stay with him at his house and desired her to inform him what train I would come on, that he might send his car to the station for me. She gave him the desired information, and one bright morning I boarded the train, resolved to make a better impression on Edith's uncle than she had made on my aunt. One thing I determined to guard against—that was overdoing it.

I had not been long on the train when a gentleman asked me if I would make one of four to play whist. Glad to while away the time, I consented. I was the partner of the gentleman who invited me to play, and the stake, beginning at a quarter a corner, was gradually increased to a dollar. But our antagonists got the idea that I and my partner were a pair of professional gamblers who were intending to "do" them and soon retired from the game.

This threw my partner and myself together, he assuming considerable bonhomie. He had a flask with him and invited me to join him in emptying it. I hesitated, fearing that when I met Mr. Springer in the evening he would smell my breath. But my new found friend was so urgent that I at last consented. Then he brought out some fine Havana cigars and proposed that we go into the smoking compartment of the car for a smoke. Again I objected, for if a whisky breath is bad a whisky and tobacco breath is worse. But a smoke after a drink is especially enjoyable, so again I yielded.

After our smoke my companion proposed a game of vingt-et-un, to which I assented, and the luck being on my side, when the train rolled into the station where we were to alight I had taken $76 from my antagonist. He didn't complain, nor did he ask me to meet him again for his revenge, being just as cheery at the parting as he had been at the meeting.

I found Mr. Springer's car at the station and, getting in, was whisked to his home. When I arrived I was told that he was not at home, but was expected soon. I was shown to a room, where I made a toilet, taking care to use some aromatic tooth powder I had with me to destroy the odor of whisky and tobacco on my breath. I also divested myself of my traveling suit, which was saturated with tobacco smoke. Having got as well rid as possible of these telltales, I went down into the library, where I found an evening paper.

I was engrossed in the paper when, hearing a footstep, I looked up, and great was my astonishment. A man stood before me with a benign smile on his face, and who should he be but the person who had sought my acquaintance on the train and whom I had relieved of $76. He offered his hand and said:

"I'm glad to see you, my dear boy. I can tell you at once that I heartily approve of you. We can't trust one another in this world when we are warned, so I concluded to take you unawares."

"B-b-b-ut I thought you were—were a"—

"So I am in business and among women and children, but I know what a young man is, for I've been one myself. So I concluded to go back to the days of my wild oats and see you as you are, not as you would pretend to be. I'm very fond of my niece and wish her to marry a man, not a sniveling, driveling fellow who pretends to goodness while his inclinations are otherwise. I have found you perfectly honorable and you played a fair game. I'll say this, even if you did relieve me of my money. Come in to dinner."

Mr. Springer did not let me go for several days. He was not the man he had been on the train, but was no prude. He was much engrossed in business, and this did not give him time for dissipation even if he was inclined that way, and he was not so inclined. I went back to Edith with a far better report of my status with her uncle than she had given me of her status with my aunt.

I found that Aunt Kate had been called away for a few days, and I was obliged to go to Edith to be informed as to the situation. She told me that my aunt had written her a brief note, saying that on her return and mine she would be pleased to see us at her house to spend an evening. I gave Edith an account of my meeting with her uncle, at which she was much surprised.

"You men are very queer," she said.

A few days after my return I received a telephone message from Aunt Kate that I was to fetch Edith to her house for dinner and to spend the evening. On the evening in question I called for Edith, and she said that she would try to undo the impression she had made upon my aunt. I told her that she would better act herself and not try to appear to be any one else. Aunt Kate was very shrewd and not to be fooled.

We found our hostess got up in her finest costume, extremely decollete and with plenty of adornment. She gave Edith a smack and warmly pressed my hand. Curious to know why she had been so different with Edith during her call, I entered upon the subject at once.

"Edith told me she had shocked you, Aunt Kate," I said.

"Shocked me! She was trying to fool me. Do you suppose I don't know a woman of the world? Why, my dear, you could never be bad even if you tried ever so hard. Come in to dinner."

What a relief, both to me and to Edith! And how happy we were at having so successfully passed the ordeal required. But we had done nothing to further the issue. Edith's uncle and my aunt had taken pains to prevent our imposing on them to see us as we were and not as we would have pretended.

Our dinner was a most enjoyable one, but Edith and I agreed that it would have been far more delightful if we could have had her uncle with us. My aunt, who had the faculty of adapting herself to the person she was with, behaved herself remarkably well. Indeed, so circumspect was she that Edith conceived the idea that we were trying to impose upon her; that Aunt Kate had maligned herself and I had borne her out in the deception.

Another dinner we enjoyed quite as well—that was with Edith's uncle. We threatened to make a match between the two, but they had passed too far into bachelorhood and spinsterhood, so we were obliged to be content with the match between ourselves.

It appeared later that Mr. Springer had a double motive for taking the trouble to travel with me incognito. He was getting old and wished to retire. Since he had no son to succeed him and Edith was like a daughter to him he conceived the idea of working me into the management of his business. The result was that in time I became its head.

LEADER ROWELL SAYS HE HAD NOT THE TIME

But He is Pleased at Gains in the House

WOODSTOCK, June 30.—Mr. N. W. Rowell received the results of the election at the Woodstock Young Liberal Club rooms, and, interviewed later in the evening, made the following statement:

"It is gratifying to find that, notwithstanding the whole weight of the Government forces, aided by the organised liquor interests, we have improved our position in the House. For the sake of the policy for which we were fighting I regret that our gains were not numerous. We were greatly handicapped by the short period we had to prepare for the election. It took up all our time to get candidates in the field.

"I desire to thank the electors of the province who gave us their support, and particularly the large body of volunteer workers who have freely given of their time in this contest. We have brought into the political affairs of the province a new spirit of public service, and hundreds of men who have not hitherto taken an active interest in political affairs will undoubtedly do so in the future. This is the guarantee of the ultimate success.

"Of the policy of misrepresentation persistently and systematically pursued in order to mislead the electors as to our position and policy, I shall not speak at present."

Overtures For Peace From Turks.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 30.—The Greek reply to the last Turkish note which has been received here is couched in friendly spirit and accepts the proposals of Turkey regarding the exchange of Turkish and Greek property and the appointment of a Graeco-Turkish commission to supervise the arrangement. Greece hopes that the incidents which have disturbed the good relations between the two countries will not recur and declares that Mussulman in Greek territoy are treated on an equality with the other inhabitants.

PETES ARE OUT OF THE CELLAR

According to the box score the Petes fairly whaled the hide yesterday and Blount and Stewart poked the leather over the Brantford dyke. The fact that two Grits were being elected in the Brant ridings was too much for the Brants and the Petes fairly romped away from them and won pulled up. Sixteen hits were gathered off Gero and Deneau while Bob Sterling held the homesters to nine. Thrailkill the new Pete had a hit and fielded faultlessly. Blount had two two-baggers outside of his homer in three times up. Everybody got a hit or more but Sterling. The despatch says:

Brantford, June 29.—The Petes again swamped the Red Sox today, when they got the better of a lifeless contest, before a very small attendance, the election having its effect. The game was only brightened by the three home runs hit by Stewart, Blount and Ivers. Deneau took up the twirling himself in the sixth, when he decided to give Gero a rest.

COMMENT

As You Like It

While Whitney was winning easily and thereby winning at the top of the heap in the poll-cat league, the Petes also won easily and climbed out of the cellar. Hamilton now occupies the much despised position a mere half of game behind the Petes who are tied with Brantford and a couple of games in the rear of Toronto. The corrected standing, by deducting the forfeited game, gives the Petes 19 wins and 25 losses while Hamilton has won one less and lost the same number. The Hamilton club is going very bad at the present and looks destined to remain somewhere near the bottom. The same applies to Brantford while on the other hand the Petes have taken a decided brace and look good enough to upset the best of them. Rube Deneau's world beaters look like a couple of cheese wafers and to think that Rube did more shouting about what he was going to do than all the rest of the managers put together.

London lost to St. Thomas yesterday and has protested the game. Dunn was on third and Bierbauer on first in the ninth with one out. Lamy poked a long fly to center. Dunn raced for home as soon as the ball was caught and scored before Bierbauer who had raced for second was doubled at first. London claims that the run scored. Umpire Miller differed. The rules state that a run shall not score on a force out which retires the side. The rules do not refer to such a force out as occurred yesterday but merely say a force out which looks as though a ruling from experts will have to be secured.

The latest dispatch from Paris is to the effect that the Johnson-Moran fight was faked. Such is life.

Joe Picard says the Liberals suffered from a slump yesterday similar to that which the Petes ran into some time ago.

Agnes—Miriam can neither see, walk nor sit down. Gladys—Paralyzed? Agnes—No, fashionable.

LACROSSE

The fast Tweed lacrosse team will cross sticks with the local club at Riverside at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The game should provide some classy play and keen sport as both teams are going along at a good clip at the present time.

There will be a lacrosse practice tonight in preparation for the big game tomorrow afternoon between the locals and Tweed. Incidentally it might be remarked that the aggregation from the east are strong and will give the locals quite a battle.

CRICKET

St. Albans' eleven of Toronto will play a match with the Peterboro Cricket Club at the Oval tomorrow. The match will start at 10 o'clock and will be an all day affair and should prove one of the best of the season as the Toronto aggregation is one of the best in the Queen City.

DUCKING A SCOLD.

Punishment a Long Tongue Used to Win In Old England.

It is interesting in these days of woman's rights and woman's progress to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors in fact, by the whole village—to the nearest pond, and the greener and slimier the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the ducking stool, and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely pinioned.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half drowned woman was raised to the surface again to the jeers and laughter of the onlookers it can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was as penitent a woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home, a sadder and wiser woman until the next time.—London Tit-Bits.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE PROBLEM.

Do we like winter?
Are we four flushing
Or in dead earnest,
Then, in our gushing,
Or would we rather
Send it a-kiting,
Trade it for weather
Not so exciting?

Is it the weather
We would have chosen?
Are we enraptured
When we are frozen,
Or are we feeling
When we declare it
Such an allurement
We could not spare it?

It is so healthy,
So says the fable,
But how we shun it
When we are able,
When we are certain
It is a comer
Buying a ticket
Routed for summer!

Beautiful winter,
Lovely as ever,
But from its charmings
Gladly we sever,
Leaving to love it
Those who can only
Stay round and bear it.
They won't be lonely.

Clever.

"Do you know how to manage a woman?"

"Sure."

"How?"

"First find out just what she is bent on doing."

"Well?"

"Then enter into an elaborate explanation of how to do just that thing and insist on her doing it."

"Then what?"

"Then want? Why, man, she will be so mad that she will do something else, but you never can tell just what."

Explained.

"Women certainly are the most unreasonable creatures. I wonder why?"

"It is quite necessary."

"Necessary?"

"Yes; that they be unreasonable, not having any use for reason."

"How is that?"

"Most of their dealings are with men, aren't they?"

A Little Higher.

"How is he getting along with his study of the English language?"

"He is making fair progress."

"The last time I heard him he talked through his nose."

"He has got over that."

"That's good."

"Yes. Now he talks through his hat."

Method In It.

"How carefully Brown avoids temptation!"

"Yes, of a certain kind."

"He keeps clear over on the other side of the street from it, doesn't he?"

"Yes; the more tempting things are that way."

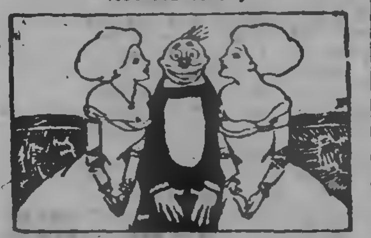
Cautious.

"Jones has never spoken an unkind word to his wife."

"He must be a model husband."

"Well, he found out the day after he was married that she had taken boxing lessons."

Not Necessary.



"I just can't tell you girls apart."

"Can't you?"

"No."

"Really?"

"To save my soul I can't."

"Well, tell us together then. What is it you want to tell us?"

Excruciating.

"How dreadfully pained that fellow looks!"

"Yes. Funny, isn't it?"

"How can you say it's funny?"

"Because that's the way he laughs."

No Relation.

"Well, how do you like Billy?"

"I thought you said he was a kissing bug."

"Isn't he?"

"He is a humbug."

Which?

"He is a man of good deeds."

"At the county recorder's or the recording angel's?"

DOGS IN ALASKA.

Carry Great Loads Over Snow That Would Not Hold a Man.

Dogs are surely the real thing for "mushing" in the cold country. To my mind they beat reindeer a mile. Most of them weigh less than 100 pounds, and they distribute their weight over their four feet, so that they can trot over a weak snow crust where a man would sink out of sight by breaking through the crust into the soft snow below. On a good, level, smooth trail ten dogs can trot along with a ton of freight behind them, and 500 or 600 pounds is a fair load on poor trails.

A peculiar thing is that a twelve foot sled, twenty-two to twenty-four inches wide, with runners two and one-quarter inches wide, bearing a load of 600 to 800 pounds, will not sink through a snow crust that will not bear a man. [illegible] occurs because two runners two and one-quarter inches wide and twelve feet long give a large area of bearing on the crust. This, coupled with the motion that keeps the sled passing over all the time, accounts for the remarkable fact I am speaking of.

One of the greatest dangers in "mushing" is encountering water under the snow on the river ice in very cold weather or breaking through into hollow places where the stream has sunk away from under the ice. This is the most dangerous of all, and often when it happens a man is frozen to death before he can get to shelter or get up his tent and start a fire.—B. S. Rodey in Albuquerque Herald.

LEON W. WASHBURN'S MIGHTY MIDWAY SHOWS

Arrangements have been completed between the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition and the Leon W. Washburn's Mighty Midway Shows for a week's engagement, commencing Monday, July 6th. The Leon W. Washburn's Mighty Midway Shows come highly recommended to the citizens of Peterborough, and will no doubt provide a very pleasant week for the amusement lovers of this prosperous city. They are now playing a week's engagement at Chester, Pa. The following notice was taken from the Chester Herald, and without doubt will prove of interest to all:

"Favored with propitious weather, such as had the effect of bringing out the amusement-seeking crowds in full score, the Leon W. Washburn's Mighty Midway Shows opened successfully this afternoon and will continue every afternoon and night this week, and if the interest manifested by the local public last night in the aggregation of attractions that was offered is to be taken as a criterion, the continued success of this enterprise is assured.

"The spacious lot has been transformed into a gay village of tents, with displays of flags and banners floating in the breeze. The lot was bathed in a flood of light, which rendered it as bright as day, the use of electricity to illuminate the grounds being lavish. Sixteen hundred 16-candle power lamps.

"The opening of the carnival attracted fully five thousand visitors to the grounds, and they were amply repaid in the varied diversion they found provided at every turn.

The neatness of the tents, the politeness of the attaches, and the clean character and refined tone of all the attractions did not fail to favorably impress the multitude.

"Making the rounds of the shows was a pleasant way to put in the hours, if one was not drawn to the several riding devices or the games of skill and fortune. In Washburn's dog and pony circus there was found trained animal acts to delight the children and provide entertainment for their elders, and Rex, the talking pony, performed marvellous tricks of intelligence."

JAS. THOMPSON AGAIN ELECTED IN THE EAST

Riding Returned Him With About the Same Majority as in 1911

There was joy and lots of it at Havelock last night when it became known that James Thompson had been re-elected on the Conservative ticket in East Peterboro by a majority of more than 500, which is about the same as last year. After it was definitely known that Mr. Thompson had triumphed over W. C. Anderson, the Liberal candidate, and the Government had been sustained by a large majority, the elected member and J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., for the east riding, delivered speeches in which they thanked the electors for endorsing the Whitney policies.

The Liberal forces attempted to sway the vote to their side by very poor political tactics which hurt their chances more than they benefited them. All over the riding they shouted long and loud, "Thompson and whisky." The cry did not have any effect, and it may just as well have been "soda and whisky" as the electors firmly stood behind Mr. Thompson and the best Government, temperance and otherwise, that the province has had. In Havelock alone, Mr. Thompson had the overwhelming majority of 150.

DRESS MAKER AND OTHER DISCOUNTS TO BE ABOLISHED

New Rule Will go Into Effect July 1

After the first of July, many dressmakers, ministers, nurses, employees from other stores, etc., including their families and families' family will be deprived of their usual 10 cent. discount.

This is owing to the wholesale houses and manufacturers cutting down their discounts from in many cases from 6 to 10 per cent. to 2 per cent., besides reducing the time for payment, so that it is up to the retail merchants now to do likewise. As a consequence the usual discount will be discontinued after the first day of July.

The giving of discounts to the above parties has in many cases, been abused, so that previous to the action of the wholesalers and manufacturers in cutting down the merchants' discounts, it was considered an iniquitous practice that had no justification.

The Unfairness.

In the case of some ministers and their families who would ask for 10 per cent. discounts on their purchases, it was found that in many cases the minister was getting more to live on than the merchant who was giving the discount; not all ministers however, as some would refuse to be acknowledged as living in the charity class.

Then in the case of the nurses, this is a class that is professionalized and who get far above the ordinary girls' salary and yet many of them would pry upon the merchants for a 10 per cent. discount on their purchases. As in the case of the ministers, some nurses would not be unreasonable enough to seek an extra discount in this way considering it beneath their profession to do it.

The dressmakers have been abusing the discount privilege that was accorded them and in many cases they were purchasing goods for their families and friends, as well as their customers.

It has often worked out that people went into the stores and looked at goods and finally taking a sample of it to their dressmaker to find out exactly the style and how many yards would be required, that the dressmaker would say to the customer, "I will go down to the store and get these goods for you as well as the trimmings, etc., and thereby get the 10 per cent. discount."

But outside of the abuse that has been practiced in the past, the action of the wholesalers in cutting down the discounts, it makes it imperative that the retail merchants must do likewise in order to protect himself from losing money.

It is an established fact that retail merchants do not make anything near 10 per cent. clear profit on their turnover.

FARMER'S NAG MADE WILD DASH

Frightened at Cars, He Showed His Heels

Galloping at a breakneck clip along Charlotte Street this afternoon about 3 o'clock, a horse attached to a buggy created much excitement, and resulted in many narrow escapes of pedestrians on the sidewalk as the animal made its mad flight west on Charlotte Street.

The animal was finally brought to a standstill near the Boundary Road. The horse was owned by a Monaghan farmer who had left it untied near the corner of Charlotte and George Streets. The animal became frightened at the street cars and bolted, making one of the most spectacular runaways for some time.

A GLORIOUS VICTORY SAYS SIR JAMES

Premier Was Expecting the Victory

TORONTO, June 30. — "'Twas a glorious victory—just what I expected," was the brief comment of Sir James Whitney last night when asked for a statement for the press.

The Prime Minister left his office early in the afternoon and received the election results at his home by telephone. He followed the returns from each constituency with keen interest and occasional expressions of satisfaction, but manifested no concern at any time as to the outcome During the latter part of the evening, when most of the returns were in, Sir James was literally deluged by telegrams of congratulation.

Beyond the brief expression quoted, however, Sir James declined to make any pronouncement last night. He retired early and will probably make a more extended statement today.

VISITORS HERE FROM YUKON

C. B. Ames Has Seen Some Stirring Times

Well, yes I have had my share of adventure in those vast fields of life, was the remark of Mr. C. B. Ames of the Yukon, who has been the guest at the Oriental for the past few days. Mr. Ames came south recently from Yukon having paddled from Athabasca Lake to Edmonton. In relating a few of his experiences Mr. Ames told of the stirring times, they had during the gold rush of 1896 when the north presented a wild aspect to the generally civilized east. It was during this time he first landed in the north. Since then Mr. Ames had acted in the capacity of Deputy Police Commissioner in the Yukon and several other important positions. He had also the honor of driving one of the famous four hundred mile races which is the premier event every year in the Yukon.

Mr. Ames left today for Montreal on a short business trip before leaving for New York prior to returning to Yukon.

TRAVELLER MEETS DEATH BY DROWNING

To-day's Mail and Empire contains an account of the drowning of Mr. W. J. Kennedy, of Toronto, at Windermere, Lake Muskoka, on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Kennedy was a commercial traveller and was well known in this city, having only registered at the Oriental about ten days ago. Many drummers in the city to-day expressed regret at the death of the late Mr. Kennedy, who was drowned while paddling on the lake. The body was recovered and sent to Toronto for burial.

JAMES COWIE MET TERRIBLE DEATH WHEN PASSENGER TRAIN CRASHED INTO RIG

Elmore Liddell, His Companion Landed on Engine and Escaped Serious Injury — Cowie Was Ground to Death Under the Wheels — Men Were Driving to Port Hope

Two men, James Cowie and Elmore Liddell, had their bonds of friendship cut off abruptly and in a very sad manner shortly after the noon hour yesterday, when a rig in which they were driving was mowed down by the G.T.R. train which left here about twelve o'clock for Port Hope, killing instantly Cowie and injuring Liddell to the extent of a fractured knee cap. The dead man resided with his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hagerman, on Dixon Lane, while Liddell, whose injuries were attended to at his home, is well known and lives at the corner of Wolfe and Aylmer Streets. Cowie originally came from Hiawatha, and had been employed at the Matthews-Blackwell Packing Company for some time. A widow and one child survive him.

The death of Cowie was both instantaneous and horrible. He was ground to a pulp under the big steel wheels of the train. Two engines, as the train was a double header, and numerous cars, help to crush out his life.

Liddell Was Fortunate.

Liddell's escape was a remarkable instance. When the crash occurred he was hurled into space, only to be caught as he fell by the boiler top and front piece of the engine. He was carried more than one hundred yards before the train was brought to a standstill. The train backed slowly up, funereal in motion, and it was then that the worst was known. Cowie's remains were scattered here and there. Even the more hard-hearted of the onlookers turned away.

The rig in which the two men were driving belonged to Arthur Kennedy, a local contractor. The buggy was practically demolished but the horse escaped without a scratch. It stood still and nibbled quietly on the grass, the road side had to offer. Between intervals it looked around as though it were aware of the fatality which had taken place.

A Bad Crossing.

The scene of the accident is just south of the Roman Catholic Cemetery. The crossing is a dangerous one and although no name has been to it "morgue crossing" might prove appropriate. Several people have met their deaths at the same spot and yesterday's accident is strong evidence in favor of E. A. Lancaster M.P.'s anti-level crossing fight.

On a Holiday.

Cowie and Liddell started out to enjoy the anniversary of confederation and stated they were going to Port Hope. Cowie had charge of the reins. The men headed for Port Hope and took the road which runs south across the Peterboro-Port Hope line. The train which is due to leave here at 11.40 was late and it was after the noon hour that it reached the crossing. Some persons who were near the scene of the accident claim that the horse balked when near the tracks and then lurched forward. Cowie was on the west side of the seat which was the side farthest away from the approaching train. A high embankment obstructs the view from the road at the point. The collision occurred and Liddell who was nearest the engines was bumped against Cowie, hurled into the air, to alight on the front of the first engine while Cowie fell among the debris of the buggy and was ground to a pulp. When found the lower part of his body was on the southerly side of the track and the upper part of his body in the middle of the tracks some distance from the upper part of his body. His head was badly cut which leads the officials to believe that he was struck by the fender bumper and hurled some distance before the wheels passed over him. Portions of the rig were strewn for fifty yards along the side of the tracks. Liddell was removed from the engine and taken to his home. Traffic was blocked for some time as an incoming train from Port Hope had to wait until the outgoing reached a siding below the scene of the accident. Comstock took charge of Cowie's remains and also brought Liddell to the city.

The Inquest.

Dr. Greer was summoned as soon as the news of the fatality reached the city and he immediately called Acting Chief Newhall and Detective Meagher to assist him. The police officers did admirable work in securing witnesses and rounding up a jury. The jurors met last evening at Comstock's Undertaking Parlors to which place the remains had been conveyed and adjourned until Friday night when the inquest will be continued in the police court chamber. Acting Crown Attorney Wearing and a G.T.R. representative attended the opening period of the inquest. The jurors follow: John White, Adelard Guerin, Robert Begley, Wm. Irvine, Andrew Forrest, Dennis Corkery, Thomas McCabe, David Morrow, Thos. Halyman, W. J. Outram, J. C. Masterson, and Jos. Metheral.

The Hand of Fate.

A brother of Liddell met death some time ago at the C.P.R. station, when he endeavored to board a special train carrying the Queen's Own from Toronto.

A Pitiful Situation.

It is another terrible blow to Mrs. Cowie. Only a comparatively short time ago, two of her children were taken from her, both having died from diphtheria. The stricken mother made a brave attempt to bear up under her sorrow but it was plain to her friends that she was suffering greatly. A few days ago, Mrs. Cowie went to Port Hope to visit relatives, with the hope that a change of scenes and faces will help her to try and forget, and assist in benefitting her health. She returned from Port Hope yesterday afternoon, after having been informed that her husband had been killed, and her condition today is more serious and her condition pitiable.

Liddell's Statement.

Liddell when seen by a Review reporter, was was on the train, was unable to give an explanation as to how the accident happened. All he could say was that the train struck the buggy, at the crossing. Both he and Cowie landed on the engine but Cowie fell off.

It was stated by passengers that they did not hear the engine whistle for the crossing. The engineer, Thos. Lamb of Toronto would not make any statement. Conductor Thos. McCarthy, also of Toronto was in charge of the train.

The funeral of the late James Cowie will take place Saturday afternoon from the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hagerman, Dixon Lane and Victoria Avenue, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made at Little Lake Cemetery.

MR. SODEN IS ASKED TO RUN AGAIN

Conservatives Compliment Him on His Good Fight

A large deputation of influential Conservatives waited upon Mr. R. J. Soden on Tuesday and asked him if he would be willing to accept the nomination as their standard-bearer in the next Provincial election. They complimented him on the clean, plucky fight he put up against heavy odds, and stated that they were satisfied it was the unanimous wish of the party that he should lead them again. Mr. Soden thanked them for their consideration and kindness, and promised to give the matter his careful thought and give them a reply at a later date.

ROBERT DOBBIN INJURED AT BARN RAISING

Left Arm and Shoulder Blade Fractured

The barn raising at the farm of H. Snowden in Smith, on Tuesday was marred by a very serious accident that may prove fatal. The victim of the accident is Robert Dobbin, the well known councillor of North Monaghan. The men were endeavoring to place a cross beam and having the tenon on one end partially into the mortise of an upright post they proceeded to lift up the other end. The tenon slipped out with the result that the huge timber fell to the ground. Mr. Dobbin was working on a cross beam some fifteen of eighteen feet from the floor and when the timber fell it knocked out the support of the beam upon which he stood and he fell. It was immediately known that he was seriously injured and medical aid was called. He was found to be suffering from a fracture of the left arm, a fracture of the shoulder blade and badly bruised about the face. Yesterday he was removed to Nicholls Hospital where he is now in a critical condition.

MORE GIRLS FOR THE MARGARET COX HOME

One hundred girls ranging in age from 8 to 15 years, arrived in the city this morning via a special G.T.R. train and were taken to the Margaret Cox Home. The children are from Dr. Barnardo's village homes in England and will be sent to the farmers in this vicinity who have been asking for them. The Review learned today that the demand is exceeding the supply.

It will probably be a couple of weeks before the Secretary will be authorized to do this work. In the meantime no information can be given candidates as the regulations state: "Under no circumstances shall any information whatever, concerning the results, be made public until the Secretary of the Board has been so authorized by the Minister."

AVIATOR FELL AT PORT HOPE

Capt. Baldwin Was Lucky to Escape With His Life

A Review reporter saw aviator Captain Baldwin of New York, fall fully two hundred feet with his aeroplane at Port Hope, yesterday, sustaining several bad gashes about the head and severe internal injuries. Baldwin made his first flight with safety and in his attempt at the second flight he had considerable difficulty with his engines which were in bad shape owing to the heavy rain. When up about three hundred feet, the engines stopped and the machine toppled to the earth, some two hundred yards from the Exhibition Park. Baldwin was removed to the Port Hope General Hospital. The machine was badly damaged.

ALL MUST TESTIFY

Anybody Doing Business with Province, Liable Says Judge

FREDERICTON, N.B., July 2.—Judge McKeown made an important ruling Tuesday during the inquiry into the cost of the St. John Valley Railway Co. and the charges against Premier Flemming.

The occasion came somewhat unexpectedly to all concerned in the enquiry. Hermann Corbett, a member of the firm of James H. Corbett & Son, contractors upon the Valley Railway, was about closing his testimony when Mr. Carvell asked him where his father was. One question after another in rapid succession concerning the man whom Mr. Dugal charged with having paid Premier Flemming $10,000 in order to obtain his contract on the railway, aroused the objections of the Premier's counsel.

In the course of the discussion, Chairman McKeown laid down the broad principle that any person who was doing business with the province of New Brunswick should appear and give evidence if he was required to do so.

Commissioner Fisher took an equally firm stand that the public interest demanded that the facts should be got at.

SETTLEMENT OF HOME RULE QUESTION SEEMS NEARER

Lord Lansdowne, in Speech on Bill in Upper House, Says Exclusion Bill Has Few Friends and Statement is Looked on as Significant—Amendments Likely During Committee Stage.

LONDON, July 2.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—"I doubt extremely whether the policy of exclusion on its merits has any real friends." This sentence towards the close of the Marquis of Lansdowne's speech in the Lords' debate is regarded by to-day's papers as significant. The Daily News, one of the principal Liberal organs, says it encourages hope that something deserving the title of settlement will be achieved. The Morning Post fully agrees with Lansdowne, owing to the futility of exclusion, but is still convinced that no amendments could ever make the bill acceptable to the Unionists, and declares their first duty will be to strike it off the statute book.

Lansdowne's speech was subsequently keenly discussed by members of both Houses, says The Standard's lobby correspondent. Although Lord Morley on behalf of the Government gave little hope of peace, Lansdowne's subsequent statement was marked by a moderately conciliatory spirit, and certainly in the estimation of a majority formed a notable contribution towards pacific settlement. The Unionist leader in the Lords was careful even at this late hour to leave open the door to negotiations. It will come as a surprise to most if the leaders do not confer with one another shortly after the committee stage of the amending bill is completed in the Upper House.

When the bill came up yesterday for second reading in the Lords, the Marquis of Lansdowne announced that as Ireland was one vast armed camp, it was necessary to find a way out of the calamity which was threatening. The Unionists, therefore, he said, would give the amending bill a second reading and introduce amendments during the committee stage in regard to the area to be excluded from the operations of the Home Rule bill, the duration of the exclusion and the Government of the excluded area.

The Unionists, he concluded, would not agree to the second reading of the Home Rule bill itself.

Lord Lansdowne added that their action in passing the second reading of the amending bill would be misunderstood and misrepresented in many quarters, but there was no other way by which breathing space could be obtained, with the prospects of averting the horrors of civil war. The amending to be introduced in the committee stage would be directed solely to making the bill a really adequate exclusion bill.

"The peers are so fast bound by the meshes of the Parliament Act," he said, "that there is no other course open to them which would be likely to prove effective."

Most of the other speakers were equally conciliatory in tone. A notable exception was Lord Willoughby de Broke, the leader of the "die hards," who moved the rejection of the bill.

The precise effect of the House of Lords' proposed amendments to the Government's amending bill will not be known until the Home Rule bill reaches the committee stage next week, but favorable omens are drawn by the London morning newspaper from the conciliatory tone of the speeches on both sides of the House of Lords yesterday for a renewal of the negotiations between the party leaders, which it is believed will result in an agreement.

The Daily Mail asserts that Premier Asquith's attitude has undergone a modification, and that he now is ready to grant exclusion to Ulster by statute instead of by the ballot.

BIG CROWD AT T.A.S. PICNIC

Baseball and Some Sports Carried Out, Despite the Rain

Notwithstanding the decidedly inclement weather, a vast number enjoyed the fifteenth annual T.A.S. picnic, held yesterday at their park down the river. The morning broke almost perfect, but by ten o'clock dark threatening clouds became visible and by one o'clock the rain was felt. For the first time the new pavilion was pressed into service and a large number, particularly ladies, sought shelter there. The rain was not exceedingly heavy, and with the protection offered by the trees the various amusements were carried on almost continually.

The meals served on the grounds were truly a credit to the committee in charge and the society as a whole. Mr. B. Brooks, the chairman of the committee, assisted by the young ladies of St. Peter's Sodality, worked untiringly and to them the credit is due. The committees in charge of the various booths and forms of amusement are likewise to be congratulated upon their work.

A long list of sports had to be cut down considerably and the events run off between showers. It was rather unfortunate that all the items on the program could not be held as the athletic field is in extra fine condition. In the morning the Sacred Heart nine had the satisfaction of carrying away an 8-1 victory over the St. Peter's aggregation. The game is usually one of the main features of the bill, and this year it was no exception. The team from the south were easily the better team and their heaver, O'Connell had the St. Peter's crew eating out of his hand. Hatrick who worked on the mound for the vanquished, pitched nice ball, but received rather poor support. The following were the teams:—

St. Peter's:—Murty, c.; Hatrick, p; May, 1b; Murphy, 2b; Walker, 3b; Heenan, ss; Minicola lf; O'Brien, cf; M. Murty, rf.

Sacred Heart: — Kenneally, c; O'Connell, p; Neary, 1b; Gorman, 2b; Barnett, ss; Rose, 3b; Heary, lf; Milloy, cf; Condon, rf.

Mr. Wallie Harris handled the game to perfection.

In the game between the Sacred Heart School and St. Peter's School the Sacred Heart boys were also victorious. The score was 8-1. Batteries:

Sacred Heart: Murray and Kenneally.

St. Peter's:—A'Hearne and Rutherford.

Umpire—Paddy Gorman.

Some Winners.

The winners of the events run off were:—

100 yards (open) J. McMartin.

100 yds. (T.A.S.) W. Hetrick.

220 yds. (open) J. McMartin 1st, W. Hatrick, 2nd.

Pole vault, J. McMartin 1st, A. O'Brien 2nd.

Throwing of baseball (under 16 years) A. O'Brien.

NO BOOZE IN WEST VIRGINIA

New Yost Act Enforced with Drastic Effect

WHEELING, W. Va., July 2.—West Virginia entered the column of prohibition states midnight June 30, and yesterday its residents were trying to adjust themselves to the new conditions imposed by the Yost Act, said to be one of the most drastic prohibitory measures ever enacted in the United States.

"For rent" signs are in windows of nearly six hundred buildings throughout the state where Tuesday intoxicating liquors were sold in abundance, give mute evidence of the change wrought by the new law. Not a liquor sign or advertisement can be seen in the important cities and towns.

FIRE RETURNS

The fire returns for the month of June reports 13 fires with a total damage of $2,500. The month of June, 1913, had 14 fires and $545 damage.

ALBERT STRONG RECEIVED FATAL INJURY AT HIS HOME

Missed His Footing and Fell Down the Stairs— Died at the Hospital

A deep gloom overspread East City to-day when it was learned that one of its highly respected and well known residents had passed away in the person of Mr. Albert M. Strong, of the firm of Manning and Strong, automobile dealers, Water Street. Mr. Strong's death was due to a hemorrhage caused by falling down stairs at his residence on Sophia Street this morning about three o'clock. It seems that Mr. Strong had gone to the bathroom for a drink of water and in returning in the dark stepped too close to the stairway, which at this particular spot war narrow. He lost his footing, falling across the balustrade, and fell downstairs. He was removed to Nicholls Hospital and Drs. Moir and McClelland attended him. Everything possible was done for the injured man, but he passed away this morning about ten o'clock.

A sorrowing widow and two small children are left to mourn his loss. The late Mr. Strong came from Millbrook and was thirty-four years of age. His host of friends in the city will deeply regret to learn of his sad death.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Strong reside at Millbrook. There are two brothers, H. S. and A. F., of Millbrook, and two sisters, Mrs. T. W. Thorne of Millbrook and Mrs. R. F. Thorne of Reaboro.

HON. MR. PERLEY DISCUSSES FUTURE OF DOMINION

Town Lots in Outside Subdivisions and Uncertain Oil Shares Are Pure Speculation, and Their Failure Should Not be Blamed on Canada, Declares Minister at London Dominion Day Banquet.

LONDON, July 2.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Dominion Day was generally celebrated by the Canadian colony here. Hon. G. H. and Mrs. Perley gave a reception in the afternoon. The customary dinner in the evening was attended by about 500 guests. Mr. Perley presided and the principal guests were: Prince Alexander of Teck, Colonial Secretary Harcourt, Henri Bourassa, Sir Thomas Skinner, Lord Emmett and John Stanfield, M.P.

Messages of greeting were read from Premier Sir Robert Borden and Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Perley, in proposing the toast of the "Dominion," opened his remarks with a graceful reference to the late Lord Strathcona and passed on to review the general conditions in Canada. He claimed that the Dominion had passed through the period of depression as well as any other part of the world. He added:

"I stand up for Canadian business honesty and probity as being as great as anywhere in the world, but at the same time the investor, should exercise his usual wise care and caution before deciding what he had better invest in. If you buy town lots in outside subdivisions or make purchases of oil shares, you are really entering into a speculation rather than investment, and the country should not be blamed if it turns out wrong. (Cheers.)

Hon. Mr. Perley dealt briefly with the railway situation, citing the recent advances to the C. N. R. and G. T. P. as ample proof of Canada's confidence in her future and her good faith with investors.

"With regard to the future and pessimistic suggestions which I understand are put forward by some here, that our growth has been too rapid, I only wish that everyone could travel through Canada and see the country for himself. Our immense natural resources are still there unaffected by any financial condition. There have been reports lately of lack of employment in Canada, but these reports are a good deal exaggerated. At the same time, we feel for the present that it is not well that any should emigrate without means.

Prince Alexander, in responding, followed his usual practice of reading his speech. In it he briefly reviewed some non-controversial aspects of Canadian life and character, assuring the gathering how eagerly the princess and he looked forward to life in the Dominion.

Henri Bourassa, also responding to the toast, alluded to his connection with the Dominion, and said, in part:

"There are many ways of serving the crown, there are many who thought that the glory and strength of the British Empire rested upon the unity of parties, but I venture to point out that I belong to another school which consider that the greatest glory, the most enduring strength of the British Empire lies in the fact that it first in history found the secret of allowing individual liberty and national aspirations to grow unfettered and free."

The toast of the "chairman" was proposed by Colonial Secretary Harcourt.

HON G. H. PERLEY.

Merchants' Meeting.

The executive members of the Merchants' Association who are in charge of the picnic and all other merchants interested are requested to be present at the meeting tonight in the Y.M.C.A. at eight o'clock.

RACED WITH PIRATES

SARNIA, July 2.—The River St. Clair was the scene of an exciting race yesterday between a Port Huron tug, with police of that city on board, and two river pirates in a row-boat. The pirates managed to gain the shore and escaped, but the row-boat and a quantity of stolen copper were recovered.

DIED AFTER VOTING.

COL. HUGHES GETS BLACK HAND "LETTER"

OTTAWA, July 2. — Col. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, was the recipient Tuesday through the mail of a harmless-looking envelope, which, however, contained a dire warning. In the envelope was a black hand, carefully cut to the shape and colored with ink. In the palm of the hand traced around in red were the words "Beware."

The colonel appeared little perturbed at the message of doom. "I have been shot at too many times to be scared at all," said he, and he dismissed it from his mind.

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1914

DOMINION DAY.

CANADA has just had another birthday. The year 1867 is not so far away, yet the strides this young country has made since that time when it definitely took on the robe of nationality, have been great and far reaching. Canadians have been subjected to views on their nationality of at least a twofold nature. The unthinking patriot will remind us of Canada's vast area and resources, her great railways and waterways, her immense wheatfields. The Englishman, perhaps, will remind the Canadians that Canada is in many respects a very young country, of small population and limited means. While both are true, Canadians should not forget that though a young country, they have a great heritage, and a great responsibility. The nature of this country necessitates thinking big things and doing big things, but, at the same time, any tendency to bumptiousness and to exaggeration should be suppressed. Canada has its limitations and is a young country, but though Canadians have to think big thoughts they should remember that their work is for society, that it involves sacrifice, more than acquisition or triumphs. Their work is to be a factor in world progress, rather than a mighty power. Strength is necessary to maintain peace and progress, but the aim should not be to acquire wealth and power for their own sakes, but to use these for the general good of humanity.

SOME LEGAL REFORM NECESSARY.

THE INVESTIGATION conducted by Lord Mersey is creating comment on other things than sea travelling. The Canadian Courier takes the expeditious manner of handling the inquiry as a reason for the institution of public lawyers, and also advocates public doctors. This editorial comment is strange, coming as it does from an organ controlled, it is said, by Mackenzie and Mann. We have not heard the Courier crying out vehemently for expropriation of the Canadian Northern system, nor do we consider support of such a thing as public lawyers a sound position except for those who favor impossible socialistic views. If we are to have public lawyers we ought to have public newspapers, public railroads, public grocery stores, public hotels, etc. We should all become civil servants, work for so much a year, and have our names and ages in the civil service blue book. Every man's wife would know how much he got and how much he spent. The country would be one vast workshop, where many things would be done indifferently, scarcely any well, and a great many very badly.

If there are defects in the Canadian legal system, as we doubt not, that is no argument that the whole system ought to be kicked inside out on the first provocation. We believe in individual initiative, in competition, and to make civil servants out of the legal profession would do away with that characteristic as well as totally demoralize it. If there is too much routine, formality, technicality, or what is usually termed red tape, legislation to correct these things is required. If the big legal battles had to be fought by the fourth-raters that became public lawyers or doctors, the legal profession would soon degenerate into a body of thick-witted clerks.

CANADA'S HUMILIATION.

BRITISH WARSHIPS, built by British workmen, paid for by British taxpayers, and manned by British sailors, are protecting Canadian life and property in Mexico. The trembling poltroons in the Liberal party and their hirelings in the Senate have placed Canadians in the humiliating position of once more being compelled to shelter themselves behind the protection of the British navy, towards the upkeep of which they have never contributed one dollar. Canadian property in Mexico may be destroyed, Canadian lives may be sacrificed, and Canadian womanhood outraged, but all Canadians at home can do is hang their heads in humiliation and ask other men to fight for their protection. Last year, through the action of the Liberal majority in the Senate, Canadians refused to contribute one penny to help Mother England. Today she stands ready to protect our lives and our property, as she has ever been ready and willing to do in the past. Let the traitor who says "we don't owe anything to England" go hang his head for shame.

NEW FIELD FOR SPECULATION.

THE MILLIONS of people who daily pay five or ten cents to go to moving picture shows do not realise that they have been instrumental in opening for Wall Street a new field for financial speculation or investment.

Recently three film companies, with an aggregate capitalization of $4,500,000, were floated by a New York Stock Exchange house.

A few days ago a single enterprise was incorporated for $2,000,000 — an alliance between a large film-producing concern and some of New York's most powerful theatrical interests. The stock issue was underwritten by New York and Philadelphia bankers.

About the same time there was a $5,000,000 merger of three film-producing companies, backed by Pittsburgh and San Francisco capital. A $25,000,000 amalgamation is being talked of.

ROAD-BUILDING BY CONVICTS.

THE STATE of Colorado has built 1,000 miles of roads by convict labor during the last three years.

This is interesting to Canadians, who are now turning their attention to the problem of establishing national highways. The belief that convicts, who have been imprisoned for minor offences against the law, should be employed in outdoor work is gaining adherents steadily, especially in Ontario, where the Government has experimented successfully with prison farms. We are beginning to admit that the majority of prisoners are not bad men from deliberate choice, but because certain mental, moral and physical weaknesses force them to succumb to sudden and overpowering temptations. Hard work in the open air, good food, medical supervision, and the observance of regular habits would probably redeem many of them to society, while part of the money they actually earned could be sent to their families.

DON'T BE TAN FOOLISH.

THE REMARKABLY COOL weather this month has its advantages. Every year there are a number of people who are usually credited with good sense, but who deem it fashionable to expose themselves to a strong sun in order to acquire "a good healthy tan." Frequently these foolish people get, instead of a good tan, an inflamed skin on face, neck and arms that spoils any good looks they ever had. Their faces appear to have been spanked to a blister and often a good complexion is seriously injured by such foolish exposure. City people going to the country would do well to protect themselves from the sun, but, if they must be tanned, a slow process will not be found injurious. So far, the cool weather has protected the foolish from serious results, but Nature does not always interpose an obstacle to foolishness, and a word of warning should be heeded.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A NUMBER of patriotic pieces were played on the chimes of St. John's Anglican Church yesterday morning. In view of the fact that there were few flags displayed, the music of the bells was distinctly appropriate and served to remind the people of the kind of day it was. Canada should take a lesson from the United States and display the flag a little more on the days when it is appropriate to do so. It is not necessary to work the flag to death as the Americans do, but Canadians are a shade too lethargic in this matter. The flag is worth flying—why not display it?

An Educated Conscience.

When Gentlemen Swore.
London Chronicle.

It is not so long since swearing was considered an indispensable accomplishment in a gentleman. When the great Lord Shaftesbury succeeded to the title his sister said to him quite seriously: "Now that you have come into the title you must learn to swear. Your father always did, and gained great respect by it in the county."

Don't Get in a Rut.
Los Angeles Times.

People in asylums play all the games they knew before they went crazy, and they play them just as well. Unless they are violent they can even play whist, although they do better with something more mechanical. They cannot learn anything new in that condition. They take no fresh steps. They have no invention, no initial energy. If you are not learning anything new and if you hate to do anything different, you may be in a bad way. Don't think the same thing all the time and don't do it. Beware of the rut.

Stop the Croaking.
London Telegraph.

Perhaps now there will be a brief respite from the persistent croakers who bewail the decadence of England in manly sports. The polo victory does not stand alone. It is only a month since the invading company of American amateur golfers found that the English championship was not quite so easily carried off as their patriotic enthusiasm had caused them to believe. Mr. Ouimet's astonishing victory over Vardon and Ray in America last year led to some rather rash deductions, the falsity of which was decisively established at Sandwich. So, too, it was hastily assumed that the third attempt of an English four to retrieve the disaster suffered at Hurlingham in 1909 would end in emphasizing the superiority of the Americans. Events have turned out otherwise.

THE ONE THEME
By Walt Mason

You talk of Pope and Byron, of Milton, Keats and Scott, and I admit I'm tirin' of all that kind of rot; you say the world is richer since Shakespeare sung his lays; to Jones, our southpaw pitcher, you give no word of praise. Through inning after inning he pitched a hitless game, and yet you come here grinning to talk of Wordsworth's fame. You speak of Alexander, and say he was a brick, that storied old commander who sighed for worlds to lick; I fear there's nothing in it, this clawing o'er his bones, and at the present minute my thoughts are all of Jones. Your musty ancient heroes were doubtless wearing bells, your Hannibals and Neros, your dauntless William Tells, but they are dead and planted, long since they met their fate, and I am now enchanted with Jones, whose curves are great. Of statesmen and of thinkers you come to spiel awhile, and they are surely clinkers when tommyrot's in style, but statesmanship is musty, and thinkers are a bore; when Jones, the true and trusty, is making batsmen sore. Forget the printed pages, the wreaths and halls of fame, forget the bards and sages, and come and see the game.

KEEPING UP-TO-DATE

IT doesn't cost no more ter keep up to present century times than it does to stick behind with the past century; keepin' a leetle in advance of the times is what puts the plaster on homes. Right ter day here are a dinged sight more people who don't own automobiles than people who do, if ye'd only stop ter think of it, still we've somehow got the idea that present-day life is supposed to be rid out in a benzine wagon. Somehow though, I like ter think that goin' slower and havin' a few quiet home-comforts is preferable to luxuries I can't well afford. Old bay Moll and the buckboard ain't much fer speed nor looks and maybe I can't get hum from the village till long arter sundown, but when I'm drivin' up my lane it's a kinder good thing to feel thet anyway that vine-covered house is clear of mortgage. My motto is go slow and enjoy what ye've got.

ARCHDUKE AND WIFE COULD NEVER HAVE ESCAPED DEATH

Officials Say Two Clockwork Bombs Were Found Under the Luncheon Table, Another in Chimney of Room and a Woman Has Been Caught With Several—Prinzip Glories in His Guilt

VIENNA, July 2.—The conspiracy against the lives of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg was so well planned that it would have been impossible for them to escape from Bosnia alive, according to some members of the late archduke's suite, who returned here yesterday.

The officials declare that two clockwork bombs were found beneath the table on which luncheon was awaiting the archducal party on their return to the city hall. A similar infernal machine also was discovered in the chimney of the room occupied by the Duchess of Hohenberg at Ilidje, a watering place a few miles from Sarayevo, and a woman was caught with seven bombs in her possession.

The bullet which killed the archduke was an explosive one.

It has been ascertained by the authorities that Gavrio Prinzip, the assassin, is the son of the proprietor of [illegible], and that he [illegible] year, so that he [illegible] to death for the [illegible].

[illegible] Publishes Confession.

BUDAPEST, July 2. — The newspaper Az Ujsag publishes yesterday what it declares to be the confession of Gavrio Prinzip, the assassin of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg.

According to this statement Prinzip began to read Anarchistic works while he was a reservist with the colors, with the result that he became an Anarchist and formed a resolution to destroy one of the pillars of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. When at Belgrade he read of the archduke's intended visit to Sarayevo, he decided to go there and try to kill him. He obtained a revolver and cartridges from a member of one of the revolutionary groups at Belgrade, who, however, he said, was ignorant of the purpose for which it was wanted.

He had at first intended to shoot the archduke as he was driving to the town hall, but decided to await his return. When he saw a woman with the archduke he hesitated for a moment, then fired, but could not tell what was the effect of his shots, because the people closed in on him and struck him. He concluded by saying:

"I do not regret what I have done. I am well satisfied because I have accomplished what I desired to do for a long time."

Martial Law Declared.

SARAYEVO, July 2.—Martial law has been proclaimed at Tuzla and Malaj, because of the serious rioting in these towns, where much Servian property has been destroyed.

The preliminary examination by a magistrate yesterday into the assassination of the archduke and his wife, showed that it had been the intention of Prinzip to commit the deed at the time of the manoeuvres at Taraini, but the attempt was abandoned owing to the strict military guard which prevented any outsider from approaching the archduke.

There was rioting yesterday also at Arevo and Gubelio, in the Stolac district, where Servian churches were stormed and destroyed by Mussulman mobs.

Martial law has been declared throughout Bosnia and Herzegovnia.

Riots Throughout Croatia.

AGRAM, Croatia, July 2. — Anti-Servian demonstrations continued here yesterday when a crowd gathered in front of the town hall and demanded that the mayor return a Servian decoration recently conferred on him.

Another crowd went to the house of the Speaker of the Croatian Diet, who is a Servian, and made a noisy demonstration against him.

Several people were arrested, but later released.

Earl of Wemyss Dead.

LONDON, July 2. — The Earl of Wemyss and March, the father of the House of Lords, died Tuesday.

Born in 1818, the Earl of Wemyss was until quite recently considered one of the liveliest members of the British House of Lords. Long after he reached the age of 90 he played an excellent game of golf. At the age of 82 he contracted a second marriage.

The Earl of Wemyss owned about 62,000 acres. His heir is Lord Elcho, who in 1911 married Lady Violent Manners, daughter of the Duke of Rutland.

Maritime Laborites in Session.

FREDERICTON, N.B., July 2.—The New Brunswick Federation of Labor convention opened yesterday morning. President J. A. Sugrue, of St. John, presided and there were about fifty delegates from St. John, Moncton, Sackville and Fredericton, who filed their credentials during the morning. In the afternoon business sessions were commenced, with an attendance of about 125.

THE LINEN DRESS.

This Season's Models Are Finished With Graceful Tunics.

BLUE LINEN DRESS.

Every summer wardrobe which makes any pretension to style includes at least one linen dress. Fashion designers have a way of slightly varying the mode so that the dress of one season cannot well be exploited the following summer. This season the gown with the tunic seems to be the most popular style. The tunics differ a trifle, but the gown of blue linen shown here may be said to be typical. These colored linen dresses have a charming finish in the white organdie collars that are so much in vogue.

Plaited fabrics are much used in the present fashions. There are straight plaited skirts with flaring tunics or puffed panniers at the hips that are good models for taffeta frocks. Sometimes the fullness is held in with a hip yoke; sometimes it is not held in, but is, rather, accentuated by the panniers or tunics.

MILLINERY GOSSIP.

The Latest Rulings of the French Fashion Dictators.

Simplicity is the most dominant feature of the smart street hat, the shape lending itself admirably to trimming ideas, says the Millinery Trade Review.

Paris quotes the era of weird shapes to be on the wane, as they feel they have been given an overdose of eccentricity, although there is no lack of variety and fantastic design in the latest productions.

In straws fine, closely plaited varieties predominate in Paris. Highly glazed lisere and Italian milan have been singled out. The former is fancied mostly in black, but tete de negre, navy and dark blues are favored. Of the Italian milan yellow shades, running from cream to deep maize, are most popular.

There is a tendency to greater width of brim and height of crown in recently launched shapes, but this has not been persevered in, excepting in the height of the crown.

Plumage is by no means set on one side. Many of the aigrets used are very tall and straight.

Paris says a great many of the tall fancies are made up of ostrich. Two small tips, surmounting a rod covered with the fiber wrapped around it, is most favored form. Burnt ostrich, made into high quill effect, is popular.

Another new idea in Paris is a trimming of true lovers' knots, for which one inch wide velvet ribbon is used.

The new sensation in Paris is a satin ribbon, having much the appearance of toile cire or stove polish ribbon, but in reality being a new species of thick satin, which stays in place without support.

Flowers are being given a prominent place in Paris, these closely copied from nature finding most favor, lilacs especially being used, together with leaves in glossy bronze green shades.

In Vanity Fair.

Collars and cuffs of figured linen appear on suits of serge and poplin.

Bodices are extremely simple in line, while skirts grow more elaborate.

The feather pompon is an important feature in the millinery this spring.

Make your waists full at the back and front [illegible] in fashion.

The [illegible] made in special [illegible] shoes and slippers.

This [illegible] the bolero costume is favored above all others for the sunny spring days.

A charming feature of the new suits is the high [illegible], suggesting the calla lily.

The [illegible] collars seem to stand away from the neck in a loose, unfitted manner.

Net scarfs are embroidered in all sorts of fanciful designs with silver or colored beads.

The world soon gets tired of a chronic kicker.

VITALITY REGAINED KIDNEYS CURED

Health Restored By "Fruit-a-tives"

HAGERSVILLE, ONT., Aug. 26th. 1913.

"About two years ago, I found my health in a very bad state. My kidneys and liver were not doing their work, and I became all run-down. I felt the need of some good remedy, and having seen "Fruit-a-tives" advertised, I decided to try them.

Their effect, I found more than satisfactory. Their action was mild and the results all that could have been expected.

My liver and kidneys resumed their normal action after I had taken upwards of a dozen boxes, and I regained my old time vitality. Today, I am as well as ever, the best health I have ever enjoyed, and I unhesitatingly give you this testimonial for publication if you wish"

Kidnapping Gang Caught.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The return home yesterday of Frank Longo, an eight-year-old boy who was kidnapped on May 13, led to the arrest of eight men who, the police say, form the nucleus of a band of kidnappers who have been terrorizing Italian merchants of the city for several years. Most of the men arrested are in some way connected with the bakery business, and it is believed they preyed mostly on those with whom their business brought them in contact. Longo, a baker, paid a ransom of $700 before his son was returned to him.

Uncle Sam's Navy Goes Dry.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels' famous order banishing intoxicants from the United States navy went into effect yesterday. It not only abolished the traditional wine mess of the officers, but bars all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy. Beginning yesterday any officer found in possession of alcoholic liquor on board ship or any naval station will be guilty of misconduct. Commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of the "dry edict."

TRAPPED IN MINE.

Five Men Are Imprisoned In Burning Shaft In W. Virginia.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 2.—With little hope for their rescue five miners are imprisoned in the burning shaft of Sycamore Mine No. 1 of the Sycamore Coal Co., three miles from Williamson, Mingo County. Those imprisoned constitute the night force of the mine and were unable to escape when the mine caught fire shortly before Tuesday midnight. Efforts to reach the men have been futile and the mine is burning fiercely. Dense columns of smoke are being emitted and firemen say there is little chance for the rescue of the imprisoned men.

Defective electric wiring is believed to have caused the fire.

The entombed miners were believed by Deputy Mine Inspector Lambert to be in a part of the mine not yet reached by the fire. He said they had probably been cut off by the flames, and had taken refuge in a room about a thousand feet from the mouth. If they could live during the day there was some hope of saving them, experienced miners declared.

One hundred men were usually employed in the mine at night, but many of them did not report Tuesday night.

REBEL FORCE WINS.

Albanian Government Troops Defeated by Tribesmen.

DURAZZO, Albania, July 2. — A force of Albanian Government troops, which had remained loyal to Prince William, was defeated by the insurgent Albanian Mussulman tribesmen at Malkuch, a little to the north of Durazzo on Sunday, but the news was suppressed until yesterday. The Government troops under the command of Prenk Bib Doda were compelled to retire to Ishmi, near the coast between Durazzo and Alessio.

The defeat and flight of the loyal troops are attributed in Government circles here to foreign influences and also to the fact that Prenk Bib Doda's men had dispersed into small bodies and gone on pillaging expeditions on their own account.

It is feared by the authorities here that the rebels are now concentrating their forces preparatory to making another attack on the capital.

Boys' Superstitions.

The subject of luck makes all boys akin. If a horseshoe is found in the road the finder has but to pick it up, make a wish, expectorate lustily upon the horseshoe, hurl it backward over his head and walk away whistling a certain tune. If he keeps on going, without looking back, the wish will be realized. If a horseshoe is not available a perfectly round stone treated in the same way will produce similar results. That rule will work on all subjects but one, and that is a wish that the schoolhouse will burn down. All sorts of tricks of black magic have been tried without avail in that case.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., July 2.—More publicity for the Catholic Church and its doctrines was advanced by Bishop McFaul of the Trenton diocese, following a pontifical mass which normally opened the annual convention of the American Catholic Educational Association.

A cordial invitation is hereby extended to everyone for Saturday, July 4th. Trusting that the visitor will bear in mind that through failure of the prompt supply of material, some departments are structurally unfinished ; still we can assure our customers and the public that our new building, on the corner of George and Simcoe streets, is the most solidly built, and the most substantial structure of its kind in any city of the population of Peterborough within the British Empire.

We invite your presence on Saturday morning, July 4th, confidently willing to let the building and the goods speak for themselves.

LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE

MR. PECK EXPLAINS.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir:—In the comments made by Mr. Burnham on the recent election, published in Tuesday's issue, Mr. Burnham is reported to have said: "Mr. Peck notified the executive committee at a meeting called for that purpose that he would not be a candidate." I desire to be understood, as not for a moment questioning Mr .Burnham's sincerity in making this statement, but my recollection of the matter is this: The only meeting of the executive at which I was present and my candidature was discussed, was one held on Monday, the 18th of May last, called for the purpose of making arrangements about the Conservative convention. Mr. Burnham was not present. I then stated I was very doubtful about being a candidate, but after discussion, an understanding was come to, as I considered, that if I did not intend to be a candidate I would give public notice thereof in good time before the convention was held. Later I decided to be a candidate, but finding there was considerable doubt as to the position I was going to take at the convention, I caused an item to be inserted in the Review on Saturday, the 23rd May, that my name would go before the convention. This was eight days before the convention met, and two or three days before the first meeting called to select delegates, so that every one interested in the convention had ample opportunity of knowing my position.

Yours truly,
E. A. PECK.

AN OLD CONSERVATIVE.

Editor Review,

Sir,—Allow me as an old Conservative and one who has been round about a good deal to give my impressions of the contest for election in this city. To begin with regular conventions were held by both parties and there was more than one choice but the Liberals were loyal to their leader and their party and did not let any disappointment work itself up. They were a united party and so were the Conservatives who went through the usual way of electing delegates and chose their man. A few friends try to make out that another man should have been chosen but the will of a large majority must and will prevail. There are always little troubles like that on both sides at election times so they are about equal and do no harm. The vote was about 600 [illegible] in the city and that tells the tale. Large numbers would not vote against Whitney and would not vote against Rowell's policy which they thought it was something entirely different from what it was. A petition signed by over 500 Conservatives has been privately handed in asking Mr .Soden to run again. It is to be hoped he will for if 500 want it they will be disappointed if he don't accept. But over and above all was the work of the ministers who though they fell down otherwhere (6 ministerial candidates out of 7 were beaten) were very strong here and I think and many think were carried away with an idea that was not really in the fight at all. Everything from start to finish was regular and right and the Conservative party though sorry here is satisfied and they have no real reason to be anything else, unless they want it all.

Yours truly,
CONSERVATIVE TRUE.

AUTO PARTY WENT INTO THE LAKE

A motor party consisting of five young men from Cobourg while motoring from Cobourg to Port Hope yesterday morning, narrowly escaped serious and probably fatal injuries when their car turned turtle throwing its occupants in the lake. Motor parties coming in the rear assisted the men and managed to remove the car which was slightly damaged. The party after repairing their car continued to Port Hope.

HORSE MADE FOR SEWER

Two young ladies were given a thrill this morning on Charlotte St. which they will remember for a few days. They were driving west between Bethune and Stewart Streets and their horse becoming frightened jumped over the embankment at the side of the sewer excavation and fell. Dr. Sutton, who resides near the scene of the accident rushed to their assistance and after getting the ladies out of the buggy he and two or three other men got the horse back to the road. After a few minutes the ladies were able to proceed on their way little the worse for the circus stunt.

SPRINGFIELD POLICE MADE TWO ARRESTS

Capt. Boyle and Inspector Quilty Place Parents in Custody

CHILD IS MURDERED

Captain Boyle and Inspector Quilty, who came to this city to take charge of Brodeur, the alleged murderer, have just brought about important arrests in Springfield. The Springfield Union says:

Through information furnished to Dist. Atty. James O'Shea yesterday afternoon by a man whose name is withheld by the police, William Roy, aged 28, of 102 State street, a bodymaker employed by the Stevens-Duryea Company, was placed under arrest by Capt. Boyle, charged with the murder of his three-weeks-old son on December 23, 1913. He will be arraigned in court this morning. The mother of the child was arrested by Inspector Quilty and is being held as a witness.

According to the district attorney a man telephoned him at his home in Holyoke early yesterday afternoon lyto the effect that he had important information to impart. The call came from Springfield and accordingly Mr. O'Shea made an appointment with his caller, and hurrying to Springfield, met him in the Worthy Hotel. After remaining closeted with him for about an hour, Mr. O'Shea went to police headquarters and acquainted Capt. Boyle with the information.

It is alleged by the police that Roy is a bigamist, having a wife and family living in Lawrence. He was arrested here for the Lawrence police on a charge of non-support on June 14 1910, and was turned over to them. The story told by the police is to the effect that Roy and a woman named Carrie Terrio, aged 20, of Amesbury, went through a ceremony of marriage in New Britain, Conn., in December, 1912. From all appearances the woman is thought to be innocent of any wrongdoing and supposed she was legally married to Roy. A child was born to her early last September in the Mercy Hospital. Two weeks later she was discharged from the hospital and with Roy returned to 318 Chestnut street, where they were living at that time. About a week after her return from the hospital, it is asserted, Roy made arrangements to move, and said that he would take care of the baby. He left the house, taking the child with him, and is supposed by the police to have murdered it and buried the body at a place in the outskirts of the city.

No reason is given for the failure of the woman to report the loss of child to the authorities. It is supposed by the plice, however, that fear of [illegible] kept her lips sealed. For a time the couple have been separated, but of late have been living together at 102 State street. On receiving the information, Capt. Boyle verified the birth of the child from the hospital authorities. He then started out and succeeded in finding Roy at the State street address. The arrest was made shortly after four o'clock. The woman was arrested about the same time by Inspector Quilty at the post office. It was asserted by Dist. Atty. O'Shea that the facts given him by his informant were gained in Connecticut. His name is being withheld for the present, but will be brought out later. It is understood he is perfectly willing to testify. Nothing could be learned from the police as to any statements which Roy or the woman have made since their arrest. The police will endeavor to locate the body of the child today.

ST. ANDREW'S TRIP TO KEENE

Some Were Left Behind at Station

Several prospective picnickers of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church were left at the post yesterday, owing to a misunderstanding regarding transportation arrangements. About one hundred and fifty of the merry makers swooped down on the G.T.R. ticket agent about 1.30 and asked for tickets for Keene. The task was more than the agent could handle alone and when the train pulled out at 1.30 several were left behind. In some way the railway officials had not been notified of the excursion and the agent was called upon to fill in the tickets in the usual way whereas if he had been notified the tickets would have been ready. However those who caught the train enjoyed themselves immensely regardless of the weather and some good sports were pulled off.

LOCAL TALENT AT BAILIEBORO.

Mrs. Stewart of Cobourg, Mr. C. E. Coleman and Master Sam Whitehouse of this city, had a large share in the program given at the garden party at Christ Church, Bailieboro, on Tuesday evening. The sweet voice of Master Sam Whitehouse was heard with great pleasure and Mr. Coleman was in a very happy mood. All his numbers were encored.

Picnicked at Kelly's Grove.

The Sunday School of the Bridgenorth Methodist Church held a very enjoyable picnic yesterday at Kelly's Grove, despite the unfavorable weather. While rain fell in torrents, the baseball aggregation from Bridgenorth succeeded in vanquishing the nine from the Fourth Line by 6-4. When the day cleared the usual sports which feature picnics were held and supper served.

Cherries or strawberries combined with bits of pineapple is a new combination for tarts.

LABOR CONDITIONS IN THIS CITY

As Reported by Local Correspondent of the Gazette

Labor conditions in Peterboro are reported in the Labor Gazette as follows:

Industrial conditions during the month of May showed marked improvement over the previous month, due somewhat to weather conditions, which were very favourable to the building trades and outside work. Some sewer work and street paving as well as street railway extensions, gave considerable employment to the large number of men who were idle most part of the winter. The Peterborough Novelty Company have commenced business, and will manufacture everything in the line of cabinet work. Outside of activity in real estate and building, other lines were quiet.

On May 18 bakers raised the price of bread from ten cents to eleven cents per loaf.

The City Council have passed a by-law enforcing the sale of poultry by weight on the market.

Arrangements were being made to establish a clearing house in Peterborough for the convenience of the local banks.

The dry weather somewhat hindered farmers in ploughing operations the first part of the month, but the latter part of the month was very favourable. The grass was good, and prospects were for a heavy crop. The wheat did not do as well as expected.

Dry weather delayed work on the drives, and some of the logs will have to wait until next year unless there is an abundant rainfall next month. The mills have started cutting; orders were active at the end of the month.

The first meeting of the cheese board for the season was held on the 20th of the month, fewer cheese being manufactured, but prices were higher, the top price for May, 1913, being 11 3-16; for May, 1914, 12 1-16 The reason given for fewer cheese being made is that the profit is small and the factory finds it pays better to make butter.

A SUBSCRIBER IN THE WEST

W. R. Emmerson Writes on Crop Prospects

In remitting for his Review, Mr. W. R. Emerson, of "Westwood Grove," of Kenlis, Sask., writes that the summer until the 23rd of June had been very dry, but on that day a splendid rain improved the crops, but too late for a big crop from early sowing. Mr. Emmerson, however, writes hopefully of the crops in general. He has wheat already headed out, the earliest in years; summer fallow 12 inches long, and stubble eight inches long. At the date of writing, June 29, rain was falling and the outlook was encouraging.

Make your Razor behave

Honing as well as stropping is necessary to keep a razor at its best. But the secret of good honing is to hone a little every day—just as the barber does. Honing is made easy for every man who uses a

PIKE STROP-HONE
For Safety or Ordinary Razors

Three strokes on this hone are enough, and because it needs no wetting with oil or water, these take hardly a second. Then too, this little honing makes less stropping necessary. You have the best hone and the best strop in one, and both at the cost of one, when you buy a Pike Strop-Hone. This combination makes shaving a pleasure because it "makes your razor behave." Ask to see one at the store—it's GUARANTEED.

TWO WOMEN TESTIFY

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Their Health—Their own Statements Follow.

Haliburton, P.E.I.:—"I had a doctor examine me and he said I had falling of the womb, so I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. All the bearing-down pains have vanished. I have gained ten pounds in weight, the discharge is all gone, and I feel better than I have for a long time. I think any woman is foolish to suffer as I did for the sake of a few dollars.

"You can use my letter as a testimonial. It may encourage other poor women who suffer as I did to use your Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. GEO. COLLICUTT, Haliburton, Lot 7, P.E.I.

Read What This Woman Says:

New Moorefield, Ohio.—"I take great pleasure in thanking you for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had bearing down pains, was dizzy and weak, had pains in lower back and could not be upon my feet long enough to get a meal. As long as I laid on my back I would feel better, but when I would get up those bearing down pains would come back, and the doctor said I had female trouble. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was the only medicine that helped me and I have been growing stronger ever since I commenced to take it. I hope it will help other suffering woman as it has me. You can use this letter."—Mrs. CASSIE LLOYD, New Moorefield, Clark Co., Ohio.
